The foundations of Truth and Eternal Law are unshakable, boundless and beautiful, the very embodiments of truth, beauty and Dharma for life forms. By the Law of truth do people enjoy long life and showers of joy. By the Law of truth do our voice and senses follow truth and reach the very source of reality and the seat of the law of eternal truth.

ऋतं यमान ऋतमिद्वनात्यृतस्य शुष्मस्तुरया उ गव्युः ।

10. Ṛtaṁ yemāna ṛtamidvanotyṛtasya śuṣmasturayā u gavyuḥ. Ṛtāya pr̥thvī bahule gabhīre ṛtāya dhenū parame duhāte.

The pursuant of truth attains to truth. The operation of the eternal law of truth is fast, instantaneous, so fast that it is omnipresent, all operative. The abundant earth, deep interspaces and the high heavens all like the mother cow yield the milk of life in service of the eternal law of truth.

11. Nū ṣṭuta indra nū grṇāna iṣaṁ jaritre nadyo na pīpeḥ. Akāri te harivo brahma navyaṁ dhiyā syāma rathyaḥ sadāsāḥ.

Indra, world ruler, omnipotent lord of universal truth and abundance, thus praised and worshipped, bear and bring food, energy, and the sustaining power of life for the celebrant in abundance like the rivers overflowing with life giving waters. This new song of homage and fragrant yajna is offered in worship, O lord of the universal dynamics of nature, in hope with prayer that with vision and intelligence we may be masters of the chariot and dedicated workers in your service of the law of truth.

Mandala 4/Sukta 24

Indra Devata, Vamadeva Gautama Rshi

का सुष्टुतिः शवसः सूनुमिन्दमवाचीनं राधस् आ ववतत ।

1. Kā suṣṭutiḥ śavasah sūnumindramarvācīnaṁ rādhasa ā vavartat. Dadirhi vīro grṇate vasūni sa gopatirniṣṣidhām no janāsaḥ.

O citizens of the land, what is that order of praise and approbation which would persuade and move Indra toward us for our joint success and prosperity? A very child of might is he, inspirer of the brave, most youthful hero of latest knowledge and modern tactic, eminent warrior, creator and munificent giver of wealth for his supporters, manager and promoter of the earth and its resources, and leader and commander of the generous producers, our own pioneers.

स वृत्रहृत्य हव्यः स इड्यः स सुष्टुत इन्द्रः सत्यराधाः ।

2. Sa vrtrahatyē havyaḥ sa īḍyaḥ sa suṣṭuta indraḥ satyarādhāḥ. Sa yāmannā maghavā martyāya brahmanyate suṣvaye varivo dhāt.

He is to be invoked in the battles against darkness, evil and crime, lord adorable as he is, profusely adored, Indra, lord of honour and excellence, achiever of truth and giver of noble riches. He, lord of wealth, might and majesty, bears and bestows choice gifts of honour and freedom upon the mortals who dedicate themselves to the lord of existence and pray for success and divine grace in the ways of life.

3. Taminnaro vi hvayante samīke ririkvānsastanvaḥ kṛṇvata trām. Mitho yattyāgamubhayāso agman narastokasya tanayasya sātau.

People and leaders both call upon him in their battles of life in search of freedom, those who seek release and those who look to him for the protection of their bodies. Together, men and women, men and leaders, go to him for freedom from suffering as well as for the well being of their children and grand children.

4. Kratūyanti kṣitayo yoga ugrā''śuṣāṇāso mitho arṇasātau. Saṁ yadviśo'vavrṭranta yudhmā ādinnema indrayante abhīke.

People of the land, both bright and blazing as well as impetuous in action, together, joining in the pursuit of knowledge and yajnic action do their best and holiest in faith in their own fields of social development freely, and when all the citizens thus engage in battle against the demons of darkness, evil and poverty and conduct themselves with discipline on a war footing, they unitedly and unanimously choose Indra as their guide and leader in action.

And then the warriors all work for the honour and excellence of the nation through joint action. And then let the fruit of the action and struggle, like delicious pudding seasoned, be consolidated and reserved. And then when the present and future is secured, let the soma of joy be prepared and ripened for the warriors of courage and valour, and then let all join Indra, virile and generous leader, in the celebration.

6. *Kṛṇotyasmai varivo ya itthendrāya somamuśate

One who thus does honour and distinguished service for Indra, ruler of the world, and distils the soma of excellence and joy for him who, of course, loves honour and excellence and joy for humanity, and one who, with an undivided dedicated mind, without any selfish axe to grind, acts as a friend and supportive warrior for him in the battles of humanity: Indra too for such a person creates and awards rare and choicest gifts of honour and dignity like a friend.

7. Ya indrāya sunavatsomamadya pacātpaktīruta bhr̥jjāti dhānāḥ. Prati manāyorucathāni haryan tasmin dadhadvr̥ṣaṇam śuṣmamindraḥ.

Whoever for Indra, today, distils and ripens the soma of honour and excellence, confirms and consolidates the gains of victory over darkness, evil and want, and perfects the production for national consumption: to such a person Indra responds, loving and listening to his songs of praise arising from the heart, and the lord invests him with inner strength of valour and showers of unbounded generosity.

8. Yadā samaryam vyacedr̥ghāvā dīrgham yadāji-mabhyakhyadryaḥ. Acikradadvr̥ṣaṇam patnya-cchā duroṇa ā niśitam somasudbhiḥ.

When the ruler of the land and noble head of his people and destroyer of the enemies perceives a tumult of battle around and afar, he displays his long range deployment of arms and armies, while the citizenry at home, as a sustaining and supportive force, exhorts him and proclaims aloud his internal strength of morale created and sharpened by the creators and refiners of national energy.

9. Bhūyasā vasnamacarat kanīyo'vikrīto akāniṣaṁ punaryan. Sa bhūyasā kanīyo nārireced dīnā dakṣā vi duhanti pra vāṇam.

The poor ignorant trader buys the pleasure of glitter and sense at the great price of the spirit. Drained out, exhausted and disvalued, he goes back: “I want back what I had parted with in exchange for what I had got.” No, not now. With all that he can surrender, he cannot redeem even a little of what he has lost. The poor as well as the intelligent get back only what they bargain for in word and action.

10. Ka imam daśabhirnamendram krīṇāti dhenubhiḥ. Yadā vṛtrāṇi jaṅghanadathainam me punardadat.

Who can buy this Indra, this spiritual glory, from me for all time with the ten senses and their pleasure? None. Yes, when one dispels the evils of darkness, ignorance and indulgence, then the lord gives it back to me.

11. Nū ṣṭuta indra nū gṛṇāna iṣaṁ jaritre nadyo na pīpeḥ. Akāri te harivo brahma navyaṁ dhiyā syāma rathyaḥ sadāsāḥ.

Indra, lord of glory, thus praised and celebrated, bless the supplicant with food, energy and enlightenment just as overflowing streams bring living waters for humanity. O lord of power and progress at high speed, thus is the song of celebration and yajnic homage offered to you, the newest presentation, so that with your blessings of intelligence and action we may be master warriors of the chariot and great servants of Divinity.

Indra Devata, Vamadeva Gautama Rshi

1. Ko adya naryo devakāma uśnindrasya sakhyam jojoṣa. Ko vā mahe'vase pāryāya samiddhe agnau sutasoma īṭṭe.

Who today among noble humanity, lover of the light of divinity, inspired with holy ambition and enthusiasm, enjoys the favour and friendship of Indra? Or, who, having offered oblations of distilled soma into the lighted fire for the achievement of great redeeming divine protection, enjoys the honour and excellence of life? Answer: The friend and lover of humanity who is dedicated to Indra, the supreme ruler.

2. Ko nānāma vacasā somyāya manāyurvā bhavati vasta usrāḥ. Ka indrasya yujyam kaḥ sakhitvam ko bhrātraṁ vaṣṭi kavaye ka ūtī.

Who bows with words of prayer to Indra for the gift of peace, pleasure, honour and excellence of body, mind and soul? And who submits to him in search of knowledge and self-awareness? Who loves the lights of the dawn and the lovely cows in the morning? Who waits on Indra for help and protection? Who feels anxious for friendship and fraternity with him? Who prays for security and poetic vision to the lord of omniscience? Answer: Who ever wants to do good unto all including the self as servant of Divinity.

3. Ko devānāmavo adyā vṛṇṇīte ka adityaṁ aditiṁ jyotirīṣṭe. Kasyāśvināvindro agniḥ sutasyāṁ'śoḥ pibanti manasāvivenam.

Who these days opts for and wins the protection and benedictions of the divine powers of nature? Who pursues and prays for the light of the suns in orbital phases, the generosity of nature and mother earth, and the secrets and mysteries of light? Whose achievement of knowledge and contribution to life's peace and joy is favourably in tune with the nature and operation of the laws and properties of the Ashvins, earth and the skies, Indra, the sun, and Agni, heat and magnetic energy of the earth? Answer: One who acts in cooperation with nature for life and in the service of Divinity.

तस्मा अग्निभारतुः शम यंसृज्याक्पश्यात्सूयमुच्चरन्तम ।

4. Tasmā agnirbhārataḥ śarma yaṁsajjyok paśyāt sūryam-uccarantam. Ya indrāya sunavāmetyāha nare naryāya nṛtamāya nṛṇām.

To him Agni, the cosmic power and presence that holds, sustains and governs the world of nature and humanity, provides a happy home, and he would watch the rising sun for a long long time who is able to say this with confidence: We pursue knowledge and create the means of comfort and happiness for humanity, the world of human interests, and the highest qualities and attainments of human values among the people of the world, and this we do for Indra, Lord of humanity and the entire world of existence.

5. Na taṁ jinanti bahavo na dabhrā urvasmā aditiḥ śarma yaṁsat. Priyaḥ sukṛtpriya indre manāyuh priyaḥ suprāvīḥ priyo asya somī.

Neither many nor few, nor even the fiercest, can overpower him who acts in the service of Indra, governing power and presence of the universe. Indeed mother earth, in fact mother nature of imperishable wealth, blesses him with abundant peace and joy in a happy home, for, to Indra, the one who does good is dear, the lover of Divinity is dear, the follower of the path of rectitude is dear, and the creator of comfort, joy and enlightenment for life is dear to this lord.

सुपा॒व्यः पाशु॒षाळ॒ष वी॒रः सु॒ष्वः प॒क्तिं कृ॒णु॒त क॒वल॒न्दः ।

6. Suprāvyah prāśuṣāleṣa vīraḥ suṣveḥ paktim kṛṇute kevalendraḥ. Nāsuṣverāpirna sakhā na jāmirduṣprāvyo 'vahantedavācaḥ.

Indra, leader and ruler, instant destroyer of enmity, is openly accessible to the person who creates and produces good things and thus contributes positively to the peace, progress and happiness of life, and he fully protects and promotes such people and raises them to maturity as the sun ripens grain. But to the person who is uncreative, and malignant scandalizer, he is not accessible, not a friend, or a brother, or protector, in fact he is awfully opposed to such negatives.

(Creativity and a positive, contributive attitude to life is a value, while uncreativity and a negative, destructive attitude is a dangerous disvalue. The former is to be protected and promoted, but the latter has to be opposed and eliminated.)

न र॒वता॑ प॒णिना॑ स॒ख्यमि॒न्दा सु॒न्वता॑ सु॒त॒पाः सं गृ॑णीत ।

7. Na revatā paṇinā sakhymindro 'sunvatā sutapāḥ saṁ grṇīte. Āsya vedāḥ khidati hanti nagnam vi suṣvaye paktaye kevalo bhūt.

Not with the miserly man of wealth does Indra bargain any friendship since he is the master creator of peace and joy and lover of honour and excellence. He does not acknowledge, much less approve of the wealth of the ungenerous. In fact, he exposes the wealth of the hoarder until, exposed and ashamed, he is reduced to nullity, because, basically and exclusively he is for the creative and generous who produce and mature the wealth of the nation to the state of honour and dignity.

8. Indraṁ pare'vare madhyamāsa indraṁ yānto'-vasitāsa indram. Indraṁ kṣiyanta uta yudhyamānā indraṁ naro vājayanto havante.

People at the farthest and at the nearest, highest and lowest, and people at the middle, all call upon Indra, lord of honour and excellence. People on the move and those at the end of the journey call upon Indra, lord of peace and security. People settled in the home and warriors on the battle field call upon Indra, lord of prosperity and victory. And the leaders of the people and the men fighting for food, struggling for energy and panting for speed and progress call upon Indra, lord giver of food, energy and advancement.

I am the thinker and law-giver of existence, I am the light of life, I comprehend the time and space of the universe, I am the visionary, I am the centre and shaker at the core. I create the thunder and light and I make the thunderbolt. I am the poet of omniscience and passionate lover of my creation. Come ye all and see.

3. *Ahaṁ puro mandasāno vyairam nava sākam

In the state of perfect bliss, I first move ninty and nine streams of cloud showers together, and as I protect and promote the man of hospitality and the giver of enlightenment, I open hundred-fold gates of delight and prosperity for the whole world.

4. Pra su ṣa vibhyo maruto virastu pra śyenaḥ śyenebhya āśupatvā. Acakrayā yatsvadhayā suparṇo havyaṁ bharanmanave devajuṣṭam.

Just as the eagle bird is the fastest of all the birds of prey in flight and descent so may that glorious heavenly bird of light wings, the sun, which moves by its own mighty force without wheels and which is prime among the powers of nature, the Maruts, may bring for humanity food and energy blest by the best and brilliant bounties of Divinity.

5. Bharadyadi virato vevijānaḥ pathoruṇā manojavā asarji. Tūyaṁ yayau madhunā somyenota śravo vivide śyeno atra.

When the bird of the wings of light, vibrating as sunrays, flying fast as thought by the wide paths of space brings and releases food and energy here, and then from here itself flies back fast with earthly, sweets of soma juices (to bring them back, reinvigorated), thus this eagle wins thanks and praise from earthly humanity.

6. Rjīpī śyeno dadamāno aṁśuṁ parāvataḥ śakuno mandraṁ madam. Somaṁ bharaddāḍṛ-hāṇo devāvān divo amuṣmāduttarādādāya.

The eagle bird of light, enjoying the company of heavenly planets, coming from far off country by simple paths, having taken from that distant region of light sweet celestial delights of soma energies of life, gives us that nectar and, taking the soma sweets of earth grows stronger and more generous.

7. Ādāya śyeno abhart somam sahasram savāṇ ayutam ca sākam. Atrā purandhir-ajahād-arātīrmade somasya mūrā amūrah.

The eagle bird of light, ruler and illuminator of the world, bears and brings a thousand delights of soma for life with unbounded yajnic creations of organic tonics for health and, in the ecstasy of the drink of soma on earth, doing noble actions and maintaining human habitations with wisdom and equanimity of mind, eliminates all stupidity and negativities!

1. *Garbhe nu sannanveṣāmavedamaham devānām janimāni viśvā. Śataṁ mā pura āyasīrarakṣa-

Having been in the mother's womb, I have witnessed and known the birth and growth of all these divine creations (such as the elements, earth, water, senses, and mind, etc.). Hundreds of golden cities and iron walls have protected me. And having lived all this, I have got out to freedom like a falcon bird of the winds with impetuous speed.

(The mantra describes the soul's journey through births and death's across the body forms and then the release to the freedom of Moksha.)

2. Na ghā sa māmapa joṣaṁ jabhārā'bhīmāsa tvakṣasā vīryeṇa. Īrmā purandhirajahādarātīr-uta vātāñ ataracchūśuvānaḥ.

That womb of nature couldn't hold me against my will and pleasure. I sat in there with all my vigour and penetrative vision. And when the Lord inspirer who sustains the hundreds of golden cities and iron walls of prison wards off the contraries of flesh and blood, then the falcon bird of the spirit, rising up and high, crosses the storms and shears of winds to freedom.

3. Ava yacchyeno asvanīdadha dyorvi yadyadi vāta ūhuḥ purandhim. Sṛjadyadasmā ava ha kṣipajjyāṁ kṛśānurastā manasā bhuraṇyan.

When the falcon bird of the spirit descends from heaven singing and roaring with energy, then if the winds and storms of existence hijack the master of the golden city, then, just as the warrior draws the string of the bows and shoots off the arrow, so the soul, archer subduer of contraries, with the light radiating from the flame of the heart, draws up the string of yoga meditation and shoots away the fluctuations.

The falcon bird of the spirit, going by the path of rectitude always under the protection of Indra, lord of life, bears the sacred vessel of the body like a prize from the vast regions of joy and energy and, at the end, flying up, the bird on the wing jettisons the sacred vessel like the plume of a bird bound down to the nest.

Let Indra, the brave soul, blest with and commanding honour and prosperity, bear, in response to the Lord's grace, the bright and beauteous body vessel nourished by mother earth and cows, satisfying, pure and powerful, and let him enjoy the food seasoned and sanctified by holy yajakas, and prime delicious drink for realising the beauty and ecstasy of existence. Yes, let the fearless brave spirit bear the body vessel to drink of the joy of life and to celebrate the gift of divine rapture.

Indra-Soma Devata, Vamadeva Gautama Rshi

त्वा युजा तव तत्साम सख्य इन्दा अपा मनव सस्त्रुतस्कः ।

1. Tvā yujā tava tatsoma sakhya indro apo manave sasrutaskaḥ. Ahannahimariṇāt sapta sindhūna-pāvṛṇodapihiteva khāni.

With you and for your friendship, O Soma, power, pleasure and excellence of life, did Indra, resplendent ruler of the world, set the spatial waters afloat, broke the cloud, made the seven streams of water flow and opened up the hidden treasures of life.

त्वा युजा नि खिदत्सूर्यस्यन्दश्चक्रं सहसा सद्य इन्दा । अधि

2. Tvā yujā ni khidat-sūryasyendracśakraṁ sahasā sadya indo. Adhi ṣṇunā brhatā vartamā-naṁ maho druho apa viśvāyu dhāyi.

Soma, power of cool and bliss of nature's cosmic energy, with force, constantly counters the cycle of solar radiations operating with mighty catalysis and coming from higher regions, and thus the great all round negativity of sun rays against life is warded off.

अहिन्दा अदहदग्निरिन्दा पुरा दस्यून्मध्यन्दिनादभीक ।

3. Ahann-indro adahad-agnir-indro purā dasyūn madhyandinādabhīke. Durge duroṇe kratvā na yātām purū sahasrā śarvā ni barhīt.

Indu, Soma, cool and bliss of mind, nature and people of the land and forces of peace, with your balancing action, Indra, powerful and blazing, destroys darkness and evil, as fire burns off the demoniac forces before the mid-day yajna in the battle of life. Thus does the spirit of life, with Indra and Soma, hot and cold in the existential circuit of nature, destroy and ward off a thousand onslaughts of impending dangers and attacks. And so do the acts of yajna in the home of the family and fortress of the ruler.

Indra, ruler of the world blazing as the sun, reduce the evil and wicked to nullity all round, and save the people and the forces of generosity from ignominy. Indra and Soma, power and peace of the land, ruler and people, bind down the enemy forces, give peace and security to the good, and thus win honour and fame with your weapons of protection.

5. Evā satyaṁ maghavānā yuvaṁ tadindraśca somorvam-aśvyāṁ goḥ. Ādardṛtam-apihitāny-śnā riricathuḥ kṣāścīt-tatṛdānā.

It is true, O potent commanders of honour and excellence, Indra and Soma, destroyer of evil and creator of peace and prosperity, together you release the earth's vast energy and progressive forces, break open the resources of wealth and fertility, and release the lands from oppression into freedom.

Mandala 4/Sukta 29

Indra Devata, Vamadeva Gautama Rshi

आ नः स्तुत उप वाज॑भि॒रु॒ती इ॒न्द्र या॒हि हरि॑भिमन्दसानः ।

1. Ā naḥ stuta upa vājebhirūtī indra yāhi haribhirmandasānaḥ. Tiraścidaryaḥ savanā puruṇyāṅgū-ṣebhirgrṇānaḥ satyarādhaḥ.

Indra, lord ruler of honour and excellence, spirit incarnate of power and prosperity, come with all the vigour and velocity for our protection and progress. Invoked and invited, happy and rejoicing, come with the fastest achievements. You are the wealth of the nation incarnate, truly the harbinger of success. Praised, appraised and pursued by the highpriests of knowledge and action, come directly and indirectly by all paths of centripetal movement to bless our manifold yajnic programmes of creation and production.

2. Ā hi śmā yāti naryaścikitvān hūyamānaḥ sotṛbhirupa yajñam. Svaśvo yo abhīrur-man-yamānaḥ suṣvāṇebhir-madati saṁ ha viraiḥ.

And he does come, lord of men and master of knowledge all-aware, when he is invoked and invited to the yajna by those who distil the soma for yajna and sprinkle the vedi with holy water and ghrta. Then, commanding the horse and speed of the chariot, brave and fearless, self-confident and honoured, he rejoices with the heroes who create the soma, honour, grandeur and the joy of life for humanity.

3. Śrāvayedasya karṇā vājayadhyai juṣṭāmanu pra diśaṁ mandayadhyai. Udvāvṛṣāṇo rādhaso tuviṣmān karanna indraḥ suṭīrthābhayaṁ ca.

Speak to him, let him hear, he loves to hear of the cherished policy and direction for the sake of speed and success in action so that he may be happy and rejoice with you all. And then he, Indra, ruler of all and creator of honour and excellence, generous as showers and blazing brave in action, would create paths of progress into a state of freedom from fear and success, and thence would flow the ultimate release.

4. Acchā yo gantā nādhamānamūtī ithhā vipraṁ havamānaṁ gṛṇantam. Upa tmani dadhāno dhuryāśūntsaḥsraṇi śatāni vajrabāhuḥ.

With grace, he goes to the supplicant with protection, thus, to bless the earnest seeker invoking him and singing in praise. He holds the supplicant and celebrant closest to his heart and, yoking a hundred thousand horses to his chariot, wielding the thunderbolt for creation and protection, he hastens to the devotees.

5. Tvotāso maghavannindra viprā vayan te syāma sūrayo grṇantaḥ. Bhejānāso brhaddivasya rāya ākāyyasya dāvane purukṣoḥ.

Under your protection, O lord of power and glory, Indra, lord ruler and giver of honour and excellence, let us be earnest seekers of knowledge, brave and brilliant celebrants of Divinity, so that we may be dedicated sharers of the abundance of the lord of light, wealth, and generosity of sustenance incarnate.

7. Kimādutāsi vrtrahan maghavan manyumat-tamaḥ. Atrāha dānumātiraḥ.

And what more! You are, O lord ruler and commander of the wealth and power of the world, you are the most passionate lover of rectitude and fiercest destroyer of evil. And lo! you are the top redeemer of the generous and shatterer of the selfish.

ए॒तद॑ घ॒दुत॑ वी॒र्य॑मिन्द्र॑ च॒क्रथ॑ पा॒ंस्य॑म ।

8. Etad gheduta vīryamindra cakārtha paumsyam. Striyam yaddurhaṇāyuvam vadhīrduhitaram divaḥ.

This truly is the manly valour you display in action. In addition, this too is your wonder that you dispel and ward off the rays of the malevolent star which, though, is the daughter of heaven like the dawn, the light of which, too, you overcome.

दिवश्चिद घा दुहितरं महान्महीयमानाम ।

9. Divaścid-ghā duhitaram mahān mahīyamānām.
Uṣāsamindra saṁ piṇak.

Indra, great you are. Surely the dawn is glorious, daughter of heaven, which you refine, adorn and glorify, and then make her disappear when she waxes with pride.

अपाषा अनसः सर्त्संपिष्टादहं बिभ्युषी ।

10. Apoṣā anasaḥ saratsampiṣṭādaha bibhyuṣī.
Ni yatsīm śiśnathad vṛṣā.

Indra, mighty ruler of heavens, breaks the chariot of the dawn as she waxes, but when the chariot is broken, she withdraws from the broken chariot in fear and awe. (So do the forces of gate-crashing pride withdraw under the blazing power of the ruler.)

एतदस्या अनः शय सुसंपिष्टं विपाश्या ।

11. Etadasyā anaḥ śaye susampiṣṭam vipāśyā.
Sasāra sīm parāvataḥ.

When the chariot of this dawn is broken and lies in unobstructed path ways of space and the dawn is gone far away, then the sun, coming from afar, radiates its glory far and wide.

Indra, destroyer of evil and want, leader of humanity, you restore and rehabilitate the two, the blind and the disabled abandoned by society. None can reach that level of service and philanthropy.

शतमशमन्मयीनां पुरामिन्दा व्यास्यत ।

दिवादासाय दाशुष ॥ २० ॥

20. Śatamaśmanmayīnām purāmindro vyāsyat.
Divodāsāya dāśuṣe.

Indra, lord of power, justice and generosity, for the sake of the creative and the generous giver you break a hundred adamant strongholds of hoarded wealth like the sun that breaks the cloud concentrations of rain to bless the generous earth.

अस्वापयद्दुभीतय सहस्रा त्रिंशत् हथः ।

दासानामिन्दा मायया ॥ २१ ॥

21. Asvāpayad-dabhūtaye sahasrā trimśataṁ hathaiḥ.
Dāsānāmindro māyayā.

Indra, the ruler, should smash three hundred thousand of social saboteurs with weapons of far reaching calibre for the peace and security of the law-abiding servants of the nation and for keeping down of the violent.

स घदुतासि वृत्रहन्त्समान इन्द्र गापतिः ।

22. Sa ghedutāsi vṛtrahantsamāna indra gopatīḥ.
Yastā viśvāni cicyuṣe.

Indra, such as you are, ruler and protector of the earth, destroyer of evil and promoter of the good, you are equal and kind, like the sun, for all in treatment since you bring about all that you do and achieve for all of them as they deserve according to law and justice.

उत नूनं यदिन्द्रियं करिष्या इन्द्र पांस्यम ।

24. Vāmaṁ vamaṁ ta ādure devo dadātvaryamā .
Vāmaṁ pūṣā vāmaṁ bhago vāmaṁ devaḥ darūlatī.

Indra, lord of glory, ruler of the world, destroyer of evil, may Aryama, ordainer of the world's law and justice, give you the highest and most admirable gifts of honour. May Pusha, lord of health and sustenance bless you with the best of vigour and strength. May Bhaga, lord of grandeur and excellence, grant you the highest prosperity and dignity. May the generous lord of art and beauty give you the best of art and craft and creative beauty.

Indra, lord of light and splendour, men of light and wisdom, best of them all, and the singers of song sing in praise of you and exalt your honour and fame. Pray bless them all with honour and excellence worthy of the brave.

13. *Yacciddhi śaśvatāmasīndra sādharmaṇastvam.

Indra, lord of love and justice, fatherly omnipresence for all, since you are general and universal power of all the eternal presences, equal and universal for all, we invoke and pray to you as the one father figure for our good.

Indra, ancient, eternal and latest and immediate power and presence, haven and home for all, turn to us with divine favours, rejoice with us as guardian of the honour and excellence of humanity, giver and augments of food and freshness of energy and the creator and protector of the joy of life and ecstasy of living.

18. Sahasrā te śatā vayaṁ gavāmā cyāvayāmasi.
Asmatrā rārdha etu te.

Indra, lord of excellence and beneficence, we activate and accelerate a hundred and thousand schemes of development of research and extension of knowledge, enrichment and fertility of lands and improvement of cows, other cattle wealth and milk products, and hope that the wealth and prosperity of your social order would benefit us all.

20. Bhūridā bhūri dehi no mā dabhraṁ bhūryā bhara.
Bhūri ghedindra ditsasi.

Indra, giver of unbounded wealth, give us immense wealth, withhold not, give us not little, bear and bring us profuse amounts of wealth. For you give and wish to give nothing less than immensity.

Indra, destroyer of want and darkness, for sure you are the giver of immensity. Brave and magnificent, you command universal fame and glory. Come, we pray, bless us, you are the giver of success and glory.

Mābhyāṁ gā anu śīśrathaḥ.

Lord of omniscience and the universal eye, giver of the Divine Word and the earth and her wealth, power and presence imperishable, I praise and celebrate your divine agencies that bear and bring us the wealth of life. Let these divinities keep it up, and allow not the earths and inspirations to slacken.

Babhrū yāmeṣu śobhete.

Like the two pupils of the eyes, overly strong and lasting, ever new, ever cherished and subtle divine harbingers of the truth, goodness and beauty of existence, let nature's complementaries ever shine blissfully in the hours of human yajna.

24. Araṁ ma usrayāmṇe' ramanusrayāmṇe.
Babhrū yāmeṣvasridhā.

May the waves of divine energy, instant, constant and never failing, never hurtful, travelling in the day and in the night, to the upper solstice and the nether solstice, be ever blissful to me in the hours of yajnic life.

Rbhavah Devata, Vamadeva Gautama Rshi

1. Pra ṛbhubhyo dūtamiva vācamīṣya upastire śvatarīm dhenumīḷ. Ye vātajūtāstaraṇibhire-vaiḥ pari dyām sadyo apaso babhūvuḥ.

I send up my words to the Rbhus, scientists, as a messenger, in order that they be broadcast around, and I hope that they would be converted into a subtle, clearer and more powerful message—words which, carried up by currents of energy by their own floating vibrations, immediately rise to the upper layers of space and become acts of nature to come back in the finer form I want.

य॒दार्म॑कं॒ तृ॒भ॒वः पि॒तृ॒भ्यां॑ परि॒विष्टी॑ व॒षणा॑ दं॒सना॑भिः ।

When the Rbhus, sages and scientists, through service and action, receive instruction from parents and teachers, and have done enough to their own satisfaction and satisfaction of the seniors, they graduate to join the fraternity of the enlightened, and then, constant in study and meditation, bring about maturity and fullness of mind and spirit for independent work.

3. Punarye cakruḥ pitarā yuvānā sanā yūpeva jaraṇā śayānā. Te vājo vibhvāṅ ṛbhurindra-vanto madhupsaraso no'vantu yajñam.

And then they, the Rbhus, who, with their knowledge and dedicated service, rejuvenate their parents and senior generation grown old, nerveless and almost lying like a broken pillar, and bring them back to their youthful time, thus keeping the tradition young and alive: may they, vigorous geniuses, far reaching in imagination, marvellous in invention, mighty and majestic in achievement, and brilliant and blissful in conduct, come to our yajna of science and research, protect us and promote our progress and advancement far ahead.

The Rbhus, sages and scholars of genius and knowledge, bold and blissful, who protect the cow, mother knowledge and the speech of knowledge, and also the mother earth like nursing a holy child, those who serve the mother tradition and rejuvenate and strengthen every part of its body like a darling love, who bring new vigour and new lights to its body of science and knowledge, they, the Rbhus, attain to immortality in the living history of the advancement of human civilisation by these noble acts of holiness.

5. Jyeṣṭha āha camasā dvā kareti kanīyān trīn kṛṇavāmetyāha. Kaniṣṭha āha caturaskareti tvaṣṭa ṛbhavastat panayad vaco vaḥ.

The eldest of the Rbhus says: Let us make two cups for the drink of soma for the celebration of life's enlightenment. The younger, more brilliant, says: Let us make three. The youngest, most brilliant, says: Let us make four. Tvashta, the teacher, universal lord maker of forms, O Rbhus, honours and praises these words of yours. (Thus knowledge, science and technology grows from one generation of scholars to another.)

The four cups of life may be interpreted as Dharma, righteousness, artha, material goods, 'kama', material and mental fulfilment, and Moksha, ultimate purpose of living and ultimate freedom.

The Rbhus, brave and blessed, speak true what they speak, then they accomplish what they say, and then they achieve this reward of their action. Tvashta, the divine maker, wise and all-seeing eye of the world, who sees the Rbhus' cups of life shining as daylight sees them, loves them and blesses the makers. Thus should men do in life.

When the scholars and sages of the science of yajna remain on holiday for twelve days in the years, resting and refreshing themselves, enjoying the hospitality of a prominent host, then the sky is overcast, the showers pour, fields are made fertile, the rivers flow and vegetation grows on barren lands, (and this by rain yajna).

The Rbhus, who design and manufacture a strong built chariot for people to travel by, create a universal language of universal knowledge for the world prevailing all over the world. May they create universal wealth for us all — heroes of noble action, noble protection, and dexterous of hand as they are.

The wonderful acts and products of these Rbhus, exceptional scientists, later, the younger intellectuals, themselves brilliant with their mind and work, honour and apply for further development: thus the food and energy becomes the favourite input for the ‘devas’, following researchers, for higher outputs of finer food and energy, the powerful thunderbolt becomes the arm for Indra, ruler and defender, and the extensive waves of subtle transmission become the perceptive and active agencies of Varuna, the presiding power.

The Rbhus, holy thinkers, creators and makers, who, using their intellect and imagination and rejoicing with the revelations of the chants of sacred verses, create the circuit of energies, produce the motive powers, and construct the chariot for Indra, ruler and the nation, may, we pray, bring us health and nourishment and wealth and build permanent assets for us as protective and promotive friends doing good to friends.

O Rbhus, noble creators and makers, today the holy men bring you soma to celebrate and enjoy. The divines favour not the slothfuls, they extend no hand of friendship unless you are tested in the crucibles of hard work and self sacrifice. May the Rbhus bring us, in truth, the wealths of life in the third session of yajna.

Rbhu, the technologist, Vibhva, specialist of natural energy, Vaja, specialist of food and vitality, and Indra, specialist of electricity and power, all harbingers of the jewels of wealth, may come and grace this science yajna of ours. Today, the divinity of intelligence brings you the nectar of joy and celebration of success for a drink. May the joy of the occasion inspire you.

Loved and loving Indra, lord of power and honour, come, share and promote the joy of the soma celebration of honour with Varuna, men of high endeavour and success. Loving friend, praised and celebrated, come, celebrate with the Rudras, people of justice and rectitude in the land, and protect and promote their honour and prestige. Loving, joining, socialising and celebrating with the leading pioneers, planning guardians of the nation according to the change of seasons, wedded couples, households and trustees of the jewel wealth of the land, protect and promote the honour and excellence of life with soma celebrations of joy.

Who are the Rbhus? Those who create and activate complementary circuits of energies, who serve the parents and sustain and rejuvenate health anew, who provide protection and promotion, who refine and extend knowledge and the language of knowledge, develop cattle wealth and renew the earth resources, who design and structure fast modes of travel and communication, who design and construct armour against external attacks, who cross the globe unto the sky and space and who command universal knowledge: pioneers and leaders of the best of men who can raise, train and organise a noble younger generation.

O Rbhus, never go away, never feel depreciated, never depressed. We shall never let you feel deprived, never thirsty for anything, you will ever feel praised and appreciated in this yajnic programme of creative life. Rejoice with Indra, ruler and commander of honour and power, rejoice with the Maruts, dynamic youthful citizens, and with the brilliant ruling leaders, O generous and refulgent creators of joy and prosperity, rejoice for the creation of the jewels of life's beauty more and ever more.

O Rbhus, mighty strong, imperishable warriors of the bow, come here close to us, do not stay away, never feel dispraised. In this yajna enacted for you, let the honour and joy of creation and celebration be as much for you as for Indra, resplendent lord giver of wealth.

Let the jewel wealth of the Rbhus' performance come and let the joy of the soma success distilled from nature be here for the people to share who deserve the prize, since with their admirable action and brilliant intelligence and will they have designed and manufactured one chariot fourfold in performance.

3. Vyakṛṇota camasaṁ caturdhā sakhe vi śikṣet-yabravīta. Athaita vājā amṛtasya panthām gaṇam devānāmṛbhavaḥ suhastāḥ.

You develop the cup of life to fourfold success of completion and perfection: Dharma, artha (material development), kama (self-fulfilment), and Moksha (ultimate freedom). O friend, teach and say: This is it, this is the art of living. And then, O eminent scholars, dynamic scientists, dexterous technologists, join the fraternity of divines and move on to the path of immortality.

5. Śacyākarta pitarā yuvānā śacyākarta camasaṁ devapānam. Śacyā harī dhanutarāvataṣṭendra-vāhāvṛbhavo vājaratnāḥ.

O Rbhus, with your truth of knowledge and holy science, you rejuvenate your parents to youthful health. With truth of vision and imagination, you reveal the fourfold cup of life's beauty and joy for the drink of divinities. With your truth of science and technology you create the power and construct the chariot faster than bullet speed for the ride of Indra, world's presiding power of rule and law. You are really the master creators and controllers of the speed and jewels of life on earth.

7. Prātaḥ sutamapibo haryaśva mādhyandinām savanam kevalam te. Samṛbhubhiḥ pibasva ratnadhebbhiḥ sakhīṅ yāṅ indra cakṛṣe sukrtyā.

Indra, world ruler of honour and majesty, rider of the chariot of sun rays, drink the soma distilled in the morning. Drink the soma distilled at midday only for you. Drink with the Rbhus, men of science and wisdom, creators of the jewels of wealth, whom you have drafted as friends by your noble action.

य द्वासा अभवता सुकृत्या श्यनाइवदधि दिवि निषद ।

8. Ye devāso abhavatā sukrtyā śyenā ivedadhi divi niṣeda. Te ratnam dhāta śavaso napātaḥ saudhanvanā abhavatāmṛtāsaḥ.

The Rbhus who rise to divine virtues by noble actions and, like the eagle, soar to the skies, create and bestow jewels of life on others and, bold and courageous, infallible and imperishable warriors of the bow, they rise on and become immortal.

यत्तृतीयं सर्वनं रत्नधयमकृणुध्वं स्वप्स्या सुहस्ताः । तद्भवः

O Rbhus, generous at heart and dexterous of hand, the third yajnic session and creation of soma replete with the jewel wealth of life's essence which you have accomplished with your noble action, that nectar sweet of soma seasoned and reinforced is here for you. Drink it with the exciting pleasure of your senses, mind and soul.

O Rbhus, divine engineers of superhuman order, that admirable three wheel, three engine, three stage chariot of yours, powered without horse, controlled without reins, created as your grand realisation of the divine formula, goes round and round over the earth, across the skies unto the regions of space without erring, and the same you control and feed.

2. Ratham ye cakruḥ suvṛtaṁ sucetaso'vihvarantaṁ manasaspari dhyayā. Tāñ ū nvasya savanasya pītaya ā vo vājā ṛbhavo vedayāmasi.

Those Rbhus, scientists and engineers of exceptional genius, alert of mind and vision, who created the well structured, well controlled unerring chariot with their thought, imagination and meditation beyond the mind, we recognise and invite to this soma session of scientific yajna for the order of national honour.

3. Tadvo vājā ṛbhavaḥ supavācanaṁ deveṣu vibhvo abhavanmahitvanam. Jivrī yatsantā pitarā sanājurā punaryuvānā carathāya takṣatha.

O Rbhus, fast and imaginative scientists and engineers universally recognised and honoured, that practical realisation of yours of the divine word and formula becomes a great news for the brilliant leaders and scholars, since by that you rejuvenate the parental ancestors old and worn out for long and equip them with new life and energy of youth to go about and onward in time.

You develop one cup of soma into four, make one versatile chariot into fourfold efficiency, and reclaim and develop barren and eroded land back to fertility with your thought and imagination, and thus immediately you attain to a status of immortality among the divine benefactors of humanity. Rbhus of world fame and high speed of action, such achievement of yours is admirable.

The wealth most meritorious, received through the Rbhus, that which is created by the most famous and dynamic leaders, that which is created by the world famous Rbhus themselves, the person wide awake and perceptive whom the wise and generous divinities protect and promote: this is worthy of honour and celebration at public assemblies.

Most distinguished and elevating is the form and position held by you, Rbhus, masters of art and science and pioneers of progress. Accept and appreciate the song of celebration. Stay constant, poets and visionaries, scholars of high wisdom. Such we recognise and honour you by this holy song of praise.

O Rbhus, scholars and scientists of high order, with your knowledge, art and wisdom, create and provide for us the food, energy and modes of care and comfort we need for the sustenance of humanity. Create and bring us the light of science and progress of technology, strength and power coupled with generosity, highest form of life's wealth and health and age.

Happy, joyous and generous, O Rbhus, create and prepare for us here a noble progeny and a prosperous nation, create wealth here, food, knowledge and honour worthy of the brave here itself by which we may enlighten others too full well. O scholars of science and wisdom, give us that wonderful art and knowledge and all round progress.

1. Upa no vājā adhvaramṛbhukṣā devā yāta pathi-bhirdevayānaiḥ. Yathā yajñam manuṣo vikṣvāsu dadhidhve ranvāḥ sudineṣvahnām.

O generous Rbhus, brilliant sages, eminent scholars and leaders of science and progress, come and grace our yajnic programme of non-violent development, come by the paths of divinity so that, happy and joyous, you may take over the humanistic project of the people in these happy days of the season.

May those yajnic projects of yours for the creation of happiness and prosperity be satisfying and delightful to your heart and mind, and may the fruits of yajnas served by holy men and fed with ghr̥ta flow to you with fragrance. May the soma cups of joy full to the brim enrapture you and, drunk to the leas, excite and exhilarate you to your best performance.

3. Tryudāyaṁ devahitaṁ yathā vaḥ stomo vājā ṛbhukṣaṇo dade vaḥ. Juhve manuṣvaduparāsu vikṣu yuṣme sacā br̥haddiveṣu somam.

Rbhus, eminent scholars and miraculous makers, as your threefold gift of science, technology and wealth of power and excellence for the highest of people is a source of bliss and comfort, so do I as one among the same people high and low, dedicated to the vast divinities, offer you the treat of soma, best of wealth and joy as gift, in truth of thought, word and deed, offering loved by the noblest divine souls, the Rbhus.

4. Pīvo aśvāḥ śucadrathā hi bhūtā 'yaḥśiprā vājinaḥ suniṣkāḥ. Indrasya sūno śavaso napāto 'nu vaśce-tyagriyaṁ madāya.

O Rbhus, commanding mighty horse power, riding brilliant chariots, clad in corselets of steel, be golden great, tempestuous as winds. Consequently, O children of Indra, universal energy, unassailable images of strength and power, for your joy and celebration, the first and foremost tribute of soma yajna is selected and offered.

O Rbhus, visionaries and craftsmen of the art and science of life, leaders of the speed of winds, teachers and pioneers bright and brave, open and reveal for us our paths of progress in our yajna of corporate living. We rightfully admire you and humbly pray to you so that we may realise all our hopes and ambitions and ultimately cross the ocean of life.

O Rbhus, leaders and pioneers of vision and progress, O lord ruler of the world, Indra, never failing, ever true, teach us, give us that order of wealth and speedy progress with power and horse which leads the people to honour and prosperity in life to the full.

1. Uto hi vām dātrā santi pūrvā yā pūrubhyastra-sadasyurnitośe. Kṣetrāsām dadathururvarāsām ghanam dasyubhyo abhibhūtimugram.

O heaven and earth, ruler and commander, generous givers, whatever the gifts of munificence earlier than the earliest for the many recipients, they are all yours: whether they are gifts of fields and fertile lands with generous grants or, as terror for the wicked, you give to the evil doer the crushing bolt and intense fall from grace.

Or, like the brave parental master, you give the war horse, destroyer of many enemies, or the roaring war craft, winner of victories for many people of the world, and the refulgent hero like the rising sun, supporter and defender of humanity, or the simple man of rectitude, or the eagle like fighter that pounces upon the target, or the instant flier and pilot or the relentless doer of the master's order.

3. Yam sīmanu pravateva dravantam viśvaḥ pūrur-madati harṣamāṇaḥ. Paḍbhirgrdhyantaṁ medha-yuṁ na śūraṁ rathaturam vātamiva dhrajantam.

War horse or the aircraft which, rushing like turbulent waters to the sea, the people of the world admire and celebrate with joy, which, like a brave and tempestuous warrior, advances to the heat of battle by leaps and bounds and grabs the enemy and which, rushing like a wind sheer tears the enemy force apart.

4. Yaḥ smārundhāno gadhyā samatsu sanutara-ścarati goṣu gacchan. Āvirrjīko vidathā nicikyat tiro aratiṁ paryāpa āyoh.

Which in battles stems the united force of the enemy and goes over lands and seas of the earth in majesty, which openly displays its strength of arms and thrust openly, and watches over the grand yajnic programmes of humanity and wards off the enemies and adversities from the life of noble people.

5. Uta smainam vastramathim na tāyumanu kroṣanti kṣitayo bhareṣu. Nīcāyamānam jasurim na śyenam śravaścācchā paśumacca yūtham.

Just as people cry out for help when a thief attacks their cloth and hearth and home, so do people call out to the fighter warrior in battles for the safety of their hearth and home and herds of cattle wealth when they see the terrible enemy descending like a hawk intending to attack.

उत स्मासु पथमः सरिष्यति ववति श्रणिभी रथानाम । स्रजं कृण्वाना जन्या न शुभ्वा रणुं ररिहत्किरणं ददृश्वान ॥ ६ ॥

6. Uta smāsu prathamah sariṣyan ni veveti śreṇibhī rathānām. Srajam kṛṇvāno janyo na śubhvā reṇum rerihat kiranam dadaśvān.

Keen to be the first and prime leader in front of these battle formations of the war chariots, creating a garland pattern, graceful like a bridegroom in procession, he goes like the wind raising a cloud of dust and radiating beams of light like the sun.

उत स्य वाजी सहुरिरृतावा शुश्रूषमाणस्तन्वा समय । तुरं यतीषु तुरयं तृजिप्या धि भुवाः किरत रणुमृज्जन ॥ ७ ॥

7. Uta sya vājī sahurirṛtāvā śuśrūṣamāṇastanvā samarye. Turam yatīṣu turayannṛjipyō'dhi bhruvoḥ kirate reṇumṛñjan.

And that hero, mighty and brilliant, dedicated to truth, keen for service in battle in his own person, commanding the strong and smart warriors on fronts, going up and forward by straight paths, tossing up dust in battle, shaking it off from the eyebrows, goes on making things straight and favourable for all.

8. Uta smāsyā tanyatoriva dyorṛghāyato abhiyujō bhayante. Yadā sahasramabhi ṣīmayodhīd durvartuḥ smā bhavati bhīma ṛñjan.

And when the hero in passion takes up arms in battle, those who face him shake in fear as from the thunder of lightning from the skies, and then when he engages thousands of adversaries he grows terrible and irresistible and comes out victorious.

And people praise the drive and superior power of this hero of human endeavour and accomplishment for humanity, and the warriors going to battle describe him as the roaring war horse, the booming war craft of the skies and the supreme of arms going with but ahead of thousands.

10. Ā dadhikrāḥ śavasā pañca kṛṣṭīḥ sūrya iva jyotiṣāpastatāna. Sahasrasaḥ śatasā vājyarvā pṛṇaktu madhvā samimā vacāṃsi.

Just as the sun with its rays fills the skies and space, so does Dadhikra, the roaring war horse, the booming war-craft and the superior war hero with characteristic power and majesty fascinate all the five classes of people. May this hero, tempestuous mover, giver of a hundred and thousand favours to the people bring our words of praise to golden honey sweets of success and fulfilment.

O Mitra and Varuna, President of the Council and commander of the army, dear as pranic energies of life, inspired and enlightened, I praise the mighty war horse, Dadhikra, sustainer of sustainers, a shower of blessings, saviour of the people, a gift swift and blazing as fire, which you have given for the sake of noble humanity.

While we study and discover the food, energy and power gifts of the great Dadhikra, cosmic sustainer of sustaining energies and of the good that the Maruts, powerful people, for sure do for our good and advancement, we at the same time study with devotion Varuna, water energy, Mitra, solar energy, Agni, fire power, and Indra, electricity which wields the arms of thunder.

5. Haṁsaḥ śuciṣad vasurantariḥśasaddhotā vediṣadatiṭhirduroṇasat. Nṛṣad varasadr̥tasad vyomasadabjā gojā ṛtajā adrijā ṛtam.

Hansa, the divine bird, soul unpolluted, resides in purity in biological forms in the skies, and, as yajnic doer, sits on the vedi in family home among people, the best ones, and rises up to the heights of heavens. It is born of the waters on the earth from the Law of existence and from the clouds. That is the truth, the Law.

Mandala 4/Sukta 41

Indra-Varuna Devata, Vamadeva Gautama Rshi

इन्द्रा का वां वरुणा सुम्नमाप स्तामा हविष्माँ अमृता न

1. Indrā ko vāṁ varuṇā sumnamāpa stoma havi-ṣmāñ amṛto na hotā. Yo vāṁ hṛdi kratumāñ asmaduktah pasparśadindrāvaruṇā namasvān.

Indra, O lord of power and glory, O Varuna, lord of justice and rectitude, who could win the favour of your blessing, which song of praise and prayer, expressive of yajnic reverence like an immortal yajaka would win your favour? Which song and tribute, O Indra and Varuna, sung in your honour, expressing humility and surrender as holy offering would touch your heart?

इन्द्रा ह या वरुणा चक्र आपी द्वा मतः सख्याय पर्यस्वान ।

2. Indrā ha yo varuṇā cakra āpī devau martah sakhyāya prayasvān. Sa hanti vṛtrā samitheṣu śatrūn-avobhīrvā mahadbhiḥ sa pra śṛṇve.

Indra and Varuna, lord of power and of justice, abounding in strength and grace, generous and refulgent, the man who tries in honest action to win your friendship destroys darkness and evil and wins over enemies in battles with great weapons of defence and protection.

इन्द्रा ह रत्नं वरुणा धष्ट्या नृभ्यः शशमानभ्यस्ता । यदी

2. Indrā ha ratnaṁ varuṇā dheṣṭhetthā nṛbhyaḥ śaśamānebhyastā. Yādī sakhāyā sakhyāya somaiḥ sutebhiḥ suprayasā mādayaite.

Indra and Varuna, ruler and the elected people in power, if they hold and govern the jewel wealth of the nation in trust for the people, and the people would then appreciate, approve and admire them, then this way, they, both friends in agreement, for friendship of the people, would be happy and rejoice with the honour and prosperity of the law created with the honest effort of all in unison.

4. Indrā yuvaṁ varuṇā didyum-asminnojiṣṭham-ugrāni vadhiṣṭam vajram. Yo no durevo vṛkatir-dabhītis-tasmin mimāthām-abhibhūtyojaḥ.

Indra, ruler, and Varuna, chief of justice, mighty impassioned powers in this system, wield the light of knowledge and law in the social order. Who ever is malignant, evil doer and terror monger against us, strike the shattering blow of justice and punishment on him and create faith and confidence in the light and lustrous power of the law.

5. Indrā yuvaṁ varuṇā bhūtamasyā dhiyaḥ pretārā vṛṣabheva dhenoh. Sā no duhiyadyava-seva gatvī sahasradhārā payasā mahī gauḥ.

Indra, leader and giver of knowledge and power, and Varuna, embodiment of cherished virtue and intelligence, as Indra, lord of clouds sends down rain showers on earth and fertilises her, so, be the promoters of the intelligence and enlightenment of the children of the earth so that, as the earth, rich in vegetation, overflows with food in a thousand ways, so the knowledge, language and enlightenment of the community may grow a thousandfold and overflow with creative work on the great moving earth.

6. Toke hite tanaya urvarāsu sūro dr̥ṣīke vṛṣaṇaśca paumsye. Indrā no atra varuṇā syātāmavobhirdasmā paritakmyāyām.

Indra and Varuna, ruler and administrator, for the good of our children and grand children on these fertile lands on this moving and progressive earth, be the sun for the health and beauty of life, be the cloud for the fertility and virility of the nation. Indra, giver of light and energy, Varuna, lord of law and justice, with all your protections and promotions, be the destroyers of want and suffering, be the harbingers of health and plenty and enlightenment.

7. Yuvāmiddhyavase pūrvyāya pari prabhūti gaviṣaḥ svāpī. Vṛṇīmahe sakhyāya priyāya śūrā mañhiṣṭhā pitareva śambhū.

Indra and Varuna, ruler and sustainer, lord of life and power, giver of freedom and justice, we choose to dedicate ourselves to you for the sake of protection and progress as ever before, great and beneficent friends like brothers, brave and fearless, greatest majestic, and kind as parents as you are. Lovers of the earth and cows, knowledge and the language of Divinity as we are, we opt for you in freedom for the sake of love and friendship.

8. Tā vām dhiyo'vase vājayantīrājim na jagmuryu-vayūḥ sudānū. Śriye na gāva upa somamasthur-indraṁ giro varuṇaṁ me manīṣāḥ.

Indra and Varuna, benevolent energy and inspiration of nature and Divinity, all senses, mind and intelligence in search of efficiency and refinement in the business of life flow to you for the sake of protection and promotion. So may my mind, senses, vision and voices of exploration and celebration turn to Indra and Varuna for light and inspiration and abide by them for beauty and delicacy like the earth and other planets relating to the moon for the sweetness and beauty of their products.

9. Imā indraṁ varuṇaṁ me manīṣā agmannupa draviṇamicchamānāḥ. Upemasthurjoṣṭāra iva vasvo raghvīriva śravaśo bhikṣamānāḥ.

These senses and mind of mine keenly desiring to win the wealth and vision of life may proceed to Indra and Varuna, light and power and inspiration of nature and Divinity, and abide thereby, awaiting, getting and enjoying the wealth and wisdom of life like little Brahmacharinis of a girls' institution of education waiting upon their teacher mother.

10. Aśvyasya tmanā rathyasya puṣṭernityasya rāyaḥ patayaḥ syāma. Tā cakrāṇā ūtibhirnavyasībhir-asmatrā rāyo niyutaḥ sacantām.

May we, with our mind and soul, be masters of the lasting wealth of horses and chariots, of achievement and further progress, of health and nourishment, and may those two, Indra and Varuna, ruler and administrator, teacher and preacher, ever active with their latest modes of protection, promotion and progress join us and share our health.

11. Ā no bṛhantā bṛhatībhirūtī indra yātaṁ varuṇa vājasātau. Yad didyavaḥ pṛtanāsu prakrīḷān tasya vām syāma sanitāra ājeḥ.

Indra ruler, and Varuna, administrator and commander, great and majestic, come to us with the best of protection, promotion, progress and welfare and join our battle of life so that, participating in the struggles of that battle, joining and shining together with you, we may play our game with the best of capacities.

Mandala 4/Sukta 42

Atma, Indra-Varuna Devata, Trasadasyu Paurukutsya Rshi

मम द्विता राष्ट्रं त्रियस्य विश्वायाविश्वं अमृता यथा नः ।
कतुं सचन्त वरुणस्य द्वा राजामि कृष्टरुपमस्य ववः ॥ १ ॥

1. Mama dvitā rāṣṭraṁ kṣatriyasya viśvāyorviśve amṛtā yathā naḥ. Kratuṁ sacante varuṇasya devā rājāmi kṛṣṭerupamasya vavreḥ.

I am Indra, sovereign spirit of the universe. Twofold is my kingdom: heaven and earth, or, the world of nature and the world of humanity. I am Varuna, highest Intelligence and the Ruling Power of the universe. All the Immortals, divine forces in the service of Varuna are ours, they comprise and conduct the mighty yajna system of the universe. Thus I rule all: the world of humanity, all that is highest and closest in the world of forms, and all that is hidden.

(This mantra is a metaphor of the living, breathing, intelligent, self-organising, autonomous and sovereign system of the universe as macrocosm as well as microcosm. At the macrocosmic level, Indra is the Supreme Sovereign, immanent and transcendent Spirit, and Varuna is the immanent ruling force, intelligence and the law of Rtam. Indra-varuna is a functional version of the Supreme Spirit which is both immanent and transcendent. At the microcosmic level, Indra-Varuna is the individual soul with all its faculties of awareness, intelligence, mind and senses. At the world level too, Indra-Varuna may be interpreted as the Ruler and the President-in-council.)

अहं राजा वरुणा मह्यं तान्यसुर्याणि पथमा धारयन्त ।

कतुं सचन्त वरुणस्य द्वा राजामि कृष्टरुपमस्य ववः ॥ २ ॥

2. Ahaṁ rājā varuṇo mahyaṁ tānyasuryāṇi prathamā dhārayanta. Kratuṁ sacante varuṇasya devā rājāmi kṛṣṭerupamasya vavreḥ.

I am Varuna, ruling spirit of the world, best and highest. For me do the first manifestations of the spirit in nature hold the wealth and power of existence. They are the divine immortals who comprise and conduct the creative yajna, the spirit in body form. I rule the world of humanity, the phenomenal forms and all that is hidden in potentiality.

3. Ahamindro varuṇaste mahitvorvī gabhīre rajasī sumeke. Tvaṣṭeva viśvā bhuvanāni vidvānt-samairayaṁ rodasī dhārayaṁ ca.

I am Indra, the highest, omnipotent, and transcendent. I am Varuna, highest and best immanent and omniscient. Happy and exalted, having created the vast and deep and firm heaven and earth as Tvashta, cosmic maker, I hold and move in unison the sun and earth and all other regions of the universe.

अहमपा अपिन्वमु त्माणा धारयं दिवं सदन ऋतस्य ।

4. Ahamapo apinvamukṣamāṇā dhārayaṁ divaṁ sadana ṛtasya. Ṛtena putro aditerṛtāvota tridhātu prathayad vi bhūma.

I shower the rains of energising and fertilising waters. I hold and rule the sun and cosmic energy in the space of nature within eternal law. By the same eternal law of mine, the child of eternity, the threefold world of natural constituents, sattva, rajas and tamas (thought, energy and matter) manifests and expands and keeps to the law. Thus do I create, hold and rule the universe.

मां नरः स्वश्वा वाजयन्ता मां वृताः समरण हवन्त ।

5. Māṁ naraḥ svaśvā vājayanto māṁ vṛtāḥ samaraṇe havante. Kṛṇomyājim maghavāhamindra iyarmi reṇum-abhibhūtyojāḥ.

The best of men and leaders, equipped with good horses and modes of transport and communication, fighting for strength and sustenance, the chosen ones, knowing me and struggling to attain to me call upon me in the battle of existence. I, Indra, commanding the wealth and power of the world, highest of the lustre and glory in existence, create the battle for their victory and raise the heat of action.

अहं ता विश्वा चकरं नकिमा दव्यं सहा वरतु अपतीतम ।

6. Ahaṁ tā viśvā cakaraṁ nakirmā daivyaṁ saho varate apratītam. Yanmā somāso mamadanyad-ukthobhe bhayete rajasī apāre.

I do all those acts of creation, sustenance and victory. None can restrain or resist the supernal power that's mine, mysterious and unknown. When the flames of my soma yajna rise, the fire crackles and the hymns of celebration reverberate, the boundless heaven and earth shake in fear. There is none that equals me.

विदुष्ट विश्वा भुवनानि तस्य ता प ब्रवीषि वरुणाय वधः ।

7. Viduṣṭe viśvā bhuvanāni tasya tā pra bravīṣi varuṇāya vedhaḥ. Tvaṁ vṛtrāṇi śṛṇviṣe jaghan-vān tvaṁ vṛtāñ ariṇā indra sindhūn.

That greatness and grandeur of yours all the scholars of the worlds know. O lord omniscient, you yourself speak of it to the selected men of vision. You are the breaker of the clouds, we hear, and you set the rivers aflow and release the waters locked up in lakes and clouds.

8. Asmākamatra pitarasta āsantsapta ṛṣayo daur-gahe badhyamāne. Ta āyajanta trasadasyu-masyā indraṁ na vṛtraturam-ardhadevam.

When the seven sages, senses, pranic energies and flowing streams, which are our feeding and sustaining powers like father and mother, are locked up in darkness then, as they join Indra, so they join the sun (wakefulness), who is superior to the darkness of Vṛtra and presides over half of this world with his light (until light and life is restored).

9. Purukutsānī hi vāmadāśaddhavyebhirindrā-varuṇā namobhiḥ. Athā rājānaṁ trasada-syuma-syā vṛtrahaṇaṁ dadathur-ardhadevam.

O Indra and Varuna, the abundant power of the thunderbolt, light and showers offer you the homage of yajnic inputs of food for consumption and holistic expansion of creative nourishment. And thence, further, you give it on to this earth's ruler, destroyer of darkness and evil, who presides over half the world (and rises in majesty with the break of dawn).

राया वयं ससवांसा मदम हव्येन द्वा यवसन् गावः । तां धनुमिन्दावरुणा युवं ना विश्वाहा धत्तमनपस्फुरन्तीम ॥ १० ॥

10. Rāyā vayaṁ sasavāṁso madama havyena devā yavasena gāvaḥ. Tāṁ dhenum-indrāvaruṇā yuvaṁ no viśvāhā dhattam-anapasphurantīm.

Let us rejoice with the wealth of peace and refreshment with energy while we sleep, just as the devas, divine powers of nature, are replenished with spirit and joy by the offer of yajnic homage, and cows rejoice with grass. That vibrating energy of life, Indra and Varuna, you bear and bring for us day and night without break. Reveal that language of enlightenment, all calm and undisturbed.

1. Ka u śravatkatamo yajñiyānām vandāru devaḥ katamo juṣāte. Kasyemām devīmamṛteṣu preṣṭhām hr̥di śreṣāma suṣṭutiṁ suhavyām.

Who listens? Which of the adorables? Which brilliant divinity loves and entertains the song of prayer and adoration? To whose heart shall we dedicate this eulogy, divine, highly presentable, and dearest to the immortals.

2. Ko mṛlāti katama āgamiṣṭho devānāmu katamaḥ śambhaviṣṭhaḥ. Ratham kamāhurdravadaśva-māsum yaṁ sūryasya duhitāvṛṇita.

Who is kind and blissful? Which one comes at the fastest and earliest? Which one of the adorable divinities is the most benevolent? Which one is the chariot, power driven, which moves instantly at the fastest, they say, which the daughter of the sun, the Dawn, chooses for the ride?

3. Makṣu hi śmā gacchatha īvato dyūnindro na śaktiṁ paritakmyāyām. Diva ājātā divyā suparṇā kayā śacīnām bhavathaḥ śaciṣṭhā.

Ashvins, complementary powers of nature and humanity, magnificent on the move, you come instantly at the call of time like rays of the sun displaying his power over the smiling earth at the end of night. Coming from the heavens, divine with wings of light, by which one of nature's immaculate forces do you become the most powerful and eloquent?

4. Kā vām bhūdupamātiḥ kayā na āśvinā gamatho hūyamānā. Ko vām mahaścīt-tyajaso abhīka uruṣyataṁ mādhvī dasrā na ūtī.

Ashvins, what could be the simile or metaphor to describe or define you? On whose invocation and invitation would you come to us? Even though someone might be great, who could be as great and selfless around as you? Sweet powers, destroyers of evil, rise higher and higher for our defence and protection.

Great and grand is your chariot that goes round the regions of light, it comes to you from the oceans and from the oceans of spatial waters. Honey sweet you are, honey sweet is your wisdom. You and your wisdom shower us with sweetness of honey when your people at the stage of ripeness reach you for company and advice.

The waters of the flowing rivers and rolling seas evaporate and lend moisture to your horses of sun rays which rise like birds bright and red, and then your chariot, quick and soaring, coming and rising, is seen and known by which you become masters of the dawns.

Here itself in this world, O Ashvins, both of you, ever correct and true as you are, of equal mind and rich with the treasures of wealth and speed of light, may that holy and dynamic intelligence and wisdom which attends on you may, we pray, be for us too and may it bless and promote the celebrant who, looking to you with surrender and faith, may achieve the desire of his heart. Our ambition and fulfilment is centred on you only.

1. Eṣa sya bhānurudiyarti yujyate rathaḥ pariḥmā divo asya sānavi. Prkṣāso asmin mithunā adhi trayo dṛtisturīyo madhuno vi rapśate.

There rises the sun, chariot of the Ashvins in motion. It goes high up on top of the heavens, gaining heights and leaving the regions below. In this are three analogous kinds of food and energy: wind, water and electricity. And there is the fourth, the cloud on top of all, laden with the honey sweets of showers.

the taste of honey. Start the chariot to reach the dear sweets of life. Take to the high road on the way home by the chariot bearing the sweets of success as the sun and wind bear the cloud of showers.

Flying gracefully like hansa birds, pleasant and agreeable, fleet and comfortable, golden winged morning birds floating across mists and waters, giving the luxurious feel of breezy ecstasy: such are your horses which transport you across the spaces like bees flying to the honey cups of flowers, by which you proceed to the yajnic programmes of humanity creating the honour and excellence of life.

5. Svadhvarāso madhumanto agnaya usrā jarante prati vastoraśvinā. Yanniktaḥstas-taraṇirvica-kṣaṇaḥ somaṁ suṣāva madhumantam-adribhiḥ.

Holy yajnic performers, creating and bearing honey sweets of vitality, leaders and pioneers brilliant as fire, every morning, welcome and praise the first rays of the sun, while the clean handed, clear eyed, wise priest, saviour from sin and disease, grinds with stones the holy plant of soma for honey juice and all wait for your arrival, O Ashvins, harbingers of morning joy.

6. Ākenipāso ahabhir-davidhvataḥ svarṇa śukraṁ tanvanta ā rajaḥ. Suraścidaśvān yuyujāna īyate viśvāṇ anu svadhayā cetathaspathaḥ.

While the approaching and vitalising morning rays everyday dispel the darkness and spread the brilliant light across the skies like regions of heaven, and the sun, using the rays as chariot horses, goes in majesty, you show the paths of the world by virtue of your own power.

Ashvins, path makers of the world, having the knowledge and intelligence that I have attained, I speak to you of the chariot that's yours, which is imperishable, equipped with unfailing horse power, by which you instantly and all time go over the skies and spaces and by which you bear and bring excellent food and energy full of sacrificial vitality that carries us across the seas of life.

Mandala 4/Sukta 46Indra-Vayu Devate, Vamadeva Gautama Rshi

(Indra and Vayu are open-ended symbols to be interpreted according to the context of life which the mantra shows: Indra may be interpreted as power and protection, and Vayu as power in motion, energy for motion and advancement.)

7. *Iha prayāṇamastu vāmindravāyū vimocanam.

Indra and Vayu, here may be the end of your journey for the drink of soma and here may the chariot and the horses be released so that you may drink the soma of Moksha.

(This sukta may be interpreted in another way in the light of this mantra: Indra as the soul, Vayu as the prana energy of breath and blood circulation, the chariot as the body and horses as the organs of perception and volition, distillation of soma as creative yajnic action, drinking as the fruit of action, and release of chariot and horses as the freedom of the soul from the body and senses.)

Brhaspati, the sun, which, positioned in the midst of the three regions of earth, skies and heaven, sustains the earth and other planets to the ends with its force and its rays of light and gravitation;

Or, the Lord of mighty universe who is omnipresent in the worlds of earth, skies and the heavens of light and rules the universe to the ends of it with his omnipotence and Word of revelation;

Or, the ruler, who, self-established in knowledge, action, and prayer, rules the world to the ends of the earth with his power and word and force of law;

Or, the eminent scholar, who, master of the three realms of knowledge, Divinity, Prakrti, and the soul with the word of the Veda, rules the heart and intellect of the people to the ends of the earth with his knowledge that is power and his word:

Him, lord of sweet voice and vibrations of communication and gravitation, the ancient seers, shining since the first moments of human existence, vibrant with living knowledge and holy desire, sing, celebrate and advance in human consciousness.

2. Dhunetayah supraketaṁ mandanto bṛhaspate aghi ye nastatasre. Prṣantaṁ sṛpramadabdhāmūrvam bṛhaspate rakṣatādasya yonim.

O Brhaspati, vibrant scholars and heroes are they who inspire the holy and brilliant man of knowledge and centres of advancement, and help us progress in culture and achievement. O lord of progress and advancement, protect and promote the home and profession of every such person and institution, creative, brilliant, fearless, and generous and extensive in possibilities.

Brhaspati, far off and most high is your seat of majesty whence travel and ever abide your rays of light and Law which then touch the oceans of water to break them into vapours so that, like deep dug wells and clouds laden with milky showers of honey sweets, they pour down in abundant rain in your service for you and your people.

Brhaspati, the cosmic sun, first born of the supreme light of existence in the highest heaven, with seven mouths for consumption of materials and seven rays of light for creation of energy, born among many the mightiest, dispels the darknesses from the world with the thunder and lightning power of its majesty.

5. Sa suṣṭubhā sa ṛkvatā gaṇena valaṁ ruroja phali-gaṁ raveṇa. Brhaspatirusriyā havyasūdaḥ kani-kradad vāvaśatīrudājat.

With a mighty jubilant roar of thunder and terrible shower of electric energy, Brhaspati breaks the crooked cloud, releases the showers, activates the production of food for holy offerings and wins the gratitude of the green earth, fertile cows and rejoicing humanity.

एवा पित्र विश्वदेवाय वृष्णं यज्ञविधम् नमसा हविभिः ।

6. Evā pitre viśvadevāya vṛṣṇe yajñairvidhema namasā havirbhiḥ. Brhaspate suprajā vīravanto vayaṁ syāma patayo rayīṇām.

Thus do we, O lord Brhaspati, offer homage to the father, divine giver of light and rain showers, with food, and salutations, yajnas and oblations of fragrant havis, and we pray that we may be blest with noble and brave progeny, and we may be masters of the wealths of life.

7. Sa id rājā pratijanyāni viśvā śuṣmeṇa tasthāvabhi vīryeṇa. Bṛhaspatiṃ yaḥ subhṛtaṃ bibharti valgūyati vandate pūrvabhājam.

He surely is ruler of the world who faces all the practical battles of life with his own strength and courage, and who holds in faith, honours and worships Brhaspati, lord supreme sustainer of the universe, most cherished and the first immanent lord of life.

8. Sa itkṣeti sudhita okasi sve tasmā iḷā pinvate viśvadānīm. Tasmai viśaḥ svayamevā namante yasmin brahmā rājani pūrva eti.

Surely he dwells with peace and contentment in his own home, and him nature favours with all her gifts as her loving all-generous child, and to him all people spontaneously bow in reverence, whom Brahma, Lord Supreme as well as visionary of the Vedas, prime Spirit and prime person, favours and blesses as the brilliant ruler with the divine presence.

9. Apraṭito jayati saṃ dhanāni pratijanyānyuta yā sajanyā. Avasyave yo varivaḥ kṛṇoti brahmaṇe rājā tamavanti devāḥ.

Unchallenged, unopposed, that ruler wins over and rules all the wealth and powers, assets and liabilities, whether they belong to the opposition or to his own supporters, who does honour and service to the holy man of Vedic knowledge, who feels he needs protection and support and offers worship and support to the lord omniscient and omnipotent in support of his people. Indeed all the nobilities of humanity and all powers of nature strengthen, support and protect that ruler as the man of God for all his people.

Brhaspati, master of the knowledge of omniscience, and Indra, lord ruler of the world, both rejoicing and giving showers of wealth and comfort to the people, drink the soma of bliss in this yajna of human excellence. O lords of glory in your own right, may the majesty and sublimity of divinity bless you both and may you create and give us the wealth and honour of a brave and perfect nation with a brave young generation.

Brhaspati and Indra, scholar teacher of science and Divinity, ruler of the world, lead us on to advancement, we pray, be with us as our own, and may your vision and wisdom be ours for ourselves. Inspire and protect our mind and soul, awaken our thought and action. Lord and master, kind and favourable, help us exhaust and eliminate our weaknesses, want and poverty, dedicated supplicants as we are.

1. Idamu tyat purutamam purastājjyotistamaso vayunāvadasthāt. Nūnam divo duhitaro vibhātīr-gātum kṛṇavannuṣaso janāya.

Yonder in the east arises and shines that glorious light of the dawn revealing itself from the depths of night's darkness and inspiring us to wake up and see the light of knowledge. Surely daughters of heaven, the sublime lights of the dawn illuminate the earth for us to see the paths of the day's action.

2. Asthuru citrā uṣasaḥ purastān-mitā iva svaravo'-dhvareṣu. Vyū vrajasya tamaso dvārocchantīra-vrañ-chucayaḥ pāvakāḥ.

The lights of the dawn, various wondrous, shine magnificent in the east like daughters of omniscience, bright and bold like flag posts of yajnas of the day, pure and purifying as flames of fire, opening the doors of light from the deep folds of the night's darkness.

Brilliant and blissful magnificent lights of the dawn now in the early hours of the morning wake up and inspire liberal yajakas for the gifts of charity and performance of the morning yajna, while deep down in the folds of impenetrable darkness the slothful misers sleep on, unconscious, unaware and lost in the state of ignorance.

O divinities of the dawn, let that ancient chariot of yours which is ever new every morning be ever so great and magnificent by which, rich and luxurious in wealth and grace of beauty, you come and shine for your darling, dear as breath of life, who has nine cows or ten, i.e., earthly virtues, and seven mouths for consumption and many more for creation.

O divine lights of dawn, you always move over and across regions of the world by the rays of light travelling by the straight paths of truth and natural law across the oceans of space, waking up and inspiring the sleeping world of life, humans and animals, to rise and move for the day's activity.

Where and which of these dawns is that ancient one by which the wonder works of the Rbhus, miraculous artists and experts, were accomplished? Which one of these glorious dawns that go about so blissfully, all alike and unaging? No, not known.

For sure those were the dawns of ancient time, givers of abundant wealth of one's heart's desire, born of the law of Divinity, rooted in eternal truth and rectitude, in which the holy yajaka, worshipping the Divine with songs of praise and celebration, always and immediately achieved the wealth of his choice and desire. They are the same even now, the old ever new.

8. Tā ā caranti samanā purastāt samānataḥ samanā paprathānāḥ. Ṛtasya devīḥ sadaso budhānā gavāṃ na sargā uṣaso jarante.

They are the celestial lights of Divinity, part of cosmic dynamics, waking up the homesteads to activity and proceeding like streams of cows going to the pastures. Thus do the dawns arise, radiate, wake up life and celebrate the Divine. They rise and act the same way in the east since eternity, radiate equally the same way, illuminating the same way, eternal, ever new, old yet ever young.

9. Tā innveva samanā samānīr-amītavarṇā uṣasa-ścaranti. Gūhantīr-abhvamasitaṃ ruśadbhiḥ śukrāstanūbhiḥ śucayo rucānāḥ.

Thus do the dawns, equal, alike, unobstructed and inviolable, radiate and roam around, covering the vast spatial darkness with light and vesting things with beautiful forms of their own by their catalytic rays of light and blaze, penetrating, pure, purifying, beautiful and edifying.

10. Rayim divo duhitaro vibhātīḥ prajāvantam yacchatāsmāsu devīḥ. Syonādā vaḥ pratibudhya-mānāḥ suvīryasya patayah syāma.

O daughters of the light of heaven, angelic damsels of divinity, bear and bless us with the wealth of progeny so that, illuminative as you are, edified into a state of wakefulness and enlightenment through the peace and bliss of your love and beauty, we, awake and enlightened, may command a blessed force of warlike heroes.

11. Tadvo divo duhitaro vibhātīrupa bruva uśaso yajñaketuḥ. Vayam syāma yaśaso janeṣu tad dyauśca dhattām pṛthivī ca devī.

O lights of dawn, daughters of the glory of heaven, brilliant, radiating and illuminative as you are, I sing of you as you are, symbol of cosmic yajna, and I pray we may be blest with the glory of divinity, splendour of humanity and the honour and wealth of excellence which the heaven and earth and the daughters of heaven and earth may bear and bring for us.

(Swami Dayananda extends the meaning of the dawns from ‘daughters of heaven’ to heavenly daughters of humanity’, enlightened women, makers of happy homes. A happy home is a very heaven, he says.)

1. Prati śyā sūnatī janī vyucchantī pari svasuḥ.
Divo adarśi duhitā.

That joyous dawn, pioneer of the sun, harbinger of the new day, shining at the departure of her sister, the night, rises to view every morning as the daughter of heaven, arousing the world to fresh life.

7. *Ā dyāṁ tanoṣi raśmibhir-āntarikṣamuru priyam.
Uṣaḥ śukreṇa śociṣā.*

O dawn, with your rays of light, you radiate and fill the wide heavens and the skies, and the regions of universal love, so do you bless your loved one with the purest light of love and bliss.

(Swami Dayananda interprets the dawn literally as well as metaphorically: The dawn is not only the light of the morning, daughter of the sun, but also the light of the home, blessed and beautiful lady of the house who fills the home with light and virtue and inspires her beloved husband with love and bliss.)

1. Tad devasya saviturvāryam mahad vṛṇīmahe asurasya pracetasah. Chardiryena dāśuṣe yachati tmanā tanno mahāñ udayāndevo aktubhiḥ.

We love, choose and pray for that great, lovable and cherished energy and refulgence of Savita, self-refulgent, all observant, giver of light, life and breath of energy by which, all by himself, he gives the peace and shelter of a blessed home to the generous yajnic devotee. May the same lord of light and life arise for us day by day and bless us with the bliss of a sweet home.

Lord Savita, giver of abundant light and joy, is adorable for all of us, the lord who is now praised and worshipped day in and day out by the best of men and leaders of humanity, and who gives for the people abundant good fortune of the jewels of wealth just as he creates and gives the best and highest of wealth for us.

Savita, O lord creator, you create the stars and forces great as the sun and cosmic energy, greater than the mighty mountains and the thunderous clouds, and you create the regions and orbits for these wherein they abide like home dwellers. And as these fly around and observe the cosmic law, so they abide for your honour and grandeur doing homage to your glory.

O Vasus, shelter homes of life, which one of you is our saviour, our protector? O heaven and earth, O mother nature, safeguard us. O Mitra and Varuna, friend and lord of justice, who is our protector and defender against the powerful challenging man? O noble people, who bears and brings us the best gifts in yajna?

commander of power, and Vishnu, sustainer and protector of a steady state of law and order, both praised and celebrated as leaders of excellence, provide us a life of peace, freedom and security and a sweet home of conjugal bliss and promising progeny.

Divine dyavaprthivi, sun and earth with their divine forces—the sun with light and the earth with her motherly nurture and noble people — both worthy of love and study with dedication, loving and non-violent, abide constant in the universe. They are generous with showers of light and vitality, firm in the cosmic law of truth, replete with waters of life, loving all and hating none, blest with bright and creative progeny — the sun with planets and satellites and the earth with vegetation — carrying on and leading the process of cosmic yajna with their pure and purifying rays of light and vibrations of creative generosity.

1. *Kṣetrasya patinā vyaṁ hiteneva jayāmasi.
Gāmaśvaṁ paṣayitnvā sa no mṛḷātīdṛśe.*

We prosper in life by virtue of the master of the field as by a benefactor or a friendly army. May he, giver of good health and nutriments, develop fertile fields, cows and horses and, in this way, provide peace and joy for us all.

2. *Kṣetrasya pate madhumantam-ūrmim dhen-uriva

Master of the field, as the cow produces milk and you milk the nectar for us, so produce the rippling sweets of honey for us, and so may the masters of running waters, laws of nature and holy action discover the sacred knowledge of science like sanctified ghrta seasoned with honey for the peace and joy of us all.

3. Madhumatīroṣadhīrdyāva āpo madhumanno bhavatvantarikṣam. Kṣetrasya patir-madhum-ānno astvarisyanto anvenam carema.

May the herbs and trees, all vegetation indeed, be full of honey for us. May the heavens of light, the skies and the oceans of earth and space be full of honey for us. May the farmer, master of the field, be gracious with honey for us. And let us join, serve and cooperate with the farmer as well as with nature as we should without hurting, injuring and polluting.

4. Śunam vāhāḥ śunam naraḥ śunam kṛṣatu lāṅga-lam. Śunam varatrā badhyantām śunamaṣṭrā-mudiṅgaya.

Let the oxen and horses draw the plough and carry the burdens happily for growth and prosperity. Let the men work happily, let the plough furrow the field neatly, and let the whole process move on happily and effectively for growth and prosperity.

5. Śunāsīrāvimām vācam juṣethām yad divi cakra-thuḥ payah. Tenemāmupa siñcatam.

O Vayu and Aditya, wind and sun, farmer and helpers, listen to this word and follow: the water which you create in the regions of light, and which you move in the light of science, pray bring down to irrigate this holy land of the fields.

6. *Arvācī subhage bhava sīte vandāmahe tvā.
Yathā naḥ subhagāsasi yathā naḥ suphalāsasi.*

O charming furrow, be straight and deeply well drawn. We love and celebrate you so that you bring us good fortune, so that you bring us the best fruit of our labour and endeavour.

7. *Indraḥ sītām ni grhṇātu tāṁ pūṣānu yacchatu.
Sā naḥ payasvatī duhām-uttarāmuttarām samām.*

Let Indra, the farmer, take over and look after the furrow with seed, and may the sun shine warmly over the seed. Let Pusha, fertility of nature, feed and energise the grain. And let the earth mother, full of the milk of life, produce more and more of pure foods year by year for us.

Let the ploughmen plough the land happily for our peace and nourishment. Let the farmers work with the oxen and horses happily for peace and joy. Let the clouds shower with milk and honey joyously for peace and prosperity. Let the share and plough, the ploughmen and their helpers, and the powers of fertility bear and bring us peace, prosperity and joy for us all.

Mandala 4/Sukta 58

Agni, Surya, Apah, Gavah, or Ghrtam Devata, Vamadeva Gautama Rshi

समुदादूमिमधुमाँ उदारदुपांशुना सममृतत्वमानट ।

घृतस्य नाम गुह्यं यदस्ति जिह्वा देवानाममृतस्य नाभिः ॥ १ ॥

1. Samudrād-ūrmir-madhumāñ udāradupāṁśunā samamṛtatvamānaṭ. Ghṛtasya nāma guhyam yadasti jihvā devānāmamṛtasya nābhiḥ.

From the seas of earth and space arises the wave of honeyed energy, and close by the sun and soma that is produced in the solar yajna it joins and collects the nectar of immortality. That mysterious identity of cosmic fertility which is for us and for life as a whole flows from the tongue of divinities and originates from the centre of Eternity.

वयं नाम प ब्रवामा घृतस्या स्मिन्यज्ञ धारयामा नमाभिः ।

उप ब्रह्मा शृणवच्छस्यमानं चतुःशृङ्गा वमीद्गार एतत ॥ २ ॥

2. Vayaṁ nāma pra bravāmā ghṛtasyā'smin yajñe dhārayāmā namobhiḥ. Upa brahmā śṛṇavacchasyamānaṁ catuḥśṛṅgo'vamīd gaura etat.

The name and identity of that spirit of energy and immortality we sing and celebrate in divine words in this yajna, and, with reverence, surrender and self sacrifice, give it unto ourselves in the soul to hold on to it in life. May the Lord Omniscient so close to us hear it well chanted in celebration, the same Lord of Vak, the eternal Word, who commands the four Vedas as high peaks of knowledge and breathes out the same for us in revelation.

चत्वारि शृङ्गा त्रया अस्य पादा द्व शीष सप्त हस्तासा अस्य ।
त्रिधा बद्धा वृषभा ररवीति महा द्वा मर्त्याँ आ विवश ॥ ३ ॥

3. Catvāri śṛṅgā trayo asya pādā dve śīrṣe sapta hastāso asya. Tridhā baddho vṛṣabho roravīti maho devo martyāñ ā viveśa.

Of this mighty self-refulgent Lord, Word and Dharma, four are the high peaks of light and self proclamation: Rgveda, Yajurveda, Samaveda and Atharva-veda; three legs on which it rests: jnana or knowledge, karma or action, and upasana or prayer; two heads: abhyudaya or worldly well being, and Nihshreyas or moksha or ultimate freedom; seven hands or the seven verse forms. Three way bound in faith, action and meditation, it is the thundervoice of Divinity which proclaims itself through the beauty, wonder and terror of nature and the music of the Veda. And this mighty presence of mighty self-refulgent Lord and the self-awareness of omniscience is enshrined in the heart of mortal humans.

4. Tridhā hitaṁ paṇibhirguhyamānaṁ gavi devāso ghṛtamanvavindan. Indra ekaṁ sūrya ekaṁ jajāna venādekaṁ svadhayā niṣṭatakṣuḥ.

Ghrta, the essence of the nature, purpose and science of life, three way hidden in mystic language and held by natural forces, the enlightened ones discover, create and produce: Indra, cosmic energy, electricity, thunder and lightning, holds and reflects one, the sun holds and radiates another, and the third they discover from their meditation on Divinity with their own vision and intelligence.

5. Etā arṣanti hr̥dyātsamudrācchatavrajā ripuṇā nāvacakṣe. Ghr̥tasya dhārā abhi cākaśīmi hiraṇyayo vetaso madhya āsām.

These streams of light and life's energy flow in a hundred streams from the innermost depth of the heart-ocean, but not perceptible to the negative soul. Residing in the golden grove, myself wrapped in golden hue in their midst, I watch the light all round, the gold and the essence of life.

6. Samyak sravanti sarita na dhenā antarhr̥dā manasā pūyamānāḥ. Ete arṣantīrmayo ghr̥tasya mrgā iva kṣipañorīṣamānāḥ.

These streams of light and life flow like vibrations of the voice divine, purified and sanctified by the innermost soul of the heart and mind. The streams of ghrta, joy of life, flow like deer flying from the hunter's arrows towards the shelter of the divine saviour.

7. Sindhoriva prādhvane śūghanāso vātapramiyah patayanti yahvāḥ. Gṛtasya dhārā aruṣo na vājī kāṣṭhā bhindannūrmibhiḥ pinvamānaḥ.

The streams of ghrta, life's energy, flow on to join the sea like strong currents of a river rushing on in tumult by simple, straight and holy paths of the bed carved by Divinity, and I, inspired by the waves of ghrta, like a fiery stallion flying, breaking the bounds of world pressures all round by the force of inner vibrations, move on to my divine destination.

8. Abhi pravanta samaneva yoṣāḥ kalyāṇyaḥ smaya-mānāso agnim. Gṛtasya dhārāḥ samidho nasanta tā juṣāṇo haryati jātavedāḥ.

As youthful ladies of love and virtue, inspired with passion and smiling in bliss, proceed to meet agni, enlightened husband, so do streams of ghrta move and flow into the vedi to meet the lighted fire, and the rising fire, loving and gracious, cherishes to receive the flow of the holy yajaka's offer.

9. Kanyā iva vahatumetavā u añjyañjānā abhi cāka-śīmi. Yatra somah sūyate yatra yajño ghṛtasya dhārā abhi tatpavante.

Where the yajna of holy action and meditation is enacted and the bliss of divine soma is created, there I see all round the flow of the streams of consciousness into that vedi of divine fire wherein, like a maiden in all her beauty, finery and perfume proceeding to meet her bridegroom at the wedding yajna, the individual soul flies and is accepted and sanctified in the supreme spirit of Divinity.

Let the voice of holy praise and divine celebration rise and resound, O saints and sages and scholars of eminence, bear and bring us the light of knowledge enshrined in holy speech, lead us to honour, excellence and victory, and help us create wealth for the world leading all to the bliss of peace and common good. Guide, lead and direct this yajna of ours, the streams of honeyed ghṛta flow for the fire divine.

O Lord, within your presence by your power is sustained the entire world of existence. That same power and presence vibrates in the depths of the oceans, in the cave of the heart, in the breath of life and age, in the waves of water and energy, in the vibrations of thought, and in the heat of action in nature and humanity. That power and presence vibrating in existence, O Lord, we pray, let us realise. Let us flow with that constant flow of vibration of Divinity in and across the fluctuations of mutability.

MANDALA 5

Mandala 5/Sukta 1

Agni Devata, Budha-Gavishthara of Atreya Family Rshis

अबाध्यग्निः समिधा जनानां पतिं धनुमिवायतीमुषासम ।
यद्वाइव प व्यामुज्जिहानाः प भानवः सिस्रत नाक-मच्छ ॥ १ ॥

1. Abodhyagniḥ samidhā janānām prati dhenumi-vāyatīmuṣāsam. Yahvā iva pra vayāmujjihānāḥ pra bhānahaḥ sisrate nākamaccha.

Agni is seen and known while rising by the burning samidhas lighted by the yajakas at dawn coming up like a cow early in the morning, and the flames, like branches of a mighty tree, rise brilliantly and touch the sky where there is no pain, no darkness.

अबाधि हाता यजथाय दवानूध्वा अग्निः सुमनाः पातरस्थात ।
समिद्धस्य रुशददशि पाजा महान्दवस्तमसा निरमाचि ॥ २ ॥

2. Abodhi hotā yajathāya devānūrdhvo agniḥ sumanāḥ prātarasthāt. Samiddhasya ruśada-darśi pājo mahān devastamaso niramoci.

The yajaka Agni, good at heart, is seen to invoke the divinities and noble sages to the yajna and rises high while the fire keeps burning and rising. The light of the burning fire is seen as a blissful divine power and then the great refulgent sun rises from the night's darkness.

यदीं गणस्य रशनामजीगः शुचिरङ्ग शुचिभिगाभिरग्निः ।

3. Yadīm gaṇasya raśanāmajīgaḥ śuciraṅkte śucibhīrghobhiragniḥ. Ādākṣiṇā yujyate vājyantyuttānāmūrdhvo adhayaḥjuhūbhiḥ.

When the pure and lustrous fire of yajna, as the sun, rises with its pure bright flames and takes over the reins of the conduct of the yajnic world around, then the invigorating and powerful dakshina offering is made with the ladles, the flames of fire rise high, and the fire higher and higher up voraciously consumes the offering.

4. Aghimacchā devayatām manāmsi cakṣūṁśīva sūrye saṁ caranti. Yadīm suvāte uṣasā virūpe śveto vājī jāyate agre ahnām.

The minds of holy celebrants of Divinity turn intently to Agni as their eyes wait for and turn to the rising sun. And when the heaven and earth, both different of form, one bright and the other dark and green, bring forth this Agni at the rise of the dawn, day light appears and the world grows bright.

5. Janiṣṭa hi jenyō agre ahnām hito hiteṣvaruṣo vaneṣu. Damedame sapta ratnā dadhāno'gnirhotā ni ṣasādā yajīyān.

Arises Agni, victorious yajaka, the fire and the sun, for sure in advance of the day every morning, benevolent, active in everything good and holy, bright in the woods and every home, bearing sevenfold jewels of light and flame, and then settles in yajnic business, carrying the yajna on and on. The yajna must go on.

6. Agnirhotā nyasīdadyajīyānupasthe mātuh sura-bhā u loke. Yuvā kaviḥ puruniḥṣṭha ṛtāvā dhartā kṛṣṭīnāmuta madhya iddhaḥ.

Agni, host and performer of yajna, settles in the lap of the mother, earth and nature, in the beautiful fragrant world and its people, conducting the yajnic business of life which must go on. Young and bold, bright, intelligent and creative, imaginative as a poet, dedicated to all without exception, committed to truth and the law divine, sustainer and controller of the people, he goes on at the centre of everything, bright and blazing, never relenting, never slackening. The yajna must go on.

7. Pra ṇu tyam vipramadhvareṣu sādhumagnim hotāramīlate namobhiḥ. Ā yastatāna rodasī ṛtena nityam mrjanti vājinam ghrtena.

Ever and onward, with food, surrender and service in faith, people light, praise and worship that Agni, wise and vibrating, excellent in the accomplishment of yajnic projects, host, priest and organiser of life's business, who pervades heaven and earth with light and fragrance and blesses the people with enlightenment. Daily they renew their dedication and commitment with vows of truth, feed the power with ghrta, and refine the light and power to shine it more and more.

8. Mārjālyo mṛjyate sve damūnāḥ kavipraśasto atithiḥ śivo naḥ. Sahasraśṛṅgo vṛṣabhastadojā viśvān agne sahasā prāsyanyān.

Agni, pure and purifying catalytic power, is refined in itself. Self-controlled and a powerful controller, sung and celebrated by poets, it is a welcome guest, auspicious and beneficent for all of us as a breeze of peace and freshness. Agni, O light of a thousand flames of eminence, generous as cloud showers, blazing lustrous, you are the pioneer, overtaking, conquering, and leading all others forward with your power and force.

9. Pra sadyo agne atyeṣyanyānāviryasmai cārutamo babhūtha. Īlenyo vapuṣyo vibhāvā priyo viśāma-tithirmānuṣīṇām.

Agni, lord of light and power, for whosoever you rise on the vedi, light up in the home, or shine in flame in the cave of the heart most lovely and gracious, for him you excel and surpass everything else instantly and forever: adorable, sublime, effulgent, dearest and most welcome guest of all communities and habitations of men and women.

10. Tubhyaṁ bharanti kṣitayo yaviṣṭha balimagne antita ota dūrāt. Ā bhandiṣṭhasya sumatiṁ cikiddhi brhatte agne mahi śarma bhadram.

Agni, most youthful power and presence, devoted people from far and near bear and bring and offer homage and yajaka to you. Listen, know and accept the praise and prayer of the celebrant. May your shelter and protection for us be wide and great, full of peace and well being.

आद्य रथं भानुमा भानुमन्तमग्र तिष्ठ यजतभिः समन्तम ।

11. Ādya rathaṁ bhānumo bhānumantamagne tiṣṭha yajatebhiḥ samantam. Vidvān pathinām-urvanta-rikṣameha devān haviradyāya vakṣi.

Agni, refulgent lord of knowledge, ascend your strong and brilliant chariot of light today with your adorable powers and associates, and across the wide paths of space bring here the nobilities of eminence of your alliance for joining and sharing our feast of yajnic offerings to the divinities.

अवाचाम क्वय मध्याय वचा वन्दारु वृषभाय वृष्णा ।

12. *Avocāma kavaye medhyāya vaco vandāru vṛṣabhāya vṛṣṇe. Gaviṣṭhiro namasā stomamagnau

We sing this song of adoration in honour of the lord of light and knowledge, holy, potent, and generous. The holy yajaka dedicated to sacred speech and light of heaven, thus, ought to direct his beautiful song of praise and prayer with oblations and salutations rising high to the skies as to the sun in heaven.

Mandala 5/Sukta 2

Agni Devata, Kumara Atreya or Vrsha Jana or both Rshis

कुमारं माता युवतिः समुब्धं गुहा बिभति न ददाति पित्र ।
अनीकमस्य न मिनज्जनासः पुरः पश्यन्ति निहित-

1. Kumāraṁ mātā yuvatiḥ samubdham guhā bibharti na dadāti pitre. Anīkamasya na minajjanāsaḥ puraḥ paśyanti nihitamaratau.

The youthful mother bears and supports the foetus concealed in the womb, she does not, cannot, give it to the father in the state of immaturity. People cannot hurt its strength and vitality hidden in secret. But when it is born, they see its beauty and vitality before their eyes.

कमतं त्वं युवत कुमारं पषी बिभषि महिषी जजान ।

2. Kametaṁ tvaṁ yuvate kumāraṁ peṣī bibharṣi mahiṣī jajāna. Pūrvīrhi garbhaḥ śarado vavar-dhā' paśyaṁ jātaṁ yadasūta mātā.

O youthful lady, sweet is this baby you carry which the consecrated mother bore. I saw the foetus grow and grow for many many years many times before. And I see it born of the mother when she delivered it.

हिरण्यदन्तं शुचिवर्णमूरात् त्रादपश्यमायुधा मिमानम् ।

3. Hiranyadantaṁ śucivarṇam-ārāt-kṣetrād-apaśya-māyudhā mimānam. Dadāno asmā amṛtaṁ vipṛkvatkiṁ māmanindrāḥ kṛṇavannan-ukthāḥ.

I see him born of the mother's womb far and near with a golden spoon in his month, pure and bright of form, wielding his weapons of essential potential. And I give him the feed of immortal elixir for life. What can those deny Indra, the soul? What can those who reject knowledge and celebration of Divinity do against me? Nothing.

I see him born of the mother, mother earth and Mother Nature, see him roaming around since eternity by himself like an army on the march, commanding great beauty and grace. When he is born they hold him not, withhold him not, they cannot, and the young mothers, having given him birth, grow old and grey haired, and then they grow youthful again.

5. Ke me maryakam vi yavanta gobhirna yeṣām gopā arāṇaścidāsa. Ya im jagrbhurava te sṛjantvājāti paśva upa naścikivān.

Who can take away my wealth alongwith my lands and cows, sense and mind, feeling as if they are the cowherd stealing away my bull alongwith the cows, when in fact Agni himself is their protector and energiser? And those who try to grab them must despair and give up since the lord omniscient continues to protect, create and recreate the human wealth.

वसां राजानं वसतिं जनानामरातया नि दधुमत्येषु ।

6. Vasām rājānaṁ vasatiṁ janānāmarātayo ni dadhurmartyeṣu. Brahmāṇyatrerava taṁ sṛjantu ninditāro nindyāso bhavantu.

The law and order of humanity and the human habitations, negative forces try to obstruct and sabotage in the communities among themselves. But the power, potential and intelligence of Atri, enlightened people free from physical, mental and spiritual fears and limitations disinflate that negative effort and the saboteurs themselves become self-condemned.

Agni, O lord of light and ruler of the world, you save even shunah-shepa, the connoisseur lost in senses, reviled and condemned; you save him from a thousand snares of the world so that the man settles back in peace of mind. Same way, O lord and light of the world, come, O highpriest of the yajna of life, grace our yajna here and snap the snares of suffering and slavery off our body, mind and soul.

The observer of the laws of righteousness and divinity says: Let the element of hate and anger be away from me. Indra, man of knowledge and power, who knows and speaks of you, O Agni, destroyer of the pollution and impurity of body, mind and soul, has spoken to me and, instructed by him, I come to you in search of purity and purgation.

Agni shines and blazes expansively with mighty rising flames of light, and with its lustre and power illuminates and reveals all things of the world. It sharpens and extends its arms of light and power for the destruction of evil and challenges and throws out the strength and wiles and acts of the clever forces of negation and destruction.

10. Uta svānāso divi śantvagnes-tigmāyudhā rakṣase hantavā u . Made cidasya pra rujanti bhāmā na varante paribādho adevīḥ.

And let the blazing weapons of fire roaring in the heights of the skies be raised for the destruction of evil forces, for as they strike for the joy and victory of life's positive forces as the very flames of terror, the obstructive forces of evil would fail to avert or oppose them.

11. Etam te stomaṁ tuvijāta vipro ratham na dhīrah svapā atakṣam. Yadīdagne prati tvaṁ deva haryāḥ svarvatīrapa enā jayema.

Agni, light and power divine among the strong and wise, I, dedicated to knowledge and service, bold and patient, keen to do good in word and action, structure this song of celebration like a skillful engineer designing and making a chariot for you. O lord refulgent, if you are kind and gracious to accept it, then by the same song we would win sweet and heavenly waters of life, light and energy for the joy of life.

Agni, strong and graceful power and flame, roaring as a bull and generous as cloud showers, growing and promoting, free from enemies, master ruler and sustainer, creates and bestows wealth and power of the noblest kind: Thus do men of spiritual vision and divine wisdom celebrate this Agni in holy words. May Agni bless the man of generosity and self sacrifice, man of thought and discrimination, with a happy and peaceful life, holy family and a happy home.

Mandala 5/Sukta 3

Agni Devata, Vasushruta Atreya Rshi

त्वम॒ग्न॒ वरु॑णा॒ जाय॑स॒ यत्त्वं मि॒त्रा भ॑वसि॒ यत्समि॑द्धः ।
त्व॒ वि॒श्व॑ सह॒स॒स्पु॒त्र द॒वास्त्व॑मि॒न्दा॑ द॒ाशु॒ष म॒र्त्याय॑ ॥ १ ॥

1. Tvamagne varuṇo jāyaso yat tvaṁ mitro bhavasi yatsamiddhaḥ. Tve viśve sahasasputra devā stvamidro dāśuṣe martyāya.

Agni, flaming fire, light of knowledge and power of the world, when you are born, you shine like Varuna, light of the dawn and spirit of justice and discrimination in mankind. When you are in full blaze of your glory, you are like Mitra, bright sun, friend of all. In you reside and abide all the powers of nature's divinity, O child of omnipotence, and you are Indra, giver of honour and excellence for the man of charity and generosity.

2. Tvamaryamā bhavasi yat kanīnām nāma svadhāvan guhyaṁ bibharṣi. Añjanti mitraṁ sudhitaṁ na gobhiryaddampatī samanāsā kṛṇoṣi.

Agni, lord of energy and living vitality, when you bear the mysterious name of youth among men and women, you become Aryama and assume the role of a judge with discrimination. When you join man and woman in wedlock, with equal love of mind and heart, they celebrate you with holy words and hospitality with cow's milk and butter.

3. Tava śriye maruto marjayanta rudra yatte janima cāru citram. Padaṁ yadviṣṇorupam nīdhāyi tena pāsi guhyaṁ nāma gonām.

Agni, you are Rudra, lord of justice and dispensation. For your honour and excellence vibrant people come to you and anoint you and glorify the beautiful and wonderful name that is yours. The office of Vishnu, protector and sustainer, is vested in you, by that you protect and maintain the secret name and identity of the lights of stars.

4. Tava śriyā sudrśo deva devāḥ purū dadhānā amṛtaṁ sapanta. Hotāramagniṁ manuṣo ni ṣedurdaśasyanta uśijaḥ śamsamāyoḥ.

O lord of light and generosity, ruler of the world, by virtue of your light, honour and grace, brilliant scholars of vision, commanding wide powers and immortal knowledge, and the people in general, loving and desiring admirable wealth and beauty of life, establish, serve and expand the fire of various forms of yajna of social and scientific projects, in your honour, holy yajaka and giver of life's benefits.

5. Na tvaddhotā pūrvo agne yajīyān na kāvyaiḥ paro asti svadhāvaḥ. Viśaśca yasyā atithirbha-vāsi sa yajñena vanavad-deva martān.

Agni, there never is a generous giver and yajnic performer before you, nor is there any one higher celebrated by poets in hymns, lord of your own essential wealth and power as you are, worthy of homage. Lord of light and generosity, whoever the host where you are invoked and invited as yajnic deity, you bless the people by the yajna with fulfilment.

6. Vayamagne vanuyāma tvotā vasūyavo haviṣā budhyamānāḥ. Vayaṁ samarye vidatheṣvahnām vayam rāyā sahasasputra martān.

Agni, lord refulgent ruler of the world, may we grow and prosper, we pray, under your protection, searching for wealth, raising the fire with havi offerings and ourselves rising in wealth and knowledge with the yajna. Let us win in life's contests, in yajnas, day by day, O child of strength and protector of power and valour, and let us be blest with children and grand children.

7. Yo na āgo abhyeno bharātyadhīdaghamaghaśamse dadhāta. Jahī cikitvo abhiśastimetā-magne yo no marcayati dvayena.

Whoever commits sin and crime against us, may Agni, lord ruler and dispenser of justice, turn that sin and crime upon the sinner and calumniator. May the lord of light and knowledge, Agni, silence that imprecation, whoever be the person that hurts us with double dealing, sin and scandal.

8. Tvāmasyā vyuṣi deva pūrve dūtāṁ kṛṇvānā ayajanta havyaiḥ. Saṁsthe yadagna īyase rayī-ṇām devo martair-vasubhir-idhyamānaḥ.

Agni, refulgent power of light and generosity settled in the midst of this people, yajakas ever since time immemorial honouring you as harbinger of nature's wealth join you and adore you in yajna with oblations of havi. And when you join them and settle in their midst then, raised and fed by the people on fragrant materials, you rise in flames as brilliant lord giver of the wealth of life.

9. Ava sprdhi pitaram yodhi vidvān-putro yaste sahasaḥ sūna ūhe. Kadā ciditvo abhi cakṣase no'gne kadāñ ṛtacidyātayāse.

Agni, born of omnipotence, I think of you, meditate on you: You are the saviour from suffering and mortality as a child is for the parent. You are the scholar of science, visionary of existence and observer of the eternal laws of Dharma. Emulate, excel and save the parent, the protector and the yajaka who lights you in the vedi, fight out and eliminate suffering, sufferance, evil and destruction. Pray when would your eye of grace favour us? When would you inspire us and show the path of rectitude to guide us?

10. Bhūri nāma vandamāno dadhāti pitā vaso yadi tajjoṣayāse. Kuviddevasya sahasā cakānaḥ sumnam-agnir-vanate vāvṛdhānaḥ.

O shelter home of life, Agni, father and sustainer of living beings as you are, the worshipper adores you by many names which adoration if you accept and acknowledge with pleasure then the worshipper, loving, adoring and growing like fire by the light and power of the generous lord, creates joy and well being for himself, and Agni too, loving and favouring the adorer by his own divine knowledge and power, waxing with love and kindness, bestows the joy and well being of life upon the supplicant.

11. *Tvamaṅga jaritāraṁ yaviṣṭha viśvānyagne dūritāti paṣi. Stenā adṛśranripavo janāso-

Dearest ruler of the earth, most youthful power of the world, Agni, save the celebrant, purge the supplicant of all the evil and sufferings of the world: thieves are seen prowling around, enemies lying in wait, ignorant people lying in hidden corners, all following crooked ways, flags flying.

12. Ime yāmāsas-tvadrig-abhūvan vasave vā tadidāgo avāci. Nāhāyam-agnir-abhiśastaye na na rīṣate vāvṛdhānaḥ parā dāt.

These celebrants and supplicants observing the law divine are dedicated to you, O lord Agni. Also, whatever their weakness or trespass, that too has been confessed to the lord protector and sustainer. We pray may this Agni, lord omniscient and omnipotent, increasingly pleased and gracious, never forsake us and never deliver us unto the maligner or the injurer or the evil of failure and disaster.

Mandala 5/Sukta 4

Agni, lord and brilliant ruler of the world, protector and sustainer of the wealths of life, I serve and celebrate you in the constructive business of cooperative living without hate and violence. With you and under your guidance and inspiration, collecting speed and strength for progress, let us, we pray, win the battles of mortal humanity and be happy.

Agni, our father, sustainer and ruler, ever youthful and unaging, carrier of holy materials and fragrances over and across the world is all pervasive in power and presence, resplendent, all illuminative and all revealing, and blissful in form and appearance. May he provide for us all the healthful food, and energies for a happy household and may he, knowing us well and what is good for us, measure out, determine and grant all the bounds and laws of our wealth and properties, rights and duties, which we must not violate or neglect.

Agni, all knowing lord of light and destroyer of enemies, pervasive across the earth and pleased with world voice, joining the sunrays and working with them, come, join our yajna lighted and rising with the fuel on fire, enjoy yourself and bring the noblest generous powers of nature and humanity along to partake of the fruits of our corporate endeavour of yajna.

6. Vadhena dasyuṁ pra hi cātayasva vayahḥ kṛṇvānastanve svāyai. Piparṣi yatsahasasputra devāntso agne pāhi nṛtama vāje asmān.

Agni, enlightened ruler of the world, born and risen as the very child of strength and honour, drive away the wicked, thieves and robbers, augmenting the food and energy for your own body politic. O best of men and leaders, protect and promote the noble enlightened people and replenish the powers of nature and thus strengthen and promote us in our joint endeavour of living.

Agni, blazing light and fire, child of omnipotence, ruler of three worlds, join and bless our non-violent yajna of creation and production for the good of life. Let us be blest, we pray, to be followers of universal Dharma and piety of action, and protect and promote us with peace and comfort in a happy home of threefold bliss for body, mind and soul through three seasons for the human family.

Agni, lord ruler commanding knowledge of the world of existence, constantly supported by relentless active assistants, as a sailor helps travellers to cross the sea by boat, so do you, we pray, help us cross the most difficult obstacles of the world. Served and celebrated with homage and service with surrender, you are the protector and sustainer of our bodies and material interests, this be gracious to know we know.

1. Susamiddhāya śociṣe ghrtaṁ tīvraṁ juhotana. Agnaye jātavedase.

For success and self-fulfilment, ardenly offer hot and sharply catalytic ghrta into the intense fire, lighted, rising and radiant in the vedi, Jataveda, fire of life vibrating in everything in existence including yourself.

For self-realisation in meditation, collect and concentrate your mind and consciousness into focus and direct it into the light of Divinity all pervasive, and shining in the cave of your heart also.

11. Svāhāgnaye varuṇāya svāhendrāya marudbhyah. Svāhā devebhyo haviḥ.

Let there be right words of description and exact definition for Agni, light and fire energy. Let there be right words of knowledge and choice for Varuna, right values and judgement. Let there be right actions for Indra, power, energy, honour and excellence for the Maruts, the people. Let there be honour and holy care for the divinities of nature and nobilities of humanity. Let there be right materials as inputs for the holy scientific yajna of development and growth in gratitude to nature and the Lord Divine.

Mandala 5/Sukta 6

Agni Devata, Vasushruta Atreya Rshi

अ॒ग्निं तं म॑न्य॒ या वसु॑रस्तं॒ यं यन्ति॑ ध॒नवः॑ । अस्त॑मव॒न्त
आ॒शवा॑ स्तं॒ नित्या॑सा वा॒जिन॒ इषं॑ स्ता॒तृभ्य॒ आ भ॑र ॥ १ ॥

1. Agnim taṁ manye yo vasurastaṁ yaṁ yanti dhenavaḥ. Astamarvanta āśavo'staṁ nityāso vājina iṣaṁ stotrbhya ā bhara.

Agni is that power and presence of energy, I believe, which pervades everything and in which and by which all things abide and function. The cows abide in it, move by it and end up into it. Horses abide in it, move by it and end into it. So do all fast moving streams and objects, permanent forms, and all forms of energy move by it and retire into it. O scholar of Agni, universal energy, produce and bring up food and energy for the celebrants and supplicants for Agni. This energy is originally set in motion by Agni, the Cosmic omnipotent Spirit. (In the mantra agni is described as astam, i.e., set into motion.)

सा अ॒ग्निर्या वसु॑र्गुण॒ सं यमा॑यन्ति॒ ध॒नवः॑ । सम॒व॒न्ता रघु॑दुवः

2. *So agniryo vasurgr̥ṇe saṁ yamāyanti dhenavaḥ.
Samarvanto raghudruvaḥ saṁ sujātāsaḥ sūraya

That is Agni which is the abiding power, pervasive and moving force, and that is what I study and celebrate. The cows and horses, stars and planets and the rays of light, and sound and word come from, move by and go unto it, from which and into which and by which the slow moving ones move and function; and by which and toward which brave and eminent scholars rise to fame and create and produce the wealth of food and energy for the celebrants and supplicants.

3. *Agnirhi vājinam viśe dadāti viśvacarṣaṇiḥ. Agnī

Agni, light and energy of existence, alone provides fast modes of transport for the people. Studied and developed for wealth, Agni provides automatic and self-sustaining energy for the people. O scholar scientist, create and bring choice foods and energies for the celebrants and supplicants.

Let us kindle you, light and fire of life, generous divinity, refulgent and unaging so that the wonderfully admirable light of your blaze shines in heaven and you bring food and energy for the celebrants.

Agni, light of life, lord of power, purity and splendour, golden beautiful, generous, sustainer of the people and carrier of fragrant oblations across the spaces, fragrant offers are made to you with the chant of holy verses in praise of your identity, attributes and functions. Generous creative power, create and bring food and energy for the celebrants.

Those radiations of your energy into other forms of energies feed, invigorate and develop the wealth and growth of life in existence. They inspire, impel and collect, they expel, expand and organise, and thus they animate the circuitous dynamics of centripetal and centrifugal forces in systemic unison of the universe. O living power, create and bring food and energy for the celebrants.

Agni, O mighty power of the universe, those mighty radiations of your flames of energy feed and animate all objects into motion in space and they, with the radiating waves of your power, energise, expand and hold in poise the orbits of motions for the stars, planets and the galaxies. O mighty power, create and hold the food and energy of life and bless the celebrants.

Agni, mighty power and light of knowledge, bring us new forms of food and energy and give us new revelations of blissful earths and stars in existence. And we pray, may we, who worship and celebrate you, be your messengers in every home. O lord, bring us the food and energy of life and light of knowledge ever new for us, your celebrants and supplicants.

Agni, mighty lord of golden glory in form, creator and wielder of universal energy, you catalyse two ladlefuls of liquid fuel in your crucible for impulsion and expulsion in cosmic metabolism. Thus, O lord, fulfil us too in holy tasks of yajna and create and bring food and energy for the celebrants.

Thus do the celebrants and supplicants positively dedicated to Agni study and apply natural energy for practical purposes by holy speech and yajnic structures of research and experimentation, so that agni may hold and bring us lustrous strength and dynamic energy of electric speed and success.

O lord of power and energy, create and bring food and energy for the celebrants.

3. Sam yadiṣo vanāmahe saṁ havya mānuṣāṇām. Uta dyumnasya śavasa ṛatasya raṣmimā dade.

When we join together and pray for foods and energy forms, and the oblations of holy materials into the fire for the good of humanity rise in fragrance, then Agni with its power takes over the reins of rain showers and abundance of wealth and well being.

For him, i.e., the supplicant yajaka, the man free from threefold suffering of body, mind and soul, Agni, bright and pure, releases the honour and splendour of life like currents of thunder power, which mother nature spontaneously generates for him and which flows to him incessantly.

9. *Ā yaste sarpirāsute'gne śamasti dhāyase.

Agni, lord of light, giver of peace and power, when the ghrta has been offered into the fire and the flames arise, then let there be a shower of peace for the bearer of oblations, your gift for the yajaka. O lord, bear and bring wealth of honour and excellence, food and energy, and a noble mind with wisdom and vision and vest the same in these dedicated people.

This is the song of praise and prayer, O lord, Agni, giver of light, peace and power. Born among the dedicated aspirants, I accept the gift of peace and passion, power and property and cattle wealth. Let man be Atri, free from threefold suffering of body, mind and soul. Let man challenge the ungenerous and fight out the impending dangers, human as well as natural, and hold on to noble men and aspirations.

You, light of the world, life of life, Agni, the lovers of Truth and universal law dedicated to yajna since time immemorial kindle and install in the home for protection and progress: Agni, ancient and eternal born of omnipotence, golden glorious, worthy of reverence, sustainer of the universe, self-controlled and abiding in divine law, head of human family, chosen and worthy of choice.

(Swami Dayananda applies this hymn by implication and extension to home life and the homely fire yajna, of which the head and yajamana is the married couple. Agni, further, may be interpreted as the head of a state and of the world government elected and anointed by common consent.)

Agni, light of life, people have enshrined and consecrated you in their heart and home: Agni, a welcome guest on the rounds, ancient presence with flames of fire for locks of hair, master of the home, high beacon of light, pervasive in all forms of the world, creator, lover and giver of wealth, neatly settled in homes, commanding noble and sure modes of protection and progress, pure, cleansed and free from hate and poisonous enmity.

Agni, human communities all adore you enshrined in the heart, knower of the yajakas and the delicacies of yajna, discriminator between right and wrong, positive and negative, good and evil, highest treasurehold of the jewels of wealth, gracious and glorious with honour and excellence, light of the universe, loud and bold in universal service, directly accessible in yajna and rising in flames by ghṛta.

Agni, lord of light and sustainer of the world, celebrating you in many ways with holy songs of praise and prayer, we sit by you with reverence, with offers of oblations in the holy fire. O lord Angira, pervasive in every particle of the universe, bright and generous, kindled and rising in flames by the mortals' offers of havi, be gracious, accept our homage and bless us with honour and excellence in life.

Agni, pervading in all the many forms of existence, praised and celebrated by all since time immemorial, you bear and bring abundant food and health and life for every individual and every community. You shine with might and splendour, and that splendour of yours, glorious one, no one dare challenge.

6. Tvāmage samidhānaṁ yaviṣṭhya devā dūtāṁ cakrire havyavāhanam. Urujrayasaṁ ghr̥tayo-nimāhutaṁ tveṣaṁ cakṣurdadhire codayanmati.

Agni, ever youngest, unaging power of existence, kindled and shining in flames, bright and generous sages and scholars among humanity and divinities of nature make you the carrier and disseminator of fragrant energies of life and health, and install and enshrine you in the vedi, ghr̥ta fed, wide expansive, brilliant, watchful and inspirer of intelligence, ever invoked and invited.

Agni, light of life invoked and received from the revelations of heaven, enlightened people in pursuit of self-realisation enkindle and raise you in the vedi with fuel and ghr̥ta of the holiest kind. They light you in the heart with the fuel of their sense and mind and self-awareness. And you, rising with the fuel and sprinkled with ghr̥ta, ever abide expansive in all their business of earthly existence.

Agni, fire energy, friend and protector of man, ever awake, versatile power, it arises for the latest good of humanity. Feeding and rising on the fuel of ghrta, shining pure and magnificent with heat and light touching the skies, it shines and gives light for those who feed and keep the fire burning.

Agni is the leader, mark of the science of yajna, first highpriest in the process, which the leading lights among people kindle and establish in three stages of life in three departments of the acquisition of knowledge, observance of Dharma and performance of karma, in three regions of earth, sky and the solar sphere. And Agni takes the prime seat on the grass on the vedi with Indra, power, devas, divine givers of nature, as it comes with its chariot which carries it with fragrance to all regions. It is the sanctifier for yajnic initiation, conduct and congregation, and it is the very light, beauty and grace of the holy project.

Agni, born of parents natural, unadorned and free, pure and radiant, charming, with the gift of being the leading light rising from the sun, when you are invoked and invited, people raise and advance you with oblations of ghr̥ta and then your light and fragrance as the flag of your majesty rises to the regions of the sun.

May Agni come straight to our yajnic actions of social value. Leading and enlightened people light and raise Agni in every home. Agni is the disseminator of the fragrance of yajna over lands and spaces. Intelligent people of holy action take to Agni, the power that effects creative actions of the enlightened for social good.

people to do good to the community. Agni is thus not only the divine fire but also the leader, teacher and the preacher.)

5. Tubhyedamagne madhumattamam vacastu-bhyam manīṣā iyamastu śam hr̥de. Tvām girah sindu-mivāvanīrmahīrā pṛṇanti śavasā vardha-yanti ca.

Agni, this sweetest song of honour and adoration is presented to you. The holy sentiment and prayer is addressed to you in praise of your holiness and peace at heart. The great holy voices protect, promote and fulfil you and make you stronger with power just as great rivers flow and add to the depth and power of the sea.

1. Prāgnaye br̥hate yajñiyāya ṛtasya vṛṣṇe asurāya manma. Ghr̥taṁ na yajña āsyere supūtaṁ giram bhare vṛṣabhāya pratīcīm.

As in yajna, we bear and bring and offer oblations of ghr̥ta into the vedi, so do I compose and bring the language of inner consciousness purified in meditation and offer it in honour of Agni, great, adorable in yajna, giver of the showers of water and the light of truth, life breath of the world, inspirer of thought, and generous giver of strength and power.

Agni, light of the world, you know the law and dynamics of world order. Know the truth and sincerity of our yajna and worship, and release the showers of eternal light of truth and open the doors of nature's generosity. I follow the generous and brilliant lord's path of truth and rectitude but not by violence nor with duplicity. I follow the path of honesty and sincerity.

3. Kayā no agna ṛtayannṛtena bhuvo navedā ucathasya navyaḥ. Vedā me deva ṛtupā ṛtūnām-nāham patim saniturasya rāyaḥ.

For what reason, Agni, you being the latest scholar and observer of the laws of truth by the laws of truth, would you not know of the earth and of our songs of adoration? Lord protector and observer of the laws and cycle of the seasons, generous and brilliant, give me the knowledge. I do not well know the lord giver and protector of the wealth of life.

4. Ke te agne ripave bandhanāsaḥ ke pāyavaḥ saniṣanta dyumantaḥ. Ke dhāsimagne anṛtasya pānti ka āsato vacasaḥ santi gopāḥ.

Agni, ruler of humanity, what are your injunctions and prohibitions of law and order to deal with the opposite forces? Who are the guards and what are the safeguards? Who are your allies? Who the leading lights? Who preserve and maintain food supplies and food resources? Who are the people and what the elements that shelter falsehood? What are the safeguards against false and malicious words and reports?

Agni, bright ruler, those friends and allies of yours, wide spread and intelligent, who were favourable earlier but have become unfavourable and negative later would of themselves be destroyed, all these, by their own words, speaking crooked things to simple people of rectitude. See they are eliminated.

O brilliant ruler, Agni, whoever the man with reverence and holy oblations in yajna serves your yajna of the social order, he protects and promotes the rule of truth and rectitude, the rule of the generous, brilliant and non-violent ruler. May his house as the house of the ruler go on rising high and higher, from good to better, the house of the progressive man on sound foundations of economic surplus and all round security.

I bear and offer words of adoration in honour of Agni, omniscient presence, visionary creator, glorious and eternal lord worth knowing. Pleased with the offer of ghrta and sincere devotion in yajna, Agni is the breath of life, gracious, giver and commander of the wealth of existence, sustainer of the universe and ultimate haven of the world.

2. *Ye agne nerayanti te vṛddhā ugrasya śavasah.
Apa dveṣo apa hvaro'nyavratasya saścire.*

Agni, these senior dedicated devotees of yours, who take to the strength of your power and passion for truth, do not waver in their faith, they keep away from malice, crookedness, double dealing and tortuous behaviour.

हातारं त्वा वृणीमह गृह तस्य सार्धनम् ।यज्ञर्षु पूर्व्य गिरा पयस्वन्ता हवामह ॥ ३ ॥

3. *Hotāram tvā vṛṇīmahe'gne dakṣasya sādha-nam.
Yajñeṣu pūrvyāṁ girā prayasvanto havā-mahe.*

Agni, we opt for dedication to you, original yajaka, generous giver, agent and instrument of strength and success, and, creatively endeavouring in our yajnic programmes, we invoke and invite you with the holy voice of faith.

इत्था यथा त ऊतय सहसावन्दिवदिव । राय ऋताय सुकता

4. Itthā yathā ta ūtaye sahasāvan divedive. Rāya ṛtāya sukrato gobhiḥ śyāma sadhamādo viraiḥ śyāma sadhamādaḥ.

O lord giver of strength and light of life, enlighten us so that we may, under your protection, advance on way to wealth and rectitude day by day, and by our words and voice be your companions and co-dwellers in the home, blest with brave children.

Mandala 5/Sukta 21

Agni Devata, Sasa Atreya Rshi

मनुष्वत्त्वा नि धीमहि मनुष्वत्समिधीमहि ।

1. Manuṣvattvā ni dhīmahi manuṣvat-samidhī-mahi. Agne manuṣvadaṅgiro devān-devayate yaja.

Agni, light of life, like a living human presence we meditate on you. Like a living human power, we enkindle, serve and develop you. O breath of life, Angira, like a human power and sagely presence, inspire the brilliant and generous sages with the light of life for the sake of those who love the divinities.

त्वं हि मानुषं जनं गृह्यसि ।

2. *Tvaṁ hi mānuṣe jane'gne suprīta idhyase.
Srucastvā yantyānuṣak sujāta sarpirāsute.*

Agni, fire of life, loved and kindled, you shine and blaze in the human community. Excellent in form and beauty by birth and nature you are, and ladles full of ghrta move to you in love and faith and, on the oblations of ghrta, you rise and shine among humanity.

त्वां विश्वं सृजार्षसा द्रवासां दूतमकत ।

सृपयन्तस्त्वा कव यज्ञषु द्वमीळत ॥ ३ ॥

3. *Tvāṁ viśve sajoṣaso devāso dūtamakrata.
Saparyantastvā kave yajñeṣu devamīlate.*

All the divine powers of nature and all brilliant sages of humanity in one accord, with love and reverence for you, install you as the conductor and carrier of their yajna forward. Serving you, O visionary of poetic excellence, they honour and worship you as a divine power in their yajnas of creative and corporate projects.

द्वं वा दवयुज्यया ग्रिमीळीत मत्यः । समिद्धः शुक

4. *Devam vo devayajyayā'gnimīlīta martyaḥ.
Samiddhaḥ śukra dīdihyrtasya yonimāsadaḥ sasasya yonimāsadaḥ.*

O sages and scholars, with your service in yajnas of love and non-violence in honour of the divinities of nature and noble humanity, man serves and worships the generous and radiant Agni. O radiant power and presence, Agni, pure and potent, lighted and raised to the full, shine on, illuminate the truth of existence and the flow of life from the particle onward and reveal the chain of cause and effect in the process of evolution.

Agni Devata, Vishvasama Atreya Rshi

प विश्वसाम त्रिवदच्चा पावकशाचिष ।

या अध्वरष्वीड्या हाता मन्दतमा विशि ॥ १ ॥

22. *Praviśvasāmannatrivadarācā pāvakasociṣe.
Yo adhwareṣvīdyā hotā mandratamo viśi.*

O vishvasaman, master of all world power and property, songs of praise and prayer, peace and tranquillity, shine, illuminate, develop, honour and sing in celebration of Agni, blazing as fire, pure and potent power and presence of nature and humanity, yajaka, creator and giver, most enlightened and blissful among people, worthy of song and celebration in yajnic projects. Celebrate Agni like Atri, man of vast knowledge and freedom from suffering.

न्य॑ग्निं जा॒तव॑दसं दधा॒ता द॒वमृ॑त्विज॑म् ।

2. *Nyagnim jātavedasam dadhātā devamṛtvijam.
Pra yajña etvānuṣagadyā devavyacastamaḥ.*

Hold on to Agni, meditate, worship the power omnipresent in things born, generous Divinity, cosmic yajaka in seasons of time, holiest friend and companion, haven and home of divinities such as earth and heaven, and ultimately the power that winds up the cosmic game. May that Power and Presence, most intimate, reveal Itself in the heart, the friend, the Self.

3. Cikitvinmanasam tvā devaṁ martāsa ūtaye.
Vareṇyasya te'vasa iyānāso amanmahi.

Agni, refulgent lord of life and giver of light, we mortals, approaching the generous lord of supreme intelligence worthy of choice for protection and enlightenment, meditate on your presence and pray for the favour of your grace.

अग्र चिकिद्ध्यस्य न इदं वचः सहस्य । तं त्वा सुशिप

2. Tamagne pṛtanāṣaḥaṁ rayiṁ sahasva ā bhara.
Tvaṁ hi satyo adbhuto dātā vājasya gomataḥ.

Agni, commander of valour and power, forbearing, challenging and victorious, bring us that overwhelming wealth of fighting force and stability which may face and overthrow the opposing forces of the enemy. You are the pillar of truth indispensable, wonderful, generous giver of food, energy and endurance, wonderful and in possession of cows, lands and the right language of communication.

Agni, you are the home and shelter of the world. Pure and purifier, you create and give the food for life and energy, wealth and honour. Give us the food, energy and light of life. Come and pervade this home as the very spirit and security.

3. Sa no bodhi śrudhī havamuruṣyā ṇo aghāyataḥ samasmāt.

Such is Agni. May the lord awaken us, listen, enlighten us. Hear our prayer, save us from all sin. We want no sin. We love no sin and evil.

तं त्वा शाचिष्ठ दीदिवः सुम्नाय नूनमीमह सखिभ्यः ॥ ४ ॥

4. Tam tvā śociṣṭha dīdivaḥ sumnāya nūnamīmahe sakhibhyaḥ.

Lord most pure and purifying, light of illumination, with all our friends, for sure, we pray to you for peace and life's well being.

Mandala 5/Sukta 25

Agni Devata, Vasuyavah Atreya Rshis

अच्छा वा अग्निमवस दवं गांसि स न वासुः ।

1. Acchā vo agnimavase devaṁ gāsi sa no vasuḥ. Rāsat putra ṛṣūṇāmṛtāvā parṣati dviṣaḥ.

Sing well of Agni, light of Divinity, with enthusiasm, for your protection and progress. He, spirit of truth and rectitude, who inspires the sages with the light of truth and life's stability may, we pray, give us wealth and stability. Agni is a saviour as a son is, overcomes hate and enmity and takes us across the seas of life.

That alone is true, unquestionable and inviolable whom the seniors and brilliant sages kindle and install on the vedi, the leader and ruler, liberal giver and host of yajna, sweet and serious of tongue and commander of wealth and splendour by virtue of his innate light and flames of holy fire.

(Swami Dayananda applies this mantra to the choice and investiture of a ruler.)

स ना धीती वरिष्ठया श्रष्ठया च सुमत्या ।

4. *Agnirdeveṣu rājatyagnir-marteṣvāvīsan.
Agnirno havyavāhano'gnim dhībhiḥ saparyata.*

Agni, life of life, light of existence, revealing intelligence, natural energy, leading light, pervades, energises, inspires, shines, illuminates and enlightens as it is present in divinities such as earth, and nobilities such as scholars and sages, and vibrates in all mortals.

O scholars and sages, serve, pursue, and develop Agni with the best of your intelligence and understanding.

5. *Agnis-tuviśravastamaṁ tuvibrahmāṇamuttamam.
Atūrtam śrāvayatpatiṁ putraṁ dadāti dāśuṣe.*

Agni, generous light of yajna, gives to a liberal yajaka and man of charity progeny fond of study and listening, abundant in food and wealth, widely read in sacred lore, most virtuous and invincible, who brings honour and glory to the parents.

अ॒ग्निर्द॑दाति स॒त्पतिं॑ स॒साह॒ या यु॒धा नृ॒भिः ।

6. *Agnirdadāti satpatiṁ sāsāha yo yudhā nṛbhiḥ.
Agniratyam raghuṣyadam jetāramaparājitam.*

Agni, lord of light and ruler, gives us a leader, ruler, and progeny who protects and supports the good, who fights and wins over evil with arms and forces, and to this invincible victor he gives transport and communications of fastest efficiency.

यद्वाहि॑ष्ठं तद॒ग्नय॑ बृ॒हद॑च वि॒भावसा॑ ।

7. *Yad vāhiṣṭham tadagnaye bṛhadarca vibhāvaso.
Mahiṣīva tvad rayistvad vājā udīrate.*

The fastest transport, fastest communication, lightning adoration is for Agni, lord of light and power. Shine high and wide and intense, blazing power, and as all greatness and grandeur flows from you, so do all wealth, all energy and all victories flow from you.

तव द्युमन्ता अचया गार्वाच्यत बृहत ।

8. Tava dyumanto arcayo grāvevocyate bṛhat.
Uto te tanyaturyathā svāno arta tmanā divaḥ.

Blazing are your flames of fire, radiant your rays of light. Your identity is proclaimed like rumble of the cloud, and your voice like thunder and lightning radiates from heavens by itself.

1. Agne pāvaka rociṣā mandrayā deva jihvayā.
Ā devān vakṣi yakṣi ca.

Agni, light of Divinity, fire of life, generous and brilliant giver of knowledge and enlightenment, with a sweet and lustrous tongue, bright and blissful, you bear and bring the divinities of nature and nobilities of humanity to the vedi and serve them from here with light and energy.

तं त्वा घृतस्त्रवीमह चित्रभाना स्वद्दृशम ।

O man, honour and serve Agni with offers of fragrant havi in creative and developmental programmes of love and non-violence in humanity. Select, elect and serve the light and fire of life, receiver of our oblations and giver of the gifts of life and nature.

(Swami Dayananda interprets Agni as the fire of yajna, as the scholar and teacher who gives knowledge, and as the ruler who receives, creates and distributes the wealth in the social order of humanity with love and without violence.)

Mandala 5/Sukta 29

Indra, Indra Ushana Devata, Gauriviti Shaktya Rshi

त्र्यय॒मा मनु॑षा द॒वता॑ता॒ त्री रा॑च॒ना दि॒व्या धा॑रयन्त । अच॑न्ति
त्वा म॒रुतः॑ पू॒तद॑ ऽस्त्वम॑षा॒मृषि॑रिन्दासि॒ धीरः॑ ॥ १ ॥

1. Tryaryamā manuṣo devatātā trī rocanā divyā dhārayanta. Arcanti tvā marutaḥ pūtaḥ śāstvam aṣīr-indrāsi dhīraḥ.

Indra, lord of power and ruling power of the world, in the holy yajna of the social order, its governance and administration, those heroes of the speed of winds honour and serve you whose strength and expertise is pure and sanctified : men of judgement and discretion who are thrice blest with full knowledge, noble action and devotion to Divinity; men of brilliance who are self-established with health of body, mind and soul, familial joy and social commitment; and men who enjoy the favour and grace of Divinity. Indra, you are their seer, philosopher and guide, imperturbable, inviolable and unchallengeable.

2. Anu yadīm maruto mandasānamārcannindram papivāṁsaṁ sutasya. Ādatta vajramabhi yadahim hannapo yahvīrasrjat sarvatā u.

With dedication and loyalty, when the Maruts, supportive heroes of the social order, serve and honour Indra, the ruler, happy and honourable, ruling and enjoying the state entrusted to him, then, just as the sun with thunder and lightning breaks up the clouds and releases the showers and mighty streams aflow, he too takes over the thunderbolt of law and power and, striking the serpentine demons of darkness and evil, sets the mighty streams of national energy to flow in showers and creative streams.

उ॒त ब॒ह्म॒णा मरु॒ता म अ॒स्य॒न्दुः सा॒म॒स्य॒ सु॒षु॒तस्य॒ प॒याः ।
तद्धि॒ ह॒व्यं म॒नु॒ष गा अ॒वि॒न्द॒द॒ह॒ इहिं॑ प॒पि॒वाँ इ॒न्द्रा॑ अ॒स्य ॥ ३ ॥

3. Uta brahmāṇo maruto me asyendraḥ somasya suṣutasya peyāḥ. Taddhi havyam manuṣe gā avindad-ahann-ahim papivāñ indro asya.

And may the Maruts, heroes of the winds, dedicated to Brahma and the Vedas and the ruling lord Indra, now drink of this soma of national honour and glory so well distilled by me. That honour and glory alone, dedicated to Divinity in yajna, for man can win cows and lands and holy wisdom, of which Indra alone is the guardian, having destroyed the forces of evil.

4. Ād rodasī vitaram vi ṣkabhāyat saṁvivyānaścīd bhiyase mṛgam kaḥ. Jigartim-indro apajargurāṇaḥ prati śvasantamava dānavam han.

And then Indra holds and firms up the earth and heaven separate and yet together pervading both with his presence and power just like separating a fear-stricken deer and a devouring tiger by the power of his presence and holding off the demon tiger snorting fiercely.

(Compare the laws of gravitation separating and holding together in firm relationship two heavenly bodies according to their mass and distance under the presiding presence of the force of natural omnipotence.)

5. Adha kratvā maghavan tubhyam devā anu viśve adaduh somapeyam. Yat sūryasya haritaḥ patantīḥ purāḥ satīruparā etaśch kaḥ.

And further, O lord of honour and power of omnipotence, all the divinities of nature and humanity offer you the drink of soma in response to your yajnic action of systemic integration and sustenance when the various rays of the sun radiating forward all round and nourishing life stop on the planet on your behest (to feed life and drink up the sweet juices of soma).

6. Nava yadasya navatiṃ ca bhogāntsākam vajreṇa maghavā vivṛścat. Arcantīndram marutaḥ sadhasthe traiṣṭubhena vacasā bādhata dyām.

When Indra with thunder and lightning destroys ninety-nine serpentine strongholds of evil and darkness obstructing the light of Divinity in this world, then the Maruts, guardian forces of humanity on earth, honour and adore the omnipotent lord with trishtubha hymns of celebration.

7. Sakhā sakhye apacat tūyamagnirasya kratvā mahiṣā trī śatāni. Trī sākamindro manuṣaḥ sarāṁsi sutaṁ pibad bṛtrahatyāya somam.

Agni, a friend, for a friend, Indra, alongwith Indra and the holy action of Indra, the sun, in this world soon ripens the sap in three hundred fields and forests of man, and then Indra, great and generous, drinks up the soma in order to break the clouds of rain and let the rivers flow to fill three great lakes in three worlds of heaven, earth and sky.

8. Trī yacchatā mahiṣāṇāmagho māstrī sarāṁsi maghavā somyāpāḥ. Kāraṁ na viśve ahvanta devā bharamindrāya yadahin jaghāna.

Indra, inviolable lord, commanding honour, power and excellence, when you ripen and mature three hundred great fields and forests and create and protect three great lakes of soma, all the divinities of the world invoke Indra like a great hero and offer homage since he breaks the cloud of serpentine hoards of showers.

9. Uśanā yat sahasyairayātāṃ gr̥hamindra jūjuvānebhiraśvaiḥ. Vanvāno atra saratham yayātha kutsena devairavanorha śuṣṇam.

Indra, glorious ruler, when the man of light and passion and you both come home by chariot driven by swift and robust horses, then, again with love and desire for victory, pray go with the thunderbolt and the best of the brilliancies and defend the strength and honour of the nation.

Extend the orbit of enlightenment for the thunderbolt. Clear the paths and areas for development, peace and freedom of movement. Eliminate the shameless, the wicked and the thieves with punishment, and stop the entry of the malicious, throw them in jail.

11. *Stomāsastvā gaurivīteravardhannarandhayo

May the eulogies of the poetic lovers of song and their singers exalt you. Punish the man who exalts and raises the warring forces against you. Let the men of simple honest mind be keen to make friends with you. Maturing and completing the plans and programmes of the state, celebrate and enjoy the honour and splendour of the order.

12. *Navagvāsaḥ sutasomāsa indram daśagvāso

Men of new ideas treading new paths of knowledge and polity, men of controlled mind and senses, celebrants ready with distilled exhilarating soma, adore Indra with songs and presentations of homage and, celebrating him, the dedicated admirers, best of men and leaders, extol him revealing his vast but hidden virtues of divine knowledge.

13. *Katho nu te pari carāṇi vidvān vīryā maghavan

Indra, ruler of the world, mightiest hero commanding wealth, power, honour and excellence, sage and scholar, how shall we, in yajnic assemblies of the nation, fully describe, sing and celebrate your achievements and your potential, the exploits that you have done and those new ones you are sure to achieve henceforth ?

14. *Etā viśvā cakṛvāñ indra bhūryaparīto januṣā

All these many exploits of the world [from creation and sustenance to organisation, organisational elimination included], Indra, ruler and lord of power and excellence, which you have done and which you would do, unresisted and irresistible, by nature and nurture, by vigour and valour, O wielder of the thunderbolt, bold and terrific, no one can comprehend. There is none who can obstruct, hold or surpass those overwhelming powers and forces of yours.

15. *Indra brahma kriyamāṇā juṣasva yā te śaviṣṭha

Indra, the holy chant and homage of gifts, newest and latest, being offered, graciously accept and cherish, which, for you, O lord most powerful, we have created. Like a beautiful dress of thought and devotion, I, a sincere artist in pursuit of life's wealth and peace and a steadfast and skilful maker, have designed and created the song like a chariot.

Mandala 5/Sukta 30Indra, Indra and Rnanchaya Devata, Babhru Atreya Rshi

1. Kva sya vīraḥ ko apaśyadindram sukharathamīyamānaṁ haribhyām. Yo rāyā vajrī sutaso-mamicchan tadoko gantā puruhūta ūtī.

Where is that thunderous catalytic power? Who saw that Indra, harbinger of peace and comfort travelling like a pleasing chariot along the waves of attraction and repulsion which, laden with wealth and wielding the force of thunder moves on and, invoked and invited by many for protection and promotion, goes to the house of the host with desire for the taste of life's pleasure?

2. Avācacakṣaṁ padamasya sasvarugam nidhāturanvāyamicchan. Aprcchamanyāñ uta te māhurindram nara bubudhānā aśema.

With the desire to pursue and achieve success, I have discovered and described the science of this mighty source of immanent energy. Let me consult and ask others too who would speak of Indra, the energy, to me. And the best of men and leading scholars among men, enlightened all, we would realise and achieve it in full.

3. *Pra nu vayan̄ sute yā te kṛtānīdra bravāma yāni

The knowledge acquired and energy created in practice, O scholar, Indra, let us speak of and proclaim your achievements which you share with us. Let those who don't know hear and know of it too. This scholar who bears the knowledge and power is the mighty possessor of honour and excellence, and he commands all the power and the forces.

4. *Sthiram̄ manaścakṛṣe jāta indra veṣīdeko yudhaye

Indra, commander of light, knowledge and power, rising, you firm and resolve the mind to stability and constancy. In battle, you alone, by yourself, overcome many. You illuminate the cloud and the firmament and break the mountain with your power and force, and you recover and reveal the vastness of earth, the sun rays, the wisdom of knowledge and the ocean fire enshrined in words.

5. *Paro yat tvaṁ parama ājaniṣṭhāḥ parāvati

When you, highest and best power, arise and manifest, bearing great name and high renown in far off regions, and win over and release the waters concealed in the cloud, since then all the forces of nature accept the power of Indra and obey the divine law.

6. Tubhyedete marutaḥ suśevā arcantyarkaṁ sunvantyandhaḥ. Ahimohānamapa āśayānam pra māyābhir māyinaṁ sakṣadindraḥ.

Vibrant heroes and these yajakas in obedient service offer you songs of adoration, prepare the food and distil the soma for you, Indra. And with his wondrous forces, Indra engages the crafty cloud holding the waters by his deceptive wiles and sleeping like a giant in apparent security.

7. Vi ṣū mṛdho januṣā dānaminvannahan gavā maghavantsamcakānaḥ. Atrā dāsasya namuceḥ śiro yadavartayo manave gātumicchan.

Indra, commander of honour and valour, ruling lord of excellence, from your very emergence thirsting for battle, breaking the cloud with the roar of thunder and lightning, energising and winning prizes for humanity with the desire to make way for progress, you arise here and now and break the stronghold of the dark cloud locking up the waters of rain showers.

Make me your friend and instrument since you break the top of the cloud, replete with vapours but resistant to release the rain, hold the firmament wheeling, circling and resounding, and divide space into earth and heaven and make them turn round and round like wheels for the winds to blow in the firmament and the humans to live on the earth.

9. *Striyo hi dāsa āyudhāni cakre kiṁ mā karanna-

Dasa, enemy of an inferior order, uses women as secret weapons and warriors. But what can these poor forces do against me (in violation of my discretion]. Let the ruler, Indra, see deep into both the language and warriors [of this enemy, the open policy and the secret tactics), and then advance upon the slavish enemy to engage him in battle.

10. Samatra gāvo'bhito'navanteheha vatsairviyutā yadāsan. Saṁ tā indro asṛjadasya śākairyaḍīm somāsaḥ suṣutā amandan.

If the cows exult in unison with calves everywhere, if the sunrays play together on the herbs, if the lands smile with greenery and the earth rejoices with her children, and then, suppose the cows were separated from the calves, the rays of the sun were intercepted from the herbs, the lands were locked off from greenery, the earth were bereft of her children, then must Indra, brilliant ruler of the earth and the skies, should join the mothers and children with his might so that the soma drinks distilled may gladden him and his ruling order.

11. Yadīm somā babhrudhūtā amandannaroravīd vṛṣabhaḥ sādaneṣu. Purandaraḥ papivāñ indro asya punargavāmadadādusriyāṇām.

When the somas, honours and pleasures of the earth, created, distilled and energised by the sagely scholars and people of yajnic creativity, exhilarate Indra, the ruler and his order, then the generous and valorous lord roars in the assemblies and in the homesteads and he, breaker of the enemy strongholds, having drunk of the honour and glory of the nation, again gives to the nation fertile lands, cows, open sunlight and words of holy speech.

Agni, refulgent ruler, it is a great blessing of Indra, the sun, giver of four thousand rays of light, wealth of existence, and destroyers of negativities, which he collects from nature, and gives us. He is the best leader and guide of humanity, and with gratitude and best efforts we should acknowledge and benefit from these gifts of energy and power.

Agni, refulgent ruler, brilliant forces, destroyers of evil and darkness, create and give me a beautiful home with a thousand bright rays of light, and at the end of the departing night in the light of the dawn, blazing fires bear distilled soma oblations and rise to Indra, the sun, and give him delight.

When the fugitive night of rest and peace in the home departs, having made up the want of light at the rise of dawn, blest and beautiful, collecting and bearing nature's gifts, then babhru, the crimson sun, sustainer of life, moving like a flying horse at instant speed, showers four thousand gifts of energy and intelligence and the creative yajaka receives and shares the gifts on and from the vedi.

Agni, O self-refulgent light of life, glorious ruler of the world, let us receive and share four thousand gifts of the wealth of light, energy and intelligence present in the lights of the dawn, and let us, O friends of knowledge, vibrant scholars, receive and share that golden wealth and heat of life which is tempered and refined in the pravargya yajna of self sacrifice and surrender.

Indra, lord of honour and excellence, commander of power and forces, accelerates whichever supersonic chariot he rides and inspires whichever region he rules for a great leap forward to the heights. All round protector and pioneer, like a shepherd who leads and drives his flock and followers forward, he gives the clarion call, gathers his forces with the desire to advance and win, and goes fast forward, unhurt and unobstructed, first and foremost leader and pioneer thirsting to realise his ambition.

Indra, commander of horse and speed of progress, giver of golden wealth, advance all round, be not lustful, be with us and share the honours. There is none better settled, successful and prosperous than you. Look after the unmarried, widows and widowers, help them to have a meaningful life.

When strength and virility is born and matures with the growth of health and vitality, then let Indra, the disciplined soul, control and command all the senses, mind and intellect, awaken and exercise the creative potentials innate but yet dormant within, and with inner light of the soul keep off the resurgent darkness.

4. Anavaste rathamaśvāya takṣan tvaṣṭā vajraṁ puruhūta dyumantam. Brahmāṇa indraṁ mahayanto arkairavardhayannahaye hantavā u.

Indra, mighty ruler, expert craftsmen design and make the chariot for your fast movement and communication, the defence scientist and engineer, Tvashta, makes the blazing thunderbolt for you, and the scholars of the Veda celebrate your power and glory with hymns of adoration and exalt you to break the demonic cloud of darkness and want for showers of rain and prosperity.

5. Vṛṣṇe yat te vṛṣaṇo arkamarcānindra grāvāṇo aditiḥ sajoṣāḥ. Anaśvāso ye pavayo'rathā indreṣitā abhyavartanta dasyūn.

Indra, ruler of honour and excellence, when the brave warriors and noble citizens offer songs of adoration to you, then, O generous lord, the clouds and the sky in unison with them and with you and those dynamic powers even without horse and chariot, inspired by your power and grace, surround the wicked and destroy them.

6. Pra te pūrvāṇi karaṇāni vocaṁ pra nūtanā maghavan yā cakartha. Śathīvo yad vibharā rodasī ubhe jayannapo manave dānucitrāḥ.

Indra, lord of wealth, honour and excellence, commanding force and power, let me speak to you of the acts and instruments old and new which you have achieved and which you would achieve, which scholars and scientists, having immense knowledge and bearing immense possibilities of gifts for mankind, exploring both earth and the skies, would make it possible for you to win waters from the clouds and pranic energies from air.

That is your act, achievement and further possibility, generous ruler of the world, giver of gifts, and eminent scholar, since you break the clouds, destroy the serpentine demons of darkness, create prosperity and excellence for mankind here on earth, and, mastering the wondrous knowledge of the secrets of energy and techniques of power, you stall the negativities, make the waters flow and achieve further progress.

8. Tvamapo yadave turvaśāyā'ramayaḥ sudughāḥ pāra indra. Ugramayātamavaho ha kutsaṁ saṁ ha yad vāmuśanāranta devāḥ.

Indra, ruler of the world, giver of honour and glory, pioneer and helmsman of the people, you make the abundant waters flow for Yadu and Turvasha, men of management, production and control, you achieve the rare and difficult energy of electricity powerful as thunderbolt, and then the brilliant people, lovers of life and humanity all, enthusiastically admire and celebrate both you and your thunderous achievement.

9. Indrākutsā vahamānā rathenā''vāmatyā api karṇe vahantu. Niḥ śīmadbhyo dhamatho niḥ śadhashthānmaghono hr̥do varathastamāṁsi.

Indra, ruler of the world, and Kutsa, creator and controller of energy and the force of power, both travelling by chariot, let the running horse powers of energy at instant speed transport you both to the centre of life's business. Both energy and power arise from the currents of waters and waves (as of sunrays), and both of you control and complete the projects from your seat of office and residence, wherefrom you dispel the darkness and want from the centre of their power and prosperity.

Let this scholar of creative vision working for defence and protection, take to, explore and advance the forceful currents of winds employed as effective agents of travel and transport. All your scholars, friends and forces here, O powerful ruler, at the speed of winds increase and advance the power, prosperity and defence potential of the land.

Let the brave and brilliant pilot of the chariot first steady the chariot in the initial motion in the night and then take off rising to the clouds. The craft bearing its gears and stages of motion presses forward, conducting our project onward perfectly as intended.

O citizens of the land, this Indra, the ruling lord, has come to the yajna vedi to see his friends and all with the desire to observe and enjoy the finest achievements of the nation. The scholars too proclaiming their achievements are brought to the vedi where learned priests dedicated to the yajna of love and non-violence conduct and manage the programme and its progress.

O lord of immortality, Indra, those who love truth, knowledge and peaceful progress for themselves and others may abide loving and self sacrificing. May the mortals never come to suffer evil, never commit sin and crime. Bond with the yajakas who are committed to truth and holy action, vest them with honour and splendour, and bless us that we too, your own, be among them.

Mandala 5/Sukta 32

Indra Devata, Gatū Atreya Rshi

अ॒द॒द॒रु॒त्स॒म॒सृ॒जा॒ वि॒ खा॒नि॒ त्वम॑ण॒वान्ब॒द्धा॒नाँ अ॒र॒म॒णाः ।

1. Ādardarutsam-asrjo vi khāni tvamarṇavān bad-badhānān aramṇāḥ. Mahāntamindra parvatam vi yad vaḥ srjo vi dhārā ava dānavam han.

Indra, maker and breaker of things, you break open the springs, open the doors, let the streams aflow, and free the bonded to live free and enjoy, you who break the cloud and the mountain, let out the streams to flow into rivers and the sea, having destroyed the demons and broken the cloud.

2. Tvamutsān ṛtubhirbadbadhānān aramha ūdhaḥ parvatasya vajrin. Ahim cidugra prayutaṁ śayānam jaghanvān indra taviṣīm-adhatthāḥ.

Indra, lord of the thunderbolt, you let the locked up springs of water flow like milky streams of the cloud down the mountain slopes according to the seasons. O ruling lord of light and lustre, breaker of the serpentine cloud of darkness, take up and command the blazing forces for action.

त्यस्य चिन्महता निमृगस्य वधजघान तविषीभिरिन्द्रः ।

3. Tyasya cinmahato nirmṛgasya vadharjaghāna taviṣībhir-indraḥ. Ya eka idapratirmanyamāna ādasmādanyo ajaniṣṭa tavyān.

Indra, the ruling lord, alone by himself, unequalled and universally acknowledged and adored, destroys the might of that great formidable demon of darkness and negativities with his blazing powers and actions like the sun breaking the cloud, and then he creates other powers greater than demonic negativities.

त्यं चिदेषां स्वधया मदन्तं मिहा नपातं सुवृधं तमागाम ।

4. Tyaṁ cideṣāṁ svadhayā madantaṁ miho napātaṁ suvṛdhaṁ tamogām. Vṛṣaprabharmā dānavasya bhāmaṁ vajreṇa vajrī ni jaghāna śuṣṇam.

That demon of darkness and negativity whose might is only the drought, locking up the rains and consuming and thriving on the food and morale of these people of the earth, growing and growing and roaming around in the prevailing darkness and want is strong: yet the might and rage of that demon, shushna, drought and famine, Indra, wielder of the thunderbolt, destroys with his lightning strike and rises as lord victor of the clouds and rain showers.

5. Tyaṁ cidasya kratubhir-niṣattam-amarmaṇo vidadidasya marma. Yadīṁ sukṣatra prabhṛtā madasya yuyutsantaṁ tamasi harmye dhāḥ.

O noble lord of the mighty social order, Indra, with your actions and intelligence you know and expose the hidden weakness of this otherwise incomprehensible demon thirsting for fight, and, happy and elated in the hope and thrill of victory, you shut him up in the depths of darkness.

त्यं चिदि॒त्था क॑त्प॒यं श॒यान॑म॒सूय॑ तम॒सि वावृ॑धान॒म ।

6. Tyaṁ ciditthā katpayam śayānam-asūrye tamasi vāvṛdhānam. Taṁ cinmandāno vṛṣabhaḥ sutasyo-ccair-indro apagūryā jaghāna.

That demon of drought and negativity thus lying and sleeping in sunless darkness with some vapours of water but still growing, Indra, ruler of the social order, great and generous, exhilarated by the hope and joy of victory and raising his thunderbolt breaks, and destroys that demon.

उद्यदि॑न्दा॒ मह॑त दान॒वाय॑ वध॒यमिष्ट॑ सहा॒ अप॑ती॒तम॑ ।

7. Ud yadindro mahate dānavāya vadharyamiṣṭa saho apritītam. Yadīm vajrasya prabhṛtau dadābha viśvasya jantoradhamam cakāra.

And when Indra raises the thunderbolt of justice and punishment against the great demon of wickedness, in favour of the great and generous man of charity, and thus displays his mysterious force and power, and at the raising of the bolt he punishes the wicked, he reduces them to the lowest state of living beings.

त्यं चि॒दर्ण॑ मधु॒पं श॒यान॑म॒सिन्वं॑ व॒वं म॒ह्याद॑दु॒गः ।

8. Tyaṁ cidarṇam madhupam śayānam-asinvaṁ vavraṁ mahyādadugraḥ. Apādamatraṁ mahatā vadhena ni duryoṇa āvṛṇaṁ mṛdhra-vācam.

For sure that flood of water, honey sweet, dormant, unbounded, cavernous, floating, expansive and roaring, the blazing sun, Indra, seizes with a great blow of electric charge of thunderbolt and breaks it in its own place.

9. Ko asya śuṣmaṁ taviṣīm varāta eko dhanā bharate apratītaḥ. Ime cidasya jrayaso nu devī indrasya ujaso bhiyasā jihāte.

Who can comprehend and hold his force and blaze? The One alone by himself bears all the wealths though unseen. And these two divine creations, heaven and earth, move by the awful force and blazing splendour of this mighty Indra.

न्यस्म द्दवी स्वधितिजिहीत इन्द्राय गातुरुशतीव यम ।

10. Nyasmai devī svadhitirjihīta indrāya gāturuśatīva yeme. Saṁ yadojo yuvate viśvamābhiranu svadhāvne kṣitayo namanta.

To this Indra, cosmic energy and the earth, both divine, submit in love and obedience like a maiden in love submitting herself to her lover. When Indra radiates the cosmic splendour and power with these natural phenomena, then the entire humanity and all stars and planets do homage to the divine and self-refulgent omnipotence of Indra with these acts of obedience to the law.

11. Ekam nu tvā saptatiṁ pāñcājanyam jātaṁ śṛṇomi yaśasaṁ janeṣu. Taṁ me jagṛbhra āśaso naviṣṭhaṁ doṣā vastorhavamānāsa indram.

I hear you, feel your vibrations manifested among the people: One and only one self-existent and self-refulgent lord and protector in truth, guardian of all the five people, commanding divine excellence and majesty. I hope and pray that my people, hoping and loving, self sacrificing day and night, may attain to the latest manifestations of Indra and his newest gifts of excellence.

12. Evā hi tvāmṛtuthā yātayantaṁ maghā viprebhyo dadataṁ śṛṇomi. kiṁ te brahamāṇo Gṛhate sakhāyo ye tvāyā nidadhuḥ kāmamindra.

Indra, ruling lord of the world, thus do I hear of you, I feel the vibrations, inspiring life according to the seasons, bestowing wealth and honour on noble scholars, what the sages dedicated to divine knowledge receive and what desires and ambitions with prayers they place in you.

Mandala 5/Sukta 33*Indra Devata, Samvarana Prajapatya Rshiमहिं मह तवस दीध्य नृनिन्दायत्था तवस अतव्यान ।*या अस्म सुमतिं वाजसाता स्तुता जन समयश्चिकत ॥ १ ॥

1. Mahi mahe tavase dīdhye nṛnindrāyetthā tavase atavyān. Yo asmai sumatiṁ vājasātau stuto jane samaryaściketa.

For the sake of great strength and power, let me thus focus on the people who are not too strong and draw the attention of this mighty ruler, Indra, who, honoured and admired among people, is keen to fight for progress and, in the struggle onward, enlightens our mind and directs our efforts on the right path.

2. Sa tvaṁ na indra dhiyasāno arkairharīṇāṁ vṛṣan yoktramaśreḥ. Yā itthā maghavannanu joṣaṁ vakṣo abhi prāryaḥ sakṣi janān.

And you Indra, master and ruler of the nation, commanding power and prosperity, generous as showers of rain, thus addressed with reverence and listening to our prayer, take up the reins of the people, be with them and harness their energy, and with love and faith pursue the noble policies for advancement to completion.

3. Na te ta indrābhyasmadṛṣvā'yuktāso abrahmatā yadasan. Tiṣṭhā rathamadhi taṁ vajrahastā'' raśmiṁ deva yamase svaśvaḥ.

Indra, mighty lord, refulgent and generous, those who are not with us and are not for you are disjoined from reality. It is their ignorance and impiety toward the motherland. O lord of the force of thunder in hand, ride the chariot, take up the reins, equipped as you are with excellent forces for advancement. Guide and lead.

4. Purū yat ta indra santyukthā gave cakarthorvarāsu yudhyan. Tatakṣe sūryāya cidokasi sve vṛṣā samatsu dāsasya nāma cit.

Many are your acts of generosity, Indra, which you have done for the land and cattle wealth and for fertility of the fields, O generous lord, and while fighting in the battles of life in your own seat, you create the light of life like the sun and earn for yourself the name and fame of the abundant cloud of showers.

Indra, lord illustrious breaker of the dark cloud of might, we are yours, and these leaders creating and forming power and force, the chariots that go round for transport, all these are yours. Come, O lord, and bless us with all your imperishable power, come like power and splendour incarnate, most welcome among the cherished ones.

Incomprehensible is the splendour in you, Indra, lord of glory, all the wealths of humanity abide in you, yours is the ongoing dance of creation, yours is immortality. Universal abode of existence, give us the pure wealth of life, wealth that is possible. You are the lord and master commanding immense wealth, honour and power. I praise, admire and pray for your grace and generosity.

Thus O lord brave and fearless, Indra, protect us, the celebrants, poets, makers and artists, teachers and preachers with all modes of safety and security. And giving us the glowing corselet of self defence in the battle business of life, enjoy the beauty and sweetness of life created, distilled and offered by the admirers and worshippers.

And may those ten horses (ten senses of perception and volition or five senses of perception and five pranic energies) of the child of the wielder of the thunderbolt, wise and bold, terror of the wicked, lord of golden wealth, abiding on the heights carry me on in life. Playful yet stable are they, gifts of the bountiful, and with holiness of words and actions I abide with them, (and enjoy the beauty and sweetness of life).

And may those vibrating gifts of the lord, who commands the winds as a charioteer drives and controls the horses, red hot in action, vested with holy perception and action, help me in the abundant creative yajna of the social order, so that the Lord and Master, inspiring me and giving me grace a thousand ways, may love and accept me like an ornament for the body.

May the living voices of Vedic mantras and wealths of existence with all their grandeur of meaning and value, coexistent with the lord of original Word, loved by the scholar of holy intention and purpose, divined and envisioned in right selection of words by the Rshis, all dynamic and relevant by moving forward to modern contexts come to me like cows going to their stalls.

Mandala 5/Sukta 34

Indra Devata, Samvarana Prajapatya Rshi

अजातशत्रुमजरा स्ववत्यनु स्वधामिता दस्ममीयत ।

सुनातन पचत ब्रह्मवाहस पुरुष्टुताय पतरं दधातन ॥ १ ॥

1. Ajātaśatrumajarā svarvatyanu svadhāmitā dasmamīyate. Sunotana pacata brahmavāhase puruṣṭutāya prataraṁ dadhātana.

The lady of light and joy, grace unbound, unaging power, divine Shakti, as the human offering too, in yajna, follows the lord omnificient, Indra, omnipotent, free from enemies ever born. Sow the seed of piety, distil the soma, mature it for the lord creator, giver and receiver of food, energy and eternal wisdom, universally adored and worshipped, and bear and offer the fragrance that will take you across the seas of existence.

2. Ā yaḥ somena jatharamapipratā'mandata maghavā madhvo andhasaḥ. Yādīm mṛgāya hantave mahāvadhah sahasrabhrṣṭimuśanā vadhaṁ yamat.

He, lord of wealth, honour and power, who satisfies his hunger with soma and exults in honey sweets of food offered, and who, wielding the mighty thunderbolt of justice and punishment, out of love for life and the people raises his bolt of a thousand potentials to punish and destroy the wild beast of violence and ferocity: that is Indra, that is the ruler.

या अस्म घ्नंस उत वा य ऊधनि सामं सुनाति भवति द्युमाँ

3. Yo asmai ghraṁsa uta vā ya ūdhani somam sunoti bhavati dyumāñ aha. Apāpa śakras-tatanuṣṭim-ūhati tanūśubhram maghavā yaḥ kavāsakhaḥ.

He who creates soma day and night and offers it to this lord Indra surely rises to heights of brilliance in knowledge, power and honour. But Indra, the lord commanding wealth, power, honour and excellence, disowns and throws off that man far and farther from himself who lives and works only for self-decoration and self-exhibition and associates with the selfish, miserly and wholly acquisitive.

4. Yasyāvadhīt pitaram yasya mātaram yasya śakro bhrātaram nāta īṣate. Vetiḍvasya prayatā yataṁ-karo na kilviṣādīṣate vasva ākaraḥ.

If the powerful ruler punishes somebody's father or mother or brother, he does not for that reason forsake that person, nor does he go back on his decision. Indeed he expects and accepts the homage of the man since he loves effort and endeavour, and he is the shelter of all and a treasure of wealth. He does not fly away from sin and guilt, he faces it and fixes it.

5. Na pañcabhir-daśabhir-vaṣṭyārabham nāsunvatā sacate puṣyatā cana. Jināti vedamuyā hanti vā dhunirā devayum bhajati gomati vraje.

He does not wish to begin anything with the five senses and ten pranic energies in association with a selfish, slothful, unyajnic person even though he were otherwise thriving. In this manner he defeats and punishes the lazy and the selfish. But a terror as he is to the wicked, he loves and serves the pious and learned person in the place where cows roam around and the place resounds with chant of the sacred Word.

6. Vitvakṣṇaḥ samṛtau cakramāsaḥ saṁsunvato viṣuṇaḥ sunvato vṛdhaḥ. Indro viśvasya damitā vibhīṣaṇo yathavaśaṁ nayati dāsamāryaḥ.

Brave in the battle of life, Indra destroys suffering and rides the wheel of time and cycle of the seasons. Averse to the selfish and uncreative, he helps and raises the creative men of yajna so that life may grow higher and better. Self-controlled and awe-inspiring, Indra is the ruler and ordainer of the world, a power, dynamic, ever modern and progressive, who controls the services of the nation according to the force and pressure needed on time.

7. Samīm paṇer-ajati bhojanam muṣe vi dāśuṣe bhajati sūnaram vasu. Durge cana dhriyate viśva ā puru jano yo asya taviṣṭmacukrudhat.

For sure he augments the food and comfort of the celebrant but takes away the grains of the thief, and for the charitable he gives wealth good for people. And into dungeon darkness are thrown all those people who challenge his blazing power and provoke his indignation.

8. Sam yajjanau sudhanau viśvaśardhasāvavedindro maghavā goṣu śubhriṣu. Yujaṁ hyanyamakṛta pravepa nyudīṁ gavyam sṛjate satvabhir-dhuniḥ.

If Indra, lord of honour and excellence, terror of the enemies and inspirer of the people by virtues of his nature and character, were to come across and select two men possessed of honest wealth and all round strength and courage from among the brilliant people over the reputed and spotless regions of the land, he would appoint one as his assistant, and the other for economic management providing for abundant water and wealth of cows and food products.

9. Sahasrasāmāgniveśim grṇīṣe śatrimagna upamām ketumaryaḥ. Tasmā āpaḥ saṁyataḥ pīpayanta tasmin kṣatram-amavat tveṣamastu.

Agni, refulgent ruler, you adore Indra, giver of a thousand gifts of fire and electric energy, powerful, self-evident mark of honour and grandeur. Such as you are, I pray, like rivers flowing in bounds to the sea, may the disciplined people be dedicated to you and may the social order, brilliance and majesty vest in you as their very home and glory incarnate.

1. Yaste sādhiṣṭho'vasa indra kratuṣṭamā bhara. Asmabhyaṁ carṣaṇīsahaṁ sasniṁ vājeṣu duṣṭarn.

Indra, lord refulgent, ruler of the world, for our protection and promotion, bear and bring for us that straight and most effective vision and action of yours which is pure and most bountiful, tolerant and yet challenging for people and formidable in our battles of life, the discipline inviolable.

Yad vā pañca kṣitīnāmavastat su na ā bhara.

Indra, refulgent ruler, bear and bring us for the protection, progress and sustenance of the people those three, four or five principles of policy and values of society which, according to you, are the best ways of the peace and advancement of the people, and let us settle and establish ourselves therein with your law and inviolable power, brave one.

Note: This mantra is the basic formula of any socio-political structure and its governance and administration for the preservation, advancement and balanced sustenance of society. Details have to be worked out in the light of permanent values, history and tradition, and present and future implications. We may consider the following:

(A) Three: Physical, mental and spiritual well-being of the individual, society and the total human community, the departments of governance and administration, legislation and education; care, preservation and replenishment of the earth, environment and higher sphere; the government, the people, and the defence forces.

(B) Four: The four classes of the people, i.e., teachers and researchers, defence forces and administrators, producers and businessmen, and the ancillary workers; The four stages of individual and collective life, i.e., Brahmacharya (education, preparation and consolidation), Grhastha (family, professional life and social responsibilities and management), Vanaprastha (retirement and voluntary community service), and Sanyas (total freedom, renunciation and social service). This is Varnashrama Dharma.

(C) Five: Four classes of people and the other miscellaneous groups whosoever they be.

Five levels of organisation: individual, family, professional community, nation, and the global and environmental level.

Vedic suggestions are symbolic and general, particular details are to be worked out in the light of the Vedic purpose of life and living for the realisation of Dharma, righteousness in practical life, Artha, material well being, Kama, fulfilment of the Self, and Moksha, ultimate freedom.

Indra, refulgent lord of power and protection, we invoke and pray for your protection, most cherished, since you are the most generous and gracious. Uninterrupted is the shower of your grace like the showers of a cloud, as you arise, instantly victorious, commanding and bearing the protective blessings of existence such as knowledge, power and humility.

6. Tvāmid vṛtrahantama janāso vṛktabarhiṣaḥ. Ugraṁ pūrvīṣu pūrvyaṁ havante vājasātaye.

O lord, all the people ready for yajnic action of defence and advancement, having touched the skies by their chant and fragrance, all ready in full gear, invoke and call upon you, breaker of the cloud and destroyer of darkness and suffering, blazing with force of grandeur, first among the best leaders old and new. This is the clarion call for victory in life's battle for sustenance and success.

Indra, lord of might and blazing power of light, come, we pray, and protect our chariot by your intelligence, wisdom and tactics. O lord most potent, let us have our cherished sustenance and word of wisdom in this kingdom of love and beauty. Let us know and meditate on the holy song of success and adoration in this kingdom of light and peace.

1. Sa ā gamadindro yo vasūnām ciketad dātum dāmano rayīnām. Dhanvacaro na vaṁsagastr-ṣaṇaś-cakamānaḥ pibatu dugdham-amśum.

Come, Indra, lord of honour and excellence, you know the wealth, beauty and excellence, of the world of existence, you know how to give, you are the giver and treasure hold of the wealth of life, golden orb of the full moon. Like a sojourner of the skies, like a bird or bull, thirsting, loving, discriminating between truth and falsehood, come, drink the nectar of refreshing, rejuvenating, regenerating milk of life, your rightful share.

2. Ā te hanū harivaḥ śūra śipre ruhat somo na parvatasya prṣṭhe. Anu tvā rājannarvato na hinvan gīrbhir-madema puruhūta viśve.

Indra, great and brave lord of heroic people, may love and sweetness play on your lips, let fragrance breathe from your nose, let success and glory play on your helmet like a soma creeper on mountain top. O ruler of the world all honoured and adored, like a victorious army rejoicing on victory, we all with all our voices in unison invoke and entertain you so that we all enjoy together.

3. Cakraṁ na vṛttaṁ puruhuta vepate mano bhiyā me amateridadrivaḥ. Rathādadhi tvā jaritā sadāvṛdha kuvinnu stoṣanmaghavan purū-vasuḥ.

Indra, invoked and adored, blazing as sun and generous as cloud, ever greater and greater, commanding knowledge, honour, power, and treasure hold of all wealth, like a wheel in motion my mind is trembling for fear of want of intelligence and understanding and, in praise and adoration of you as commander of the chariot, it raises the voice of prayer and supplication. Listen lord, shelter, haven and home of all.

Indra, lord of wealth, power and honour, you have attained the heights of wide spaces. This celebrant like a soma press which extracts streams of soma or like a cloud of showers sends up words of praise in your honour for your beneficence. You control and give gifts of wealth by both right and left hands. O warrior of the chariot and leader of men, we pray, do not ignore us.

Indra, you are brave and generous, may the gracious heaven elevate and exalt you. Generous and great, you move and rise by ground and powerful modes of transport and yajnic action. May the great lord of mighty chariot, clad in strong helmet, generous of action, wielder of the thunderbolt engage and protect us in the battle of life.

Let the people of the world bow in honour and reverence to the scholar, expert of the knowledge of motion and speed who teaches this young student the two allied subjects of the science of heat and electric energy with three hundred applications of it and designs a world famous vehicle for transport.

The flame of Agni, heat and light, invoked and kindled on the base of ghr̥ta, water, rising fast and beautifully vies with the light of the sun. "This we create in honour of Indra, the ruler”: for the scholar scientist who says this, let untiring dawns of light and excellence shine blissfully.

2. Samiddhāgnir-vanavat stīrṇabarhir-yuktagrāvā sutasomo jarāte. Grāvāṇo yasyeṣiraṁ vadantya-yad-adhvaryur-haviṣāva sindhum.

Agni, light and fire, raised and rising, touching the skies, suffusing the clouds, creating the soma for life and energy, crackles, and adores Divinity. The roaring clouds proclaim its force and refreshing power. The yajaka scientist with his yajnic inputs into the fire rises and moves to the sea (with fragrant vibrations rising to space, with waters flowing to the seas).

3. Vadhūr-iyam patim-icchantyeti ya īm vahāte mahiṣīm-iṣirām. Āsya śravasyād ratha ā ca ghoṣāt purū sahasrā pari vartayāte.

Just as a loving bride goes to her groom and the bridegroom receives the consecrated bride, and both together run the home and take the family forward, so do fire and water mixed and working together drive the chariot and from the power and its revolution and thunderous roar many thousands of projects are moved forward.

That ruler does not face want and trouble in whose realm Indra, fire or electric energy, consumes intense liquid, friendly with earth connection, and goes forward with various forms of power. The ruler moves forward, breaks the clouds for rain, destroys the demon of darkness with light and knowledge, and settles his people in homes, thus progressing all forward in health and sustenance and earning a name for wealth and power.

That nation moves forward in yoga, creation of new assets, and in kshema, preservation of the progress and achievement earlier attained, rises higher in social dynamics both ways, and wins further ground in both together: the nation which reverentially loves solar energy, which reverentially takes interest in fire energy, and which spares its best and sweetest surplus in the service of Indra, development of electric energy.

Indra, O lord destroyer of darkness, want and suffering, bring that human wealth of values, honour and excellence which is worthy of anyone here, there and everywhere in terms of efficiency of your divine order. For this Indra, lord and master, indeed, is the holy poetic voice of praise. For that lord giver of universal wealth and light of knowledge and wisdom do poets free from threefold bondage of body, mind and soul raise and offer their songs of adoration. Him, the voices beautified with threefold graces of sound, meaning and structure, free from threefold defects of sound, meaning and structure exalt and glorify.

Indra, potent lord of generosity, magnanimous giver of the showers of joy, wielder of the arms of thunder, greatest breaker of the clouds of rain and destroyer of evil, I invoke you with the strongest and most liberal powers and gifts of prosperity to come with various and wondrous securities, protections and promotions.

Dynamic guardian of the path of rectitude to the last, wielder of thunder, generously brave, breaker of tempestuous missiles instantly, terribly forceful, refulgent ruler and sovereign commander, destroyer of the darkest enemies and protector of peaceful prosperity and joy of the people, Indra comes post haste by fastest horses, and at the noon day session of yajna joins the celebrations of the nation's honour and excellence.

When the moon lighted by the sun affects the sun with the darkness of its shadow, when it is in line with the sun and earth, then the person who does not know his area feels confused during the eclipse and the regions too appear confusing. Similarly O sun, light of the spirit, when the veil of darkness covers knowledge and awareness of the spirit, then the ignorant man feels confused and the world too appears different, that is, the material appears as ultimate reality and the spirit is eclipsed. He makes no distinction between body and soul.

6. Svarbhānoradha yadindra māyā avo divo vartamānā avāhan. Gūḷhaṁ sūryaṁ tamasāpavra-tena turīyeṇa brahmaṇāvindadatriḥ.

And then Indra, when the cosmic energy which moves the stars and planets removes the shadow of the moon from the sun, then Atri, man of knowledge, with his fourth state of the soul, that is, turiya, direct vision of Reality, regains the sight of the sun earlier covered by the shadow of the moon.

Similarly, when Indra, lord of light, removes the illusion of darkness which intercepts the light of the spirit below it, then Atri, the sage of knowledge and discrimination, with this fourth stage of spiritual development, regains the light earlier covered by the darkness of ignorance.

7. Mā māmimaṁ tava santamatra irasyā drugdho bhiyasā ni gārīt. Tvaṁ mitro asi satyarādhāstau mehāvataṁ varuṇasca rājā.

O sage, Atri, free from the bondage of confusion between body, mind and soul, I am your friend. Let not this malevolent ogre out of anger, dread or hunger devour me. You are a friend. So is this Varuna, ruler of light and man of judgement and discrimination. May you two, I pray, protect me from darkness, ignorance and confusion.

Then Atri, sagely scholar of four Vedas, free from threefold confusion, illusion and sufferance, collecting hymns of adoration, joining wise sages, singing songs of adoration in honour of Divinity, teaches and illuminates the supplicant disciple, removes the clouds, dispels the veil of darkness and illusion, and restores the light of the heavenly sun into the spirit.

That sun and light of heaven, covered by the shadow of the moon and hidden by the veil of darkness, the Atris, sages of knowledge in the fourth state of spiritual development, turiya, direct vision of Reality, free from threefold confusion, illusion and sufferance, restore and regain for themselves and their disciples. Others cannot see that light because they do not have the spiritual vision and freedom from illusion.

Who can thank you in words? Protect and promote us wherever you be in your regions of truth and natural law in the light of heaven, the firmament or the earth, and bless us with food and energy, speed and progress, vision and wisdom, and material and spiritual wealth for the generous man of yajna.

4. Pra sakṣaṇo divyaḥ kaṇvahotā trito divaḥ sajoṣā vāto agniḥ. Pūṣā bhagaḥ prabhṛthe viśvabhojā vājim na jagmurāśvaśvatamāḥ.

The refulgent yajaka, forbearing, challenging and victorious, intelligent and self-conscious (Kanva), Trita, active and expansive in the three regions of the universe, i.e., the sun, wind and electric energy, heat and light, nourishment and growth, power, prosperity, honour and excellence, all operative together in love like friends, with brilliant holy ambitions for the advancement of the world, may, we plan and pray, come like warriors flying to the battle business of life on the wings of fastest coursers.

5. Pra vo rayiṁ yuktāśvaṁ bharadhvaṁ rāya eṣe'vase dadhīta dhīḥ. Suśeva evairauśijasya hotā ye va evā marutasturāṇām.

O Maruts, dynamics of nature and progressive forces of humanity, create, bear and bring the wealth and power born of action and advancement. Develop, hold and use knowledge and intelligence for the achievement of all forms of power, honour and prosperity. All the actions and movements of yours are for your good, and by all these progressive steps of yours, the yajaka, creator and giver of fragrance, humanity, the child of brilliant ambition, grows happy and enjoys peace and comfort.

With your holy chants of mantras and offers of fragrant inputs into the yajnic fire of corporate action, create the wind and electric energy usable in your transports for progress. Create the brilliant, vibrant, admirable scholar and scientist of energy. And may these warriors of energy and scientific intelligence dedicated to progress and the truth and goodness of the laws of natural and human dynamics, serving heaven and earth, motherly divinities, bear and bring universal light and nourishment for our intellectual and cultural advancement.

In consequence, for your success and achievement, by virtue of your holy and powerful efforts and your intelligent and enlightened chants and oblations, may the night and day, both great and potent, like intelligent and educated women, carry your yajna across the world and bring you from heaven the wealth of the world for humanity.

Happy with myself, celebrant for you all, and for the achievement of wealth, power and all round prosperity, I honour, adore and serve the leaders who work for food and nourishment for growth. I honour the artist, architect and maker of forms, and love creative and friendly intelligence, trees and herbs, with reverence, gratitude, replenishment and renewal.

May the clouds and mountains be for the expansion of our charities. So may be the Vasus, abodes of life such as earth and oceans, suns and planets, as well as the brave and generous people of strength and intelligence, self-motivated, self-moved, celebrated, self-realised, creative and corporate powers, and may they all augment our honour and reputation in all fields of human welfare.

10. Vṛṣṇo astoṣi bhūmyasya garbhaṁ trito napā-tamapāṁ suvrkti. Grṇīte agniretarī na śūṣaiḥ sociṣkeśo ni riṇāti vanā.

I admire and adore the lightning fire, child of waters, which pervades the three worlds of the universe and gives showers of life for the fertility of the earth. Like a moving power with locks of light with its force and motion, Agni energises the rays of the sun, moves the clouds and enlivens the forests with greenery.

11. Kathā mahe rudriyāya bravāma kad rāye cikituṣe bhagāya. Āpa oṣādhīruta no'vantu dyaaurvanā giraya vṛkṣakeśāḥ.

How shall we speak to the seeker of nature's catalytic powers breaking and making the changing forms of matter and energy, how speak to the earnest seeker of knowledge, of wealth, production and prosperity? May the flowing waters and clouds, herbs, heavens, rays of sunlight and high mountains with locks of forests help and protect us.

May the lord creator, controller and sustainer of energies listen to our voice of prayer, listen and reveal the mystery. May the master of the science of energy listen and enlighten us. May the lord omniscient, pervasive in waters and the skies, ever moving, omnipresent, listen and reveal the knowledge. May the crystal waters and the perennial streams and showers issuing forth from the mighty clouds and mountains speak to us like the clairvoyant ancient seers and seekers.

Listen ye, great ones, and let us know for certain those acts and motions of yours which we speak of and pray for, which, all great and generous ones, bearing cherished gifts of food, energy, health and age, ever growing stronger and expansive, mighty powerful with their catalytic forces, come to the mortal seeker who tries to know and search them out.

I speak of the celestial and terrestrial evolution of things and forces and their actions and attributes for the holy pursuer of creative yajnic action. May the heavenly light and words of knowledge grow with peace, beauty and bliss in action. May the waters of life and energy grow and flow like the spatial oceans enveloping our existence.

At every stage of evolution, my growth with divine praise and prayer is evident, replete with power and grace bearing all natural and divine modes and materials of protection and progress. May mother earth and her nectar sweets of energy with sages and scholars bless us with the rich gifts of her simple, natural and liberal hands.

How shall we honour and serve the generous and renowned Maruts, dynamics of nature and the dynamic leaders and scholars of humanity, with offers of gifts and acts of homage in order to thank and supplicate them in words of reverence? Too generous and too highly renowned are they even for the best and choicest words of ours. May the generous cloud in the sky never forsake us to suffer want and injury. May there always be ample blessings of nature and Divinity for us close at hand.

Thus does mortal man honour and celebrate you, O divinities of nature and humanity, for progeny and for abundance of wealth and cattle. Thus does mortal man win your favour. Give me here in the world well being of the body and sustenance for health, and may mother earth with her generosity keep off debility and decay of my health and the onset of old age.

O Vasus, divinities of nature and humanity, may we receive that holy intelligence of yours, that energising food, by our praise and prayer in honour of mother earth, nature and the cow, and may that mother power, generous, loving and merciful, O divinities, sages and scholars, the lady overflowing with kindness, move for us in response to us for our good, for our honour and prosperity.

May the divine Ida, voice of omniscience, generous nature and the wide earth, mother of multitudes, sublime and overwhelming, enlighten and inspire us. And may the majesty of divinities, commanding universal light, comprehending the meaning, purpose and energy of life itself, revealing knowledge and wisdom come to us.

Let my holy voice, the chant of OM, full of peace and bliss, light of my higher energy of udana, rise up and reach Varuna, cherished lord of love and justice, Mitra, lord of light and friendship, Bhaga, lord of honour and excellence, and Aditi, mother Infinity of heaven and earth. May the lord Supreme listen and receive, the lord of Eternal Word and speech coexistent with space and Divinity, ministrant of five pranic energies, indefatigable and irresistible in the ways of his power and action, giver of life and energy, lord of bliss, Bliss itself.

2. Prati me stomam-aditir-jagrbhyāt sūnuṁ na mātā hr̥dyaṁ suśevam. Brahma priyaṁ devahi-taṁ yadastyaham mitre varuṇe yanmayobhu.

May Aditi, mother of eternal speech, receive and love my song of praise and prayer as a mother holds her child to the heart, dear, cherished and soothing. Brahma, lord Infinite that is dear, kind and benevolent to the noble people, supreme giver, who inspires prana and udana energies, is our lord adorable.

Sing, celebrate him that is the most imaginative of poets, exalt him with honey sweets of song and homage, and may he, the inspirer creator, Savita, refulgent and generous lord, in response to our homage and effort, give us cherished wealth and honour of our choice for the good of our body, mind and soul.

4. Samindra ṇo manasā neṣi gobhiḥ saṁ sūribhir-harivaḥ saṁ svasti. Saṁ brahmaṇā devahitam yadasti saṁ devānām sumatyā yajñiyānām.

Indra, lord of power, honour and excellence, you lead us on with a holy mind, with efficient senses, intelligence and songs of homage, with bright and brave people. Lord of humanity, commanding the motive forces of the dynamics of existence, let there be all good and well being for us. Lead us on with knowledge and wealth of divinity, with whatever is good and beneficial for noble people, and with the wisdom of the brilliant people devoted to yajnic creation and divine service.

5. Devo bhagaḥ savitā rāyo amśa Indro vṛtrasya sañjito dhanānām. Ṛbhukṣā vāja uta vā puran-dhiravantu na amṛtāsas-turāsaḥ.

May the brilliant and generous, the prosperous and honourable, the creator inspirer, rich and generous, participant sharer, commander of honour and excellence, winner of loud showers, producer of wealth, the powerful intellectual, commander of power and progress, the man of wisdom and distant vision, the immortals and powers of tempestuous advancement, may all these protect and promote us on the path of goodness.

6. Marutvato aprītasya jiṣṇorajūryataḥ pra bravā-mā kṛtāni. Na te pūrve maghavan nāparāso na vīryam nūtanāḥ kaścanāpa.

We sing and celebrate the acts and achievements of the lord of men and winds, incomprehensible, victorious, unaging and undecaying. O lord of honour and power, Indra, neither the ancients, nor the moderns, nor the succeeding ones nor anyone else would comprehend your power and potential.

7. Upa stuhi prathamam ratnadheyam brhaspatiṁ sanitāram dhanānām. Yaḥ śaṁsate stuvate śambhaviṣṭhaḥ purūvasur-āgamaj-johuvānam.

First sing in honour of him close at hand who wields and governs the jewel wealth of existence, Brhaspati, Lord Almighty of the boundless universe, giver of wealth and honour, lord most blissful, omnificent, universally adored, who blesses the celebrant and supplicant, and brings him the wealth and honour prayed for.

8. Tavotibhiḥ sacramānā ariṣṭā brhaspate maghavānaḥ suvīrāḥ. Ye aśvadā uta vā santi godā ye vastradāḥ subhagāsteṣu rāyaḥ.

Brhaspati, O lord of unbounded wealth of the universe, the people who are free from injury, enjoying wealth and power, brave and fearless, sharing the blessings of your protections, who are generous and honourable and give horses, cows and clothes in charity, all enjoy the good fortune of wealth and power and the grace of divinities.

9. Visarmāṇam kṛṇuhi vittameṣām ye bhuñjate aprṇanto na ukthaiḥ. Apavratān prasave vāvṛ-dhānān brahmadviṣaḥ sūryād yāvayasva.

Render the wealth of those people fruitless and unproductive who eat by themselves in spite of our songs of divine praise in honour of charity. Deprive them of the light of the sun who observe no rules of good conduct, and who, while growing materially in the lord's creation, revile the lord giver and desecrate the food.

10. Ya ohate rakṣaso devavītāvacakrebhistam maruto ni yāta. Yo vaḥ śamīm śaśamānasya nindāt tucchyān kāmān karate siṣvidānaḥ.

O Maruts, dynamic leaders of the people, take him down straight, not in round about words, who invokes and entertains the wicked in the holy programmes of society, who reviles the noble work of the divine celebrant and who, even though trying hard apparently, demeans his values and desires.

11. Tamu ṣṭuhi yaḥ sviṣuḥ sudhanvā yo viśvasya kṣayati bheṣajasya. Yakṣvā mahe saumanasāya rudraṁ namobhir-devam-asuraṁ duvasya.

Praise and exalt him who wields the strong bow and sharp arrow in support of life and shelters the creative, corrective and protective forces of the world. Do good work in cooperation with the great and magnanimous people, and honour and serve with homage and holy offerings Rudra, lord of power, justice and punishment, brilliant and generous giver of life and energy.

May those who are generous at heart, noble at work, liberal of hand, bold and bountiful, motherly women, streams of water flowing within bounds of divinity, vastly illuminative, perennially flowing with sweetness, blissful like a moonlit night, ever giving without reserve, pure and immaculate, we pray, bless us.

13. Pra sū mahe suśaraṇāya medhām giram bhare navyasīm jāyamānām. Ya āhanā duhitur-vakṣaṇāsu rūpā mināno akṛṇod-idam naḥ.

I offer my latest song of praise arising spontaneously and dedicate my intellect and imagination in honour of Indra, blissful shelter of the world, who, sculptor of the forms of his creation, has provided and made to flow this water for us in the streams of his daughter, the earth.

Let this celebrative song, O celebrant, rise and reach the roaring, thundering lord of earth and eternal speech who, replete with blissful waters, rolling like spatial oceans, goes forward sprinkling the earth and illuminating heaven and earth with the showers of light and life.

Let this song of praise reach and excite the power and force of the Maruts, fellow humans, youthful children of Rudra, Lord of law, justice and discriminative wisdom, and let my love and desire inspire them for wealth and honour of the world. O celebrant, celebrate the dynamic forces of humanity, generous and showerful as the clouds.

May this song of celebration ring over the earth, resound across the sky, and vibrate among the trees and herbs for the production of wealth. May the lord supreme, God of the divinities of nature and humanity, be kind to me and listen to my invocation and prayer. May the mother earth be kind and never ill-disposed to us.

17. Urau devā anibādhe syāma.

O divinities, saints and sages, may we ever prosper in the unbounded generosity of nature and of mother earth.

O lord, we pray, may we ever follow and benefit from the latest and blissful guidance and noble policy of the Ashvins, teachers and scholars. Bring us, O divine-twin powers of nature's complementarities, wealth, brave progeny and all the imperishable good fortunes of honour and excellence. Let us prosper with your protection and vision of progress.

1. Ā dhenavaḥ payasā tūṇryarthā amardhantīrupa no yantu madhvā. Maho rāye bṛhatīḥ sapta vipro mayobhuvo jaritā johavīti.

Let the Voice of Divinity like mother cows, flowing with milky streams of meaning and metaphor, instantly vibrating unto the mind and soul, incessantly rippling and soothing without violence or difficulty, come and bless us with honey sweets of divine peace and spiritual awareness. Sevenfold are they in sound, music and meaning, expressive, grand and infinite. The celebrant yajaka, joyous and ecstatic, invokes, augments and proclaims the voices for the highest wealth and well being of life.

We offer songs of adoration with homage and offers of yajnic food and fragrance to win incessant blessings of loving and non-violent heaven and earth for the sake of food and sustenance, knowledge and progressive advancement in life. May the father, mother, heaven and earth, sweet and loving of voice and word, liberal and unstinted of hand, bless us with honour and excellence at every stage of our battle business of life.

O priests of the scientific yajna for peace and unity with love and non-violence, working on the holy powers and mysteries of wind and electric energy, take up pure energised waters, and create and bear the energy for Vayu, spirit and ruler of humanity. O Vayu, brilliant ruler, first of all preserve, protect and promote this honey sweet energy so that we may be happy and enjoy life together for your honour and pleasure.

Just as ten fingers join the two hands, and the dexterous priests use the stone press to extract the soma juice, and just as the sun with its bright rays, happy and rejoicing, distils the potent pure honey sweet vitalities of energy existing in the clouds and mountains, so do the happy performers of scientific yajna for peace, expert specialists of energy, using their hands and mind and senses, working on the clouds distil the purest rays of energy, the honey sweet essence of nature's sources of wind and waters.

5. Asāvi te jujuṣāṇāya somaḥ kratve dakṣāya br̥hate madāya. Harī rathe sudhurā yoge arvāgindra priyā kṛṇuhi hūyamānaḥ.

Indra, brilliant ruler, commander of winds and waters, distilled is the soma of energy for your knowledge and enlightenment, for your power and potential, and for delight and grand celebration, love as you do the honour and excellence of prosperity. Invoked and invited to the celebration, harness the fast controlled powers to the chariot, come straight, and accomplish the programmes you wish to complete.

6. Ā no mahīm-aramatiṁ sajoṣā gnaṁ devīm namasā rātahavyām. Madhormadāya br̥hatīm-rtajñāmāgne vaha pathibhirdevayānaiḥ.

Agni, O light of knowledge, scholar scientist, loving and cooperative, lead us on to that great, continuous but unaddicted knowledge of divine value with your humility and yajnic inputs, knowledge which is highly creative and productive for honey sweet delights and celebration of mankind, which is vastly revealing of mother nature's truths and worthy of further pursuit by the progressive paths of divinities and nobilities among humanity.

Like a darling child in the lap of father, like the fire of yajna in the vedi, the disciple in pursuit of the light of knowledge and fire of life is seated in school close to the teachers like a seedling growing to fullness, whom sagely scholars, purifying, seasoning and tempering like steel and gold by the heat of fire, strengthen and prepare for a full yajnic life.

Let the good and great, wide and high, refreshing and beneficent voice of ours like a messenger go to invoke and invite the Ashvins, teachers and preachers, complementary powers of nature, positive and negative currents of energy circuit, and may the Ashvins, kind, peaceable and peace giving come to us straight like the centre pin of the axle and nave of a chariot wheel, and share our treasure wealth of knowledge, power and material well-being.

O Jataveda, light of life, sagely scholar of the knowledge of things in existence, invoked and invited, kindled and raised, you bring and speak of all the energies of winds and electricity of all names and all descriptions for men. O Maruts, winds and energies, in response to the mantric formulae and the celebrant's songs of adoration, come all and bring all modes of protection and advancement along to the sagely scholars' yajnic pursuit of research and development.

May Sarasvati, divine mother of knowledge and language in the cosmic flow, loving and responsive to her children, come to bless our yajna, bearing ghr̥ta and waters of life's energy and inspiration from heaven, the vast skies, clouds and mountains. May she join us like a mother overflowing with love, listen to our words of prayer for peace and pious advancement and give us the vision.

May the wielder and sustainer of existence, mighty refulgent and blissful, invoked, enkindled and raised in the vedi come and bless our yajna with all means of protection and progress, the lord illuminating our voices of praise and prayer, vitalising herbs and vegetation, kind and loving, lord of nature's three modes of thought (sattva), energy (rajas) and matter (tamas) which are transparent, red and dark green, the lord generous as showers and giver of health and age.

On the sacred and excellent vedi on the floor of mother earth, lovers and admirers of life come in pursuit of the joy of living, bearing holy offers for the sacred fire. And just as they cleanse the new born baby and welcome it in new life, so they feed, serve and develop the holy fire with love and offers of food and fragrance like a living divinity on earth.

Ashvins, complementary powers of nature, teachers and preachers, men and women together, all kind and blissful, may we go on in life by your latest protections and noble paths of progress and morality. O immortal divinities, bear and bring us wealth, and brave progeny and all the good fortunes of the world.

Indra, Ruler as of ancient times, as before, as always, as of now, with your holy voice you draw upon the highest, heavenly, blissful force and power present upfront and instantly victorious in the battles of life, and you grow and progress in consequence of that same power and force. O Ruler, let us all honour and augment and serve that power.

Ruler of the world, you are the self-refulgent light of heaven, illuminator of spaces and mover of the still clouds of vapours in the skies, the lord whose lights and graces are for the beauty and majesty of life. You are the protector, defender, preserver and promoter. You are not for deceit or violence. You are the cause and agent of holy action, sovereign with your powers and potential, and your name is identical with truth and law.

(He abides in, with, and above the dynamics of the yajnic evolution of existence: consumer, consumed, consumption, evolution and devolution, the beginning and the end, all): He abides with the food of life. He is truth, reality, eternity. He is the wielder, sustainer and commander of the world in existence. Inviolable is his word, uncharted his way. He is the yajaka, creator and giver. He is the lord and controller of power and potential, challenge and forbearance. He is ever on the move across the skies and spaces. He is the generous cloud, the seedling in the womb of existence, ever young, unaging, antidote of negative destruction, and loving support of all.

O children of the earth, for your good and comfort, immediate as well as distant, are these united, cooperative, well controlled radiations of the sun all round, fostering the truth of nature's law in their own way: For that Master Spirit, the sun sucks up the vapours of water from the ocean and other lower places by well directed, all dominating waves of light, and then makes the cloud release the waters in rain showers to flow down in streams and rivers into the ocean.

(In the same way the administrative forces of the ruler, working together in cooperation within the law, collect the taxes from the various communities of the people and the ruler uses the collection for rain showers of the people's protection, promotion and prosperity without hoarding anything for himself.)

Shining and vibrating by flutter of the leaves of trees, proclaiming the presence of the spirit manifested in life forms living and aging in the world of creation, in the caves of the heart, you shine and radiate in the consciousness, O lord of rectitude and paths of naturalness. Grow on, live on, O lord, in the yajna of creation and let the life forms grow on and advance.

Who are the sagely divines of humanity? As they see the truth of reality, so do they speak of it. They behold it and stand thereby by the holy reflection of it in divine works of creation or in the visions of their own imagination. And they, men of courage, wide and bold in speech and imagination, bear and bring for us great illuminative speech of knowledge and high and mighty undecaying valour, forbearance and spirit of challenge which creates great heroes in the service of truth and rectitude. They are human divines.

The leader, reborn in knowledge and courage of action, goes forward challenging, thirsting for battle, radiant by mind, visionary of present and future, protecting the light of day, preserving our future wealth of generations, and protecting our hearth and home, self-possessed and self-established as he is.

The ruler and scholar who receives and serves the superior, the holy and advancing voice of the seers and sages by virtue of the knowledge and efforts of this industrious scholar, and you whose name and fame resounds among the people, whichever way the name and fame and knowledge is received, and the man who attains the knowledge of that all by his own effort and karmic discipline and carries the tradition on by himself, self-possessed and self-established, may all these do us good on our way of life.

The fame and advancement of these people resounds over seas and abides over spaces, nor does their yajnic progress suffer where hymns are chanted and wealth grows in holiness. Here the heart's desire of the worshipper is not obstructed where holy intelligence and intentions abide for guidance in action.

With our collective thoughts and intentions and with all our love and delight, we desire to have that ruler for the social order whose high strength and dynamism is respected by the wise and enlightened scholars, who is a strong disciplinarian and organiser, who commands intelligence and eloquence, who is a holy and cooperative man of yajna, sociable as a friend and who can preserve, protect, defend, promote and enlighten the people and the system. Only such a person deserves to be the ruler.

Of these people, he, the ruler, is the Shyena, eagle, harbinger of nectar, the watchful eye, and the marksman for the target, the destination. He is Aditi, the inviolable identity, symbol of nature, character, tradition and the nation. He is Kakshya, orbit of movement as well as the rampart, ever in harness, and he is the joy of life. Of this universal leader, all embracing and giving, all powerful, they jointly and separately desire and ask for advancement, know his generosity, and find their own fulfilment in his presence.

He is an unfailing giver of fulfilment, holy and cooperative in joint action for development, destroyer of hate and enmity, strong of arms, scholar of the Vedas, accessible saviour and helper and friendly for all of you. He receives both friend and foe appropriately and realises both material and spiritual good, shines and illuminates, the leader who serves this social order and this people with effective and acceptable means and policies.

The baby's parent, the yajaka's protector and promoter, the teacher, ruler, guardian of humanity who preserves, sustains and advances whatever wealth and joy is achieved, the treasure hold of all history and tradition and intellectual and scientific progress on the march, bearing the milky food for body, mind and soul like the mother cow and forbearing earth, he goes onwards high proclaiming his knowledge and vision, the divine gift, without a wink of sleep: He is worthy of reverence.

To Agni, soul of life awake, the light of Rks radiates with love. To Agni, light of life awake, the songs of Samans vibrate with love. To Agni, the fire of life aflame, the streams of nectar flow with love, and to the soul of life, the light of awareness and the fire of action, the ecstasy of life says: I am yours with love, a friend, your very haven and home.

1. Vidā divo viṣyann-adrim-ukthair-āyatyā uṣaso arcino guḥ. Apāvṛta vrajinīrut svargād vi duro mānuṣīrdeva āvaḥ.

Brilliant sages with holy songs of adoration worship the self-refulgent Lord and break the cloud of ignorance. In consequence, the dawn of light follows, dispels the nights of darkness, and then the refulgent sun of divine knowledge opens the doors of human reason and intelligence with knowledge.

2. Vi sūryo amatiṁ na śriyaṁ sādorvād gavāṁ mātā jānatī gāt. Dhanvarṇaso nadyaḥ khādo arṇāḥ sthūṇeva sumitā dr̥nhata dyauḥ.

The sun takes on the refulgent form of beauty like the grace of divinity, and from the vast heavens, the dawn, mother of light rays, goes forward revealing the beauty of the world. Streams and rivers, charming bright and refreshing, flow rushing on to the sea. The regions of light rise on, expansive like a measured column of the day's sustenance.

(The mantra is a metaphor, in continuation of the previous mantra, of the expansion of the light of knowledge and onward flow of life.)

3. Asmā ukthāya parvatasya garbho mahīnāṁ januṣe pūrvyāya. Vi parvato jihīta sād̥hata dyaur-āvivāsanto dasayanta bhūma.

In honour of this adorable ancient sun, cause of the birth of planets and the cloud, and for the fertility of the earths, the vapours leave the cloud to rain in showers. Let us too, high shining like the sun, realising the light of knowledge, illuminating all around, giving in charity, eliminating evil, realise ourselves.

With unambiguous holy words approved by scholars and loved and used by divine brilliancies, we study and experiment with Indra and Agni for the invocation and achievement of electric energy and fire power for protection and progress, just as, with the same holy words, for all time, poetic men of vision and imagination and dynamic scientists engaged in creative and productive joint works, shining and illuminating in the pursuit of truth, work and conduct holy programmes of research for you all.

5. Eto nvadya sudhyo bhavāma pra ducchunā minavāmā varīyaḥ. Āre dveṣāmsi sanutardadhāmā'-yāma prāñco yajamānamaccha.

Come ye all today, let us engage in works of vision and wisdom as intelligent holy people. Let us throw off all evil and eliminate it. Let us always keep hate and enmity far away. Let us move forward and enthusiastically join the yajamana engaged in creative and productive work for advancement.

Come friends, let us take up works of science and reason by which mother knowledge reveals and, like the dawn, opens the doors of light and power, by which the man of war and tactics wins the helmet and armour, and by which the industrious producer achieves fertile land and ample water.

7. Let the priest of dexterous hand, generous like the cloud, celebrant of divinity and nature's powers, set the yajna in motion, inspiring the new generation on the move to keep the fire burning for ten months at least, and the dynamics of revelation would flow to the yajna, open the secrets of the Word and knowledge and control of mind and senses, and vibrant men of initiative would enact projects of truth and universal good.

8. When on the rise of this glorious dawn the Angiras, vibrant scholars and sages dedicated to yajnic divinity, meet and rejoice with the rays of light, then, the oceanic source of these rays of light being in the highest heaven, it is the radiations of Divinity on the waves of nature's vitality that transmit the revelations of light and knowledge and bless the yajnic seekers.

9. Ā suryo yatu saptāśvaḥ kṣetram yadasyorviyā dirghayāthe. Raghuh śyenah patayad-andho acchā yuvā kavirdīdayad goṣu gacchan.

Let the sun, commanding seven horses of its spectrum lights, come to the earthly part of its domain like a flying courser, a hawk-like harbinger of nectar, dispelling darkness, and ripening food with its light and heat, and let it shine, an unaging youth, a visionary creator and inspirer, going over lands and planets on the long course of its orbit in space.

So may the light of the Spirit descend into the earthly form of the body of five elements and five senses, mind and intelligence, and illuminate the individual personality of the soul to keep it a youthful visionary and self-inspiring poet, creatively playing around with the mind and senses, dispelling the darkness of ignorance and ripening the existential potential of its nature, across the world of five elements, and ahankara and mahan modes of nature, for its advancement over its eternal course.

When the sun yokes its far ranging rays of spectrum light to its chariot, it rises over the bright and lustrous ocean of spatial waters, and its intelligent and well directed horses carry it over the orbit like the constant waves of the sea carrying a boat, with the result that the overflowing waters stand around listening and raining down in showers. Similarly when the self-luminous soul yokes the five senses, the five pranas and the mind and intelligence to its purpose of action in yoga yajna, it rises over the bright and blazing world of existence, the seven lights of natural powers, perceptive and well directed by the soul in the state of constancy, carry it over the waters around waiting for its orders, and the soul reaches its destination where it joins the Divine.

11. Dhiyaṁ vo apsu dadhiṣe svarṣāṁ yayātaraṇ daśa māso navagvāḥ. Ayā dhiyā syāma devagopā ayā dhiyā tuturyāmātyaṁhaḥ.

O divinities of nature and humanity, I pray, I may absorb into my pranic energies and actions that blissful intelligence of your gift by which the rising souls on the move cross the seas over ten months. May we, by this, be protectors and promoters of our sages and our divine nature. May we, by this, cross the seas over sin and evil.

Like a trained horse on the new path, the man of knowledge takes on a new programme, voluntarily. I too carry on the new programme which is protective, defensive and progressive. I do not want it abandoned, nor do I have anything reserved or secret about it, and further, only a scholar pioneer and leader advancing on the path of rectitude would take men and leaders forward.

O Ashvins, cooperative powers of truth and rectitude of behaviour, Rudra, powers of justice and punishment, and voices of scholars and sages, Pusha, power of nourishment and vitality, Bhaga, creator of honour and prosperity and Sarasvati, spirit of knowledge, listen to our voice.

And may Brhaspati, father and ruler of the wide world, Pusha, giver of nourishment and sustenance, Varuna, highest leader of our choice, Mitra, friendly and loving as breath of life, and Aryama, lord of justice and correctitude grant us peace, joy and progress worthy of a happy home.

Great and glorious mother arises in all her youthful splendour from the lights of heaven and, invoked, invited and adored on the vedi, she comes with radiations of light and intelligence collected from the nourishing and sustaining divinities of nature and humanity, awakening, enlightening, speaking loud and bold, and preparing the daughter for life in the home with knowledge and wisdom. (The Dawn is mother, the earth is daughter.)

(The mother of the home, and the mother teacher in the school, is great and adorable as a human deity because, having collected her knowledge and wisdom from her parents and teachers, she arises like the dawn of light and prepares the daughter for intelligent living in an enlightened home.)

2. Ajirāsastadapa īyamānā ātasthivāṁso amṛtasya nābhim. Anantāsa uravo viṣvataḥ sīm pari dyāvāprthivī yanti panthāḥ.

The radiations of the light of the dawn, as the actions of wise and brilliant parents and teachers, abiding in the centre of immortal eternity and flowing therefrom, move all round fast and ceaseless, vast and endless, on their paths across and over heaven and earth.

3. Ukṣā samudro aruṣaḥ suparṇaḥ pūrvasya yonim piturā viveṣa. Madhye divo nihitaḥ prśniraśmā vi cakrame rajasaspātyantau.

The mighty deep and generous ocean of waters, the blazing sustainer bird of space, the sun, enters in the spatial womb of its mother, divine Nature, fertilized by the original and eternal father creator. Placed in the midst of the heavens of light like a multicolour diamond, it traverses on and on, lights up, sustains and marks the expansive ends of the upper and lower strata of the sphere of heaven.

4. Catvāra īm bibhrati kṣemayanto daśa garbham carase dhāpayante. Tridhātavaḥ paramā asya gāvo divaścaranti pari sadyo antān.

The directions of space, receiving the sustaining light and warmth of life, bear it up. Ten directions of space feed the world they hold as a baby to keep it going. The rays of the sun radiate from the highest region of light and fill the threefold world of sattva, rajas and tamas, heaven, firmament and the earth, reaching all round to the borders of it almost instantly.

5. Idam vapur-nivacanam janāsaścaranti yannadyastasthurāpaḥ. Dve yaḍīm bibhṛto māturanye iheha jāte yamyā sabandhū.

Just as rivers hold and celebrate the flowing waters, so do people revere and adore this refulgent sun of wondrous form which two twin sisters, day and night, born of the same mother, hold and nurse the same one brother though born of another mother.

6. Vi tanvate dhiyo asmā apāṁsi vastrā putrāya mātaro vayanti. Upaprakṣe vṛṣaṇo modamānā divaspathā vadhvo yantyaccha.

Celebrants compose songs of adoration from their heart and intellect and extend yajnic homage up to this sun by the paths of light and fire just as mothers weave and sew clothes for the child and joyous wives eagerly move to join their generous husbands.

O Mitra and Varuna, lord of love and judgement, sun and the sea, day and night, mother and father, prana and udana energies, O Agni, yajna fire purifier, revered teacher, teacher pioneer and giver of enlightenment, may this cherished song of ours be for our peace and blessedness which is all time free from suffering and pain. May we attain a home and haven of high excellence and unshakable honour and prestige. Salutations to the great and glorious heaven of light, eternal and imperishable!

1. Kadu priyāya dhāmne manāmahe svakṣatrāya svayaśase mahe vayam. Āmenyasya rajaso yadabhra āñ apo vṛṇānā vitanoti māyinī.

When shall we all sing and celebrate in honour of our own domain, our cherished independent identity and social order, our own honour and glory, which, commanding its own power and splendour, pursuing its own policy, extends its resounding actions and waters of peace and freedom among the people, across the lands and over the clouds of immeasurable skies and spaces? When shall we think and reflect upon this?

Those acts and policies of peace and freedom provide incentives to the brave and extend knowledge and positive action programmes over the entire world of humanity, through uniform treatment and equality of law for all. A brilliant nation of vision and noble action doesn't procrastinate over the present, agitating over the past or worrying and waiting for the future, it crosses the bridges in front right away.

Ever and instantly, this nation shines and sharpens its best arms and armaments day and night with the stones (which sharpen the arms and press the soma too) or with the clouds of showers against the evil of want and suffering of ignorance, and otherwise too hundreds of its forces actively working together in their own fields spend their time moving forward in a state of readiness with a challenging spirit.

That character and disposition, that form and policy of its dynamic flow, that admirable force of its arms like the razor's edge, I know, is in keeping with its identity for the purpose of peace, protection and progress, and, like a comfortable home full of plenty, it holds the jewels of wealth and felicity for the people at the beck and call of the inmates.

The nation, the ruler, the fire, the sun, wearing a charming form, shining with forces all round in all four directions, encounters the opposing darkness with the tongue of light and flame. We know not how, with what strength and power, from where this Varuna, best and highest power of justice and wisdom, Bhaga, commanding wealth and felicity, Savita, inspiring all with exhilaration, brings and bestows on us all the cherished gifts of life, how he makes everything possible.

O Ashvins, leading complementarities of nature powers and humanity, ruler and people, leaders and followers, men and women, parents and children, teachers and disciples, blessed participants and celebrants of life for all, I love to be friends with you and pray that I may love, cooperate and be with you day in and day out.

the most precious felicity pervading and participating in the evolution of life, knowing well the gifts of the lord.

rivers and swelling seas promote with love and desire in obedience to the lord. O lord, we pray, may we, blest with energy and felicity of existence, be protectors and promoters of the wealth of the world.

6. *Indraśca vāyaveṣām sutānām pītimarhathaḥ.
Tāñjuṣethām-arepasāvabhi prayah.*

Indra and Vayu, ruler of the land and commander of the defence forces, you deserve a drink of the soma of the nation's power and culture. Come, watch the effects and delicacies of their taste and decency, and, inspired with love and holiness, enjoy the beauties of life.

सु॒ता इ॒न्द्राय॑ वा॒यव॑ सामा॒सा द॒ध्याशि॑रः ।

11. Svasti no mimītām-aśvinā bhagaḥ svasti devya-ditir-anarvaṇaḥ. Svasti pūṣā asuro dadhātu naḥ svasti dyāvāpṛthivī sucetunā.

May the Ashvins, complementarities of nature and humanity such as teachers and preachers, day and night, sun and moon, prana and apana energies, bring us peace and well-being. May Bhaga, lord of glory, bless us with peace and honour. May the eternal imperishable Mother Nature and indivisible Vedic revelation of omniscience bless the independent scholars with peace and spiritual joy and vision. May the nourishment and showers of the life-giving cloud bring us peace and joy. And may the heaven and earth bless us with peace of mind, joy of knowledge and spiritual illumination.

Let us study and describe Vayu, wind, energy, and pursue programmes of peace and joy for our social good and well-being. May the lord ruler who controls and sustains the world be good and kind to us. Let us pray to the Lord of the expansive universe and honour the head of all the world communities for our peace and progress. May the scholars of the highest order and the cycle of the solar phases of time and seasons be good and kind to us for our well-being.

May all the generous divinities of nature and brilliant sages of the world be good and kind to us for our well-being today. May the all pervasive vitality of life's energy be kind and favourable for our peace and well-being. May all the generous scholars and brilliant experts be for our good and advancement in peace with joy. May Rudra, lord of law and justice, be good and kind and save us from sin for our well-being. May all the divinities protect us.

May Mitra and Varuna, sun and moon, prana and udana energies of nature, rich in life's wealth of vitality, be for our good and well-being and guard us to move on the right path of action. May the universal electric energy and the vital heat of life's vitality be kind and good for our well-being. O Mother Nature, eternal and imperishable one, do us good, be kind and gracious.

Let us follow the path of peace, progress and well-being like the sun and moon, moving forward with men of knowledge and self-awareness, giving, receiving and giving again, in our orbit without hurting and encroachment on the rights of others, at the same time maintaining our own identity.

Mandala 5/Sukta 52

Marutah Devata, Shyavashva Atreya Rshi

प॒श्या॑वा॒श्व धृ॑ष्णु॒या चा॑ म॒रुद्भि॑रु॒क्क॒भिः ।

1. *Pra śyāvāśva dhṛṣṇuyā'rcā marudbhir-ṛkvabhiḥ.
Ye adrogham-anuṣvadham śravo madanti

O bold yajaka, riding the spectrum flames of holy fire, honour and celebrate those divinities worthy of reverence and homage who exult with electric vitalities of the winds and vibrancy of dynamic people without hate and jealousy within the laws of nature and their own potential, and who accept the homage and spontaneously respond according to nature.

त हि स्थिरस्य शर्वसुः सखायः सन्ति धृष्णुया ।

2. *Te hi sthirasya śavasah sakhāyaḥ santi dhṛṣṇuyā.
Te yāmannā dhṛṣadvinas-tmanā pānti śaśvataḥ.*

Bold and brilliant, they are friends and constant companions of the strong among the stable minded people, and on the highways of life they, sincerely and spontaneously, protect and promote the brave and resolute always without fail.

त स्पन्दासा ना णा ति ष्कन्दन्ति शर्वरीः ।

3. *Te spandrāso nokṣaṇo'ti ṣkandanti śarvarīḥ.
Marutāmadhā maho divi kṣamā ca manmahe.*

Streaming and overflowing with generosity like the cloud and the sun, they shower the nights and dawns of twilight with showers of rain and dew. We admire and celebrate the grandeur, potential and forbearance of the winds on the heights of heaven and the strength and stability of vibrant people in the brilliance of humanity.

4. Marutsu vo dadhīmahi stomaṁ yajñam ca dhṛṣṇuyā. Viśve ye mānuṣā yugā pānti martyaṁ riṣaḥ.

For you all, let us admire and honour all those of you and hold them among the Maruts as children of stormy winds and rays of light who protect our songs of praise and prayer and promote the flames and fragrance of yajna throughout human history and save humanity from violence with strength and determination.

5. Arhanto ye sudānavo nara asāmiśavasah. Pra yajñam yajñiyebhyo divo arcā marudbhyah.

Honour and admire those leading lights who are deservingly meritorious and commanding, generously charitable, strong and determined, loving and brilliant, and who dedicate their songs and yajna to the dynamic Maruts among humanity worthy of reverence.

6. *Ā rukmairā yudhā nara ṛṣvā ṛṣṭīrasṛṣata. Anvenāñ aha vidyuto maruto jajjhatīriva bhānur-

While the leading lights and mighty warriors with blazing arms launch the attack upon the enemy, then, for sure, upon the heels of these tempestuous forces and shining leaders the light and splendour of the world follows spontaneously like roaring streams of water.

7. Ye vāvṛdhanta pāṛthivā ya urāvantrikṣa ā.
Vṛjane vā nadīnām sadhasthe vā maho divaḥ.

The heroes of the earth who rise in honour and glory, the winds and currents of lightning energy in the wide wide skies, or the roaring waters flowing in the river beds and around, or the splendour of the regions of light, these are the Maruts worthy of honour and celebration with homage.

8. *Śardho mārutamucchaṁsa satyaśavasam-

Honour and celebrate the strength and courage of humanity, admire and value the honest wisdom and rectitude of the scientist and the expert. O leading lights and brave pioneers of the human nation, moving forward with steadiness and dignity, join the onward march of humanity for a noble divine purpose. Join it conscientiously, honestly, without reservation.

9. *Uta sma te paruṣṇyāmūrṇā vasata śundhyavaḥ.
Uta pavyā rathānam-adriṁ bhindantyojasā.*

And they, the Maruts, leading lights and warriors, self-secure on the tortuous paths of existence, shining bright and pure, with their valour and wheels of the chariot ride the clouds and shatter the mountains.

11. *Adhā naro nyohate 'dhā niyuta oḥate.

Leaders of knowledge and advancement, sometimes they carry the burdens by themselves, sometimes appointed as a team in cooperation with others, and sometimes stationed far away: thus their forms and functions are various, wondrous, beautiful and beatific.

12. Chandaḥ stubhaḥ kubhanyava utsamā kīriṇo nṛtuḥ. Te me ke cinna tāyava ūmā āsan dṛṣi tviṣe.

Poetic celebrities, some of them, thirsting for self-expression, burst out in lyrics and sing and dance in divine ecstasy from the depth of the heart. Some of them like streams profusely flowing for us are protectors and saviours, and some of them shine in the sight of the beholder because shine they must by nature.

13. *Ya ṛṣvā ṛṣṭividyutaḥ kavayaḥ santi vedhasaḥ.

Those who are great and strong, formidable scholars of science, of heat, light and electric energy, poetic visionaries, writers and singers, and sages of the sacred love: for that class of dynamic leaders and path finders, O Rshi, seer, sage and scholar, offer reverence and homage and, with the celebrant's words of praise and appreciation, give them the feel of the joy and holiness of their vocation.

14. Accha ṛṣe mārutaṁ gaṇaṁ dānā mitraṁ na yoṣaṇā. Divo vā dhṛṣṇava ojasā stutā dhībhir-iṣaṇyata.

Just as a maiden goes to her chosen friend and love, so, O Rshi, sagely seer and scholar, with gifts of homage, go reverentially to the congregation of the Maruts, dynamic scholars, leaders and divinities of the world. O Maruts, brilliant as light, loving, bold and determined, blazing with splendour, celebrated by the wise and visionaries, come, hasten to our yajna and receive our homage.

15. Nū manvāna eṣāṁ devāñ acchā na vakṣaṇā.
Dānā saceta sūribhir-yāmaśrutebhir-añjibhiḥ.

As the stream flows and meets the sea, so should the man of thought and reverence eagerly meet the Maruts, brilliant and divine natures in humanity, with gifts of homage and associate with the wise and brave, celebrated and gracious scholars, leaders and path makers who are well versed in law and the ethics of conduct.

प य म बन्ध्वेष गां वाचन्त सूरयः पृथ्निं वाचन्त मातरम ।

16. Pra ye me bandhveṣe gāṁ vocanta sūrayaḥ

I meet, associate, and write with the Maruts, those leading lights wise and brave who speak to me as to a friend and brother in search of human and divine bonding. Mighty powerful are they who speak to me of the Holy Word, of heat and light of the sun, the earth and the cow. They speak of the rainbow skies and spaces, and of Mother Nature, and then they reveal to me the omnipresent omnipotent Father and Rudra, lord of justice and mercy.

17. *Sapta me sapta śākina ekamekā śatā daduḥ.

Seven and seven are the Maruts, wise and brave, and each one of them gives me a hundred gifts of knowledge, will and strength for action, and love of life and divine worship. What I have heard comprehensively on yama and niyama, ethics of conduct in social and personal life, and on the subject of success regarding earthly life (abhyudaya), and the philosophy of attainment and ultimate destination and arrival (nihshreyas), I specify and refine for practical application and success in the earthly situation and in relation to the ultimate freedom of Moksha in the personal psychic and spiritual situation.

Who knows the origin of these Maruts? Who was present in the peace and pleasure of the Maruts? Whoever concentrates the mind, meditates on their presence, and joins them, and then has the clear and specific language to describe them, knows these stormy powers.

The people who are innately brilliant, who shine in their open works and achievements, in their speech and expression, in garlands of applause in series of action programmes, in their golds and jewels of honour, and who ride pioneering chariots of nations and resound in the twang of their bow: they are the Maruts.

5. Yuṣmākaṁ smā rathāñ anu mude dadhe maruto jīradānavah. Vṛṣṭi dyāvo yatīriva.

O Maruts, leading lights and unaging pioneers, I take to your chariots for your pleasure and exhilaration and rise to the clouds of shower and lights of heaven.

The treasure wealth of holy vapours, which the generous leading lights of the science of yajna cause to move from the regions of sunlight for the generous creators and givers of food and energy, shower down to the earth and skies: The skies then form the clouds and let them rain down on the earth and the floods move as directed over the thirsty lands.

(This mantra is on the science of rain and irrigation which can further be explained with reference to Chhandogya Upanishad 5, 4, 1 to 5, 8, 2, and Gita 3, 14-16.)

7. Tatṛdānāḥ sindhavaḥ kṣodasā rajaḥ pra sasrur-dhenavo yathā. Syannā āśvā ivādhvano vimocane vi yad vartanta enyah.

Released and freely flowing, soaking and breaking the lands with the flood, the rivers flow over and on, irrigating the lands like mother cows feeding the people. Like horses they go on covering and leaving their track behind, the streams revolve as they go on in their circular course of yajna.

May the earth and her environment never move without light and water for you. May the flowing river and the rolling sea never stop for you. May the wind and vapour, blowing, flowing and refreshing for human habitations never be still. May everything, every force of the Maruts, on the earth and in the environment be for your comfort and well being. Let nothing hold you back.

O citizens and leaders of the world, let us get over the malignant scandalisers and crooked evil mongers, having given up inner evils and despicable failures and adversities with noble thoughts and positive actions. Let us have the showers of peace and united action, waters of holiness, light of truth and wisdom, and food and tonics for good health, all with the Maruts together.

Adore the Maruts, natural saviours and leading lights of humanity, givers of life and food for energy while moving on the holy path of this yajnic celebrant of theirs, rejoicing at the same time like cows running for their favourite grass. Invoke them like ancient eternal friends, and, loving as they are, celebrate them with holy songs of adoration.

For the self-refulgent force and power of the Maruts, leading lights of humanity, offer this song of adoration. And for the renowned yajaka who lights and feeds the fire to adore the divinities of nature through yajna on the heights, moves the clouds and brings the showers, offer gifts of human wealth of high value with songs of praise and appreciation. Loving scholars value the gifts of divinity from the lights of heaven.

2. Pra vo marutas-taviṣā udanyavo vayovṛdho aśva-yujah parijsayah. Saṁ vidyutā dadhati vāśati tritaḥ svarantyāpo'vanā parijsayah.

O Maruts of sky and space, your powerful currents of wind laden with vapours, bearers of food, energy and healthful age for living beings, going all round on the wings of electric energy, take on the thunder of lightning roaring as trinity of wind, water and lightning, and the waters shower over the earth everywhere as harbingers of food and health for all.

3. Vidyunmahaso nara aśmadidyavo vātatviṣo marutaḥ parvatacyutaḥ. Abdayā cinmuhurā hrāduṇīvṛtaḥ stanayadamā rabhasā udojasaḥ.

O leading lights of humanity, know that the Maruts command the mighty electric energy in the skies, light up the thunder, energise the winds and break the clouds. Blazing with splendour, ferocious with force, roaring with thunder, they wear the rumble of spatial boom shaking the mountains and burst in floods of incessant rain.

4. Vyaktūn rudrā vyahāni śikvaso vyantarikṣaṁ vi rajāṁsi dhūtayaḥ. Vi yadajrāñ ajatha nāva īm yathā vi durgāṇi maruto nāha riṣyatha.

O potent Maruts, mighty blazing and roaring powers of cosmic winds, Rudras, breakers and makers of things, you shake the nights and days in and out, you shake the skies and atmosphere, you move the particles of matter and pass over regions as the ship sails over the sea. You break open the strongholds of nature and yet you never hurt nor destroy.

5. Tad vīryaṁ vo maruto mahitvanam dīrgham tatāna sūryo na yojanam. Etā na yāme agrbhī-tasociṣo'naśvadāṁ yannyayātana girim.

That lustre and splendour of yours, that extensive grandeur of yours radiates like the light and gravitation of the sun. Incomprehensible is the course of your radiations of energy which penetrates even the dark and densest clouds and mountains which are otherwise impenetrable.

O Maruts, leading lights of nature and humanity, commanders of strength, creativity and intelligence, your power and splendour is apparent as it shines since, like a storm, it shakes the flood and the forest. O friends and comrades, guide our activity relentlessly in motion onward on the straight and right path just as the eye shows the path to the traveller and helps him to move on and makes it easy for him to follow.

O Maruts, divine powers of nature and brilliant leading lights of humanity, the person you protect and guide, mature, refine and temper is never overcome, nor killed, nor decays, fears or falls, nor hurts anyone. Nor do his powers, honours and excellence, defences and protections ever deplete and exhaust. Indeed, the person grows in knowledge as a sage and shines bright in splendour as a leader and ruler.

8. Niyutvanto grāmajito yathā nara 'ryamaṇo na marutaḥ kavandhinaḥ. Pinvantyutsam yadināso asvaran vyundanti prthivīm madhvo andhasā.

Great organisers, winners of multitudes and human habitations like leading lights, makers of men and dispensers of justice on the paths of life, the Maruts are reservoirs of vitality and exhilaration like the clouds of living waters and freshness of breeze. And when the mighty forces set out in motion, whistling, roaring, thundering, they fill the rivers, lakes and oceans over and surfeit the earth with honey sweets of food and energy for the joy of life.

9. Pravatvatīyaṁ prthivī marudbhyaḥ pravatvatī dyaurbhavati prayadbhyaḥ. Pravatvatīḥ pathyā antarikṣyāḥ pravatvantaḥ parvatā jīradānavaḥ.

The wide world of abundant ways opens and clears its highways for the Maruts, adventurers who move like winds. The heaven of light extends all her expansive spaces for those who fly. The regions of the skies open up their paths for the winds, and the life giving clouds and mountains open up their depths and caverns for the heroes of initiative and adventure.

O Maruts, leading lights of the love of life and joy of heaven, you bear the burdens of life together for all and lead them all to celestial joy and the truth of Dharma. You feel delighted and celebrate the sunrise, and never do your horses in harness relent, but galloping on at high speed reach the destined end of this existential highway.

O Maruts, warriors of the winds for humanity, on your shoulders are blazing lances, at your feet your assistants, on your chests are shining corselets, on your chariot are flames of the purity of fire, in your hands are flashes of lightning, and on your heads are protective golden helmets. Victory is assured.

O Maruts, leading celebrants of action and Divinity, like a master of his own freedom in the laws of Truth and Divinity, shake the tree of existence by your noble action, bring down the balance sheet of your fruits of karma to Zero and win that rewarding state of ultimate freedom and bliss, void of suffering, beyond comprehension, which is pure ineffable refulgence of Divinity. Winding up their tally of karma, dismantling their fortifications, shining in the light divine, waxing in their search for Truth, when the celebrants raise the chant of Aum, they declare the victory and rest at the end of the road.

O Maruts, leading lights of wisdom and vision for humanity, masters of discriminative knowledge, travelling by radiations of Divinity in the mind, let us, we pray, be masters of the life-giving wealth of light divine given by you. O Maruts, bless us with that wealth of thousandfold value which decays not but shines like a star of heaven for ever.

O Maruts, leading lights of humanity, you protect and promote the heroic wealth, honour and excellence of the nation with her heroes. You revere, protect and promote the sage who chants the hymns of Samaveda in celebration of humanity and Divinity. You bear and bring the food, energy and the speed of progress for the maintenance of life on the globe, and you hold and maintain the harmonious, dynamic and glorious social order on earth.

O Maruts, leading lights of humanity and generous divinities of nature, instant givers of protection and all round support, listen and accept this holy voice of mine: I feel blest with that wealth of yours by which we can promote the life of humanity as in a heaven of bliss on earth, and by which we would live a happy life over a hundred years with strength and success.

Adorable Maruts, devout pioneers and leading lights of yajnic progress in unison with humanity, commanding vast knowledge and power to bear the mighty burdens of life, wielding brilliant weapon in hand with golden corselet on the chest, press forward by coursers of instant speed controlled by sense and judgement. So do their noble chariots on and on.

Let the chariots roll on with the leading lights on way to the land of honour and excellence.

Great and glorious as you are, you know, you hold and command the blazing forces by yourself, and while you go over, explore and know the vast earth and the environment, rule accordingly and shine. And let the chariots roll on with the blazing pioneers and with their might and splendour traverse the skies and spaces.

O Maruts, ruling lights of the earth, just as the winds raise vapours from the seas and shower them down from the sky, so you inspire the people, energise the earth, shake up the clouds and bring the showers of prosperity from the seas and spaces. O wondrous workers and generous leaders, the fertilities of nature, sunlight, earths and cows never desert you, nor ever exhaust for you. Let the chariots of life roll on with the leading lights of generosity to happiness and prosperity.

O Maruts, windy travellers of the skies, when you use liquid fuel and air for motive power in the front part of your chariot, put on your protective golden suit and release the energy drop by drop and spark by spark, you leave behind all the contestants on the journey. Let the chariots roll on with the travellers of space for a noble cause for a noble destination.

O Maruts, leading lights of life, rulers of the earth and travellers of the sky and spaces, give us peace and comfort. Hurt us not. Bring us abundant joy in a happy home. Come, listen and accept our song of friendship and adoration, and show us the right path. Let the chariots roll on with the leading light of knowledge, love and adventure for the good of all life on earth.

O Maruts, leading lights of yajna, lords in command of the world's wealth, adorable performers of yajna, come you all, happy, singing and rejoicing, join our yajna and enjoy the sweets of our yajnic homage. Lead us from all adversities to excellence and prosperity. We pray: may we be masters, protectors and promoters of the world's wealth, honour and excellence for all.

1. Agne śardhantamā gaṇaṁ piṣṭaṁ rukmebhir-añjibhiḥ. Viśo adya marutāmava hvaye divaścid rocanādadhi.

Agni, ruler of the land, today I call upon the most daring troop of the Maruts, commandos of the nation decorated with golden honours of rainbow brilliancy from amongst the most shining and intelligent defence forces of the country.

As you believe at heart that they are such and honour them sincerely, so they would instantly come closest to you and to your expectations in response to your call. Then encourage and promote them, they are just pictures of terror for the enemies.

3. Mīḥuṣmatīva pṛthivī parāhatā madantyetysmadā. Ṛkṣo na vo marutaḥ śimīvāṁ amo dudhro gauriva bhīmayuḥ.

Like a youthful woman wedded to a virile husband, the earth, unhurt and rejoicing, comes to us for protection, defence and promotion. O Maruts, youthful warrior defenders of the land, like a shooting star is your force, strong, unchallengeable, and terrible as a mighty bull.

The Maruts are those heroes who rush forth with their valour and splendour, throw off the yoke like untamable bulls and scatter the enemy forces, and with their advances shake up resounding mountains and break up thundering clouds.

And now, O Maruts, adventurers and explorers of the earth, that volatile, wondrous and vociferous energy of red flames is here used in the chariot. It would not delay you any more in your advancement. Ignite and accelerate it in the chariots.

I admire that force and power of your chariot, shining, adorable and good for the chariot, in which are exalted the generous earth-and-heaven energies, nobly manifested and beneficent in abundance as friends of the Maruts.

O Rudras, powers of justice, rectitude and dispensation, commanding honour, power and excellence of the world, loving kind and friendly, going by golden chariots of glory with gifts of good fortune, prosperity and well being for all, this love, desire, understanding and prayer of us all is addressed to you: Come like a wave of divine nectar for the thirsty waiting for a drink on the shore.

O Maruts, tempestuous heroes of the world, children of the essence of nature in love with the earth, you are blest with the voice of thunder, light of knowledge, wisdom and understanding of the speed of mind, mighty bows, unfailing arrows and inexhaustible quivers, noble steeds and excellent chariots and the best arms and armaments. Go forward, noble heroes, and do good to all.

O Maruts, children of the firmament, winds and tempests of nature's energy, you agitate the regions of light, break the clouds and shake the mountains to create wealth for the generous giver. At your approach forests shake with fear and the earth vibrates when in a state of passion for water showers you join and charge the clouds of vapour.

The Maruts command the fury and splendour of the winds. Cleansed and anointed by holy water, they replete the showers of love and justice all the year round. They are highly impressive and handsome in body and mind as self-controlled people are. They command the moderate yellow as well as the intense red flames of the yajnic fires of life's dynamics. Untouched by sinful involvements, refined and discriminative in thought and judgement, they are refulgent like the sun and large-hearted like space by virtue of their innate greatness.

5. Purudrapsā añjimantaḥ sudānavas-tveṣasaṁ-drśo anavabhrarādhasaḥ. Sujātāso januṣā rukma-vakṣaso divo arkā amṛtaṁ nāma bhejire.

Universally generous like the perennial stream of soma and showers of nature's joy, versatile of form and action as light in spectrum colours, holy and vastly charitable, they see the reality in all its variety of true colours as light reveals the real forms without screen effects. Commanding imperishable wealth, power and competence in their own right by birth and genetic merit of previous karma, they wear their beauty and regality of life and conduct in their heart and hands. Loving, brilliant and adorable, the Maruts define, deserve, serve and thus justify the name and description: Immortal.

6. Rṣṭayo vo maruto aṁsayoradhi saha ojo bāhvorvo balaṁ hitam. Nṛmṇā śīrṣasvāyudhā ratheṣu vo viśvā vaḥ śrīradhi tanūṣu pipiṣe.

O Maruts, leading lights of humanity, on your shoulders you bear the blazing lances and the burdens of forbearance with courage and splendour of life, while the force of action is concentrated in your hands. On your heads you carry the care and comfort of humanity with the arms and ammunitions of protection and progress in your chariots. Indeed, the entire wealth and honour, beauty and grace of life reflects in your body and personality.

7. Gomad-aśvāvad rathavat suvīraṁ candravad rādho maruto dadā naḥ. Praśastiṁ naḥ kṛṇuta rudriyāso bhakṣīya vo'vaso daivyasya.

O Maruts, leading lights of humanity, generous divinities of nature, indomitable powers of love and justice, give us the wealth of lands, cows and the revealing language of knowledge bright as sun rays. Give us the force of noble heroes equipped with fast transport and uninterrupted communications. Give us wealth and competence for success with the beauty and graces of culture. Promote our power and prestige so that we may share and participate in your human protection and divine evolution to the grace of freedom and immortality.

8. Haye nara maruto mṛlatā nastuvīmaghāso amṛtā rtajñāḥ. Satyaśrutaḥ kavayo yuvāno brhadviraya brhadukṣamānāḥ.

O Maruts, leading lights of humanity and divinities of nature, commanders of unbounded wealth, honour and excellence, immortal souls, learned sages of the laws of nature and time, world renowned voices of truth, poetic visionaries young beyond aging and debility, diviners into the infinite Word and world languages, heroes of universal generosity and generative vitality, bless us with wealth of the world, peace of mind and everlasting grace.

Maruts Devata, Shyavashva Atreya Rshi

तमु नूनं तविषीमन्तमषां स्तुष गृणं मारुतं नव्यसीनाम ।

1. Tamu nūnaṁ taviṣīmantameṣāṁ stuṣe gaṇaṁ mārutaṁ navyasīnām. Ya āśvaśvā amavad vahanta uteśire amṛtasya svarājah.

I admire the blazing, tempestuous group of these Maruts, modern self governing people who, possessed of the fastest transports and communications, move like storms, a very picture of velocity, and, shining and self-controlled, dominate over the regions of the immortals.

त्वषं गृणं तवसं खादिहस्तं धुनिवतं मायिनं दातिवारम ।

2. Tveṣaṁ gaṇaṁ tavaśaṁ khādihastam dhunivratam māyinaṁ dātivāram. Mayobhuvo ye amitā mahitvā vandasva vipra tuvirārdhaso nṛn.

O sagely scholar, admire and exalt that group of leading lights, brave, generous and dexterous of hand, enthusiastically committed to noble causes, wondrous workers abundantly charitable, who are versatile achievers without reserve or bounds by virtue of their own innate strength and expertise and who are a tremendous source of peace and prosperity.

आ वा यन्तूदवाहासा अद्य वृष्टिं य विश्वं मरुता जुनन्ति ।

3. Ā vo yantūdavāhāso adya vṛṣṭim ye viśve maruto junanti. Ayam yo agnīrmarutaḥ samiddha etaṁ juṣadhvaṁ kavayo yuvānaḥ.

O Maruts, eminent leaders and pioneers, may all those winds of the firmament come to you to-day in this yajna which bear the clouds and impel the rain showers. O leading scholars and scientists, poetic visionaries and youthful researchers, lighted is this fire, come and take it over for the rain yajna.

4. Yūyaṁ rājānamiryaṁ janāya vibhvataṣṭaṁ janayathā yajatrāḥ. Yuṣmadeti muṣṭihā bāhujūto yuṣmat sadaśvo marutaḥ suvīraḥ.

O Maruts, leading lights of the nation, holy performers meeting and working together for yajnic development, you create the inspiring ruler who is an architect of the nation. From you arises the administrator of strong hand and will. From you arise the warriors of strong arms, and from you arises the brave man, the hero who commands the army, the cavalry and the flying force for the people.

5. Arā ivedacaramā aheva prapra jāyante akavā mahobhiḥ. Prśneḥ putrā upamāso rabhiṣṭhāḥ svayā matyā marutaḥ saṁ mimikṣu.

Like the spokes of a wheel in motion, together, undivided, equal and integrated, whole, generative, the Maruts rise anew like days on and on with their power and forces. Children of mother earth, firmament and radiations of sunlight, strongest and most eminent, with their own perception, understanding, dedication and determination, they analyse, catalyse, integrate and generate new ideas, forces, institutions and traditions, all renewed and revitalised.

By their motive forces and chariots equipped with strong wheels of initiative and advancement, the Maruts proceed with showers of new life as leaders and pioneers of a new age, and as they proceed, the dormant vapours of life agitate with new ferment and join the rays of the sun, the cloud roars with thunder and lightning and the earth receives the showers of new life.

As the Maruts proceed, the earth waxes with desire and fertility. Like the husband man, the Maruts shower their own vitality on earth as the seed of new life. Thus do the Maruts, forces of new life, generative and enlightened, commanding power and judgement, yoke new winds and motive forces to the chariot of life and move the wheels of history forward with the shower of their own sweat of the brow.

8. Haye nara maruto mṛlatā nastuvīmaghāso amṛtā ṛtajñāḥ. Satyaśrutaḥ kavayo yuvāno bṛhadgirayo bṛhadukṣamāṇāḥ.

O Maruts, leading lights of history, be kind and gracious and rejoice with us. You command the grandeur of life's wealth, honour and excellence. You are the immortal spirit of humanity, observers of Law and Truth, renowned and blest with the Revelation of Truth, poetic visionaries, ever young and modern, masters of universal voice and blest with the spirit of renewal and regeneration.

Adore and exalt those who are close to you, who do good and observe truth and law in their character, conduct and action for you, for your welfare, for the generous, and for the earth, the firmament and the regions of light. They energise the motive forces, radiate their light and lustre upto the regions of space and attain their ends by the seas.

2. Amādeṣāṃ bhiyasā bhūmirejati naurna pūrṇā kṣarati vyathiryatī. Dūredrṣo ye citayanta emabhir-antarmahe vidathe yetire naraḥ.

By the power and force of these Maruts, the earth trembles with fear and, like an overloaded boat going over the sea, shakes in agitation under pressure. Seen from far, they are known by their movements and, leading lights as they are, they go forward in the great battle business of life and its organisation.

For the beauty of the regions of the earth, you are like the highest peak of mountain ranges. In the shower of vapour and in the clearance of mists, you are like the sun, eye of the world. You are handsome and excellent like race horses, and, O leaders and pioneers, you shine like rays of the sun for the glory of humanity.

O Maruts, leading lights of the world, you are great. Who can reach your grandeur and achievements? Who can realise your divine vision and imaginative creations? O virile heroes, who can approach your power and potential? You illuminate the earth as sun beams and even shake it like particles of dust, while you rain down showers of generosity as gifts for the charity and welfare of the people.

O Maruts, leading lights of the world, sanguine and bold, you are ever going forward like horses on the course, uninterrupted. Brotherly and friendly toward all equally, fighting like warriors for all, you are always struggling for a better world. Rising and growing like mortal life forms, you are evolving continuously. And with the torrents of rain you dim the blazing light of the sun in mist.

None highest, none lowest, none middling, among them, they are equals all, burst forth into life through layers of impediments. Nobly born by nature, children of heaven, earth and the firmament, they are mortals, humans all, who, as we wish, come to us and appreciate us all. They grow and rise by their own strength and grandeur.

They soar together like flights of birds with the innate force of their light and lustre over mighty mountain peaks across the middle regions to the bounds of expansive heaven. Commanding the two-way motion of their circuitous energy, they shake the clouds of the sky and break them into showers.

May the heaven of light and mother earth bless us and help us rise in light and generosity, peace and joy. May the dawns, wonderful givers, join us and help us to rise in beauty and grace of life. O Rshi, lord of universal vision, may these Maruts, children of the lord of justice and rectitude, sung and adored, singing and rejoicing, shower the treasure of heavenly light and joy on earth.

1. Īḷe agniṁ svavasam namobhiriha prasatto vi cayat kṛtaṁ naḥ. Rathairiva pra bhare vājayad-bhiḥ pradakṣiṇin-marutām stomam-ṛdhyām.

Collecting the work already done for us in the field, happy and enthusiastic, in perfect faith with relentless dedication and investments, I study and adore Agni, heat, light and electric energy, rich source of protection and progress, in order to extend the knowledge, hoping that, going round the world as if by tempestuous chariots of the winds in right order, I would raise the song of celebration in honour of the scholars and humanity. May the lord of knowledge accept and consecrate our work!

2. Ā ye tasthuḥ pṛṣatīṣu śrutāsu sukheṣu rudrā maruto ratheṣu. Vanā cidugrā jihate ni vo bhīyā pṛthivī cid rejate parvataścīt.

Rudras, pranic energies of life and natural catalysis, Maruts, heat, light, electric and wind energies, which abide and energise streams and showers, which work in means of transport and comfort, and which are described in works of revelation and research, are mighty, tempestuous and blazing. O Rudras and Maruts, catalytic, integrative and regenerative energies, under your power and fear of natural law the sun-rays radiate, the forests tremble, the earth moves and shines, the clouds break and the mountains shake.

O Maruts, tempestuous energies of divine omnipotence, when you agitate, blow and flow together like streams of water—which is just your play in life—the densest cloud and the great ancient mountain cower in fear and the top bounds of the regions of light vibrate with the waves of your boundless roar.

Like eminent people nobly born in life's affluence who adorn themselves with their innate graces and golden attainments of culture and education, the Maruts, leading lights of humanity, commanding honour and excellence, riding their chariots, do great actions of truth and rectitude in their life and conduct for the beauty of human culture and grace of living as reflections of their inner self.

None highest, none lowest, all equal as brothers together, the Maruts, leading lights of life and humanity, work and grow and advance for the honour and prosperity of life and living. Their father and creator, Rudra, lord omnipotent of justice and dispensation, ever young, giver of sustenance, and mother earth and the firmament, ever abundant and generous for the Maruts through the bright days, look after them and inspire them.

O Maruts, creators of prosperity, honour and excellence, and Rudras, leading lights of justice and rectitude, and Agni, leading light of knowledge, whether you abide in the highest, or middle or the lowest regions of life and action, or in the light of heaven, establish us in right knowledge and action of the transparent order, and know of our action and homage which we offer to Divinity in our life.

O Agni, leading light, and Maruts, dynamic leaders and pioneers, blest with knowledge and wealth of the world, you abide on top of the regions of light and love by your own will and desire and bring down showers of light and wisdom. O leaders and pioneers, such as you are, movers and shakers of the negatives, and as you rejoice on the vedi with the yajakas, bring down the gift of life's wealth and beauty from over the levels of ordinary mortals for the yajamana and the creative soma yajaka.

O leading light of the world, Agni, Vaishvanara, power and passion of life, friend and associate of higher light and wisdom by virtue of your character and conduct, come rejoicing to the vedi, share and enjoy the sweets of soma, life's joy, wealth, honour and excellence in the company of the Maruts, dynamic people on the march who are pure and gracious, praise-worthy, pride of the republic, purifying, inspiring, strengthening and beautifying the world, people who love life and add to the grace of life by living well and gracefully.

19. *Eṣa kṣeti rathavītir-maghavā gomātīranu.
Parvateṣvapaśritaḥ.*

This man of yajnic action, honour and excellence travelling by chariot straight like rays of the sun across the clouds lives in the world and reaches his destination without difficulty.

Mandala 5/Sukta 62Mitra - Varuna Devata, Shrutavid Atreya Rshi

1. Rtena ṛtamapihitam dhruvaṁ vāṁ sūryasya yatra vimucantyaśvān. Daśa śatā saha tasthus-tadekaṁ devānām śreṣṭhaṁ vapuṣāmapaśyam.

O Mitra and Varuna, light and life of the universe, I know the thousand radiations, and I have seen that one fixed centre of your reality, Rtam, Eternal Truth, covered by Rtam, cosmic manifestations of its mutability and the laws of mutability, where the radiations converge and wherefrom they are released around. And that eternal centre is the essential, ultimate and highest form of all existential forms of divinity, the One and yet many at the same time.

2. Tat su vāṁ mitrāvaruṇā mahitvamīrmā tasthu-ṣīrahabhir-duduhre. Viśvāḥ pinvathāḥ svasaras-ya dhenā anu vāmekah pavirā vavarta.

O Mitra and Varuna, sun and the surrounding waters of life, that living grandeur of yours, the One constant impeller of life, the unmoved mover, Spirit of existence at the centre, vests in the immovable forms of life, herbs and trees, by days and nights. Thus you nourish all the streams of life while one of you, the sun, goes round and round in orbit by the law of the One at the centre.

3. Adhārayataṁ prthivīmuta dyāṁ mitrarājānā varuṇā mahobhiḥ. Vardhayatamoṣadhīḥ pinvataṁ gā ava vṛṣṭim sṛjataṁ jīradanū.

Mitra and Varuna, sun and space, light and law, heat and water, refulgent rulers of the world, generous creators and givers, together with your powers and actions, you hold the earth and heaven, feed and promote the greenery of nature, sustain the planets, and create and shower the rains.

4. Ā vāmaśvāsaḥ suyujo vahantu yatarāśmaya upa yantvarvāk. Ghṛtasya nirṇiganu vartate vāmupa sindhavaḥ pradivi kṣaranti.

Mitra and Varuna, rulers and scientists of the world, may your motive forces of transport well used and well steered like horses by reins and light by rays bear you and bring you hither. Purified and reinforced waters and liquid fuels are under your command, and let streams of water flow when the fire is ignited.

5. Anu śrutāmamatiṁ vardhadurvīm barhiriva yajuṣā rakṣamāṇā. Namasvantā dhṛtadakṣādhi garte mitrāsāthe varuṇēlāsvantaḥ.

Mitra and Varuna, leading lights and dynamic forces of the world, in keeping with Vedic tradition and your own honour and fame, enhancing your personality and character, preserving and promoting the wide earth and environment, like protecting and augmenting the light and fire of yajna with mantric chants of application and acts of self-sacrifice, with wealth of food and energy for input, and commanding strength and expertise, you sit at the high steer of the nation and join centres of production and progress across the earth.

Mitra and Varuna, leading lights of vision and judgement, ruling and refulgent powers of humanity, kind and loving nobilities of non-violent hands, holy of action, helpful for others, seated at the centres of yajnic activity over the earth's regions, ruling and protecting the social order without hurting and damaging it, both of you bear and hold up the order of a thousand pillars together and protect it against fear and violence of terror.

7. *Hirṇyanirṇigayo asya sthūṇā vi bhrājate divya-

This social order is distinctive, discriminative between gold and merely glittering. It rests on pillars of gold, and it shines like lightning in the skies. Its policy is framed and defined in the house of holiness or, let us say, on the fields of fertility. Let us hope and pray we join and share the honey sweets created by the leading lights and rulers of judgement at the helm of the nation and by the people in the home by the fire-side.

8. Hiranyarūpamuṣaso vyuṣṭāvayaḥ sthūṇamuditā sūryasya. Ā rohatho varuṇa mitra gartamataś-cakṣāthe aditiṁ ditiṁ ca.

O Mitra and Varuna, rulers and leaders of the earth, commanding vision and judgement, at the break of dawn and rise of the sun you ride your chariot of golden pillars and take your seat on the helm and thence watch the realm for what is permanent of value and preservable and what is merely transient and destructible.

O Mitra and Varuna, ruler and leading lights of strength and judgement, generous as breath of life, unchallengeable protectors of the world, come and bless us with that greatest, highest and imperishable home of protection in which, sharing the honey sweets of life with all, we may live to achieve our ambition for victory in the struggle of existence.

1. Ṛtasya gopāvadhi tiṣṭhatho ratham satyadharm-āṇā parame vyomani. Yamatra mitrāvaruṇ-āvatho yuvaṁ tasmai vṛṣṭir-madhumat pinvate divaḥ.

Mitra and Varuna, lord of light and lord of justice and rectitude, ruler and judge, guardians of truth and law, observers of truth and law and eternal Dharma, you abide in the highest regions of existence in the presence of Divinity and ride over the chariot of life and the state while you occupy the highest seats of the social order. In this state, whoever you protect is blest, rains of honey sweets shower on him from heaven above.

Mitra, lord of love and friendship, Varuna, lord of judgement and discrimination, rulers and leading lights of this world, you shine in splendour and reveal the light of Divinity in the yajnic business of life on the earth. Just as thunder and lightning light and shake the earth and sky, so do you rule the earth. We pray to you for the shower of joy, success and the nectar sweets of immortal values in this mortal state of life.

Mitra and Varuna, ruler and leading lights like sun and shower, shining in majesty, blazing with splendour, brave and generous, guardians of heaven and light of the earth, watchful observers of the world, wielding wondrous clouds of rain and power, you stay close by us and send down showers of rain and roar of thunder by the awful force of light and winds of nature's breath of life.

Mitra and Varuna, lord of light and lord of bliss, ruler and leading lights of the social order, your power and generosity is based in the light of Divinity and issues from there. The sun, an agent and manifestation of the same, shines with its light as weapon of enlightenment and purification. You cover the sun with an ocean of vapour and energy of cosmic electricity in the regions of light, then the cloud is formed and showers of honey drops fall as rain.

5. Ratham yuñjate marutaḥ śubhe sukhaṁ śūro na mitrāvaruṇā gaviṣṭiṣu. Rajāṁsi citrā vi caranti tanyavo divaḥ samrājā payasā na ukṣatam.

O Mitra and Varuna, generous ruler and enlightened leaders, the Maruts, dynamic scientists and engineers, brave as warriors and tempestuous as winds, design and structure a faultless chariot and use it for the comfort and welfare of mankind. They rise in the company of sunrays to the wonderful regions of the skies, light and lightning in yajnic programmes for the good of all. O brilliant leaders, give us showers of water, milk, generative energy and creative vision.

Just as the cloud deeply filled with vapour and highly generous rumbles with its voice of thunder and showers rains of water, fertilising, exciting and pure, similarly, O scholars, teachers and preachers, loving as Mitra, friend, and discriminative as Varuna, the judge, speak to us that language of knowledge and wisdom which is comforting, refreshing, regenerative and life giving, wonderfully engaging and illuminating, full of wonder and variety and light of life. Let the dynamic people, vibrant as winds live in plenty like the cloud, and rise to the light of heaven with knowledge and power. Powerful as Indra, brilliant as Sun, and generous as Prajapati, give us the showers of knowledge and speech, holy, bright and blazing, free of sin and evil.

7. Dharmaṇā mitrāvaruṇā vipāścītā vratā rakṣethe asurasya māyayā. Ṛtena viśvaṁ bhuvanaṁ vi rājathaḥ sūryamā dhattho divi citryaṁ ratham.

Mitra, O lord of light and love, and Varuna, lord of law and justice, knowing and discriminative, dedicated to the observance of the Law, you uphold, protect and promote the entire world of existence in order by Dharma, Rtam, cosmic dynamics and the innate strength and will of life. You shine in manifestation by Law and you maintain the sun in the regions of light like a marvellous chariot on the highway by the Law.

O Mitra, friend, O Varuna, friend of justice, which one of you is not praised and appreciated? Which one of you is not best of form and function in manifestation? Indeed, all our thoughts and reflections turn to you in homage. All our adorations are addressed to the powers free from evil and injustice, to those who command knowledge and good action beyond threefold miseries of body, mind and soul of the individual, society and humanity.

5. Vṛṣṭidyāvā rītyāpeṣaspatī dānumatyāḥ.
Bṛhantaṁ gartamāśāte.

Harbingers of showers from heaven, making the waters flow on earth, creating, preserving and promoting the energy, fertility and production of the generous earth and environment, ruling and realising the desires and aspirations of humanity, Mitra and Varuna bring about a great and expansive haven of peace, prosperity and felicity on earth.

O Mitra and Varuna, nourishing, energising and radiating are your rays of light, fluent and overflowing your showers and streams of milk, honey and life giving waters. Three are abiding clouds of virility and fertility inspired with love and vested with vibrant life seeds of the three mighty regions, radiating with knowledge, karma and worship, O brilliant ones.

4. Yā dhartārā rajaso rocanasyotādityā divyā pārthivasya. Na vāṃ devā amṛtā ā minanti vratāni mitrāvaruṇā dhruvāṇi.

O Mitra and Varuna, light and life of existence, who are wielders and sustainers of the regions of the earth, the middle regions of the skies and the highest regions of light and all the heavenly stars, no brilliant humans, no divinities of nature, no immortals ever violate your laws of eternal constancy.

Mandala 5/Sukta 70

Mitra - Varuna Devata, Uruchakri Atreya Rshi

पुरुुरुणा चिद्ध्यस्त्यवा नूनं वां वरुण ।

मित्र वंसि वां सुमतिम ॥ १ ॥

1. *Purūruṇā ciddhyastyavo nūnaṁ vām varuṇa.

4. *Mā kasyādbhutakratū yakṣaṁ bhujemā tanūbhiḥ.
Mā śeṣasā mā tanasā.*

O Mitra and Varuna, friend and justicier, accomplishers of wonderful acts of yajna, creation and production, let us never grab, consume, live on or live by any body else's share of yajnic sustenance, nor withhold our share of yajnic contribution for our selfish purposes, either for our own person or for our children and friends, either for the present or for future. (Help us to live by our own effort.)

3. Īrmānyad vapuṣe vapuścakram rathasya yemathuḥ. Paryanyā nāhuṣā yugā mahnā rajāṁsi dīyathah.

Ashvins, instantly moving harbingers of light and energy, one brilliant wheel of your chariot, one part of your circuit, you have set in motion for the expression of your brilliance by the sun. By the other, like night after the day and by the circle of night and day, you complete the circle of the day and year and thereby with your might and splendour you illuminate the terrestrial and ethereal regions and count up the ages of humanity on earth.

1. Ā bhātyagnir-uṣasāmanīkam-ud viprāṇāṁ devayā vāco asthuḥ. Arvāñcā nūnaṁ rathyeha yātaṁ pipivāmsam-aśvinā gharmam-accha.

The holy fire of the sun shines here while the splendour of the dawn radiates as advance forces of the solar fire, and the holy voices of the sages arise in adoration. O Ashvins, vitalities of divinity, reach here by chariot of the dawn and join the rising fire of the house-hold yajna of noble men and women.

Ashvins, divinities of nature and humanity, most auspicious harbingers of peace and joy, invoked and invited to the yajna here, celebrated and adored, coming at the fastest, almost instantly reaching with protection and promotion at the rise of the day, you do not destroy, nor restrict, nor confine what has been refined, seasoned and sanctified by yajna. In fact, you bring safety and security against adversity and self-betrayal for the generous yajamana at his closest.

3. Utā yātaṁ saṁgave prātar-ahno madhyandina uditā sūryasya. Divā naktam-avasā śaṁtamena nedānīm pītiraśvinā tatāna.

And this exuberance of yajnic celebration and joy is not confined to the present moment only, it extends over days and nights. Come Ashvins, divinities of nature and nobilities of men and women, come at the rise of dawn, at mid day when the sun is risen up on high, in the evening when the cows come home. Come all day and night with your gifts of safety and security, peace and joy.

4. Idaṁ hi vāṁ pradivi sthānamoka ime gr̥hā aśvinedaṁ duroṇam. Ā no divo br̥hataḥ parvatādā'dbhyo yātam-iṣamūrjaṁ vahantā.

Ashvins, harbingers of light, enlightened men and women, this house, these inmates, this open door home, all this is your ancient abode in the very light of heaven. Come here, bearing and bringing for us nutriments and energy from the vast regions of light and space, cloud and mountains, and from the waters of earth and space.

5. Samaśvinor-avasā nutanena mayobhuvā supraṇīti gamema. Ā no rayiṁ vahatamota vīrān-ā viśvānya-mṛtā saubhagāni.

May we join, unite and move on with the latest and blissful protection and ethics, morals and policy of the Ashvins, leading lights of the world. O leaders and pioneers of life in nature and history, bring us, lead us to, wealth, honour and excellence, valiant children and all the gifts of good fortune and immortality in the world.

Arise, meet and adore the Ashvins, first early morning visitors and harbingers of holy light and life's vitalities. They join and bless the yajna and shower and share the soma before the covetous grabbers and hoarders are up. They join and guide the yajnic business of life while the saints and sages, men of poetic vision and intelligence, earliest sharers of the bliss, sing in praise of the leading lights of divinity.

2. Prātaryajadhvam-aśvinā hinota na sāyamasti devayā ajuṣṭam. Utānyo asmad yajate vi cāvaḥ pūrvāḥ pūrvo yajamāno vanīyān.

Invoke the Ashvins early morning, join the leading lights and adore them at yajna, evening is not the favourite time of the lovers of divinity as the morning. And who else other than us, is the yajaka who loves and adores the Ashvins in yajna, and worthy of love and reverence, the earlier, the worthier, anywhere, anyone? None.

Ashvins, leading lights of divinity, scholars, scientists and engineers, your chariot comes hither laden with gold, honey sweet and charming, bringing showers of water and ghr̥ta, carrying wealth of food and energy. It is fast as mind and powerful as wind and storm by which you cross over all hurdles and evils of the world.

One who serves and works with the Ashvins, leading lights of divinity and humanity, all free from untruth and falsehood, achieves by his creative works abundant cherished food. He shares the food and success with others in yajnic living, advances his rising generation by the same works, surpasses those who do not raise the sacred-fire, and always destroys the evils.

1. *Aśvināveha gacchataṁ nāsatyā mā vi venatam.
Haṁsāviva patatamā sutāñ upa.*

Ashvins, complementary sustainers of life as air and water, men and women, teachers and disciples, ever true to reality, come together into the world, be not ill-disposed or hostile, fly like a pair of swans hither to the distilled sweets of life.

अ॒श्विना॒ हरि॑णा॒विव॑ गा॒रावि॑वानु॒ यव॑सम ।

3. Aśvinā vājinīvasū juṣethām yajñamiṣṭaye.
Hamsāviva patatamā sutāñ upa.

Ashvins, twin divines like teachers and researchers, creators and developers of food and energy for speed and progress, come and join our programme of development for the realisation of our cherished goals. Fly like a couple of swans to the pleasures of life's achievement.

5. Vi jihīṣva vanaspate yoniḥ sūṣyantyā iva. Śrutam me aśvinā havam saptavadhriṁ ca muñcatam.

O man, spirit of desire, as the baby on maturity leaves the folds of the mother's womb, so give up the bonds of mortality to freedom. O Ashvins, harbingers of knowledge and freedom, listen to my call of prayer, release saptavadhri, the spirit that has lived out the fivefold sense experience and the two-fold adventure of thought and desire.

6. Bhītāya nādhamānāya ṛṣaye saptavadhraye. Māyābhiraśvinā yuvaṁ vṛkṣaṁ saṁ ca vi cācathah.

Ashvins, complementary powers of evolution, discrimination and vision, for the man in fear of existence, for the supplicant in sufferance, for the sage of vision, and for the man of sevenfold bondage of sense and mind, for all these, with your divine powers, let the tree of life seed and grow well for experience and then let it fall off for the soul's freedom.

8. *Yathā vāto yathā vanam yathā samudra ejati.
Evā tvaṁ daśamāsyā sahāvehi jarāyuṇā.*

O baby in the womb, just as the breeze, as the forest, as the sea ripples with vitality, so may you vibrate and move in the womb and, maturing in ten months, be born alongwith the sheath of life.

9. *Daśa māsāñchaśayānaḥ kumāro adhi mātari.
Niraitu jīvo akṣato jīvo jīvantiā adhi.*

Let the individual soul reposing in the mother's womb for ten months be born as the baby, healthy and unhurt, in the mother's state of good health and perfect life and live on as extension of the mother beyond her life.

1. Mahe no adya bodhayoṣo rāye divitmatī. Yathā cinno abodhayāḥ satyaśravasi vāyye sujāte aśvasūnṛte.

O dawn, lady of morning light brilliant with splendour, arouse us and enlighten us today for the achievement of grandeur, wealth and excellence of life as you have been the giver of enlightenment and generosity ever before, O majesty of renown, symbol of life's extension, nobly born, commander of the nation's power, achievement and love of noble truth.

(Swami Dayananda interprets this mantra as an address to the lady of the house.)

Daughter of the light of heaven, nobly born and enlightened, truthful and progressive, rise and shine, and let us shine too. Do not procrastinate, do not protract your sacred act, accomplish the act and rise. Just as the ruler punishes the thief and the enemy, just as the sun burns dry grass with its heat of light, that way let no one torment you.

Saints and sages with holy mind and hymns of adoration honour and celebrate the divine dawn, crimson hued, shining brilliant, grand and sublime, illuminating hours of time and regions of space, observing universal law of eternity by simple natural conduct, and bringing the morning light and bliss of the sun.

एषा जनं दशता बाधयन्ती सुगान्पथः कृण्वती यात्यगं ।

This glorious dawn, vast and great, goes forward riding her mighty chariot, arousing humanity from sleep, lighting up easy paths for movement, all illuminative, giving light in advance of the day.

Harnessing the crimson rays of the sun to her chariot, she goes unerringly, assiduously, creating unfailing wealth of light and rejuvenation. Marking paths of movement for the good of the people, the divine dawn shines, loved and adored by the people as the source of universal good.

एषा व्यनी भवति द्विबर्हा आविष्कृण्वाना तन्वं पुरस्तात् ।

4. Eṣā vyenī bhavati dvibarhā āviṣkrṇvānā tanvaṁ purastāt. Ṛtasya panthām-anveti sādhu prajā-natīva na diśo mināti.

Revealing her body of light from the east, this lady of light radiates fast on both sides right and left over day and night. It follows the path of eternal law and, knowing well everything in nature, it neither violates nor goes astray over the quarters of space.

एषा शुभा न तन्वा विदानाध्वव स्त्राती दृशय ना अस्थात् ।

5. Eṣā śubhrā na tanvo vidānordhveva snātī dṛśaye no asthāt. Apa dveṣo bādhamānā tamāmsyūṣā divo duhitā jyotiṣāgāt.

The sacred dawn, revealing her radiant majesty like the lady of light for us to see and admire, this daughter of the sun stands above pure and sanctified as if doing her morning ablutions and, dispelling hate and darkness, warding off negativities, she walks with her train of splendour.

एषा पंतीची दुहिता दिवा नून्याषव भद्रा नि रिणीत् अप्सः ।

6. Eṣā prañīcī duhitā divo nṛṇ yoṣeva bhadraṁ ni riṇīte apsah. Vyūrṇvatī dāṣuṣe vāryāṇi punar-jyotir-yuvatīḥ pūrvathākah.

Yonder stands this daughter of heaven like a maiden, holy and inspiring to the best of men, and then moves to the west, revealing the day's phases of her splendour and opening up new possibilities of cherished achievements for the generous man of yajnic action. Ever bright and youthful, she thus moves the daily rounds of light anew as ever before since times immemorial.

Note: Swami Dayananda gives an extended interpretation of the Dawn by implication: He interprets Usha as the newly married woman rising like the dawn over the world of her new home, bringing new light and new possibilities of life's achievements. The wedding of the couple is a new morning for the family, life moves on, new phases of the day move on westward, new generations follow, life goes on and on like the daily round of night and day. The sun remains the same, days and nights are new. Life remains the same, the phases are new. The bride is holy, sacred, inspiring, worthy of love, respect and reverence.

Enlightened sages concentrate their mind and senses and meditate on the infinite, omniscient and vibrant omnipresence of Divinity who alone as sole power and ruler knows and governs all the laws and ways and facts of existence and watches, rules and dispenses the karma of yajakas and others. Great indeed is the glory, and high the praise of Savita, lord of life and self-refulgent giver of light.

2. Viśvā rūpāṇi prati muñcate kaviḥ prāsāvīd bhadraṁ dvipade catuspade. Vi nākamakhyat savitā vareṇyo'nu prayāṇamuṣaso vi rājati.

The omniscient creator, eternal poet and maker, creates and pervades all forms of existence and produces all good things for the well being of humans and animals. He, Savita, creator and energiser, lord of love worthy of our choice, manifests and illuminates the heaven of light and joy, inspires the rise of the dawn with light and rules and shines the sun and after.

Savita, spirit of life and inspiration, self-refulgent giver of light, you alone by yourself rule over the world of existence. O generous and self-refulgent lord, by every stage of evolution in order of time you remain the giver of light and nourishment for growth. And you pervade, illuminate and rule over this entire world of existence so that the sun itself receives light and adoration by virtue of your light of illumination.

1. *Tat saviturvṛṇīmahe vayaṁ devasya bhojanam.
Śreṣṭhaṁ sarvadhātamaṁ turam bhagasya dhīmahi.*

We choose to pray to the lord creator Savita for his love and favour so that we may receive the highest, all sustaining and all victorious glory of the lord self-refulgent and omnipotent.

अस्य हि स्वयंशस्तरं सवितुः कच्चन प्रियम ।

2. *Asya hi svayaśastaram savituh kaccana priyam.
Na minanti svarājyam.*

Whoever it be, whoever might try, no one can violate or impair the self-glorious dear absolute dominion of lord Savita's divine freedom.

स हि रत्नानि दाशुष सुवाति सविता भगः ।

तं भागं चित्रमीमह ॥ ३ ॥

3. *Sa hi ratnāni dāśuṣe suvāti savitā bhagaḥ.
Tam bhāgaṁ citramīmahe.*

Only Savita, lord of power, honour and excellence, creates and augments the jewel wealths of life for the man of yajnic generosity. We pray we may know and receive his favour and grace for a share of that wonderful glory.

अद्या ना दव सवितः प्रजावत्सावीः साभगम ।

4. *Adyā no deva savitaḥ prajāvat sāvīḥ saubhagam.
Parā duṣṣvapnyaṁ suva.*

O generous lord Savita, create for us here and now honour and good fortune full of noble people and progeny. Drive away bad dreams and ward off dreamy ambitions.

विश्वानि दव सवितदुरितानि परा सुव ।

यद्भदं त आ सुव ॥ ५ ॥

5. *Viśvāni deva savitarduritāni parā suva.
Yad bhadraṁ tanna ā suva.*

O lord Savita, ward off and sterilise all the evils of the world. Grant us that which is good. Vitalise, energise and promote all that is good.

अनागसा अदितय दवस्य सवितुः सव ।

विश्वा वामानि धीमहि ॥ ६ ॥

6. *Anāgaso aditaye devasya savituḥ save.
Viśvā vāmāni dhīmahi.*

Free from sin and evil in the yajnic world of lord Savita's creation, we pray, we may receive the cherished gifts of life in service of the mother, mother earth and nature.

आ विश्वदवं सत्पतिं सूक्तरद्या वृणीमह ।

सत्यसवं सवितारम ॥ ७ ॥

7. *Ā viśvadevaṁ saptatiṁ sūktairadyā vṛṇīmahe.
Satyasavaṁ savitāram.*

With songs of adoration we worship and celebrate lord Savita, cosmic yajaka of eternity, self-refulgent generous father inviolable protector and sustainer of the world of existence.

य इम उ॒भ अ॒हनी॒ पुर॒ ए॒त्यप॑युच्छ॒न ।

स्वा॒धीद॒वः स॒वि॒ता ॥ ८ ॥

8. Ya ime ubhe ahanī pura etyaprayucchan.
Svādhīrdevaḥ savitā.

We adore and worship self-refulgent, self-existent lord of creation, Savita, who transcends both the day and night of existence and self-abides without relent.

य इ॒मा वि॒श्वा जा॒तान्या॑श्चा॒वय॑ति॒ श्ला॒क॒न ।

9. Ya imā viśvā jātānyāśrāvayati ślokena.
Pra ca suvāti savitā.

We invoke and adore lord Savita who informs all these born ones by his Word, who creates and inspires them all, without exception.

Parjanya Devata, Atri Bhauma Rshi

1. Acchā vada tavaśaṁ gīrbhirābhiḥ stuhi parjanyaṁ namasā vivāsa. Kanikradad vṛṣabho jīradānū reto dadhātyoṣadhīṣu garbham.

Hail the mighty cloud well with these holy words of song, serve, celebrate and energise it with homage in yajna for peace and a happy home. Roaring and thundering with passion, the virile cloud, giver of life and freshness, impregnates the herbs with the seed of generation.

वि वृ णान हन्त्युत हन्ति र् असा विश्वं बिभाय भुवनं

2. Vi vṛkṣān hantiyuta hanti rakṣaso viśvaṁ bibhāya bhuvanaṁ mahāvadhāt. Utānāgā īṣate vṛṣṇyāvato yat parjanyaḥ stanayan hanti duṣkṛtaḥ.

The cloud shakes the trees, destroys the demons whom the whole world fears, and when it roars and releases the water of rain pregnant with life, it kills the evil doers with the terrible bolt and saves the sinless and the generous forces of life.

रथीव कश्याश्वौ अभिप विदूतान्कृणुत वर्ष्या अह ।

Indeed like a charioteer urging on the horses by the whip, the cloud condenses and intensifies the rain carrier showers down to the earth, and, for that, when it strikes the ocean of vapours in the sky with thunder to turn it into rain, the space resounds from far like the roar of a lion.

4. Pra vātā vānti patayanti vidyuta udoṣadhīrjihate pinvate svah. Irā viśvasmai bhuvanāya jāyate yat parjanyaḥ pṛthivīm retasāvati.

Fast and fresh blow the winds, lightnings flash, herbs spring up, the sky swells and overflows, food grows, spirits arise and songs resound over the world when the cloud fertilises the earth with the showers of life.

5. Yasya vrata pṛthivī nannamīti yasya vrata śapha-vajjarbhurīti. Yasya vrata oṣadhīrviśva-rūpāḥ sa naḥ parjanya mahi śarma yaccha.

O cloud, rain shower of life and fertility, in consequence of your commitment to the laws of sun and shower, the earth submits and surrenders, the animal stirs with passion and fire, the herbs burst forth in all forms of life. O cloud, such as you are, give us a great home of peace, joy and excellence.

6. Divo no vṛṣṭim maruto rarīdhvaṁ pra pinvata vṛṣṇo aśvasya dhārāḥ. Arvāṇetena stanayitnu-nehyapo niṣiñcannasuraḥ pitā naḥ.

May the Maruts, windy currents of energy, bring us rain from the regions of the sun. May the mighty cloud showers of fertility bring us growth. O cloud, harbinger of vitality come down here with showers of rain flooding the earth and giving us breath of life and sustenance like a father.

7. Abhi kranda stanaya garbhamā dhā udanvatā pari dīyā rathena. Dṛtiṁ su karṣa viṣitaṁ nyañcam samā bhavantūdvato nipādāḥ.

Thunder and roar, O cloud, bring the vitalities of life and fertilise the earth for generation. Go far and wide by chariot run on water, draw the reservoir of waters released unto yourself, and conduct them downward so that the upward vapours may be brought down in showers.

The sun holds the mighty reservoir of vapours up on high, the cloud pours it down in showers. Let the lakes and rivers flow with waters released to freedom. O cloud, fill the earth and sky with water so that there may be ample food and water for the cows.

9. Yat parjanya kanikradat stanayan haṁsi duṣkṛ-taḥ. Pratīdaṁ viśvaṁ modate yat kiṁ ca prthi-vyāmadhi.

When the cloud roars and thunders and destroys all the negativities which do evil, then in response to the cleansing and vitalising rain this entire humanity and all else that is on earth rejoices in celebration.

10. Avarṣīr-varṣam-udu ṣū grbhāyā'kardhanvānya-tyetavā u. Ajījana oṣadhīr-bhojanāya kamuta prajābhyo'vido manīṣām.

Pour down the showers, O cloud, take over the earth for generation, fertilise the thirsting lands for growth, produce herbs and plants and trees for food of the people, and win the thanks of a grateful humanity.

1. Balitthā parvatānām khidraṁ bibharṣi prthivi. Pra yā bhūmiṁ pravatvati mahnā jinoṣi mahini.

Truly, O terrestrial mother, revered earth, you bear the thunder breaker of the clouds, bear the burden of mountain ranges, hold on the flood of rivers and contain the rolling oceans. O mighty one on the onward move, you are the one who thus with your great power and force rule and sustain the land and her people.

O moving one, the celebrants adore you day and night with songs, you, O bright one, who shake and impel the roaring cloud like a war horse onward to victory.

3. *Dr̥hā cid yā vanaspatīn kṣmayā dardharṣyo-jasā.

Surely you are strong and firm who, with your strength and splendour, sustain the herbs and trees, since the rains of wealth and sustenance shower for you down from the thunder and lightning of the regions of light.

1. Pra samrāje bṛhadarcā gabhīraṁ brahma priyaṁ varuṇāya śrutāya. Vi yo jaghāna śami-teva car-mo-pastire pṛthivīm sūryāya.

Offer homage and reverence of the highest and deepest order full of love to Varuna, the one sovereign ruler and lord of love and judgement over all, who hammered and shaped the earth into form and, like the host of a yajna of peace and non-violence, overspread the earth with the atmosphere as a protective and promotive cover as a shield for the sun, as protection against heat for the sake of generative power and fertility. His divine voice resounds across the universe.

2. Vaneṣu vyantarikṣaṁ tatāna vājamarvatsu paya usriyāsu. Hṛtsu krtuṁ varuṇo apsvagniṁ divi sūryamadadhāt somamadrau.

Varuna, lord of love and judgement for life, extensively vested sap in vegetation, energy in horses and others that move, milk in cows, faith, love and will to act in the hearts, vitality in waters, sun in heaven and soothing joy in the cloud and soma plant on the mountain.

नी॒चीन॑बा॒रं वरु॑णः क॒वन्धं॑ प॒ स॑स॒ज रा॑द॒सी अ॒न्तरि॑ तम ।

3. Nīcīnavāraṁ varuṇaḥ kabandham pra sasarja rodasī antarikṣam. Tena viśvasya bhuvanasya rājā yavaṁ na vṛṣṭirvyunatti bhūma.

Varuna brings into existence heaven, earth and the middle region of the sky, and he forms the cloud for shower on the earth down below. By that the sovereign ruler of the whole universe, the supreme, brings about the rain which fertilises the earth as it nourishes the grain.

उ॒न॒त्ति॒ भूमिं॑ पृ॒थि॒वीमु॒त द्यां॑ य॒दा दु॒ग्धं वरु॑णा॒ वष्ट॒यादि॒त ।

4. Unatti bhūmiṃ pṛthivīmuta dyāṃ yadā dugdham varuṇo vaṣṭyādit. Samabhreṇa vasata parvatāstaviṣīyantaḥ śrathayanta vīrāḥ.

Varuna fills the earth and sky and the regions of the sun with vapour when he desires to create the milk of life, thereafter the clouds are laden with vapour, and then forceful currents of wind energy strike the clouds from within and release the showers of rain.

5. Imāmū ṣvāsurasya śrutasya mahīm māyāṃ varuṇasya pra vocam. Māneneva tasthivāṅ antri-kṣe vi yo mame pṛthivīm sūryeṇa.

This marvellous omnipotence of the renowned life giver Varuna, I celebrate in words, who pervades the space and, abiding in the middle regions of the universe, marks out the earth as if by measure, purpose and design, and creates it from the sun.

इ॒मामू॒ नु क॒वित॑मस्य मा॒यां म॒हीं द॒वस्य॑ नकि॒रा द॑धष ।

6. Imāmū nu kavitamasya māyāṃ mahīm devasya nakirā dadharśa. Ekam yadudnā na pṛṇantye-nīrāsīñcantīr-avanayah samudram.

This great power of the most creative lord, who can challenge and violate? None, just as all the streams and rivers flooding the lands and rushing on do not fill the ocean with water.

अ॒य॒म्यं वरु॒ण मि॒त्र्यं वा॒ सखा॑यं वा॒ स॒द॒मि॒द भा॒तरं॑ वा ।

7. Aryamyam varuṇa mitryam vā sakhāyam vā sadamid bhrātaram vā . Veśam vā nityam varuṇ-āraṇam vā yat śimāgaś-cakṛmā śīsrathastat.

If we happen to commit a sin of omission or commission or transgression toward a man of judgement or friend or companion or a close ally or inmate of the house or brother, or constant or near or distant relation, then, O Varuna, loosen the snare of sin and help us be free.

कि॒त॒वासा॒ यदि॑रि॒पुन॑ दी॒वि य॒द्वी घा॑ स॒त्यमु॑त य । वि॒द्म ।

8. Kitavāso yad riripurna dīvi yad vā ghā satyamuta yanna vidma. Sarvā tā vi śya śithireva devā'dhā te syāma varuṇa priyāsaḥ.

Like gamblers in the game, if someone attribute sin or deception to us, which may be true or may not be true, or which we might not even know, all that, O lord of light and judgement, loosen so that we may be free and be dear to you.

1. *Indrāgnī yamavatha ubhā vājeṣu martyam.
Dṛḷhā cit sa pra bhedati dyumnā vāñiriva tritaḥ.*

Indra and Agni, divine power and knowledge, celestial and terrestrial energy of electricity and fire, both ruler and enlightened leaders, whosoever the mortal you protect, guide and promote, he breaks through massive obstructions in the battle business of life, and wins his way to wealth, honour and splendour, just like the sagely scholar of threefold freedom of body, mind and soul who penetrates through three layers of language, vaikhari, madhyama and pashyanti, i.e., word, thought and deep memory, and reaches the vision of the para, the supreme Word and silence of Divinity.

2. *Yā pṛtanāsu duṣṭarā yā vājeṣu śravāyyā.
Yā pañca carṣaṇīrabhīndrāgnī tā havāmahe.*

We adore and solicit Indra and Agni which, among the forces of life, are indomitable, in the battles for power and prosperity, admirable, and among the five orders of society and among the five pranic energies are of prime importance.

3. Tayorid-amavac-chavas-tigmā didyun-maghon-oh. Prati druṇā gabhastyor-gavāṃ vṛtraghna eṣate.

The sharp, impetuous and blazing force in the hands of these two mighty powers moves by the speed of sunbeams in destroying the cloud of darkness and strikes where it must.

4. Tā vāmeṣe rathānām-indrāgnī havāmahe.
Patī turasya rādhasa vidvānsā girvaṇastamā.

Indra and Agni, most adorable scholars of the science of terrestrial and celestial energy, heat, light and electricity, and masters of fast automotion and material prosperity, we invoke you both for the speed and movement of chariots for success.

ता वृ॒धन्ता॒व॒नु द्यू॒न्म॒ताय॑ द्वा॒वाव॒द॒भा ।

5. Tā vṛdhan tāvanu dyūn-martāya devāvadabhā.
Arhantā citpuro dadheṇ śeva devāvarvate.

Exalted, thriving day by day for the sake of mortal humanity, brilliant, indomitable, adorable and generous Indra and Agni, ruling powers and enlightened scholars, we honour you at the head of our creative and developmental yajna like the soma of success and celebration in matters of science and progress.

ए॒व॒न्दा॒ग्नि॒भ्या॒म॒हा॒वि ह॒व्यं शू॒ष्यं घृ॒तं न॑ पू॒तम॒दि॒भिः ।

Thus homage of adoration is offered to Indra and Agni, scholars of earthly and spatial energy. From energies, by scholars is received strength, energy and power, materials for yajnic investment and development, ghrta, delicacies, like water showers sanctified by the clouds. May they, we pray, bring and bestow upon the scholars and celebrants high renown and abundant wealth, may they bring and bestow upon the admirers food and energy for a happy life.

1. Pra vo mahe matayo yantu viṣṇave marutvate girijā evayāmarut. Pra śardhāya prayajyave sukhādaye tavase bhandadiṣṭaye dhunivratāya śavase.

O vibrant man of vision, all ye men and women, let all your songs and flights of thought and vision born of the voice of the heart reach Vishnu, all pervasive lord, commander of the winds and warriors, indomitable, highly majestic, adorable and cooperative, blissfully appreciative, relentlessly active and absolute in justice and power.

Evayamarut, O vibrant visionary and celebrant of the Maruts, these warriors and pioneers of humanity are self-made, risen by themselves who proclaim themselves through their knowledge and self-awareness. O Maruts, stormy leaders, that power and force of yours is unchallengeable by virtue of your noble acts, grandeur and generosity. O men, their force is indomitable, they are inviolable, unshakable like mountains.

Evayamarut, O celebrant of the Maruts, they hear the voice of Divinity from the light of heaven, they are heard by their voice from the heights of heaven. Pure and brilliant, they live in holiness and felicity. No tyrant, impeller or compeller, can bend them in their right and abode. Self-refulgent like the flames of fire, they radiate, they make the winds blow and set the rivers aflow.

He, Evayamarut, Vishnu, lord of infinite action and commander of the Maruts, universal energies, transcends by infinite possibility the great constant, central and universal seat of his presence, that is, this universe. When evayamarut, the man of vision, master of his senses and faculties, connects with the lord by heart and soul by the guidance of dynamic teachers and preachers, unenvious and brilliant, he rises from his own state of existence and joins the lord omnipotent of infinite felicity.

Like the rumble of the Big Bang of creation, may the lord of the Maruts, Vishnu, shake you, O men and women of the world, shine you and inspire you, the lord omnipresent, generous, self-refulgent, omnipotent, everfelt in the heart, by virtue of whom the Maruts, natural energies and pioneers of humanity shining by themselves, unshaken yet dynamic like rays of the sun, golden gloried, self-armed and nobly ambitious, stand the challenges of existence and achieve their end and aim.

Unbounded is your greatness, O heroes of ancient might. May your brilliant power protect and promote evayamarut, vibrant sage of vision and knowledge. In the heat of battle when missiles are shot, stay firm in the open view unshaken. Such as you are, O Maruts, blazing as flames of fire, protect us against the maligners and the revilers.

Heroes of the winds, scholars of the middle order, dispensers of justice and punishment, performers of holy creative actions, commanding power and glory like flames of fire may protect and promote us and the sagely scholar of vision and dynamic performance. Wide and lofty grows the earthly abode of humanity by virtue of those whose grandeur grows high and onslaughts grow terrible in the battles against the evil and wickedness of unimaginable order.

Maruts, heroes of the speed of winds, free from hate and jealousy, with zeal and ardour for righteous action, come to our earthly abode and lead us on the path of goodness and progress. O lord of the winds, Vishnu, listen to the song and prayer of the celebrant. O leaders and pioneers, come like warriors of the chariot and join the power and grandeur of Vishnu, lord of the wide world and space, accomplish acts of universal generosity and throw off hate, jealousy and animosity from the earth.

O Maruts, adorable heroes of the world, come and join our yajna of holy living with grace and earnestness. Listen to the prayer of the celebrant of the winds in need of protection and advancement. Most eminent and most enlightened among us, be generous givers of knowledge, wisdom and enlightenment of Divine order like showers of the cloud from the sky so that no maligner or reviler can resist and challenge you or anyone else.

MANDALA 6

Mandala 6/Sukta 1

Agni Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

त्वं ह्यग्रं पथमा मनाता स्या धिया अभवा दस्म हाता ।

त्वं सी^१ वृष ऽकृणादुष्टरीतु सहा विश्वस्म सहस सहध्य ॥ १ ॥

1. Tvaṁ hyagne prathamo manotā'syā dhiyo abhavo dasma hotā. Tvaṁ sīm vṛṣannakṛṇor-duṣṭarītu saho viśvasmai sahase sahadhyai.

Agni, light of life faster than mind, you are the prime mover of this cosmic intelligence and evolution, marvellous creator and foremost performer of universal yajna. O generous father of life, you alone generate the inviolable life force and strength of will vested in existence for us to resist and overcome all negative forces of the world for survival and onward progress.

2. Adhā hotā nysādo yajīyānilaspada iṣayannīḍyaḥ san. Taṁ tvā naraḥ prathamam devayanto maho rāye citayanto anu gman.

Then let the prime yajaka, being adorable, inspired to create and give in unison, be seated at the head of yajna on the earthly vedi of life foremost in the midst of holy chant, and you, leading light of humanity, yourself knowledgeable and illuminating, seekers of great wealth, honour and light of Divinity, follow him as the leader.

6. Saparyeṇyaḥ sa priyo vikṣvagnirhotā mandro ni ṣasādā yajīyān. Taṁ tvā vayaṁ dama ā dīdivāmsam-upajñubādho namasā sadema.

That Agni worthy of yajnic service and, affectionate, yajaka and giver of yajnic gifts, rejoicing provider of happiness abides among people as adorable presence. O lord, in a posture of reverence and faith, with homage and surrender, we pray, let us be seated in the home where you ever shine in your refulgence.

7. Taṁ tvā vayaṁ sudhyo navyamagne sumnāyava īmahe devayantaḥ. Tvaṁ viśo anayo dīdyāno divo agne brhatā rocanena.

Agni, adorable giver of light, we, blest with holy intelligence and aspiring for well being and light of divinity, pray that you, shining with universal light and knowledge, lead the people to the state of enlightenment and freedom.

1. Tvaṁ hi kṣaitavad yaśo'gne mitro na patyase. Tvaṁ vicarṣaṇe śravo vaso puṣṭim na puṣyasi.

Agni, leading light of life, like an inmate of our earthly home, like a friend for sure you protect, promote and sustain our honour and excellence. O watchful observer of all, our haven and home, you preserve and advance our food and energy, honour and fame, like our body's vitality.

O most adorable friend, venerable and refulgent light of the world, speak well to the noble and brilliant holy men of the eternal Word of universal knowledge and wisdom of heaven and earth. Bear and bring prosperity and well being on the blessed earth in happy homes to the loving and dedicated people. We pray help us cross over all sins and evil, hate and jealousy. Let us cross over all negativities and undesirables, cross over all of them, cross over to the life divine by your protection and grace.

1. Agne sa kṣeṣadr̥tapā r̥tejā uru jyotirnaśate devayuşṭe. Yaṁ tvaṁ mitreṇa varuṇaḥ sajoṣāḥ deva pāsi tyajasā martamaṅhaḥ.

Agni, leading light and ruler of the world, guardian of Truth and Law, manifesting in truth and law and the fire and fragrance of yajna, that mortal man lives in peace who protects the truth and abides in truth, and he receives the gift of your infinite light and grace who loves Divinity and noble humanity, and whom you, O lord of love and justice, loving, kind and generous father, with loving care and merciful justice, you protect and save by abandonment of sin and evil.

If the mortal does good to others with humility and yajna, lives in peace with auspicious acts of holiness, and does service to Agni, giver of success and prosperity, with acts of charity and self surrender, then, for sure, neither want of honour and glory, nor sin and evil, nor pride and arrogance can ever touch him.

The holy sight of Agni, leading light of humanity, like the sun, and the message of thought and wisdom of the brilliant light that radiates, is pure and immaculate, and yet it is awesome and comes as terrible to the vitiated. Indeed wherever the source and abode of this blazing destroyer of the night of darkness and of his prophetic voice be, as that of light in sunrays and of fire in the wood, it is delightful and elevating.

4. Tigmaṁ cidema mahi varpo asya bhasadaśvo na yamasāna āsā. Vijehamānaḥ paraśurna jihvāṁ dravirna drāvayati dāru dhakṣat.

Sharp is his path like the razor's edge we may like to follow, great his form and appearance shining brilliant, open his mouth self-controlled as the horse's, sharp his tongue as an axe, and he melts rigidities like a smelter and burns wooden prejudices like fire.

5. Sa idasteva prati dhādasiṣyañchiṣīta tejo'yaso na dhārām. Citradhrajatiraratiryo aktorverna druṣadvā raghupatmajamhāḥ.

Free from dead wood, he shoots his target like an archer freely. He sharpens his blaze like the edge of an axe. Swift and wonderful in speed, relentless in work, he discards rest and slow speed of movement like a bird of flight flying off from the branch of the tree of his night's rest.

6. Sa īm rebho na prati vasta usrāḥ śociṣā rārapīti mitramahāḥ. Naktam ya īmaruṣo yo divā nṛn-amartyo aruṣo yo divā nṛn.

He, leading light of the world, wears the light of the morning sun and, in return, like crackling fire, proclaims himself with the light and blaze of the new day, being the greatest friend of humanity. Red as flames, bright as sunlight, he lights up the night of darkness and arouses humanity into the day of light, awareness and activity, being the harbinger of the immortal light of Divinity. Yes, bright and blazing, he rouses people into the light of day.

7. Divo na yasya vidhato navīnod vṛṣā rukṣa oṣadhīṣu nūnot. Ghṛṇā na yo dhrajasā patmanā yannā rodasī vasunā dam supatnī.

Whose presence as of the light and grace of heaven, and order, the generous cloud worships and proclaims, whose light and vitality is manifested in herbs and trees, and who, by his flight and velocity and omnipresence, vests the spaces of motherly heaven, earth and sky with the wealth of living sustenance as with his light and grace.

Who flashes like lightning, shines with his self-refulgence and potent presence, and constantly illuminates by his manifestation by the beneficiary stars, planets and plants, by his associates and assistants, and by his celebrants and worshippers of his virtues, and who, blazing and impetuous, like the divine intelligence and maker, fashions the forms and force of the winds and the stormy powers of humanity : that is Agni, life of existence and leading light of the world.

1. Yathā hotarmanuṣo devatātā yajñebhiḥ sūno sahaso yajāsi. Evā no adya samānā samānān-uśannagna uśato yakṣi devān.

Agni, leading light of life, ruler of the world, child of strength, source of strength and courage, yajaka and generous giver, as you do selfless yajnic service to life and Divinity like any human, so you today in our battle of life, out of love for loving and dedicated people, pray invoke the divinities of nature and nobilities of humanity to join us.

2. Sa no vibhāvā cakṣaṇirna vastoragnirvandāru vedyāścāno dhāt. Viśvāyuryo amṛto martyeṣū-ṣarbhud bhūdatithirjātavedāḥ.

May that lord, Agni, refulgent as the sun, light of the day, adorable, worth knowing and realising, bear and bring us food for life and energy for action, that lord who is life of life, immortal among mortals, manifests like a cherished guest at dawn and knows all that is born in existence by omnipresence.

3. Dyāvo na yasya panayantyabhvaṁ bhāsāṁsi vaste sūryo na śukraḥ. Vi ya inotyajaraḥ pāvako'snasya cicchiśnathat pūrvyāṇi.

Like the lights of heaven, sages celebrate the lord's glory. Pure and immaculate, like the sun, he wears the lights and colours of existence. Purifying like fire, he pervades the forms of the world of existence, and at the ultimate end withdraws all that existed before, and remains, ageless and eternal, the sole and absolute presence.

4. Vadmā hi sūno asyadmasadvā cakre agnirjanu-ṣājmānnam. Sa tvam na ūrjasana ūrjam dhā rājeva jeravṛake kṣeṣyantah.

O inspirer of life, Agni, self-manifestive loud and bold, you are all pervasive in everything that is food for life since by nature and operation you generate both food and energy. O creator and giver of energy, bear and bring us food and energy, be victorious like a ruler and abide in peace and non-violence as an inspiration.

Agni sharpens his instant weapon of radiance against darkness, consumes the consumables for energy, rules over existence like breath of life, surpasses even the rays of light. O lord of radiation pervading all round by waves of omnipotence, destroyer like a superlative missile of those crooked ones who fall in its way, may we too likewise overcome those who negate your gifts of life.

Agni, lord most charming and blissful, with brilliant songs of adoration we celebrate you. Listen to our song of sublimity. Like Indra, lord of omnipotence, like Vayu, breath of life, the best of leading lights of humanity adore you with all their might and sense of fulfilment.

नू न' अग्र वृकभिः स्वस्ति वषि रायः पृथिभिः पर्ष्यहः ।

8. Nū no agne'vṛkebhiḥ svasti veṣi rāyaḥ pathibhiḥ parṣyaṇhaḥ. Tā sūribhyo gṛṇate rāsi sumnam madema śatahimāḥ suvīrāḥ.

Agni, lord of light, wealth and bliss, with honest and loving people lead us to wealth and honour, peace and well being by paths of holiness, cleanse us of sin, blow off evil from us. That peace and joy you bestow upon brilliant and brave celebrants and upon the supplicant, bestow upon us too, we pray, so that we, blest with brave children, may rejoice for a full life of hundred years.

1. Huve vaḥ sūnum sahaso yuvānam-adroghavācam matibhir-yaviṣṭham. Ya invati draviṇāni pracetā viśvavārāṇi puruvāro adhruk.

For you all, I invoke and invite Agni, giver of strength and forbearance, young, sweet and loving of speech free from malice, most youthful, wise and all aware, cherished friend of all without jealousy, who creates, inspires, invigorates and brings us gifts of universal value and drives away the evils.

2. Tve vasūni purvaṇīka hotardoṣā vastorerire yajñiyāsaḥ. Kṣāmeva viśvā bhuvanāni yasmin tsam saubhagāni dadhire pāvake.

In you, lord of eternal flames of power and generation, cosmic yajaka and generous giver, holy performers of yajnic acts repose their confidence, and to you, day and night, they attribute all the gifts of life. By virtue of you, cleanser and purifier, all regions of the universe like earth bear cherished gifts of nature for humanity.

3. Tvaṁ vikṣu pradivāḥ sīda āsu kratvā rathīra-bhavo vāryāṇām. Ata inoṣi vidhate cikitvo vyānuṣag-jātavedo vasūni.

Come you, leading light wrapped in the light of divinity, sit and abide among these people with your knowledge and yajnic action. Be like a chariot harbinger of choice gifts of life. You are wise and you command universal awareness. You know all that is born in existence and, integrated with life and society, you inspire and promote the wealths of the world for the dedicated celebrant.

4. Yo naḥ sanutyo abhidāsadagne yo antaro mitramaho vanuṣyāt. Tam-ajarebhir-vṛṣabhis-tava svaistapā tapiṣṭha tapasā tapasvān.

Agni, O dearest and greatest friend, tempered in the crucibles of austere discipline to the highest degree of intensity, whatever the force or power internal or external, close around or far off which might weaken, attack, injure or destroy us, pray burn up and eliminate by your own essential, unaging, generous and most youthful power of discipline and fire.

5. Yaste yajñena samidhā ya ukthair-arkebhiḥ sūno sahaso dadāśat. Sa martyeṣvamarṣta pracetā rāyā dyumnena śravasā vi bhāti.

Agni, O source giver of strength and inspiration, whoever serves you with yajnic acts of self-sacrifice and offers you homage, worship and songs of celebration with sacred fuel to keep the fire burning, rises in knowledge and life's awareness, advances in wealth, honour and fame, and shines out with immortal excellence among mortals.

6. Sa tat kṛdhīṣitastūyamagne spr̥dho bādhasva sahasā sahasvān. Yacchasyase dyubhirakto vacobhis-tajjuṣasva jariturghoṣi manma.

Agni, lord of forbearance and challenging might, loved, inspired and impelled, do that fast with your power and force, resist and repel the envious contenders, for which you are admired by the celebrants. Do that, O lord wearing the aura of light and fire, and accept the devoted supplicant's thanks and homage expressed from the depth of mind and soul.

Agni, leading light of the world, ruler and pioneer of humanity, by virtue of your protection and spirit of advancement, let us realise that will and desire we pray for. O lord creator and giver of wealth, let us achieve that wealth and honour blest with the brave we cherish. O lord imperishable, let us win, while we press forward, that energy, sustenance and progress, let us be blest with that honour and excellence which is immortal.

1. Pra navyasā sahasaḥ sūnumacchā yajñena gātumava icchamānaḥ. Vṛścadvanaṁ kṛṣṇayāmaṁ ruśantaṁ vītī hotāraṁ divyaṁ jigāti.

Whoever desires and plans for advancement into new ways of progress, defence and protection, tries and experiments with newest forms of yajna, socio-scientific developments in pursuit of Agni, heat, light and electric energy, source and generator of power, breaker of the clouds, illuminator of pathways into darkness and the unknown, bright catalytic agent, giver of peace and prosperity for well being and divine agent of cosmic evolution.

Agni, cosmic energy, those universal waves of your power impelled by nature's currents radiate all round, pure and purifying, embracing everything, celestial, ever moving anew, beautiful, forceful, making, breaking and remaking everything that comes their way.

Further, the tongue of flame, the flash of lightning, like the thunderbolt of mighty Indra, warrior of the flash and thunder's roar, shakes and shines with the blaze, striking and shattering things like a warrior's blow, and thus the terrible onslaught of irresistible Agni destroys the forests.

Agni, leading light and ruler of the world, with your light spread over all places and activities of the earth, and shine by the great and glorious radiation of your power. With your force and power, resist and repel all fears and envious contenders and, saving and protecting those who ought to be served and protected, break down the enmities and negativities.

1. Mūrdhānaṁ divo aratiṁ pṛthivyā vaiśvānara-mṛata ā jātamagnim. Kaviṁ samrājam-atithiṁ janānām-āsannā pātraṁ janayanta devāḥ.

The divinities of nature and humanity light the sacred fire: supreme light of heaven, vital fire of life of the earth, Vaishvanara, leader and energiser of the world, born of cosmic law and the fire of cosmic yajna. It is the visionary, even the revolutionary, poet, ruler of the world, sacred as a chance visitor, voice of the people, sustainer of life and its order.

2. Nābhiṁ yajñānām sadanaṁ rathīṇām mahāmā-hāvamabhi saṁ navanta. Vaiśvānaraṁ rathyama-dhvarāṇām yajñasya ketuṁ janayanta devāḥ.

Divines and brilliant people light and sing in praise of Vaishvanara, sacred fire of the world, centre-hold of yajna and creative programmes of development, treasure source of wealths, divine challenge and cherished deity of their service, motive power of non-violent projects, the real symbol and the very life of yajna.

3. Tvad vepro jāyate vājyagne tvad vīrāso abhimā-tiṣāhaḥ. Vaiśānara tvamasmāsu dhehi vasūni rājantsprhayāyāṇi.

O leading light of the world, Agni, by you arises the dedicated scholar, energy, sustenance and progress, and the warriors who brave the challenges and win. O Vaishvanara, fire of earthly existence, brilliant leader and ruler, lead us to wealths of the world worthy of being fought for and won.

4. Tvām viśve amṛta jāyamānaṁ śiśuṁ na devā abhi saṁ navante. Tava kṛatubhir-amṛata-tvamāyan vaiśvānara yat pitroradīdeḥ.

O Vaishvanara Agni, light and vitality of the world, all brilliant scholars and divines of humanity love you as a baby and celebrate you all round like the rising sun at dawn, or like a young scholar emerging from the home of his parents and teachers like the sun from heaven over the earth. By virtue of your holy acts, the mortals achieve the immortality of holiness and excellence.

5. Vaiśvānara tava tāni vratāni mahānyagne nakirā dadharṣa. Yajjāyamānaḥ pitrorupasthe 'vindaḥ ketuṁ vayuneṣvahnām.

Vaishvanara, leading light and fire of life, Agni, the great ordinances of yours none can challenge, those which you, arising in the lap of your parents from heaven over the earth take on as your essential character and identity in the light of days in relation to the laws of existence from the earth to the Supreme Spirit and Lord of the universe.

6. Vaiśvānarasya vimitāni cakṣasā sānūni divo amṛtasya ketunā. Tasyedu viśvā bhuvanādhi mūrdhani vayā iva ruruhuḥ sapta visruhaḥ.

By the vision and radiance of immortal Vaishvanara, the tops of heaven are pervaded, measured and transcended. On him, as base which is also the summit of existence, rest all the worlds of the universe which manifest like hair on the head, grow like seven branches from the one root, or flow like seven streams from the centre source.

Vaishvanara, merciful lord of the world and humanity, cosmic yajaka and visionary creator, who conceives, creates and ordains all regions of the universe, who illuminates the radiance of heaven, who pervades, expands and transcends all the worlds of existence, is the sole lord supreme, unchallenged ruler, sustainer and protector of the mortal world and the state of immortality.

Spontaneously I sing and celebrate the knowledge and omnipotence of Jataveda, omniscient lord creator, omnipresent, generous, refulgent and merciful. The holy thoughts and words of the song flow ever fresh, pure, soothing and sanctifying like the streams of soma in honour of the universal lord and leading light of the world.

He, Agni, ordainer of the laws of existence, manifesting in the highest heavens like the sun, protects and sustains the laws of life, being ordainer and observer of the laws of existence. Vaishvanara, immanent in the heart of humanity, holy protector of yajnic actions, pervades the firmament and, with his grand potential, gives the magic touch of refulgence to the heaven of joy.

Vaishvanara, leading light and life of existence, universal friend and light giver, marvellous and all immanent unmoved mover, holds the heaven and earth in balance, covers, i.e., dispels darkness with light, revolves heaven and earth, day and night, wearing both like changing and alternate forms and thus sustains the entire living, organismic generous universe.

In the midst of spatial oceans of particles in the firmament, great scholars and scientists perceive, receive and develop Agni celebrated in the Rks and closely abide by it in study like people abiding by the ruler for their benefit. Vayu, currents of cosmic energy abiding in space, acts as carrier and bears Vaishvanara, universal energy of heat and light from the far off sun for the benefit of the world.

Agni, leading light of the world, from year to year, age by age, bear and bring for the dedicated celebrants latest and newest wealth and honour for advancement in knowledge and action. O brilliant ruler, unaging and imperishable, strike down the agent of sin and crime as you strike down a tree or a cloud by thunder and lightning.

Agni, leading light of the world, Vaishvanara, kindly ruler of the hearts of humanity, among our people who are blest with wealth, honour and power by virtue of your gifts of protection and advancement, establish a noble, courteous, inalienable and unaging social order of freedom worthy of the brave. We pray we may win a hundredfold and a thousandfold victories of food and sustenance, energy and progress under your protection and promotion.

Agni, refulgent leader, Vaishvanara, gracious ruling presence of the world, loving and adorable guardian present in the three worlds of earth, heaven and the firmament, presiding power of the three councils of governance, legislation and education, with your loving, non-violent and irresistible forces of defence and protection for advancement, pray protect and promote our saints and sages, scholars and the brave heroes and leaders. And protect us all, sustain and advance the courage and morale of all the celebrants and generous givers and yajakas. Save us all, O lord adorable, lead us all across the seas of darkness to the cherished goal.

1. Ahaśca kṛṣṇamahararjunaṃ ca vi vartete rajasī vidyābhiḥ. Vaiśvānaro jāyamāno na rājā'vātira-jjyotiṣāgnistamānsi.

The dark half of the earth's daily round, the night, and the bright half, the day, revolve alternately in the terrestrial atmosphere alongwith their cognizable characteristics. Vaishvanara Agni, the sun, darling of the world, as it rises, overcomes and dispels the darkness with light like a ruler eliminating the dark and evil forces of society.

2. Nāhaṁ tantuṁ na vi jānāmyotuṁ na yaṁ vayan̥ti samare'tamānāḥ. Kasya svit putra iha vaktvāni paro vadātyavareṇa pitrā.

I know not the warp nor the woof of the web of life. Nor do I know the design of the web which the weavers weave together in their constant concourse of nights and days. Whose son here or far off, pure and purifying, could say what ought to be said by virtue of the father, or teacher or the supreme teacher at the closest? Who knows?

3. Sa it tantuṁ sa vi jānātyotuṁ sa vaktvānyṛtuthā vadāti. Ya īm ciketadamṛtasya gopā avaścaraṇ paro anyena paśyan.

He surely knows the warp, he knows the woof, he speaks of what ought to be spoken according to the season and the circumstances, he who knows the flow of the stream of life and time, who is the master and keeper of the eternals, and eternal knowledge, who knows and moves up and down, far and near, seeing the reality by the eye of the other, the supreme lord of eternal light.

4. Ayaṁ hotā prathamah paśyatemamidaṁ jyotiramṛtaṁ martyeṣu. Ayaṁ sa jajñe dhruva ā niṣatto'martyastanvā vardhamānaḥ.

This supreme lord is the prime yajaka, giver and receiver. See and know this immortal light among the mortals. And this is that other, the individual soul, unshaken, immovable, firmly seated in the personality, immortal, growing in knowledge and vision and the body in which it is born.

In order that the individual soul may see the one immovable blissful divine light enshrined in the cave of the heart, there is the mind, fastest of psychic faculties in the personality of all those who direct themselves to the one centre. All the organs of perception, in fact all the illuminative elements of nature, all of equal competence, united together and in unison with the mind efficiently move toward the individual soul.

My ears, as I feel impelled to have a vision of the inner light of divinity, my eyes, the light of the spirit enshrined in the heart, my mind which connects with far off things, all move to help me see the light of divinity within me. What at all shall I say more? What shall I think more?

Agni, light of life, life of the universe abiding at the centre of darkness and mystery of existence, all divinities of nature and humanity with all their sense and power bow to you in awe. We pray may Vaishvanara, immortal light of the soul and the universe, protect us for safety, security and well being, protect us for peace and progress.

In your well-planned and projected programmes of yajnic development free from violence, first and foremost, with right formulae and right process, place in the fore front Agni, holy fire and leading light, charming presence, brilliant and pure power leading to the right goal by the right path. That power and presence alone, kind and loving, immanent in all that exists, leads holy acts of love and kindness to sure success.

3. Pīpāya sa śravasā martyeṣu yo agnaye dadāśa vipra ukthaiḥ. Citrābhis-tamūtibhiścitraśocir-vrajasya sātā gomato dadhāti.

That sagely scholar thrives among mortals with honour and excellence who serves and advances the holy fire with songs of praise and holy materials. And Agni too, commanding marvellous light and flames, blesses him with wonderful forms of protection and advances him on the paths of progress with plenty of wealth, land, cows and gifts of knowledge and enlightenment.

4. Ā yaḥ paprau jāyamāna urvī dūredṛśā bhāsā kṛṣṇādhvā. Adha bahu cit tama ūrmyāyās-tiraḥ śociṣā dadṛśe pāvakaḥ.

As Agni rises and manifests itself like the sun, it is seen from afar and, going over areas of darkness by the paths it makes for itself, it fills the wide spaces of heaven and earth with its light. The light and fire, pure and purifying, thus overcomes the deep darkness of the night with splendour and reveals its glory and the reality of things.

6. Imaṁ yajñam cano dhā agna uśan yaṁ ta āsāno juhute haviṣmān. Bharadvājaṣu dadhiṣe suvṛktim-avīrvājasya gadhyasya sātau.

Agni, leading light of life, loving and anxious for the success of this yajnic programme of development and service, bring holy food, energy and sustenance. You always bless the men of munificence, power and success with glory and excellence. Protect us in the battles for science and energy and the wealth and values of our choice.

वि द्वषांसीनुहि वृधयळां मदम शतहिमाः सुवीराः ॥ ७ ॥

7. Vi dveṣāṁsīnuhi vardhayelām madema śatahimāḥ suvīrāḥ.

Agni, leading light of life, drive away hate, jealousy and the enemies. Promote food and energy, protect and replenish the earth and her resources, advance knowledge and holy speech. Bless us that we may be happy and live a hundred years with heroic progeny.

1. Yajasva hotariṣito yajīyānagne bādho marutām na prayukti. Ā no mitrāvaruṇā nāsatyā dyāvā hotrāya pṛthivī vavṛtyāḥ.

Keep the fire of yajna burning, O yajaka, loved, inspired and invoked, leading light of life most reverential, bulwark of defence and protection like the force and freshness of winds for the unity and engagement of the people in common causes of creation and development. Bring up for us Mitra and Varuna, powers of love and friendship, judgement and protection, the Ashvins ever true, heaven and earth, keep them on ever active together for the advancement of our yajnic endeavours.

2. Tvaṁ hotā mandratamo no adhrugantardevo vidathā martyeṣu. Pāvakayā juhvā vahnirāsā 'gne yajasva tanvaṁ tava svām.

Agni, you are our leading light of yajna, charming and blissful, free from jealousy among mortals, radiant and generous creator giver in our yajnic endeavours, harbinger of wealth by the purifying flames of fire with havis offered with the holy ladle of ghrta and catalysed to fragrance. O lord of us all, develop your own self of radiant fire and develop the social structure of order.

Blessed is the mind and intelligence in pursuit of life's wealth and grace which concentrates on you, Agni, for the celebrant soul to realise the manifestations of Divinity when the devotee, most vibrant sage among the Angirasa, wise saints and scholars, sings as a poet in ecstasy for the cherished attainment.

4. Adidyutat svapāko vibhāvā'gne yajasva rodasī urūcī. Āyurṇ na yaṁ namasā rātahavyā añjanti suprayasaṁ pañca janāḥ.

O Brilliant, self-refulgent, glorious power of noble action, Agni, leading light of the world, rise over the wide earth and heaven. All the five classes of people bearing sacred offerings honour and celebrate you with submission and homage as abundant giver of life's blessings, indeed as the very spirit of life. O man, rise and join the Spirit omnipresent.

Surely when the grass is gathered with reverence, the ladle overflowing with ghrta is raised over the fire with sacred hymns, the vedi is firmly settled on the ground, then the yajna is accomplished on the earth as the eye is established in the sun (from birth to death with the last rites).

1. Madhye hotā duroṇe barhiṣo rāḷagnistodasya rodasī yajadhyai. Ayaṁ sa sūnuḥ sahasa ṛtāvā dūrāt sūryo na śociṣā tatāna.

Agni, ruling light of the world, cosmic yajaka in the midst of the yajnic house of space, radiates as light of the sun to join the heaven and earth together. So does this yajaka, child of courage and forbearance, observing the laws of truth and yajna in the midst of the house of yajna, shine from afar like the sun and extends over earth and heaven (with the fragrance of fire).

2. Ā yasmin tve svapāke yajatra yakṣad rājant-sarvatāteva nu dyauḥ. Trīṣadhasastataruṣo na janho havyā maghāni mānuṣā yajadhyai.

Agni, adorable self-refulgent ruling power of life and yajna, let the light of the sun join your radiance as in yajna for universal good so that the light pervasive in heaven, firmament and earth like a dynamic saving power of vitality may create and develop means and materials for wealth and prosperity, honour and excellence for humanity.

3. Tejiṣṭhā yasyāratirvanerāṭ todo adhvan na vṛdhasāno adyaut. Adrogho na dravitā cetati tma-nnamartyo'vartra oṣadhīṣu.

Agni, whose brilliant pervasiveness blazing in the rays of the sun and shining over the forests radiates advancing on its path like the sun in orbit, manifests by its self-refulgence in herbs and trees as a power free from hate and jealousy, a presence indispensable and inevitable, dynamic and imperishable.

4. Sāsmākebhiretarī na śūṣairagniḥ ṣṭave dama ā jātavedāḥ. Drvanno vanvan kratvā nārvosrah piteva jārayāyi yajñaiḥ.

That refulgent ruling power of the world, Agni, knows and resides with all that exists and it is honoured and celebrated in our welcome homes by us with all our strength and enthusiasm. Manifest even in the simplest forms and in wood and forests, loving, noble by intelligence and holy action, Agni is honoured with homage and yajnas as father, celebrated like a tempestuous power and loved like the light of dawn.

6. Sa tvam no arvan nidāyā viśvebhiragne agnibhiridhānaḥ. Veṣi rāyo vi yāsi ducchunā madema śatahimāḥ suvīrāḥ.

Agni, ruling light of the world, instant dynamic and omnipresent power burning with all kinds of light and fire, protect us from reproach, create and bring us wealth, honour and excellence, ward off and destroy hate, enmity and evil, and let us all enjoy and celebrate a full hundred years of life in the company of brave children and heroic warriors of the earth.

1. Tvad viśvā subhaga saubhagānyagne vi yanti vanino na vayāḥ. Śruṣṭī rayirvājo vṛtratūrye divo vṛṣṭirīḍyo rītirapām.

Agni, ruling light of life, lord of good fortune, honour and excellence of the world, from you arise and grow all riches, honours and graces of life like branches of the tree growing and extending from the same one root. Sure and beneficent wealth, strength and spirit to break the demon of darkness, thunder for the cloud and rain from the skies, glorious showers of the waters of life and the adorable flow of holy action, all these too arise and expand from you alone.

Agni, leading light of the world, like a magnanimous master, you bestow upon us cherished jewel wealths of the world. Power of extra ordinary deeds of glory, you move and abide everywhere like the circumambient wind, omnipresent. O refulgent and generous friend of the world like the sun, you are the light and path-maker for our pursuit of the highest and widest paths of universal truth and life's onward flow, and you are the gracious dispenser of the fruits of human action.

4. Yaste sūno sahaso gīrbhirukthairyajñairmarto niśitiṁ vedyānaṭ. Viśvaṁ sa deva prati vāramagne dhatte dhānyaṁ patyate vasavyaiḥ.

Agni, O child of omnipotence and maker of the brave, generous and brilliant ruler of the world, whoever is the mortal who with songs of praise and prayer and noble yajnic deeds receives by the vedi, seat of yajna, his focus and favour for action, he abounds in cherished gifts of life and commands the wealth and power of the world with all treasure sources of prosperity.

Agni, leading light of the world, creator and giver of strength and forbearance, great and eminently enlightened leader, speak to us of truth and knowledge. Lead us to have brave progressive children, grand children and heroic warriors. Let us have complete happiness and fulfilment with all our songs of praise and prayer and let us enjoy life for a full hundred years in the company of our brave children.

O sage and scholar, this holy guest of yours visiting and waking you up at dawn, guardian and sustainer of all people of the world, you honour and adore with sacred words of song. He comes from the heaven of light, is wholly pure and immaculate by nature and, subsisting in the earth and everywhere, constantly consumes what never perishes, never decreases.

Agni, lord beatific, purifying fire, gracious to both wise and innocent according to your eternal law, self-refulgent light giver for the brilliant and generous, you pervade heaven and earth with your saving presence. As we meditate on your holy light and vision of knowledge, in consequence by your grace be kind and good to us, O lord of three worlds, omnipresent, omniscient and omnificent.

12. Tvamagne vanuṣyato ni pāhi tvamu naḥ sahasā-vannavadyāt. Saṁ tvā dhvasmanvadabhyetu pāthah saṁ rayiḥ sprhayāyyaḥ sahasrī.

Agni, lord of force and forbearance, we pray, you protect us, the devotees, against the violent and the malignant.

May food and water free from negativity, mighty powerful against the violent come to you. May cherished wealth and power of a hundred and thousandfold efficacy come to you.

अग्निहाता गृहपतिः स राजा विश्वा वद् जनिमा जातवदाः ।

13. Agnirhotā gr̥hapatih sa rājā viśvā veda janimā jātavedāḥ. Devānāmuta yo martyānām yajiṣṭhaḥ sa pra yajatāmṛtāvā.

Agni is the cosmic highpriest of the dynamics of existence, lord protector of the house of life, ruler omniscient and omnipresent of all that is, and he knows the origin of all that comes into existence. He is the most adorable lord of the bounties of nature and of mortal humanity. May he, lord of truth and law, accept us as participants of cosmic yajna and carry on the yajna of creativity for us.

16. Agne viśvebhiḥ svanīka devairūrṇāvantam prathamah sīda yonim. Kulāyinaṁ ghṛtavantaṁ savitre yajñaṁ naya yajamānāya sādhu.

Agni, lord commander of glorious flame and power, highpriest and foremost yajaka, with brilliant nobilities of nature and humanity, take over this home and sit on this vedi covered with holy grass, the home full of people and prosperity and overflowing with fragrant ghrta, and lead the yajna to a noble end for the yajamana in honour of Savita, lord creator, the cosmic organiser of Nature's yajna.

19. Vayamu tvā gṛhapate janānāmagne akarma samaidhā br̥hantam. Asthūri no gārhapatyāni santu tigmena nastejasā saṁ śīśādhi.

Agni, leading light and power, sustainer of people's homes, we exalt you and develop power and energy higher and higher with knowledge and inputs of fuel so that our multipower transports and domestic needs be fulfilled. O brilliant lord, enlighten us, teach us by your penetrative and far reaching lustre of knowledge and vision.

Mandala 6/Sukta 16

Agni Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

त्वम॑ग्र य॒ज्ञानां॑ हा॒ता वि॒श्व॑षां ह॒तः । द॒व॒भि॒मानु॑ष॒ जन॑ ॥ १ ॥

1. Tvamagne yajñānām hotā viśveṣām hitaḥ. Devebhir-mānuṣe jane.

Agni, self-refulgent leading light of the universe, you are the chief highpriest of all yajnic developments of nature and of all creative and developmental programmes of humanity for common universal good along with the brilliancies of nature and nobilities of humanity among the human community.

स न॑ म॒न्दा॒भिर॑ध्व॒र जि॒ह्वा॒भिर॑य॒जा म॒हः ।

आ द॒वान्वा॑ ॥ य॒ति॑ च ॥ २ ॥

2. Sa no mandrābhir-adhvare jihvābhiryajā mahah. Ā devān vakṣi yakṣi ca.

O lord almighty, with inspiring words of enlightenment and bliss, consecrate our yajna, join us, bring up noble and brilliant divinities and with them make our yajnic programmes fruitful.

वत्था हि वधा अध्वनः पथश्च द्वाञ्जसा ।

अग्रं यज्ञेषु सुकता ॥ ३ ॥

3. *Vetthā hi vedho adhvanaḥ pathaśca devāñjasā.
Agne yajñeṣu sukrato.*

O refulgent lord of knowledge and wisdom, Agni, you are the prime agent of holy action in corporate programmes, you know the highways and byways of existence, and you command the brilliant powers of nature and humanity by your instant moving presence across time and space.

त्वामीळ् अर्धं द्विता भरता वाजिभिः शुनम ।

इज यज्ञेषु यज्ञिर्यम ॥ ४ ॥

4. *Tvāmīḷ adha dvitā bharato vājibhiḥ śunam.
Īje yajñeṣu yajñiryam.*

I worship you, lord both immanent and transcendent, with all my knowledge, power and potential. You are the ordainer and sustainer of life. I pray for your gift of peace and well-being and yearn for your company, adorable lord, in the yajna of corporate action.

त्वमिमा वायां पुरु दिव दासाय सुन्वत ।

भरद्वाजाय दाशुष ॥ ५ ॥

5. *Tvamimā vāryā puru divodāsāya sunvate.
Bharadvājāya dāśuṣe.*

You are the source giver of all these many cherished gifts of life for the enlightened, generous, creative yajaka, master of knowledge, wealth and honour dedicated to social service and charity.

त्वं दूता अमृत्य आ वह्ना दव्यं जनम ।

शृण्वन्विपस्य सुष्टुतिम ॥ ६ ॥

6. Tvaṁ dūto amartya ā vahā daivyaṁ janam.
Śṛṇvan viprasya suṣṭutim.

Imperishable harbinger of light and wisdom, like a divine messenger, listen to the praise and prayer of the vibrant sage and scholar and bring up the man of exceptional brilliance who commands the knowledge of nature and Divinity.

त्वामग्न स्वाध्या॑ मतासा दववीतय । यज्ञ॑षु दवमीळत ॥ ७ ॥

7. Tvāmagne svādhyo martāso devavītaye.
Yajñeṣu devamīlate.

Agni, leading light of the world, learned mortals worship and adore you, refulgent giver of abundance, in corporate acts of creativity and development for the achievement of divine gifts of success and enlightenment.

तव॒ प य॑ ऽ स॒न्दृश॑मु॒त क॒तुं सु॒दान॑वः ।

8. Tava pra yakṣi saṁdṛśamuta kratuṁ sudānavaḥ.
Viśve juṣanta kāmīnaḥ.

All generous and charitable people inspired with love and desire yearn for a vision of your presence and holy action. O lord, let us have the vision and let us join all such charitable acts.

12. *Sa naḥ pṛthu śravāyyamacchā deva vivāsasi.
Bṛhadagne suvīryam.*

Agni, lord of light and lustre, mighty expansive power, you bless us graciously with admirable strength and courage worthy of universal honour and fame.

त्वामग्र पुष्करादध्यथवा निरमन्थत ।

मूर्ध्ना विश्वस्य वाघतः ॥ १३ ॥

13. *Tvāmagne puṣkarādadyathavā niramanthata.
Mūrdhno viśvasya vāghataḥ.*

Agni, light of life, the wise scholar and devotee, Atharva, dedicated to love and non-violence, discovers and churns you out without violence from the highest sphere above the skies which supports and sustains the entire universe.

तमु त्वा दध्यङ्ङृषिः पुत्र इध् अथर्वणः ।

वृत्रहणं पुरन्दरम ॥ १४ ॥

14. *Tamu tvā dadhyaṅṅṛṣiḥ putra īdhe atharvaṇaḥ.
Vṛtrahaṇam puraṇḍaram.*

The seer divining into the meaning of Veda-mantra, who is the child of love and non-violence dedicated to scholarly teachers, lights and develops you, breaker of the clouds and shatterer of the strongholds of darkness.

तमु त्वा पाथ्या वृषा समीध दस्युहन्तमम ।

धनञ्जयं रण रण ॥ १५ ॥

15. *Tamu tvā pāthyō vṛṣā samīdhe dasyuhantamam.
Dhanamjayaṁ raṇeraṇe.*

The bold and generous scholar, leading light of the paths of life, lights and develops you, Agni, destroyer of the darkness of life and winning source of life's wealth in battle after battle for progress and prosperity.

एह्यु षु ब्रवाणि त ग्र इत्थतरा गिरः ।
एभिव'धास इन्दुभिः ॥ १६ ॥

16. *Ehyū ṣu bravāṇi te'gna itthetarā girah.
Ebhivardhāsa indubhiḥ.*

Agni, leading light and pioneer, come, listen, thus do I speak in honour of you, and listen further to higher words, and rise higher with these words sweet and soothing like rays of the moon and exciting as draughts of soma.

यत्र क्व च त मना द ऽ दधस उत्तरम ।
तत्रा सदः कृणवस ॥ १७ ॥

17. *Yatra kva ca te mano dakṣaṁ dadhasa uttaram.
Tatrā sadah kṛṇavase.*

O leading light, where, wherever in fact, is your mind, there you hold your efficiency and identity, and there indeed you create your haven and home.

नहि त पूतम'पिपद्भुव'मानां वसा ।
अथा दुव'वनवस ॥ १८ ॥

18. *Nahi te pūrtamakṣipad bhuvannemānām vaso.
Athā duvo vanavase.*

Never is the perfection, abundance and fruitfulness of your food and sustenance ever wasted away, instead it increases, O haven and home of life and creator of its sustenance. Hence accept our homage and reverence.

आग्रि॑र॒गामि॑ भार॑ता वृ॒त्रहा पु॑रु॒चत॑नः ।

दि॒व दा॑सस्य॒ सत्प॑तिः ॥ १९ ॥

19. Āgniragāmi bhārato vṛtrahā purucetanaḥ.
Divodāsasya satpatiḥ.

Agni, light of life, sustainer of existence, breaker of the clouds of darkness and giver of the bliss of rain, all enlightened and protector of generous enlightened souls, is attained by relentless service, yajna and practice of meditation by the man of universal charity.

स हि॑ वि॒श्वाति॑ पा॒थि॒वा र॒यिं दा॑श॒न्महि॑त्व॒ना ।

व॒न्व त्वा॑ता॒ अस्तृ॑तः ॥ २० ॥

20. Sa hi viśvāti pārthivā rayim dāśan-mhitvanā.
Vanvannavāto astrtaḥ.

That Agni, light of the world, all loving, destroying all evil, unassailable, unshaken, bestows upon us all the wealth, honour and excellence of the world solely by his greatness and power.

स प॑त्न॒व त्वी॑य॒सा ग्र॑ द्यु॒म्न॒नं सं॑यता ।

21. Sa pratnavannavīyasā'gne dyumnena saṁyatā.
Brhat tatantha bhānunā.

Agni, light of life, pioneer of the world, just as the sun with its splendour of light reveals and illuminates the world more and more as ever before, so you too, as ever before, with latest, well controlled and onward moving light and wealth, honour and excellence of knowledge, pervade, illuminate and expand the world of humanity.

प वः सखाया अग्रय स्तामं यज्ञं च धृष्णुया ।

22. Pra vaḥ sakhāyo agnaye stomaṁ yajñam ca dhṛṣṇuyā. Arca gāya ca vedhase.

O friends, offer your songs of adoration and yajnic programmes of corporate action and advancement in dedication to Agni, leading light of humanity, with full strength and unshakable courage. Thus you worship the lord and sing songs of exaltation in honour of the all knowing illuminant power of divinity.

स हि या मानुषा युगा सीदद्भाता कविकृतुः ।

23. Sa hi yo mānuṣā hugā sīdaddhotā kavikratuḥ. Dūtaśca havyavāhanaḥ.

May that Agni, cosmic highpriest of nature's yajna, receiver of oblations and giver of the fruits of corporate action, visionary power of creative holiness, harbinger and disseminator of fragrance like a messenger, creator and distributor of the finest things of life, join us and be seated with us on the vedi for all ages of human history.

ता राजानां शुचिर्वता द्वित्यान्मारुतं गुणम ।

वसा य गीह रादसी ॥ २४ ॥

24. *Tā rājānā śucivratā''dityān mārutaṁ gaṇam.
Vaso yakṣīha rodasī.*

Agni, leading light of the world, giver of peaceful and progressive settlement, bring up and honour in unison those refulgent powers of purity and self discipline of universal law, Mitra and Varuna, sun and moon with coolness of the oceans, love and friendship, brilliant divinities of nature and humanity, human and natural forces vibrant as winds, and the wealth of heaven and earth on the vedi of our corporate programmes of yajna.

46. Vīti yo devaṁ marto duvasyedagnimīṭitādhvare haviṣmān. Hotāraṁ satyayajam rodasyoruttānahasto vivāset.

The mortal, who, bearing holy materials of yajna with love and reverence, serves and worships Agni, generous and brilliant yajaka of the universe abiding and operative in the unity of cosmic law and universal truth, and who prays to the lord with folded hands raised in surrender and supplication, would shine over earth and heaven with divine favour and joy.

Agni, O lord of light, omniscience and omnipotence, thus do we bear and offer the homage of surrender and self-sacrifice to you, prepared with love of the heart and sanctified with holy chant of Rgveda, and we pray may all our people be for you, virile and generous, inspired with love and brilliance of excellence.

48. Agniṁ devāso agriyam-indhate vṛtrahantamam. Yenā vasūnyābhṛtā ṛḥā rakṣāṁsi vājinā.

Thus do brilliant sages light the holy fire and worship Agni, leading light and pioneer, lord of action, foremost leader, highest breaker of the densest clouds and harbinger of the showers of generosity, who bears and brings for us the wealth and honours of the world and who, with his omnipotence, destroys the wicked hostilities of humanity.

1. Pibā somamabhi yamugra tarda ūrvaṁ gavyaṁ mahi grṇāna indra. Vi yo dhṛṣṇo vadhiṣo vajrahasta viśvā vṛtram-amitriyā śavobhiḥ.

Indra, mighty invincible lord of the force of cosmic energy, wielder of the thunderbolt in hand, drink and celebrate with soma while you are sung and celebrated since you break the cloud of showers as the sun, release the vast and great wealth of cows, milk and ghrta, and with your powers and action destroy all unfriendly and antilife forces of the world.

The one that is simple and natural in conduct, saviour across the seas, splendid and self-protected, mightiest among people, breaker of clouds and hostile strongholds, wielder of the thunderbolt and strongest winner, such is Indra, and such, O lord, defend, protect and promote what is won, release the wonderful energies and overcome the on-slaughts of hostile forces.

ए॒वा पा॑हि प॒त्न॒था म॑न्द॒तु त्वा श्रु॑धि ब॒ह्व॑ वावृ॒ध॒स्वा॒त गी॑भिः ।

Thus protect and promote life and humanity as ever before, and let the adventure give you the pride of pleasure. Listen to the Veda, protect the Word of knowledge, and be exalted by our songs of celebration. Uncover the light of the sun, enjoy food and drink, destroy the hostilities, release the speech of humanity to freedom, and unshackle the lands from bondage into liberty.

4. Te tvā madā bṛhadindra svadhāva ime pītā ukṣayanta dyumantam. Mahāmanūnaṁ tavasaṁ vibhūtiṁ-matsurāso jarhṛṣanta prasāham.

Indra, self-refulgent lord of your own essential power and grandeur, exalted ruler, may these drinks of soma thus enjoyed shower you with the joy and ecstasy of victory. So do the people moved with the excitement of self-confidence and divine exaltation celebrate you, great, perfect, potent, magnificent, and victorious yet forbearing lord of power as you are.

Indra, lord ruler of the world, by the powers and forces with which you place the sun in orbit and rouse the dawn on course, and vest them both in light and splendour, and with which you break the strongest mountain asunder, by the same power and force, O lord of love and bliss, from your own assembly seat, inspire and strengthen the great inexhaustible human energy, generous as cloud of showers, across the earth to rise and shine.

With your wisdom, holy deeds and divine power, you develop ripeness in the unripe and maturity in the immature minds and open the strong doors and fill them with light for the bright people. Thus does the lord of life and breath energy of freedom liberate the lands and their speech from the violence of tyrants.

7. Paprātha kṣāṁ mahi daṁso vyurvīmupa dyāmṛṣvo bṛhadindra stabhāyaḥ. Adhārayo rodasī devaputre pratne mātārā yahvī ṛtasya.

Indra, almighty lord of glorious action and potential, you create, pervade and sustain the wide earth and heaven and you sustain, support and order the compact earth, heaven and the expansive universe, and you sustain the compact earth, firmament and the solar sphere, ancient, great and generous mothers of the children of divinity and themselves the children of mother Prakṛti and the divine law of nature.

8. Adhā tvā viśve pura indra devā ekam tavaśam dadhire bharāya. Adevo yadabhyauhiṣṭa devāntsvarṣātā vṛṇata indramatra.

Indra, lord almighty of bliss and enlightenment, all the noble powers of nature and humanity hold on to you, lord absolute and omnipotent, for success in their life's endeavours. And when anyone bereft of light engages in contest against the enlightened, then the enlightened people maintain their faith in the heavenly power and win the battle for light and bliss here itself.

9. Adha dyauścīt te apa sā nu vajrād dvitānamad bhiyasā svasya manyoh. Ahim yadindro abhyohasānam ni cid viśvāyuh śayathe jaghāna.

And then even the light of heaven doubly bows to you, first in awe of the thunderbolt and then also in awe of your majesty of divine passion, when Indra, cosmic energy, strikes the approaching dark cloud and lays it down in showers and sends it to sleep.

10. Adha tvaṣṭā te maha ugra vajraṁ sahasra-bhrṣṭim vavṛtacchatāśrim. Nikāmamarama-ṇasaṁ yena navantam-ahim saṁ piṇagrjīṣin.

O lord of blazing glory, simple, natural and forceful, Tvashta, the cosmic maker of forms, shaped in nature the mighty hundred-angled thousand pointed thunderbolt of your cherished design for relentless strikes by which you break the roaring cloud of darkness for showers of rain in the cycle of seasons.

Indra, O potent spirit of the cosmos, let all vibrant creative and constructive forces of nature and humanity join in unison and exalt you, ruler of the world, ripening and maturing a hundred mighty gifts of vitality in your service. May Vishnu, omnipresent sustaining power of universal nourishment, ever active on the move, fill the three oceans of earth, heaven and the middle regions with life giving nectar of bliss and excitement for this Indra to break down the cloud of darkness, evil and want.

12. Ā kṣodo mahi vṛtaṁ nadīnāṁ pariṣṭhitamasṛja ūrmimapām. Tāsāmanu pravata indra panthāṁ prārdayo nīcīrapasaḥ samudram.

Indra, ruling power of the world, creates the great flood of the rivers collected and controlled all round and releases the waves of the waters to flow. Accordingly he prepares the paths of water movement downward and lets the waters join the sea (thereby completing the natural cycle of water energy across the three oceans).

एवा ता विश्वा चकृवांसमिन्द्रं महामुगमजुर्य सहादाम ।

3. Evā tā viśvā cakṛvāṁsam-indraṁ mahāmugram-ajuryaṁ sahodām. Suvīraṁ tvā svāyudhaṁ suvajramā brahma navyam-avase vavṛtyāt.

Thus may our new homage of praise, prayer and yajnic service reach Indra, omnipotent lord of the universe, absolute doer of all actions, mighty, refulgent, unaging and imperishable, giver of strength and forbearance, commander of heroes, all armed and wielder of the thunderbolt of nature's cyclic energy, and may our prayer move the lord for our protection and progress.

14. Sa no vājāya śravasa iṣe ca rāye dhehi dyumata indra viprān. Bharadvāje nṛvata indra sūrīn divi ca smaidhi pārye na indra.

May Indra, lord ruler of the universe, accept us, vibrant seekers of light, for the gift of speed and progress toward victory, honour and excellence, food and energy, and all round wealth of life. May Indra bless the brave leaders of humanity, and may the lord establish us all in the light of divinity and guide us on the path of total worldly fulfilment and freedom of ultimate salvation.

15. Ayā vājaṁ devahitaṁ sanema madema śatahimāḥ suvīrāḥ.

Thus do we offer ardent praise and seek to share divine favour and inspiration fit for dedicated humanity and pray we may live happy a full hundred years blest with noble and heroic generations of progeny.

Adore him who tames and controls brute force, loves and shares life with all, unshaken and all admired, that is Indra, potent ruler of the world, intrepidable, blazing refulgent, challenging yet forbearing, most generous and creative of people. With these words of celebration, exalt him, and you too would rise.

Indra is a hero, strong and realistic, a warrior, socially committed, all loving and friendly, eloquent, simple, natural and honest, dynamic, stormy in movement, and a unique embodiment of courage and tolerance among the best of thinking humanity.

3. Tvaṁ ha nu tyadadamāyo dasyūṅrekaḥ kṛṣṭīra-vanorāryāya. Asti svinnu vīryaṁ tat ta indra na svidasti tadrututhā vi vocaḥ.

Indra, you for sure are the one who fight out and control the wicked and violent elements and bring the world communities together for a united world of progressive and cultured humanity. That indeed is your strength, real heroism, is it not? Pray speak of that courage, competence and vision according to the needs of time and season.

Real and true indeed is the courage and tolerance of the world hero, yours all, I believe, O boldest and most forbearing warrior, which defines the light, power and victory of the ruler who is the instant victor over the victorious, blazing over the violent, stronger than the strongest and most powerful non-violent destroyer of the destructive.

That age-old friendship of ours with you may, we pray, be firmly established in you and remain thus with the vibrant celebrants too who speak this same way in praise of you, and just as the sun breaks the cloud and opens the flood gates of rain showers, so may you, O lord imperishable and generous, shaker of the otherwise unshaken, destroy the darkness of evil, inspire and advance the dynamic leaders, and open all the gates of the human cities on the world highways.

That is the lord worthy of homage with all our intelligence and holy actions, refulgent maker of leaders and achievers in the great human struggle against evil and deprivation. That wielder of adamant power is to be exalted and glorified in the battles of humanity for the advancement and progress of our children and grand children for future generations.

The man who never suffers from error, never feels bewildered, stupefied, infatuated or perverted but remains self-possessed, conscious of his essential identity and constancy of character, who shakes the ogre, the hoarder, the vociferous bully and the exploiter, and favours the generous, peace loving and enlightened persons, is Indra, worthy to be the ruler for the peace and progress of the common-wealth of nations for sure.

And by raising and refining the admirable power of action, O lord ruler and sovereign, ascend your chariot for the battle of life against darkness and deprivation. Take up the thunderous weapon of power and force in the right hand, generous lord, shine in all your majesty and glory of action and destroy the force and wiles of the enemy.

Heroic Indra, destroyer of the evil, leader of the brave and tempestuous forces of humanity, bring us the strongest power and valour, most burning and blazing lustre and dignity, and give us showers of all the wealth and honours of the world good for the people for their joy and celebration.

Indra, invincible hero, ruler of life, bless us with that righteous passion of yours, challenging and victorious yet forbearing and unhurtful, which inspires all good virtues and by which, under your protection, we may triumph in life and live happy in the company of our children and grand children.

Indra, ruler of the world, may overwhelming and generous vigour, force and power come and flow for you all round from above and below, front and behind, all ways and every way constantly without break, and may it come to us from all sides. O lord of peace, prosperity and happiness, hold, protect and promote the wealth, honour and excellence of life for us and bless us with the grace of holy living on earth.

Lord of humanity, leader of world pioneers, illustrious ruling power, refulgent Indra, we pray may we share and enjoy your most human favour and protection and have the cherished graces of life with revelations of the Word and actions of holiness. O refulgent lord, I see your divine glory of both heaven and earth prevailing among rulers and the people, and pray sustain this glory of life, great, constant, expansive and infinite.

Here on the vedi of this dear green earth, for the protection of life and the environment and for progress of the latest order, we invoke, invite and celebrate Indra, lord of glory, commanding humanity and the winds, generously valorous, ever rising, free from detractors, divinely refulgent, all ruling, all forbearing and victorious, illustrious giver of both tolerance and fighting power over evil for victory of the good for constant growth.

O lord of the thunderbolt of power, justice and punishment, humble that man who proudly holds himself as the greatest and mightiest against these people among whom I live and justify my existence. And now, O lord, for the sake of these very people on earth and in the battles of the brave for victory, we invoke, invite and celebrate you among our children, our cows, our lands and waters, and in the onward flow of our life and progress.

We are yours, O lord universally invoked and adored, and we pray that by these friendly words and acts of service we may be constantly superior to one enemy after another enemy of life and progress, fighting out and destroying the evils of darkness and want in both spiritual and material fields of life on earth, so that, under the umbrella of your protection and guidance, we may enjoy life with wealth, honour and excellence, rising higher and higher.

Mandala 6/Sukta 20Indra Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

द्यान य इन्द्राभि भूमायस्तस्था रयिः शर्वसा पृत्सु जनान ।

1. Dyaurna ya indrābhi bhūmāyastasthau rayiḥ śavasā pṛtsu janān. Taṁ naḥ sahasrabharam-urvarāsāṁ daddhi sūno sahaso vṛtraturam.

Indra, lord of life, creator giver of strength, commander of power and forbearance, give us that wealth and life's value and that master ruling power vast as skies and bright as sun which, by its intrinsic strength of character can stand by people in the face of hostile forces in our struggle for progress, fight a thousand battles with success, give us lands of fertility and smiling greenery, and overcome the darkness of ignorance, poverty and injustice.

दिवा न तुभ्यमन्विन्द सत्रा सुर्यं दुवभिधायि विश्वम् ।

2. Divo na tubhyamanvindra satrā'suryaṁ devabhirdhāyi viśvam. Ahim yad vṛtramapo vavriv-āmsaṁ hannṛjīṣin viṣṇunā sacānaḥ.

Indra, ruler of the world, observer of the original law and keeper of the honest simplicity of natural conduct, when in union with omnipresent Vishnu, omnipotent cosmic energy, you break the cloud of serpentine motion holding showers of the waters of life in hiding, then, together with the showers, universal life breath of vital energies is received, like light of the sun from heaven, by the brilliancies of humanity and of nature such as earth to bless you and your people.

तूव गाजीयान्तवसस्तवीयान्कृतब्रह्मन्द' वृद्धमहाः ।

3. *Tūrvannojīyān tavasastaviyān kṛtabrahmendo

Indra, refulgent and illustrious leader, is mightiest of the mighty. Breaking the clouds for shower, having created abundance of food, energy and literature of vision and wisdom, and having raised a team of veteran assistants, he becomes the real ruler of humanity, commander of honey sweets of peace and joy and saviour of all cities of the common wealth against the assailant and destroyer.

4. *Śatairapadran paṇaya indrātra daśaṇaye

Here in the world of business and administration in the advancement of life and light for the men of vision and wisdom protected from all ten directions, misers, thieves and robbers all run off by a hundred onslaughts of the ruler's admirers. Indra, O lord ruler of light and life, can any one exhaust, surpass or defeat the power, knowledge and abundance of the mighty and generous ruling order? None.

5. Maho druho apa viśvāyu dhāyi vajrasya yat patane pādi śuṣṇaḥ. Uru ṣa saratham sārathaye karindraḥ kutsāya sūryasya sātāu.

When on the fall of the mighty thunderbolt of justice and punishment the demon of darkness and denial is fallen and the sustaining force of all hate, jealousy and enmity is withdrawn, then the mighty Indra, further, opens and extends the field for the positive leaders and pioneers of vision, creativity and power for the nation on the march in the higher battle of light and culture.

6. Pra śyeno na madiramamśumasmai śiro dāsasya namucermathāyan. Prāvannamīm sāpyam sasantam prṇagrāyā samiṣā sam svasti.

Crushing the head of the violent destroyer, churning the mind of the persistent saboteur to correction, saving the humbled opponent at the end of his tether now lying at peace for mercy, and providing all such with adequate means and materials with food and sustenance for a life of comfort and well being, the leader, commander, ruler, Indra, like a victorious eagle, should bring the exhilarating drink of new life and joy of celebration for this social order.

7. Vi piprorahimāyasya drlḥāḥ puro vajriñchavasā na dardah. Sudāman tad rekṇo apramṛṣyam-rjiśvane dātram dāśuṣe dāḥ.

O lord of the power of thunderbolt, with your power and force, pray never destroy the strongholds and cities of the protective and promotive leader of versatile genius and competence. Instead, O lord of generosity, for such a philanthropic leader of simple and honest law and conduct of pious virtue, provide generous gifts and grants of irresistible and permanent value.

8. Sa vetasum daśamāyaṁ daśaṇim tūtujimindrah svabhiṣṭisumnaḥ. Ā tugraṁ śaśvadibhaṁ dyotanāya māturna sīmupa srjā iyadhyai.

Indra, refulgent ruler commanding noble peace and cherished well being, in order to continuously advance the dominion and raise it to splendour, adopt, nurse and promote the world famous, ten ways versatile, ten ways expansive, powerful and ambitiously receptive and progressive social order as your own family, just as the mother elephant nurses, guides and promotes her calf to maturity without let up.

9. Sa īm sprdho vanate apratīto bibhrad vajraṁ vrtrahaṇaṁ gabhastau. Tiṣṭhaddharī adhyasteva garte vacoyujā vahata indramṛṣvam.

Indra, glorious ruler, enemies unknown, takes on and wins over the rivals and contenders and, wielding the cloud-breaking thunderbolt in hand and settled in his dominion seat of power, he aims like an archer and rides his chariot driven by word-controlled horse powers which drive the mighty ruler over the expanse of his dominion.

10. Sanema te'vasā navya indra pra pūravaḥ stavanta enā yajñaiḥ. Sapta yat puraḥ śarma śāradīrda-rdhan dāsīḥ purukutsāya śikṣan.

Indra, lord of honour and excellence, by virtue of your protection and promotion, we enjoy the latest gifts of life, and the citizens adore you by these programmes of yajna since you establish seven cities for comfortable living, open out seven abundant autumnal streams against drought and deprivation, and destroy all forms of slavery and impiety for the education and advancement of the heroic wielder of power and weapons of defence.

11. Tvaṁ vṛdha indra pūrvyo bhūrvarivas-yannuśane kāvyāya. Parā navavāstvam-anudeyaṁ mahe pitre dadātha svaṁ napātam.

Indra, lord ruler of honour and excellence, knowledge, wisdom and generosity, be the first and foremost leader in the service of the great advancing human nation, specially for the inspired and ambitious pioneer of art, science and culture. Give the best and latest home and infrastructure worthy of being granted to the great father figure of future development which must not be self-destructive or self-defeating in any way.

Indra, you are the shaker and arouser of life and passion. Arouse, accelerate and control the roaring streams of the nation's life and wealth like the pulsating veins and arteries of the human system. O brave hero, you cross the seas and traverse the skies, let there be peace and well being with the industrious, self-controlled and dynamic humanity.

Indra, lord sustainer and giver of peace and joy, in the business of life, all that roaring action or sufferance or consumption, all is your world, for you : the idle, the restful, the sleeping, the shining, the violent, the faithful bearing holy fuel, the cook, whether preparing soma with sacred work or doing homage with songs and prayers of adoration, everything is yours, all is for you.

Heroic Indra, leader of the world, you are ageless, ever new, ever fresh. These creations of the most versatile artist worthy of presentation glorify you, adorable lord, and they are offered to you in homage since all creations of intelligence, all wealth and celebrated glory reach you, lord of the nation's chariot, and everything flows from you.

Indra is the lord omniscient who alone knows the ultimate mystery of existence. I adore and glorify him who is the ultimate content of all speech, who is exalted by songs of adoration in yajnas, and whose glory by its sublimity and omnipotence transcends the light of heaven and the magnitude of the world of nature.

May he, Indra, the lord all-knowing, know us and enlighten us, the leader who goes forward as pioneer over paths both easy and difficult, carving new channels of progress over annals of history, and may he bring us those modes of energy, power and transport which are wide and versatile beyond wear and tear, indefatigable, inexhaustible.

Mandala 6/Sukta 22

Indra Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

The one sole lord of humanity worthy of yajnic homage is Indra, whom I adore with these words of praise. He it is, lord generous, giver of showers of strength and bliss, eternal, imperishable, omnificent, omnipotent and forbearing who protects and sustains life as supreme father and guardian.

2. Tamu naḥ pūrve pitaro navagvāḥ sapta viprāso abhi vājayantaḥ. Nakṣddābham taturim parvate-ṣṭhāmadroghavācam matibhiḥ śaviṣṭham.

Him our ancient forefathers and the seven sages, like our five senses, mind and intellect, alongwith their fellow men, have celebrated and glorified, the lord that is tamer and controller of opposition, saviour from suffering, pervasive in clouds and over mountains, sweet of tongue and strongest in force and power.

3. Tamīmaha indramasya rāyaḥ puruvīrasya nṛvataḥ purukṣoḥ. Yo askṛdhoyurajarah svarvān tamā bhara harivo mādayadhyai.

We pray to Indra for his gifts of wealth, happy progeny, man power and generous abundance which he, lord of unlimited potential, ageless and blissful, commanding men and transport, would, we hope, bring us for his joy and ours.

If the voice and words of a person are vibrant with devotion and eloquent with enquiry in right earnest about Indra, lord of power, honour and excellence, wielder of the thunderbolt in hand, riding the chariot of life, strong with iron grasp, bold in action, giver of tempestuous strength and commander of cosmic force, then such a person wins the lord's favour of dominion over land for food, energy and the happiness of his heart's desire.

May Indra, lord of infinite knowledge and power, bless us and you all with the best and latest vision and intelligence in order that we may adore and glorify the omnipotent eternal lord as ever, and may the lord saviour of the celestial chariot bring the universal strength of action, otherwise unattainable, and take us across all impassable impediments.

O lord of generous showers of light and purity of peace, light up and reveal the blazing magnificence of the regions of earth, firmament and heaven for people stricken with hate, jealousy and enmity against life, humanity, divinity and revelation of the glory of existence. Let them feel the heat and light of the blaze from all sides, heat up even the green earth and cool waters for them and thus let them be cleansed through suffering and penitence.

O lord all wise and worshipful, universally adored and invited, come to us by well controlled and well directed modes and means of advancement with those laws and policies of universal interest and value and application, which neither the impious obstruct nor the pious camouflage. Come straight here to us with these without delay.

1. Suta it tvaṁ nimiśla indra some stome brahmaṇi śasyamāna ukthe. Yad vā yuktābhyām maghavan haribhyām bibhrad vajraṁ bāhvorindra yāsi.

Indra, lord of honour, wealth and excellence of the world, when the soma is distilled, songs of prayer and adoration are sung and the music of Vedic hymns swells in the air, and when you move and come, one with us, loving and ecstatic, drawn by your own fiery motive powers of saving grace and holding the thunderbolt in hand, you are great and glorious.

2. Yad vā divi pārye soṣvimindra vṛtrahatyē'vasi śūrasātau. Yad vā dakṣasya bibhyuṣo abibhyad-arandhayah śardhata indra dasyūn.

Or when, O mighty lord Indra, free from fear, you protect the creator of the soma of life's joy in the battle of the brave for the elimination of darkness and want and for advancement of light and showers of love and cherished prosperity, or when you scare away even the mighty fearsome warriors against life, you shine in divine glory. O lord Indra, we pray, subdue the forces of violence, fear and destruction.

3. Pātā sutamindro astu somam praṇenīrugro jaritāramūtī. Kartā vīrāya suṣvaya u lokam dātā vasu stuvate kīraye cit.

May Indra, ruler of the world, be protector of the joy of life created with cooperative effort under divine guidance. May the lord of splendour be the leader to guide the celebrant to the desired goal in protection and security of justice. May the lord be the creator of a world of beauty for the brave who endeavour to contribute to the health and joy of life. May the lord bless the divine poet and celebrant with wealth and prosperity in life.

Listen ye all celebrants and yajakas, Indra, ruler of the world, is he who reaches all programmes of positive and creative development by the fastest transport with dynamic experts of theory and practice both, who wields thunderous power and weapons, protects, promotes and shares the soma, invigorating joys of life, gives cows, fertile lands and brilliant words of wisdom and guiding policy, creates bravest of the brave leaders, and listens and appreciates the songs and celebrations of the admirers among the people.

Whatever Indra, lord ruler of light and love, wishes, we do for him since he creates for us the holy acts and does all other divine acts of sustenance. When the soma is distilled and the songs of praise arise, we celebrate and exalt him so that knowledge, food, energy and moral rectitude may arise and grow the way it should.

Indra, lord ruler, the more noble acts of growth and development you do, the more with our intelligentsia and our people we do our acts of duty for you. O lord lover of honour and excellence, when the work is done, the soma is distilled and the time is come for celebration, we do praise worthy acts with yajnas and sing most delightful songs of joy in your honour.

7. Sa no bodhi puroḷāṣaṁ rarāṇaḥ pibā tu somam goṛjīkamindra. Edaṁ barhir-yajamānasya sīdorum kṛdhi tvāyata u lokam.

Indra, lord of majesty, know and enlighten us, happily taste the delicious pudding and drink the exhilarating soma seasoned with cow's milk so soothing to the mind and senses. Come, be seated on the yajamana's vedi, and create a wider and higher world of beauty for your devotees.

8. Sa mandasvā hyanu joṣamugra pra tvā yajñāsa ime aśnuvantu. Preme havāsaḥ puruhūtamasme ā tveyaṁ dhīravasa indra yamyāḥ.

Indra, refulgent lord, enjoy and rejoice in response to these yajnic acts of our homage as they may please you, and may these our addresses of invocation reach you, lord universally loved, and may this song of adoration and enlightened awareness appeal to you for our protection and advancement.

9. Taṁ vaḥ sakhāyaḥ saṁ yathā suteṣu somebhirīm pṛṇatā bhojamindram. Kuvit tasmā asati na bharāya na suṣvimindro'vase mṛdhāti.

O friends, in all your acts of divine service, admire and adore Indra, lord giver of light and food, with yajnic offers of water and endeavours of creative joy dedicated to him so that the great and magnanimous lord would be gracious in the sustenance and protection of you and us all, since he never forsakes the earnest creator of soma.

10. Evedindrah sute astāvi some bharadvājeṣu kṣayadinmaghonaḥ. Asad yathā jaritra uta sūri-rindro rāyo viśvavārasya dātā.

Thus is Indra admired and adored among saints and scholars in the world of honour and excellence when the soma is distilled and ready for celebration so that he, lord of honour, power and knowledge, may settle and abide by men of power and prosperity and be the giver of universal wealth of value to the devoted celebrant.

Mandala 6/Sukta 24

Indra Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

वृषा मद् इन्द्रं श्लोकं उक्त्वा सचा सामेषु सुतपा ऋजीषी ।

1. Vṛṣā mada indre śloka ukthā sacā someṣu sutapā rjīṣī. Arcatryo maghavā nṛbhya ukthairdyukṣo rājā girāmakṣitotiḥ.

Indra, refulgent ruler, is generous as a cloud of showers in the holy programmes of peace and progress of the social order, joy incarnate, delightful as a poem, sacred as a hymn, loved as a friend, lover and protector of the people's happiness and achievement, simple, honest and natural in conduct, admired, revered and consecrated for the people and celebrated by the holiest of their voices, lord of honour, power and glory wrapped in heavenly light, inviolable, ever protective, a very haven of peace and security.

2. Taturirvīro naryo vicetāḥ śrotā havam gr̥natā urvyūtiḥ. Vasuḥ śamso narām kārudhāyā vājī stuto vidathe dāti vājam.

Pressing fast forward against the enemies, brave, leader of leaders, wide awake and all aware, attentive to the call of the supplicant, all round protector of the people, haven and home and real asset of the nation, admired by the people, patron of artists and expert professionals, swift and powerful, adored in yajnic programmes, Indra, the ruler, gives speed and sustenance to the nation's progress.

3. Akṣo na cakryoḥ śūra br̥han pra te mahnā ririce rodasyoḥ. Vṛkṣasya nu te puruhūta vayā vyūtayo ruruhūrindra pūrvīḥ.

Like the axis of two moving bodies such as two wheels or stars and planets or sun and earth, O mighty lord of majesty, Indra, universally invoked and adored, the eternal processes of your creation, protection and promotion of the expansive universe grow and extend like the branches of a tree by virtue of your infinite power and excell the light of the sun and generosity of the earth.

4. Śacīvataste puruśāka śākā gavāmiva srutayaḥ saṁcaraṇīḥ. Vatsānām na tantayasta indra dāmanvanto adāmānaḥ sudāman.

Indra, refulgent lord ruler of the world, destroyer of suffering, manifold are your deeds, unbounded your intelligence, and countless your people. The abundant streams of your generous acts are expansive, associative and convergent like waves of light rays and paths of cows and orbits of stars, and, like tethers of the calves and axes of planets, they are controllers and yet givers of freedom, O generous lord of law and liberty.

5. Anyadadya karvaramanyadu śvo'sacca sanmuhurācakririndraḥ. Mitro na atra varuṇaśca pūṣā'ryo vaśvasya paryetāsti.

Indra, our friend here, great and just, life giver and sustainer, master and over all controller of controllers does one act today, another tomorrow, creative and destructive, integrating and disintegrating, making and unmaking, and goes on doing thus again and again in a positive cyclic order.

Indra, lord of beneficence sung and celebrated in hymns of holiness, just as warriors rush to battle for victory, so do joyous devotees and celebrants eager for karmic action and life's victory hasten to you with homage and yajnas performed with these hymns of praise and songs of adoration, and then, just as rain showers pour from the heights of clouds and streams flow down from the top of mountains, so do fruits of piety and gifts of divine grace shower down and flow, from you.

7. Na yaṁ jaranti śarado na māsā na dyāva indra-mavakarśayanti. Vṛddhasya cid vardhatāmasya tanūḥ stomebhir-ukthaiśca śasyamānā.

Winters and years wither him not, nor months weaken him, nor the sun and days wear out Indra celebrated by hymns of divine praise and songs of adoration. May the existential manifestation of the lord supreme, eternal Indra grow on and on in majesty. May the body and mind of this eternal jiva, individual soul, grow by the chant of sacred songs and hymns of divine praise.

8. Na vīḷave namate na sthirāya na śardhate dasyujūtāya stavān. Ajrā indrasya girayaścid-rṣvā gambhīre cid bhavati gādhamasmai.

He bows not to the strong and forceful, nor bends before the resolute, nor does he praise or flatter the bold nor anyone allied to the wicked. Mighty mountains are, for Indra, plain as fields, and for him the ocean in the depth becomes firm ground and a fordable flow.

Mighty lord, purifier and sanctifier of things in the world of creation, with deep love, profound purpose and grace unbound, give us abundance of food and energy and wide ranging knowledge and success. Stay with us constant with your protection high over us, at dawn and at dusk, night and day without hurt or let up.

10. Sacasva nāyamavase abhīka ito vā tamindra pāhi riṣaḥ. Amā cainamaranye pāhi riṣo madema śatahimāḥ suvīrāḥ.

Indra, ruling lord of the realm, be with us, our leadership and our policy, and justice for protection and progress. Save the system here and afar, at home and abroad, from fear and violence so that, blest with the brave, we may live and rejoice for a full hundred years.

Indra, mighty ruler, dispenser of justice and giver of inspiring vigour and vision, whatever your modes of safety and security at the primary level, whatever at the middle level and whatever of the highest level of the order, with all those protect us in the battle against darkness, want and negation, and bless us with these flights of progress and victory, O lord great and refulgent.

Indra, mighty ruler and commander, with these forces of defence and protection engaged in action, break down the pride and morale of the enemy and, with these, without loss of men and materials or interests of the country, protect and advance the cooperative powers employed across the land, the people, and the services for the noble citizens of the nation.

Indra, mighty ruler and commander of the common wealth, whether it is your own people or other distant ones or saboteurs who join upfront against you to injure the system, you destroy their forces of sabotage, eliminate their growing potential and throw them out.

5. Nahi tvā śūro na turo na dhṛṣṇurna tvā yodho manyamāno yuyodha. Indra nakiṣṭvā pratyastyeṣāṁ viṣvā jātānyabhyasi tāni.

Neither the brave nor impetuous nor violent nor warrior, however great and proud, can stand and fight against you. Indra, lord almighty, none is your equal, none adversary, you are supreme over all those that are born and existent.

6. Sa patyata ubhayornṛmṇamayoryadī vedhasaḥ samithe havante. Vṛtre vā maho nṛvati kṣaye vā vyacasvantā yadi vitantasaite.

If two partners in the matter of integration or division or separation of finances or management of a large corporate organisation of men dispute, then he gets control of the money or the assets whom judges of piety and penetrative intelligence call upon to manage, and above all Indra, the ruler, is the ultimate master.

7. Adha smā te carṣaṇayo yadejānindra trātota bhavā varūtā. Asmākāso ye nṛtamāso arya indra sūrayo dadhire puro naḥ.

And also, O lord ruler and master, giver of honour and excellence, destroyer of evil and wickedness, Indra, be the saviour and protector of all your people specially of those who are stricken with fear. Be the defender and promoter of those people of ours who are the highest leading lights and bravest heroes who hold the forts and maintain the cities for us.

8. Anu re dāyi maha indriyāya satrā te viśvamanu vṛtrahatyē. Anu kṣatramanu saho yajatrendra devebhiranu te nṛṣahye.

Consequently, O lord most adorable, supreme ruler, protector of life and destroyer of negation, appropriate to your greatness and majesty, in keeping with the honour and dignity of the world social order, and in view of the courage and fortitude required to face the challenges to humanity, the whole world is given unto you and entrusted, in truth, by the leading lights and brilliant visionaries of nations in the battle of light against darkness, of goodness against evil, and of prosperity against want and squalor.

Thus, O lord Indra, giver of honour and victory, we pray, inspire us to advance in our ambition to win over our rivals in the battles of life. O lord destroyer, subdue the warring forces of darkness and selfishness. Let us all, celebrants and men of knowledge and action, singing and celebrating your honour day and night, know you for sure and win the victories by virtue of your guidance and protection.

Indra, lord ruler and giver of honour and excellence, listen to us: overwhelming and exuberant we call upon you in the great battle of sustenance and advancement. When the people march on in the battle of the brave, then on the decisive day give us the blazing passion of your force and protection to victory.

6. Tvaṁ śraddhabhir-mandasānaḥ somairdabhī-taye cumurim-indra siṣvap. Tvaṁ rajim piṭhīnase daśasyan ṣaṣṭim sahasrā śacyā sacāhan.

Indra, ruling lord destroyer and preserver, rejoicing with faithful homage and joyous celebrations of dedicated followers, you send the oppressive ogre to sleep in order to save the oppressed and, favouring the man of right conduct in keeping with your holiness, you give him the right direction and ward off a sixty thousand obstacles from his path.

7. Ahaṁ cana tat sūribhir-ānaśyām tava jyāya indra sumnamojah. Tvayā yat stavante sadhavīra vīrastrivarūthena nahuṣā śaviṣṭha.

Indra, bravest lord of the house of the brave, I pray, may I too, along with the learned and the wise and great, attain that high order of vigour and splendour, peace and well being, with the grace of your presence bestowed by you, lord of three worlds, which the brave and learned people value, admire and pray for.

8. Vayaṁ te asyāmindra dyumnahūtau sakhāyah syāma mahina preṣṭhāḥ. Prātardaniḥ kṣatraśrī-rastu śreṣṭho ghane vṛtrāṇām sanaye dhanānām.

Indra, greatest lord of grace and glory, may we, in this yajnic programme of power and prosperity of the human nation, be your dearest friends and supportive participants, and may the rising generosity and gracious glory of the world order rise highest in our battle against darkness of ignorance, injustice and poverty for the achievement of all round prosperity and well being.

Mandala 6/Sukta 27

Indra Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

1. Kimasya made kimvasya pītāvindrah kimasya sakhye cakāra. Raṇā vā ye niṣadi kiṁ te asya purā vividre kimu nūtanāsaḥ.

What does Indra, destroyer of suffering, do in the ecstasy of this soma, for the beauty and glory of this order? What in the exuberance of the drink, in the joyous experience of its management and satisfaction therefrom? What in the friendly identity with it and its people? And what do they know and discern, the veterans and the youngest of the new generation, who joyously celebrate in the company of this Indra in the House? What do they gain?

सदस्य मद् सद्वस्य पीताविन्दः सदस्य सुख्य चकार ।

2. Sadasya made sadvasya pītāvindrah sadasya sakhye cakāra. Raṇā vā ye niṣadi sat te asya purā vividre sadu nūtanāsaḥ.

Noble deeds of the truth of its reality does Indra perform in the rapture of its dignity, noble and true indeed when he drinks of the soma of that experience, nothing but the truth and dignity of action and policy in friendly identity with this social order. And they who joyously sit in his company in the House identified with the glory of this order, veterans as well as new ones, they too know and realise the truth and the reality, nothing but the truth, whole and undiluted.

3. Nahi nu te mahimanaḥ samasya na maghavan maghavattvasya vidma. Na rādhaso rādhaso nūtanasyendra nakirdadrśa indriyaṁ te.

Indra, lord of wealth, power and majesty, we know not anyone equal to you in greatness and glory, nothing like your regality and munificence, nothing so perfect as your perfection which reveals ever new possibilities. None comprehends your omniscience and your omnipotence.

ए॒तत्त्य॑त्त इ॒न्द्रिय॑म॒चति॑ यना॒वधी॑व॒रशि॑खस्य॒ शर्षः॑ । वज॑स्य॒ यत्त॑ नि॒हत॑स्य॒ शुष्मा॑त्स्व॒नाच्चि॑दि॒न्द पर॑मा द॒दारे॑ ॥ ४ ॥

4. Etat tyat ta indriyamaceti yenāvadhīrvara-śikhasya śeṣaḥ. Vajrasya yat te nihatasya śuṣmāt svanāccidindra paramo dadāra.

Indra, lord of power and perfection, this omnipotence of yours is apprehended when with it you strike and destroy the greatest and highest adversary to the very end, which too is just the tip of the might of omnipotence, and when, by the force of the mere roar and rumble of the thunderbolt hurled, the proudest enemy is shattered.

5. Vadhīdindro varaśikhasya śeṣo' bhyāvartine cāyamānāya śikṣan. Vṛcīvato yaddharyūpīyāyāṁ han pūrve ardhe bhiyasāparo dart.

Just as Indra, the sun, breaks the cloud on high to the last drop of rain, so should Indra, eminent teacher as well as the ruler, in the act of giving instruction to the dedicated learners all round vigilant in a sustained manner, while giving them pioneering enlightenment in their love of scholars and scholarship, dispel their basic fear, ignorance and negative tendencies and thus eliminate the possibilities of later resurgence of evil with the healthy fear of unknown and unexpected consequences.

6. Trimśacchataṁ varmaṇa indra sākam yavyāvatyām puruhūta śravasyā. Vṛcīvantāḥ śarave patyamānāḥ pātrā bhindānā nyarthānyāyan.

Indra, mighty lord ruler universally invoked and honoured, let thirty hundred renowned warriors in armour in a well provided army in top gear breaking through the enemy lines, shattering the defences, achieve their decisive goal.

7. *Yasya gāvāvaruśā sūyavasyū antarū ṣu carato

The ruler whose power and law, internal policy and external defence, both like two healthy, ruddy and loving cows, well provided and happily self-satisfied, operate in the dominion, he, training the efficient force in radiative communication and productive science, would throw off the destructive elements of the state.

Agni, refulgent ruler, commanding wealth, power, honour and excellence, dynamic leader ever on the move for progress and victory, revered and celebrated all round, gives me both chariot warriors for defence of the nation and happy families and a team of twenty creative ministers to bear the burdens of the nation, which gift from any of global rulers is invulnerable indeed.

Mandala 6/Sukta 28Gavah or Indra Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshiआ गाव' अगम णुत भदमकन्त्सीदन्तु गाष्ठ र्णयन्त्वस्म ।*पुजावतीः पुरुरूपा इह स्युरिन्द्राय पूवीरुषसा दुहानाः ॥ १ ॥

1. Ā gāvo agmannuta bhadram-akrantsīdantu goṣṭhe raṇayantvasme. Prajāvatīḥ pururūpā iha syurindrāya pūrvīruṣaso duhānāḥ.

Let the cows come as rays of the sun, sit and rest in the stalls, be happy and bring us happiness and good fortune. May they be fertile with many calves, of many colours and breeds, abundant, yielding plenty of milk for the health and prosperity of the nation, and thereby let them be harbingers of light like the morning dawns.

2. Indro yajvane pṛṇate ca śikṣatyuped dadāti na svaṁ muṣāyati. Bhūyobhūyo rayimidasya vardhayannabhinne khilye ni dadhāti devayum.

Indra, the ruler, gives protection and maintenance grants to the man dedicated to yajna. He engages him in creative and educational work and thus gives him fulfilment and purpose in life. This way too he does not deplete his own knowledge and culture but maintains it. Constantly and continuously he adds to the wealth of the nation and, in every region of the land, he looks after and maintains the devotees of learning, society and divinity without taking away anything from them materially.

3. Na tā naśanti na dabhāti taskaro nāsāmāmitro vyathirā dadharṣati. Devāñśca yābhiryajate dadāti ca jyogit tābhiḥ sacate gopatiḥ saha.

Knowledge, fruits of yajna, generosity, patronage of learning and culture, these rays of light do not perish nor deplete nor fade away. The thief steals them not, no enemy can afflict them, nor can anyone injure or insult them. The lord of these cows, lights and radiations, with which he serves the divinities, learned and the wise, gives, creates and adds to life's beauty, also, he constantly and continuously lives, lasts and rises with them.

4. Na tā arvā reṇukakāṭo aśnute na saṁskṛtatratmupa yanti tā abhi. Urugāyamabhayaṁ tasya tā anu gāvo martasya vi caranti yajvanah.

Neither a vociferous brute raising clouds of dust like a war horse attains to these rays of light and culture, nor do these radiations penetrate the thick head of a violent man insulated against enlightenment. Like cows, the rays of refinement roam freely round the open pastures of the generous man of yajna and social service, a boundless world of freedom and fearlessness.

May Bhaga, lord of wealth and good fortune, give me cows. May Indra, lord of power and majesty, give me good cows. May Bhaksha, adorable lord of primal food, energy and ecstasy of life, give me good cows for milk. O people, O lord of power and glory, Indra, I love and love to have all that is cows, i.e., mothers of food and energy, sources of sweetness, light and culture, masters of knowledge and wisdom, honour and excellence. I love that all with my heart and mind, the beauty, the glory, the ecstasy!

You develop the cows of life, mother spirits of body, mind and soul. Give health and vigour to the weak and emaciated, turn the ugly and unpleasant to beautiful, graceful and illustrious. Make the home overflow with peace, prosperity and the bliss of good fortune. You command noble speech in the assemblies of the wise and powerful leaders so that your life and work is praised and appreciated wide and high in the world.

O fertile and abundant cows blest with calves, feeding on fine green grass and drinking pure water from transparent pools, may no thief ever overpower you, may no strike of the cruel and sinful butcher ever slaughter you.

(Swami Dayanand applies this mantra to the duties of the ruler: The ruler should look after the cattle wealth of the country. The government must protect and promote the cows. Not only that. Even the people and their education culture and efficiency are, like the holy cow, to be protected against violence and promoted with good food and water and all means of prevention of social crime and violence.)

In this social order and in the policy, let there be a union and identity of the ruler with the people, their lands and their languages. Indra, noble and illustrious ruler, all giver, let the people share, join and support you in your creative acts of courage and development.

1. Indram vo narah sakhyāya sepurmaho yantah sumataye cakānāḥ. Maho hi dātā vajrahasto asti mahāmu raṇvamavase yajadhvam.

O citizens of the land, leading lights of humanity in love with knowledge, wisdom and guidance, to win your friendship and to rise to the heights of life for your sake, honour and serve Indra, supreme ruler, lord of knowledge and power. Great is he, all giver, and wields the sceptre of light, power and justice. Join the great lord of love and joy and honour him with homage and yajnic service for protection and progress.

2. Ā yasmin haste naryā mimikṣurā rathe hiraṇyaye ratheṣṭhāḥ. Ā ráśmayo gabhastyoḥ sthūrayō rādhvannaśvāso vṛṣaṇo yujānāḥ.

Indra in whose hands are all the gifts of life for mankind rides the golden chariot of the cosmos, holding reins of the world in his mighty hands, controlling the potent forces of nature like horses on the course of time and destiny.

श्रिय त पादा दुव आ मिमि णुधृष्णुवजी शर्वसा

Gracious are your feet firmly fixed in liberality and compassion. The devotees offer their homage of soma there for glory. You are all conquering, wielder of the thunderbolt, mighty generous by your own essential power and munificence, and, wearing a fragrant, glorious and heavenly robe, blissful sight for all to see, O director of the cosmic dance, you are the all moving, all inspiring, omniscient presence and power.

4. *Sa soma āmiślatamaḥ suto bhūd yasmin paktiḥ

That is the blessed dominion of Indra, ideal world order raised to systemic purity and integrated to organismic unity wherein soma is distilled and seasoned in plenty, ample food is prepared for all, food grains are grown in abundance, and leading lights of the people, divinely occupied, sing songs of appreciation in praise of Indra and rise to the heights of excellence bordering on divinity.

No one can reach the end of your power, the force that binds up heaven and earth as a handful of dust in space. Still the man of courage and vision without fear, moving at supersonic speed under the cover of your protection, does attain that pleasure of fulfilment which a host of thirsty travellers finds at a shady fount of holy waters.

Thus may the lord sublime, omnipotent Indra, ever active in golden glory, listen to the prayers of universal humanity in all direct and indirect modes of divine protection and grace. Thus does the lord, self-manifest in boundless power and glory, create and preserve the abundant wealth of good and destroy darkness, enmity and negation of evil.

1. Bhūya id vāvṛdhe vīryāyañ eko ajuryo dayate vasūni. Pra ririce diva indraḥ pṛthivyā ardhamidasya prati rodasī ubhe.

Again and again the one ageless Indra grows in manifestation to express his power and creates, preserves and gives all wealths of the world. The sun from the regions of light covers half of the earth and relieves the other half. In turn, the earth and the sky both receive only half of the light and heat, and the sun exceeds and excels both.

2. Adhā manye br̥hadasuryamasya yāni dādhāra nakirā mināti. Divedive sūryo darśato bhūd vi sadmānyurviyā sukraturdhāt.

And I know and honour the extensive luminous life giving power and energy of this sun and of the many planets that it holds and sustains, which no power can deny, disturb, diminish or destroy. Day by day, every morning, the sun rises glorious and, holy participant in the cosmic yajna of Indra, it generates and sustains many abodes of life along with the wide earth.

3. Adyā cinnū cit tadapo nadīnām yadābhyo arado gātumindra. Ni parvatā admasado na sedustvayā dr̥lhāni sukrato rajāmsi.

Indra, refulgent lord, now as ever you draw up the waters of the rivers by evaporation, shower them and let them flow in river beds to the sea. You attract the earth by gravitation and let it move in orbit. You fix the mountains in place and float the clouds in windy courses, everything in place like guests in a dinner party. Indeed, O lord of holy action in cosmic yajna, by you are all regions of the universe set in place, firm and secure.

4. Satyamit tanna tvāvāñ anyo astīndra devo na martyo jyāyān. Ahannahim pariśayānamarṇo 'vāsrjo apo acchā samudram.

Indra, refulgent lord eternal, true it is there is no one else divine or human as great as you who break the dark and dormant cloud, release the showers of rain and let the whirling streams flow and join the rolling ocean. Similarly, O lord omnipotent, you break the dark silence of sleeping nature from the state of inertness and set the processes of creative evolution aflow and let them ultimately recede into the fathomless ocean of silence again.

5. Tvamapo vi duro viṣūcīrindra dṛlhamarujah parvatasya. Rājābhavo jagataścarṣaṇīnān sākam sūryam janayan dyāmuṣāsam.

Indra, you break open the impenetrable doors of the cloud and release the rain showers. You break the adamantine mountains and let the waters flow in river courses. You break the bottomless inertness of life energy and let it flow in evolutionary channels of human action and courses of history. Creating the children of the moving world along with the sun and dawn of the day and the regions of heaven and earth, you reign supreme as light of the world, refulgent creator and ultimate dispenser.

Indra, lord ruler of the world, in you vests the governance and control of the entire wealth and assets of the nation, pray be the sole possessor and custodian of national wealth, O lord of honour and excellence. In your hands alone lies the direction of the nation, producers, workers and defence forces all. The wisest people of the land speaking different languages in different styles, in their words and actions describe and celebrate the brilliance of the rule and governance of Indra to their children and grand children.

Indra, sole lord of law and power, by the fear and pressure of your presence, all the unshakables on earth and in the skies stir and move along their functional course. Heaven and earth, clouds and mountains, deep forests, indeed the entire fixed and functionary world of existence fears the unmoved motion of your pervasive presence and dare not relent in their function.

Indra, lord ruler and giver of light, having fought out the voracious drought and bad harvest with the thunderbolt of natural energy, keen for success in the development of lands and cows and the project of solar energy, you deplete ten injurious impediments and ride the chariot of the dominion like the sun in orbit.

Break open the hundreds of hidden strongholds and treasures of the wealth and power of the dark clouds and hoards collected by the thief, and there, O lord of light and power of knowledge and wisdom, with knowledge and expertise, provide the means and materials of prosperity and well being for the advancement of the generous scientist, creative artist, pharmacist, technologist and celebrant of divinity.

Breaking the cloud of showers, shaking the mountains of impediments and inhibitions of mind, sung and celebrated in songs of praise and jubilation, pleased, inspiring and illuminant in response to the homage of reverence, he opens the flood gates of light and song in words, breaking off all impediments to the original vision and imagination of the poet.

He is the ruler, himself a visionary, friend of friends, relentless hero of abundant action, breaker of the strongholds of darkness, and with the company and support of assisting partners, celebrants and poetic creators sitting in meditative posture, he breaks the adamantine rigidities of dead wood and wins the battles for the development of lands and cows and the advancement of knowledge, arts and enlightenment.

5. Sa sargeṇa śavasā takto atyairapa indro dakṣiṇa-tasturāṣāt. Itthā sṛjānā anapāvṛdartham dive dive viviṣurapr-amṛṣyam.

Indra, mighty ruler, instant victor, come happy and jubilant with vibrant new forces of creation, with dynamic pioneers advancing like winds who may, thus, creating, preserving, reconstructing, discovering new goals day by day, move on, realise anew indestructible eternal values and never look back.

1. Ya ojiṣṭha indra taṁ su no dā mado vṛṣant-svabhiṣṭir-dāsvān. Sauvaśvyaṁ yo vanavat svaśvo vṛtrā samatsu sāsahadamitrān.

Indra, lord of honour and excellence, ruler most illustrious, generous, victorious and beneficent, inspired with ardent passion, give us that stormy force of dynamic action for achievement which, equipped with instant and unfailing capability, may fight out the unfriendly powers of darkness in the contests of life and win the wealths of high value in the world for our cherished goal.

2. Tvām hīndrāvase vivāco havante carṣaṇayaḥ śūrasātau. Tvām viprebhirvi paṇīṁraśāyastvota it sanitā vājamavā.

You alone, O lord ruler, Indra, the people of diverse speech adore and invoke in diverse words in battles of the brave for protection and success. You alone, with the wise and vibrant, subdue the uncreative and greedy, and you alone give peace and rest to the celebrants. Indeed, under your protection only, does the cavalier and the warrior win the light of knowledge and victory in action.

3. Tvām tāṁ indrobhayāṁ amitrān dāsā vṛtrāṇyāryā ca śūra. Vadhīrvaneva sudhitebhir-atkairā pṛtsu darṣi nṛṇāṁ nṛtama.

Indra, brave ruler, leading light of the leaders, with focussed, objective and decisive judgement, distinguish between both opponents and supporters, the vile and the noble, split open both clearly to full exposure, and, with decisive blows of unfailing tactic, fight out the negatives in the contests of the dominion just like a forester felling the dead wood with sharpened axe.

Indra, lord ruler of the world, life of life and giver of showers of bliss, be our friend and protector with all your modes of defence and protection for our advancement without reserve or restriction. Fighting our battles of life, O brave and generous hero, defender of good against evil, we invoke and call upon you to come and help us with love and grace.

Indra, lord of life, for sure be our friend and protector, and saviour of others too, for now and for ever, and for the attainment of our cherished goal be kind and gracious. Singing, celebrating and glorifying the splendour of the great lord, we pray, may we abide in the high heaven of divine felicity and, blest with the sacred Word of Divinity, swim across the seas of suffering to freedom.

1. Sam ca tve jagmurgira indra pūrvīrvi ca tvad yanti vibhvo manīṣāḥ. Purā nūnam ca stutaya ṛṣīṇām pasprdhra indre adhyukthārkā.

Indra, lord giver of thought, speech and knowledge, all universal thoughts and diverse forms and words of the eternal Word, all languages past, present and future, proceed from you, return unto you and abide in you. For sure, all ancient hymns and recitations, all interpretive adorations of the seers divining into the visions and meanings of the mantras vie with each other to reach and concentrate on the glory of Indra.

2. Puruhūto yaḥ purugūrta ṛbhvāñ ekaḥ puru-praśasto asti yajñaiḥ. Ratho na mahe śavase yujāno 'smābhirindro anumādyo bhūt.

Indra who is invoked by many, admired by many, sole lord adored by many, is sought after by the wise through creative and reflective yajnic endeavours for the pursuit of great vision and power with concentrated mind in meditation. May he be like a chariot for us across the world of life and consequently give us ultimate freedom and joy.

No thoughts can violate Indra, the ruler, nor hurt him, nor can words comprehend him. In fact, the thoughts and words of devotees exalt and glorify him. And when celebrants offer a hundred and thousand adorations to this lord of exaltation, he is pleased and then peace and bliss of well being descends on the devotee.

Just as soma, nectar juice of nature, mixes with the moon and the moon mixes fully with the sun once in the month on full moon night, so in this heavenly relation of life and action between Indra, the ruler, and the devotee, I join with Indra, and just as showers of rain in the desert exhilarate the people so may the sessions of yajna advance the devotees and thereby may they exalt and glorify the lord.

5. Asmā etanmahyāṅgūṣamasmā indrāya stotram matibhiravāci. Asad yathā mahati vṛtratūrya indro viśvāyuravitā vṛdhaśca.

For this Indra, this ruler, this giver of the light of life, is this exalted song of praise and adoration sung and offered by faithful and intelligent devotees so that for the victory of light over darkness and ignorance in this battle of life Indra, lord of all life and the world, may be our protector and guardian for advancement.

Indra, most potent ruler of the world, when would you bring that wealth of knowledge and holiness of universal form and character which we too desire for the celebrant? Commanding highest virtue, when would you join and inspire our thought and will to rise for the grand leap forward? When would you lead us to win the cherished honour, splendour and glory of the earth worthy of you?

Indra, ruler of the world, give us the honour and excellence of a free world order, liquid wealth of gold in circulation, progressive advancement and renown in abundance for a planned programme, and drink the soma of attainable success worthy of a nation of knowledge, virtue and love of divinity, and thus help us create and structure an earthly order of fruitful prosperity for the dynamic bearers of science and action, a lovely world of beauty and splendour indeed.

Indra, valiant ruler, lord of knowledge and power, destroyer of darkness, hate and enmity, let the paths of love and progress you approve and proclaim and the doors of new knowledge you open never be otherwise, keep them wide open onwards. O vibrant lover of knowledge and advancement, never forsake the faithful scholars of divine nature's fertility, vitality and virility, never desert the visionaries of the divine Word of Veda, serve and advance them with means and materials for relentless pursuit of knowledge and life's sanctity.

Truly all your joys and inspirations, Indra, are universal, meant for the world. Truly all your earthly wealth, power and honour is for all children of the earth. Truly you are the wielder and distributor of all forms of food and energy which you bear and bring forth in the divinities of nature and humanity as the very breath of life.

Listen to our prayers and adorations, Indra, lord ruler who love the prayers and adorations of devotees, who are resplendent as sun and boundless as space, master, protector and giver of wealth, honour and excellence, so that shining by wealth and power, growing in knowledge and awareness day by day, you be, as you have been, kind and gracious to us as ever before.

Indra, resplendent lord ruler of the world, we pray, may the motive powers attached to your chariot of universal wealth and bliss bring you hither to us. So does the enlightened celebrant with joy at heart invoke and invite you today so that we too who abide with you in the hall of assembly may grow and prosper.

1. Apādita udu naścitratamo mahīm bharṣad dyumatīm-indrahūtim. Panyasīm dhītiṁ daivyaśya yāmañjanasya rātiṁ vanate sudānuḥ.

May Indra, lord immaculate, wondrous power and glorious ruler, perfect, self-existent and self-sustained, be here direct and accept and exalt our sincere, abundant and brilliant voice of adoration in honour of divinity. The lord is a generous and munificent giver, loves the celebrative voice of the heart and cherishes the homage of noble godly people on way to divinity.

For you all with the best and highest of mind and faith I proclaim and celebrate the ancient and unaging Indra, cosmic energy of the Divine with yajnic gifts of homage. The eternal consciousness of omniscience and the voice of the Vedas all resound in this cosmic medium and the mighty yajna of creation and evolution too renews, evolves and expands under this same Indra, divine energy.

Let yajna, corporate programmes of research and development, advance Indra, power and application of the electric energy of nature. Let soma, positive creations and the scholar dedicated to peace and universal happiness extend the possibilities of power. Let the divine words of the Veda and the achievement of food and energy of universal value exalt Indra, lord of divine energy. And let the dawns, days and nights, hours, months, seasons, earth and heaven, all glorify Indra, lord of the universe. Let our thought and chants of holy word glorify him.

Taste the honey sweet of the Word of this happy and blissful divine poet, celebrant of light, inspirer of passion and vision of wisdom, and friend of Divinity. O refulgent lord of generosity, protect and promote the brilliant and revealing Word of the poet, bless the servant of divinity with energy and sustenance and reveal the words of divinity for the celebrant.

This poet, like the sun, loving, inspiring and impassioned, in unison with the truth and law of existence, with waves of energy bearing rays of light and showers of rain, breaks the clouds of darkness, lights up impenetrable tops of mighty mountains, opens up treasures of wealth, and blesses the untainted and the celebrants. Thus does Indra fight and shine.

This Indra, the sun, itself refulgent, lights up the lightless such as earth and moon, and it lights up the ancient dawns, by the operation of cosmic law. It goes on in orbit by the centre pin of cosmic gravitation with other heavenly bodies such as planets and satellites, drawn by the motive forces of cosmic law and giving light and comfort primarily to the people of the earth.

1. Indra piba tubhyaṁ suto madāyā'va sya harī vi mucā sakhāyā. Uta pra gāya gaṇa ā niṣadyā-'thā yajñāya gṛṇate vayo dhāḥ.

Indra, refulgent ruler, drink the soma of joy distilled for your pleasure and majesty, let the motive power of the dominion, the government and the people, too be free and relax since they are friends. Sit in the assembly of the dominion and sing and inspire the people to celebrate the holy occasion, and bear and bring food, good health and long age for the celebrant of the dominion to carry on the corporate business of governance and administration as a yajna for the lord.

3. Samiddhe agnau suta indra soma ā tvā vahantu harayo vahiṣṭhāḥ. Tvāyatā manasā johavīmī-indrā yāhi suvitāya mahe nah.

When the fire is kindled and rising and the soma is distilled, let the strongest motive forces of transport and the most powerful leaders who can bear the burdens of the commonwealth bring you here. And when you are here I invoke and invite you with a mind wholly dedicated to you, Indra, destroyer of pain and suffering, come for our great pleasure and prosperity of well being.

Indra, lord ruler of glory and power, giver of freedom and dignity, come loving and favourable, grace our yajna of life and living. Drops of soma flow from the press for you and sanctify and brighten up the yajna. O lord of thunder and justice, first and foremost of the holiest guardians of yajna, just as mother cows rush to their stalls for their calves, so eagerly come to us and bless the devotees.

Indra, ruling lord of Dharma and rectitude, by that sophisticated and discriminative palate of yours by which you always taste the sweets of the flow of life, and by that discriminative and sublimated thought and speech by which you always distil the essence and value of the sweets and shades of life and respond to human action, taste the sweets of our yajnic performance, and protect and promote us by your words of wisdom through the rise and fall of life's movement. The high-priest dedicated to love and non-violence awaits you at the altar. May your wheel of justice and governance over the earth ever revolve over the order of humanity.

Indra, ruler and protector, we invoke and exhort you, go forward, let the soma of exhilaration and social dignity be sufficient and inspiring for your health and the body politic. O lord of a hundred great actions and yajnic victories, rise and celebrate the glory of life among the people raised and refined to the sweetness and beauty of culture. Guide on, protect and promote us among the nations and powers of the world.

2. Yasya tīvrasutaṁ madam madhyamantaṁ ca rakṣase. Ayam sa soma indra te sutaḥ piba.

Indra, lord ruler, this is that soma, the power and glory of the yajnic order, distilled and refined in your honour, the brilliant and pure spirit of which in the essence you protect and promote in the beginning, in the middle and at the end of its completion. Pray drink of it to your heart's content and rejoice in the splendour and ecstasy of it.

3. Yasya gā antaraśmāno made dṛḥhā avāsrjaḥ. Ayam sa soma indra te sutaḥ piba.

Indra, lord of glory, this is that soma of knowledge and power distilled and refined for you under the force and exhilaration of which you release mighty waves of energy confined in the thickest cloud and most solid materials. Drink of it to your heart's content and protect and promote the science and power of it.

4. Yasya mandāno andhaso māghonaṁ dadhiṣe śavaḥ. Ayam sa soma indra te sutaḥ piba.

Indra, lord of vision, knowledge and power, happy and worshipful devotee of the sweetness, beauty and ecstasy of life, this is that soma of existence distilled and refined in the essence for you, the mighty energy, force and exuberant vitality of which you bear, protect and promote. Live it, enjoy it to your heart's content, and protect and promote its glory on and on.

2. Yah śagmas-tuviśagma te rāyo dāmā matīnām. Somaḥ sutah sa indra te'sti svadhāpate madah.

Indra, O mighty lord most kind, master of your own power and potential, that exciting peace and pleasure of life created, those gifts of wealth showered on rational humanity, the exuberance of munificence, all is yours, for your own pleasure and ecstasy, and rendered back to you in homage and gratitude.

3. *Yena vṛddho na śavasā turo na svābhirūtibhiḥ.
Somaḥ sutaḥ sa indra te'sti svadhāpate madaḥ.*

Indra, mighty ruler, protector and sustainer of your own creation, your power and potential and your own forces of protection by which you promote the good and positive and destroy the evil and negative like the ancient and eternal father guardian and like a protective destroyer for preservation, that is the beauty and glory and assertive energy of life created by you. That is yours, your fatherly pleasure and ecstasy. Pray let it evolve and rise.

8. Ṛtasya pathi vedhā apāyi śriye manāmsi devāso akran. Dadhāno nāma maho vacobhirvapurdṛśaye venyo vyāvaḥ.

On the path of truth and eternal law, the man of knowledge and wisdom is protected, and the noble and the wise control and transform their minds for the beauty and grace of manners and culture. May the Great one, kind and loving, bearing the holy name, reveal his divine presence in response to our prayers and protect us through the paths of life.

10. Indra tubhaminmaghavannabhūma vayaṁ dātre harivo mā vi venah. Nakirāpirdadṛśe martyatra kimāṅga radhracodanaṁ tvāhuḥ.

Indra, lord of power and majesty, let us be, let us live and work only for you, generous and charitable ruler. Pray do not ignore us, do not neglect us. There is none visible among the mortals around here our own such as you, lord of horse and men, otherwise, O lord dear as breath of life, why would they call you the inspirer for the achievement of honour and excellence in life?

11. Mā jasvane vṛṣabha no rarīthā mā te revataḥ sakhye riṣāma. Purvīṣṭa indra niṣṣidho janeṣu jahyasuṣvīn pra vṛhāpṛṇataḥ.

Indra, mighty generous destroyer of suffering, deliver us not to the unjust and the hungry grabber. Let us never suffer in the friendship of the generous lord nor fall off from loyalty. Let us take advantage of the age old facilities of success among the people. Eliminate the uncreative and keep us away from ungrateful negationists.

And like thundering clouds, Indra moves and declares the gifts of success and munificence, horses and fast accomplishment, cows and abundant food and drink. O lord, you are the patron sustainer of brilliant artists, inventive scientists and expert technologists. Let the miserly non-giver never deceive you or injure you, and never let him deceive the generous and prosperous people.

O brave high priest of the social order of the yajna of love and non-violence, bear the best of soma distilled for homage in honour of the great Indra, ruler of the world. He alone is the ruler of this order worthy to rule who rises in personal and social esteem by the holy voices, both old and new, of the admirers and the wise seers of the land.

15. Pātā sutamindro astu somam hantā vṛtram vajreṇa mandasānaḥ. Gantā yajñam parāvataścidacchā vasurdhīnāmavitā kārudhāyāḥ.

Let Indra, the ruler, drink the soma distilled from exhilarating herbs and protect the spirit and honour of the nation arisen from the noble rule of the order. Let him, happy and inspired, destroy the demon of evil and darkness with the thunderbolt of justice and power. Let him go and attend the yajna of the order well even from afar, provide happy and peaceful settlement for all the people, protect and promote intellectual work and programmes of corporate action, and sustain and advance the experts in art, science and technology.

In these battles of life, among these forces of positive action, O lord of wealth, power and majesty, Indra, destroyer of negativities and enmities, make the way clear for us for the achievement of life's great honour and excellence. Indra, lord of glory and victory, bless us with bravery and spirit of heroism, high intelligence, and power and prosperity of success in our struggle and attainment of the waters of life, noble actions and brave children and grand children.

Indra, lord of power and glory, delightful showers of soma, exuberant and exhilarating like dancing waves of the sea, come and fill your cup of nectar and sprinkle your altar of yajna with ghrta. Thus do the leading lights of nature and humanity bear and bring the soma of life's light and joy distilled by brave and generous leaders of the yajnic order for the mighty and magnanimous lord ruler of the world.

23. Ayamakṛṇoduṣasaḥ supatnīrayaṁ sūrye adadhā-jjyotirantaḥ. Ayaṁ tridhātu divi rocaneṣu triteṣu vindadamṛtaṁ nigūḥam.

This ardent passion of Indra, lord omnipotent creator, makes the dawns bright and blissful inspirers of love and devotion, vests the sun with light within, creates the universe of three natural principles of mind, energy and matter, and infuses the immortal spirit, as mysterious and immanent spirit, in the three bright worlds of heaven, earth and the firmament, and helps us to discover the immortal bliss with ardent passion of holiness.

अयं द्यावापृथिवी वि ष्कभायदयं रथमयुनक्सप्तारश्मिम ।
अयं गाषु शच्या पक्वमन्तः साम' दाधार दशयन्त्र-

24. Ayaṁ dyāvāpṛthivī vi ṣkabhāyadayam rathamayunak saptaraśmim. Ayaṁ gaṣu śacyā pakvamantaḥ samo dādharma daśayantramutsam.

This passion and omnipotence of Indra wields and stabilises the heaven and earth in orbit. It ordains the seven-rayed chariot of the sun in the system. With its power and action it places mature living energy in the fertility of earths, milk in cows and warmth in the rays of sunlight, and thus it holds and sustains soma, life energy of existence, in the universe, thereby making it a living system of tenfold nature, i.e., five elements and five pranic energies.

Mandala 6/Sukta 45

Indra (1-30) and Brbustaksha (31-33) Devata, Shamyu Barhaspatya Rshi

य आनयत्परावतः सुनीती तुवशं यदुम ।
इन्द्रः स ना युवा सखा ॥ १ ॥

1. Ya ānayat parāvataḥ sunītī turvaśam yadum. Indrah sa no yuvā sakha.

May Indra, that eternal lord omnipotent, that youthful ruler, and that forceful leader, be our friend and companion so that he may lead the man of instant decision and action and the hardworking people on way to wisdom and right living even from far off distance.

अ॒वि॒प चि॒द्व॒या द॒ध॒द॒ना॒शु॒ना चि॒द॒व॒ता ।

12. Avipre cid vayo dadhadanāśunā cidarvatā.
Indro jetā hitam dhanam.

He brings food, health and age, life and light of knowledge for the innocent and for the ignorant and unintelligent too and wins wealth and honour for the good life at the fastest without haste and impatience.

म॒ही॒र॒स्य॒ प॒णी॒त॒यः प॒र्वी॒रु॒त प॒श॒स्त॒यः ।

13. Mahīrasya praṇītayaḥ pūrvīruta praśastayaḥ.
Nāsyā kṣīyanta ūtayaḥ.

Great are this ruler's policies and acts of leadership, universal and admirable. Never do his honour, reputation and modes of defence, protection and progress go down.

4. Sakhāyo brahmavāhase'rcata pra ca gāyata.
Sa hi naḥ pramatirmahī.

Come ye friends and comrades, adore the harbinger and protector of divine sustenance and light of universal knowledge, celebrate him in song and proclaim his gifts of kindness. He is the light of sublimity, he alone is our vision and wisdom.

त्वमर्कस्य वृत्रह वि॒ता द्वय॑रसि । उ॒तदृ॑श् यथा॒ वय॑म ॥ ५ ॥

5. Tvamekasya vṛtrahannavitā dvayorasi.
Utedṛśe yathā vayam.

O lord destroyer of evil like the sun, breaker of the clouds, you are the saviour and protector of the one, the lonely and helpless as well as of both the people and the officers of administration as we too likewise are supporters of the ruler and the people.

नय॑सीद्वति॒ द्विषः॑ कृ॒णाष्यु॑क्थशंसि॒नः ।

6. Nayasīdvati dviṣaḥ kṛṇoṣyukthaśamsināḥ.
Nṛbhiḥ suvīra ucyase.

You control, guide and manage even the stubborn hatefuls and convert them to ardent admirers of positive knowledge as men of faith and enlightenment. So you are called the real heroic leader and ruler by the leading lights.

ब्र॒ह्माणं॑ ब॒र्हवा॑हसं गी॒भिः स॒खाय॑मृ॒ग्मिय॑म ।

गां न दा॒हस॑ हुव ॥ ७ ॥

7. Brahmāṇaṁ brahmavāhasaṁ gīrbhiḥ sakhāyamṛgmiyam. Gāṁ na dohase huve.

I invoke and celebrate in holy words the seer and scholar of the universal knowledge of the Vedas, adorable friend and exponent of divine knowledge as one would serve and milk the cow for living energy or study and meditate on the holy Word for living light.

यस्य विश्वानि हस्तयारूचुवसूनि नि द्विता ।

वीरस्य पृतनाषहः ॥ ८ ॥

8. Yasya viśvāni hastayorūcurvasūni ni dvitā.
Virasya pṛtanāṣahah.

Seers and scholars say that in the hands of the heroic leader and ruler, brave challenger and subduer of all forces, lie and abide all treasures of the world both material and spiritual. (The real scholar too is one who commands the knowledge of nature as well as of the spirit, of this world and of the world beyond.)

वि दृ हानि चिददिवा जनानां शचीपत ।

9. Vi dr̥hāni cidadrivo janānām śacīpate.
Vṛha māyā anānata.

O bold and intrepid ruler and protector of the people, lord of mighty action, you break the clouds and shake the mountains. Pray strengthen the strongholds of the people and uproot the wiles of the wicked.

तमु त्वा सत्य सामपा इन्द्र वाजानां पत ।

10. Tamu tvā satya somapā indra vājānām pate.
Ahūmahī śravasyavaḥ.

Indra, lord ever true and redoubtable, protector of the spirit and culture of the good life, ruler and promoter of food, energy and progressive advancement of the people, we invoke and call upon you to lead us in our pursuit of sustenance, progress, honour and excellence and immortal fame.

तमु॒ त्वा॒ यः पु॒रासि॒थ॒ या वा॒ नूनं॑ ह॒ित॒ धनं॑ ।

11. Tamu tvā yaḥ purāsitha yo vā nūnaṁ hite dhane.
Havyaḥ sa śrudhī havam.

You who have ever been with us and for us since eternity, who surely are with us in our best of prosperity and ever at the call of action, the same, O lord adorable, we invoke and pray listen to our call and come and bless.

धी॒भिरव॑र्द्धि॒रव॑ता॒ वाजाँ॑ इ॒न्द्र श्र॒वाय्या॑न ।

12. Dhībhir-arvadbhir-arvato vājāṁ indra śravāyyān.
Tvayā jeṣma hitaṁ dhanam.

With our intelligence and actions, with our drive and horses, and with your helping hand and grace, O lord of victory, destroyer and preserver, Indra, rising and advancing, we pray, let us succeed in our battles of life and win wholesome and reputable treasures of peace and prosperity.

अभू॑रु वी॒र गि॒वणा॑ म॒ह्यं इ॒न्द्र ध॒नं ह॒ित॒ ।

13. Abhūru vīra girvaṇa mahāṇ indra dhane hite.
Bhare vītantasāyyaḥ.

Indra, lord giver of honour and excellence, great, adored in words of praise and prayer, when the call is given, the forces are in array and the battle is raging, then, O lord of victory, be with us. And when the treasure is won and abounds for the good in life, then too, O lord pervasive, be with us.

15. Sa rathena rathītamo'smākenābhiyugvanā.
Jeṣi jiṣṇo hitam dhanam.

O leader and ruler, Indra, bravest commander of the fastest chariot of our social order, thirsting for victory, by that united chariot of ours in unison with us you win the treasures of life good for the nation of humanity.

य एक॑ इ॒त्तमु॑ ष्टुहि कृ॒ष्टीनां॑ वि॒चष॑णिः ।

16. Ya eka it tamu ṣṭuhi kṛṣṭīnām vicarṣaṇiḥ.
Patirjajñe vṛṣakratuḥ.

O man, invoke, admire and celebrate that one alone who is unique by himself, ever watchful guardian of the people, generous performer and showerer of blissful fruits of his action, and who emerges and rises as the protector and ruler of all.

या गृणतामिदासि॒था॒ पिरू॒ती शि॒वः सखा॑ ।

17. *Yo gr̥ṇatāmidāsithā''pirūtī śivah sakhā.
Sa tvaṁ na indra mṛḷaya.*

Indra, potent lord of action, destroyer of suffering and giver of bliss, who are good and kind, friendly and one with the celebrants as our kith and kin, all protective under your umbrella, such as you are, we pray, be kind and gracious to us and lead us to the peace and happiness of the good life.

19. *Pratnaṁ rayīṇāṁ yujaṁ sakhāyaṁ kirico-danam.
Brahmavāhastamaṁ huve.*

I invoke and celebrate that most eminent sage and scholar of universal Vedic knowledge who is great as ancient seers, friend, and inspirer of dedicated disciples to win the wealth of life both spiritual and material.

स हि विश्वानि पार्थिवाँ एका वसूनि पत्यंत ।

गिरवणस्तमा अधिगुः ॥ २० ॥

20. Sa hi viṣvāni pārthivāñ eko vasūni patyate.
Girvanastamo adhriguḥ.

He alone, most adorable, instant mover and omnipresent lord of the universe, solely by himself, rules, protects and promotes all treasures of the earth.

(He alone deserves to be ruler of the world who is an earthly embodiment of such universal virtues.)

स न' नियुद्धिरा पृण कामं वाजभिरश्विभिः ।

21. Sa no niyudbhirā pṛṇa kāmam vājebhir-aśvibhiḥ.
Gomadbbhir-gopate dhr̥ṣat.

O lord of land with controlled mind and senses, bold and resolute, come to us with your teams of harnessed services and commissioned forces commanding speed and movement, warriors of horse and armour, managers of lands and cattle wealth, controllers of information and communication, and with all this infrastructure fulfil our desires and ambitions for the good life of success and progress.

तद्व' गाय सुत सचा पुरुहुताय सत्वन ।

22. Tad vo gāya sute sacā puruhūtāya satvane.
Śam yad gave na śākinē.

In your soma yajna in the business of the world of the lord's creation, sing together songs of homage in honour of the universally adored, ever true and eternal almighty Indra, songs which may be as pleasing to the mighty lord as to the seeker and the celebrant.

न घा वसुनि यमत दानं वाजस्य गामतः ।

यत्सीमुप श्रवद्भिरः ॥ २३ ॥

23. *Na ghā vasurni yamate dānaṁ vājasya gomataḥ.
Yat sīmupa śravad girah.*

And surely the lord giver of settlement and gifts of knowledge, power and speedy progress does not withhold the gifts since he closely hears the prayers of the devotee and responds.

कुवित्सस्य प हि व्रजं गामन्तं दस्युहा गमत ।

शचीभिरप ना वरत ॥ २४ ॥

24. Kuvitsasya pra hi vrajaṁ gomantaṁ dasyuhā gamat. Śacībhirapa no varat.

May the lord destroyer of evil, negativity and poverty visit the homestead of the prayerful devotee blest with lands, cows and divine knowledge and open up the flood gates of wealth, power and divine grace for us with his vision and powers.

इमा उ त्वा शतकता भि प ण नुवुगिरः ।

इन्द्र वृत्सं न मातरः ॥ २५ ॥

25. *Imā u tvā śatakrato'bhi pra ṇonuvurgirah.
Indra vatsaṁ na mātaraḥ.*

Indra, lord ruler of the world and guardian of the people, just as mother cows look toward and low out of affection for the calf, so do these people look up to you with love and reverence, and their voices of adoration exalt you, O lord of a hundred acts of kindness and holiness.

दूणाशं सुख्यं तव गारसि वीर गव्यत ।
अश्व' अश्वायत भव ॥ २६ ॥

26. *Dūṇāśaṁ sakhyaṁ tava gaurasi vīra gavyate.
Aśvo aśvāyate bhava.*

Indra, potent lord ruler of multifarious acts and potential, never can your friendship toward the people be lost or destroyed, it is permanent and versatile. You are all love and revelation to a person in search of faith and knowledge, and you are all impetuous victor for a person thirsting for speed and progress. (The way we think and act, you respond.)

27. *Sa mandasvā hyandhaso rādhase tanvā mahe.
Na stotāraṁ nide karaḥ.*

Indra, ruler of the world of knowledge and action, be happy at heart by body, mind and soul with good food, energy and soma, and make others happy. Subject not your devoted celebrant to the malignity of revilers.

इमा उ त्वा सुतसुत न न्त गिवणा गिरः ।

These words and voices of adoration, O spirit adorable, reach you, in every yajna, in every cycle of creation, like cows rushing to the calf with love.

29. Purūtamaṁ puruṇām stotṛṇām vivāci.
Vājebhir-vājayatām.

May the most ancient and eternal knowledge in the speech of the ancient celebrants of divinity, enlightening and energising humanity with the vital spirits of existence, reaching the primeval soul, come to us too, enlighten and energise us too.

अ॒स्माक॑मि॒न्द भू॒तु त॒ स्तामा॒ वाहि॑ष्ठा॒ अन्त॑मः ।

30. Asmākamindra bhūtu te stoma vāhiṣṭho antamaḥ.
Asmān rāye mahe hinu.

Indra, lord giver of honour and excellence, may our song of celebration in your honour carry our message of homage closest to your heart to exalt you, and may you, we pray, inspire us to achieve the highest wealths of life.

31. Adhi br̥buḥ paṇīnām varṣiṣṭhe mūrdhannasthāt.
Uruḥ kakṣo na gāṅgyaḥ.

Let the maker, artist, analyst and architect, occupy and preside over the highest position in the world of business, wide and high like the embankment of a mighty river, to contain and control the flow of the current of waters.

यस्य वायारिव द्रवद्भदा रतिः सहस्रिणी ।

All our artists and artisans always appreciate and admire the chief architect, learned, wise and brave, giver of a thousand gifts and sharer of a thousand things with thousands of people. He indeed is the head of our business world.

Mandala 6/Sukta 46

Indra Devata, Shamyu Barhaspatya Rshi

त्वामिद्धि हवामह साता वाजस्य कारवः ।

Indra, lord of power and advancement, you alone we invoke and call upon for acquisition of food, energy, honour, excellence and progress. All of us, leading people, makers, poets, artists, artisans and architects of the nation, fast advancing in all directions, invoke and exhort you, protector and promoter of universal truth and values in human struggles for light, goodness and generosity, and the wealth of life.

2. Sa tvām naścitra vajrahasta dhṛṣṇuyā mahāstavāno adrivaḥ. Gāmaśvaṁ rathyamindra saṁ kira satrā vājaṁ na jigyuṣe.

Indra, lord of wondrous powers and performance, wielding the thunderbolt of justice and punishment in hand, great and glorious, breaker of the clouds and shaker of mountains, invoked and adored in song, with truth and science, power and force, collect, organise and win for us the wealth of lands, cows and rays of the sun, horses, transports and chariots like the victories of wealth and glory for the ambitious nation.

3. Yaḥ satrāhā vicarṣaṇir-indraṁ taṁ hūmahe vayam. Sahasramuṣka tuvinṛmṇa satpate bhavā samatsu no vṛdhe.

We invoke and adore Indra, lord of glory, constant watcher of humanity and human actions, and pray: O lord protector of truth, commanding thousandfold vitality and flames of fiery forces, master of universal wealth, be with us for our advancement in the struggles of life.

4. Bādhase janān vṛṣabheva manyunā ghr̥ṣau mīḥa ṛcīṣama. Asmākaṁ bodhyavitā mahā-dhane tanūśvapsu sūrye.

Indra, ruler of the world, sacred as hymns of Rgveda, as a bull controls the herd, so you control as well as defend people with righteous passion and justice when they rub against each other or face great conflicts. O lord, be our saviour, giver of enlightenment in the great battles for wealth, health care, water management and the harnessing of solar energy.

6. Tvām-ugram-avase carṣaṇīsaḥaṁ rājan deveṣu hūmahe. Viśvā su no vithurā pibdanā vaso 'mitrāntsuṣahān kṛdhi.

For our defence and protection, O ruler, of all the brilliant, generous and mighty powers, we invoke you, illustrious challenger of the enemies of humanity. O lord giver of peace and settlement in security, crush and scatter the obdurate negative forces within and outside, and turn the opponents into friends and unquestionable supporters.

Indra, ruler of the world, whatever the lustre and splendour in humanity across history, whatever the power and wealth among communities, whatever the virtue and quality in the five elements of nature or lands of the earth, or whatever the strength and vigour of the world of existence, you bear and symbolise all that. Pray, O lord, bear and bring us all that.

O lord of wealth and power of the world, whatever the wisdom among the learned, whatever the energy among people of anger and hostility, or whatever strength and vigour among people of fullness of virility and generosity, at their best, bring us all that in the battles of human contest and competition so that we may face, fight out and eliminate anger, enmity and malice.

9. Indra tridhātu śaraṇaṁ trivarūthaṁ svastimat. Chardir-yaccha maghavadbhyaśca mahyaṁ ca yāvayā didyumebhyaḥ.

Indra, lord ruler of the wealth of nations, for the men of wealth, power, honour and generosity of heart, and for me too, give a home made of three metals and materials, comfortable in three seasons of summer, winter and rains, a place of rest, peace and security for complete well being. Give the light for them, keep off the blaze from them.

10. Ye gavyatā manasā śatrum-ādabhur-abhipraghnanti dhṛṣṇuyā. Adha smā no maghavan-nindra girvaṇastanūpā antamo bhava.

Indra, lord of peace and power, exalted by words of adoration, give us warriors who, with their love of cows, lands and speech and with the force of their mind and strength of arm and courage, press down the enemies and destroy their arms and armies, and then, also, O lord protector of our person and body politic, be with us at the closest, deep within.

Indra, chief of defence forces, give us those flying birds of defence and protection which blaze through skies and spaces carrying deep penetrative war heads in front, and then, also, be with us for our leadership, defend and protect us in the battles for our advancement.

यत्र शूरासस्तन्व 'वितन्वत पि॒या शर्म'पितृणाम् । अध॑ स्मा

Give us the sweet home where the brave extend the honour and achievement of their forefathers, and then, for further extension of the honour, achievement and tradition of the nation, give us peace and security free from mental worry and keep off all jealousy, malice and hostility.

And when, in the effort for creation and in the struggle for extension of honour and achievement of new wealth, you inspire the stormy pioneers and ambitious warriors thirsting for fame, and urge them on to fly like eagles on unequal paths and winding ways of progress and possibility, then also, O lord, be with us all through.

14. Sindhūñriva pravaṇa āśuyā yato yadi klośamanu ṣvaṇi. Ā ye vayo na varvṛtatyāmiṣi ḡrbhītā bāhvorgavi.

The pioneers and warriors of new projects on earth fly on and move like rivers rushing down to the sea. They move by superfast carriers whose controls are held fast in hands, and instantly act in response to the sound signal and pounce upon the target like birds on food at sight, intensively.

Mandala 6/Sukta 47

1. Svāduṣkilāyaṁ madhumāñ utāyaṁ tīvraḥ kilāyaṁ rasavāñ utāyam. Uto nvasya papi-vāṁsamindraṁ na kaścana saḥata āhaveṣu.

Soma: of course it is delicious, honey sweet, and it is sharp and strong and intense, and also it has wonderful flavour. And when Indra, the mighty one, has happily drunk of this soma, this nectar of life, none can withstand him in battles.

अ॒यं स्वा॒दुरि॒ह मदि॑ष्ठ आ॒स॒ यस्य॑न्दा॒ वृत्र॑हत्य॒ म॒माद॑ । पु॒रू॒णि

It is delicious, most exhilarating here in the business of life. Indra, mighty ruler, having drunk of it, exults in the battle against want and wickedness for the achievement of prosperity and, waxing in strength and passion, destroys the multitudinous forces of evil and breaks ninety and nine strongholds of darkness like the sun breaking clouds for rain.

This ecstasy of soma stimulates and refines my speech, it energises and sublimates my mind and awareness to love and passion for divinity. Man in the state of mental stability and spiritual constancy realises the six dimensional universe of existence beyond which there is no world of matter or mind higher or lower.

This soma is that cosmic energy which causes the showers of vitality from the sun and creates the fertility of the earth. It bears the nectar sweets of three rolling oceans of heaven, earth and the middle region and sustains the vast skies.

This generous and exuberant energy of the universe commanding the force of the currents of nature's inherent power vests the beatific ocean of the glorious sunrays of immaculate beauty of the mornings. It is great and, by its mighty gravitational force, sustains the solar region in position above.

Bold and resolute Indra, ruler, destroyer of darkness and poverty, drink the soma from the vessel for the battle of life's wealth. Come to the mid-day session of yajna and bring the showers. As you yourself are the treasurehold of wealth, bless us with the wealth of life.

Indra, leader and commander of world power, look at us and watch like a leader moving fast forward. Lead us to wealth of the world across the oceans. Be the unswerving pilot of the nation, take us to the shores beyond and lead us on by the policy and practice of nobility and gracious living.

Indra, sagely scholar and just ruler of the world, lead us to the higher regions of life, fearless, full of heavenly light, a haven of bliss and well being. O lord of constancy, we pray, may we abide in the shelter and security of the umbrella of your mighty protective hands.

Indra, ruler and guardian of the people, master and controller of the wealth and power of the world, let us ride and abide in the best chariot of our choice in your well managed system of governance run by the strongest and most efficient leaders and forces. O lord of a hundred powers and actions, bring us the best and most abundant food and sustenance, energy and power. Let no one as master tread over our wealth, power, and basic rights of life and freedom.

Indra, ruler sustainer of all, be kind and gracious to me, please to wish me the good life, sharpen and inspire my mind and intellect like the razor's edge. And whatever I wish out of love and devotion, to you I say this: Please to accept and grant, and raise me up to the love and favour of divinity.

In every battle of life one after another, I invoke Indra, lord giver of wealth, honour and power, saviour Indra, protector Indra, brave Indra invoked with love and devotion, pure and powerful, universally invoked and adored. May Indra bring us the good life and all round well being.

Indra, lord omniscient, mighty protector and sole lord of his own essential powers may, we pray, be kind and gracious with his modes of protection and advancement, ward off hate and enmity and grant us freedom from fear so that we may be masters and promoters of the noble strength and honour of life.

May we enjoy the favour, kindness and love of that lord adorable, all protective Indra, sole master of his own essential powers and forces, who may always ward off from us all hate and enmity far or near.

Indra, O ruler of the world, like streams of flood rushing down to the sea, all voices of prayer and adoration, offers of homage and chants of the holy Word dedicated to your service rise, reach and concentrate in you. O wielder of the thunderbolt of power and justice, you hold, integrate, treasure and distribute immense wealth of means and materials of success, yajnic sessions and inspirations, wide ranging waters and social programmes of action, lands, cows and lights of knowledge, and all things of beauty and joy leading to mental and spiritual bliss of peace.

Who can praise and fully celebrate him? Who can finally serve and join him?

Whoever is passionately dedicated and whom the lord of glory may favour, govern, and protect day and night, the lord who, like a man on the walk alternating his feet in motion moving the hind one forward and leaving the forward one then behind, dispenses people up and down according to their actions and the law of karma.

16. Śṛṇve vīra ugramugraṁ damāyann-anyam-anyam-atinenīyamānaḥ. Edhamānadviḷubhayaśa rājā coṣkūyate viśa indro manuṣyān.

I hear that Indra, potent lord, controller of all proud and passionate ones, leading all up and down by their performance, favouring the good and punishing the rising proud and arrogant, rules all communities of humanity, good and evil, and calls them up for justice and dispensation.

पर॒ पूव॑षां स॒ख्या वृ॑णक्ति वि॒तर्तु॑राणा॒ अप॑रभिरति ।

17. Parā pūrveṣāṁ sakhyā vṛṇakti vitarturāṇo aparebhireti. Anānubhūtīravadhūnvānaḥ pūrvīrindraḥ śaradastartarīti.

With love and understanding, Indra, lord ruler, gives up the dead wood of the old and goes forward taking on other new forms of life and society like waves of the sea pressing on fast forward. Shaking off the callous who refuse to learn by experience he goes on like the sun crossing over the years of time gone by and living and shaping new eras of time.

Indra, the supreme soul, pervades all forms of existence to reveal that pervasive form of presence according to each form. The individual soul, the jiva, takes on one form of life after another to reveal that existential form of its real self. The ruler takes over each form of the institutions of his governance to reveal his power and presence through that institution. Indra thus, of many many forms of manifestation goes on by manifold powers and potentials, assisted by thousands of its motive forces like the master of a chariot drawn by horses.

19. Yujāno haritā rathe bhūri tvaṣṭeha rājati. Ko viśvāhā dviṣataḥ pakṣa āsata utāsīneṣu sūriṣu.

With its powers and potentials yoked to its chariot-like body form, Tvashta, the soul, shines gloriously in its existential form here. It takes the best form of its love and choice by karma, for who would choose to be with the malicious fools day and night when the wise and visionaries are sitting close by?

20. Agavyūti kṣetramāganma devā urvī satī bhūmi-ramhūraṇābhūt. Bṛhaspate pra cikitsā gaviṣṭā-vitthā sate jaritra indra panthām.

O noble people, brilliant pioneers, let us take over the vast virgin land which is a field good enough for warriors of action to develop and cultivate. O Brhaspati, lord of knowledge, protector and promoter of great things, Indra, destroyer of suffering, master of diagnostics and correctives, let us make the pathway for the development of cattlewealth and advancement of knowledge and education in the service of the present generation of the celebrants of divinity and nobilities of humanity.

21. Divedive sadrṣīranyamardhaṁ kṛṣṇā asedhadapa sadmano jāḥ. Ahan dāsā vṛṣabho vasnayanto-davraje varcinam śambaram ca.

Day by day the sun dispels the equal cover of darkness arisen at night from its abode to the other half of the globe. The mighty solar power of showers breaks the dark vapours concealed in the cloud, strikes the blazing lightning and opens the flood gates of rain to flow into streams on land.

(So does the ruler dispel the darkness of ignorance, injustice and poverty and open the flood-gates of light and knowledge with justice and prosperity.)

Indra, lord ruler, the celebrant of your means and materials of success and accomplishment has given ten treasure gifts of land and ten modes of fast transport.

We accept and reciprocate the gifts of the lord's showers of generosity and hospitality from the celebrant giver of the treasures of means and materials of success, water showers and the gifts of land, home and wealth for sustenance.

O vanaspati, ruler, protector and promoter of forests and light of the sun for energy, be strong of your systemic body of governance and strong in the constituent parts of the system. Manned with noble young supporters, be our friend, pilot and saviour across the seas. You are self-controlled in mind and senses, strongly endowed with refined speech and manners, strengthen us who are committed to you, and let your forces win the battles with high morale.

Enlightened ruler and scholar, the energy collected and raised from the sun and earth, the energy, vitality and patience received and learnt from the trees and forests, the liquid power of the waters rising and reinforced with rays of the sun, and the forceful current of electric energy, with all these energies together harnessed, create and serve the chariot, the fast progressive social order worthy of your governance.

Indra, lord ruler, throw out the enemy forces. Rally our forces back in form and array, ever ready. Let the battle drum boom, with the flag flying. Our warriors on the wing in armour and our leaders in the forefront advance and fight out the challenges. Let our heroes of the chariot come out with flying colours.

Agni, eternal vitality is the generator as well as the generation of the cosmic heat of vitality and the cosmic law, whom, in the state of existence, the waters and actions of men, clouds and mountains, and the forests and sun rays feed and promote to the full, and which arises and kindles when it is produced by the force of attrition and churning by men on the surface of the earth.

Agni, lord of light and culture, you cleanse, refine and enrich our children and teenagers with all nourishments and safeguards for body, mind and soul with unfailing and unchallengeable modes and methods of education and refinement. Resist and overcome the passions and negativities which attract natural wrath and fight out impious temptations from us.

12. Yā śardhāya mārutāya svabhānave śravo'mṛtyu dhukṣata. Yā mṛṭīke marutām turāṇām yā sumnai-revayāvarī.

O mother teacher, O divine speech, you are the one who create, kindle, refine and raise the word and vision of immortal value for the strength and refinement of dynamic people for self-enlightenment, and who are a divine messenger for the good and well-being of vibrant people of fast action with gifts of comfort and cultured behaviour.

13. Bharadvājāyāva dhukṣata dvitā. Dhenum ca viśvadohasam-iṣam ca viśvabhajasam.

O mother, you bear and bring the milk of twofold efficacy for the brilliant celebrant and bearer of science, power and fast action: divine speech yielding universal knowledge and enlightenment for all, and universal food for the body, mind and soul for the nourishment of all without discrimination.

14. Tam va indram na sukratum varuṇamiva māyinaṁ. Aryamaṇam na mandram sṛprabhajasam viṣṇum na stuṣa ādiṣe.

O lovers of knowledge and fast action, for the sake of your guidance and enlightenment, I admire and pay homage to the divine teacher who is the hero of instant good action like Indra, cosmic electric energy, who is versatile and resourceful like Varuna, universal power of judgement and discrimination, who is happy and rejoicing like Aryaman, universal guide, and who provides universal food of delicate flavour like Vishnu, all pervasive preserver and sustainer of the universe.

The ruler, whose action is instant, constant and ever true, whose people, leaders and warriors command sure, brilliant and yajnic force and power of the highest order to dispel darkness, evil and wickedness, rises and shines like the bright sun across the heavens.

The sun is born one and once unique, the earth is born one and once, unique, the skies and stars, milk and waters all are one, born once and unique. None else is born after exactly the same. That other, the creator is never born.

1. Stuṣe janam suvratam navyasībhīrgīrbhirmitrā-varuṇā sumnayantā. Ta ā gamantu ta iha śruvantu suksatrāso varuṇo mitro agniḥ.

With latest words and fresh voice, I honour and admire the man committed to duty and discipline, Mitra, the friend, and Varuna, the man of judgement and clear vision, both givers of peace and pleasure of well being. May they come here, I pray, and listen, They command the wealth and honour of the admirable social order, Mitra, Varuna and brilliant blazing Agni, all three like sun, ocean and fire.

I admire and adore Agni, leader of light and fire, honoured and worshipped in every community, calm and delighted in yajnic projects of love and non-violence, free from illusion and infatuation, generated by youthful parents, i.e., sun and earth, child of cosmic energy, symbol and column of yajna, and crimson red like the dawn which is brilliant and soothing. I pray may Agni come and join us at our yajna.

Two daughters of the glowing fire, the night and the day, different in form, one adorned with stars, the other lighted by the sun, move on alternating with each other. Both of them, pure, purifying and sanctifying, adorable and adored, pervade the world, and may they, we pray, inspire our thought and mind. (So may men and women be complementary to each other.)

Let agni, generous yajaka, join and offer abundant homage and service to Tvashta, maker of forms and institutions for humanity. Who is freely sociable, and first to be invited, famous and adorable, giver of health and long age, expert of hand in action, generous, brilliant, exceptionally intelligent, adorable and openly accessible and responsive to the brilliant host, agni.

With all these words of homage by day and in the night, adore and exalt Rudra, guardian sustainer of the world and destroyer of suffering and disease. Inspired and exhorted by the wise poet of vision, let us all in truth and sincerity invoke and adore Rudra, dispenser of justice and punishment, great giver of advancement, unaging and blissful giver of peace and well being.

O lord creator and generous giver, give us the commonwealth equipped with chariots, good for all people, blest with many heroic children and warriors, great and protector of the truth and law of the world in existence. May the lord giver give us an unaging home land and shelter by which we may face and overcome the impious rivals contesting against us and build a nation of brilliant and God fearing people so that both the simple and the sophisticated people may live well.

Mandala 6/Sukta 50

Vishvedeva Devata, Rjishva Bharadvaja Rshi

हुव व' द्रुवीमदितिं नम'भिमृळीकाय वरुणं मित्रमग्निम् ।

1. Huve vo devīmaditiṁ namobhirmṛḷikāya varuṇaṁ mitramagnim. Abhikṣadāmar-yamaṇaṁ śuśevaṁ trātṛn devāntsavitāraṁ bhagaṁ ca.

For your happiness and felicity I invoke, invite and honour with reverence and hospitality the Vishvedevas, powers and people of generous and divine nature : the brilliant mother scholar, the lady of exalted nature and character, and indestructible Aditi, Mother Nature, Varuna, udana energy of vitality and the man of elevating wisdom, Mitra, pranic energy and the friend dear as breath of life, Agni, fire and the man of passion and purity of action, Abhikshada, the generous person who is a spontaneous giver and fighter against adversity, Aryaman, the person who guides with judgement and discrimination between good and evil, the person committed to selfless service of the community, all noble and brilliant powers and people who help as saviours and path finders, Savita, giver of light and inspiration as the sun, Bhaga, lord of universal wealth and power, and the man who counts for the honour and excellence of humanity.

2. Sujotiṣaḥ sūrya dakṣapitṛnanāgāstve sumaho vīhi devān. Dvijanmāno ya ṛtasāpaḥ satyāḥ svarvanto yajatā agnijihvāḥ.

O man bright as the sun, if you want to maintain your simplicity, innocence and freedom from sin, approach, honour and exalt the generous and brilliant seniors of parental nature who command the holy light of knowledge, expertise of action and greatness of character, who are nobly born and divinely educated, who are true to the bone and unshakably committed to nothing but the truth and the law of Dharma, and who enjoy perfect peace of mind with an open door hospitality but have a tongue of fire that brooks no nonsense and burns double dealing with a whiff of air.

May the off-springs of Rudra, lord of justice and nature's vitality, come down to us, invited they are today. Modest yet invincible, brilliant and vibrant as winds they are, givers of home and comfort, and since they are appointed to fight out adversaries in battles big or small, we call upon them.

5. Mimyakṣa yeṣu rodasī nu devī siṣakti pūṣā abhyardhayajvā. Śrutvā havam maruto yaddha yātha bhūmā rejante adhvani pravikte.

O Maruts, vibrant warriors of nature and humanity with whom the energy and generosity of heaven and earth is joined and whom Pusha, vital energy of nature and humanity, blesses with reverence and recognition, go quick in response to the call and meet the purpose. And when you proceed in response to the call and march on the path, all those who inhabit the earth tremble on the route of your advance.

O waters of purity, Apah, O leaders of humanity pure at heart like holy waters, you are a bliss for humanity. Bear and bring nourishing, protective and unsullied food for our children and for our youth and bring about a state of peace free from sin and evil. You are the most motherly harbingers of health, the best physicians. You are the makers of a new generation for all the moving and non-moving world. Pray stay constant and friendly as you are.

May Rudra, lord of justice and punishment, Sarasvati, mother of knowledge and speech, Vishnu, omnipresent spirit of the universe, Vayu, the winds, Rbhuksha, expert artist, universal energy, divine favour, law giver, clouds and winds, all virile and friendly, bring us food and energy and give us peace and felicity.

And that refulgent Savita, the sun, Bhaga, pranic energy, Apam-napat, unfailing electric energy born of waters, Tvashta, maker of forms with brilliant generative powers, the heaven with all its lights, the earth with the seas, may all these together, friendly and supportive, generously giving and fulfilling, protect and promote us in life.

And the deep cloud in the firmament, the unborn Spirit of the universe, the sole divine support of existence, the earth, the sea, all the divine forces of the universe which prove and maintain the eternal law invoked and adored, and Veda mantras taught by seers, may all these listen to our prayers and protect us.

Thus do we bearers of science and power and our descendants and disciples offer homage with thoughts, words and actions of devotion and pray that the Vishvedevas, universal creators and unifiers of nature and humanity, and their potentials, invoked and admired, free and fearless, may continue to be providers of peace and shelter for all for ever.

Mandala 6/Sukta 51

Vishvedevah Devatah, Rjishva Bharadvaja Rshi

उदु त्यच्च ऽमहि मित्रयराँ एति पियं वरुणयारदब्धम ।
ऋतस्य शुचि दशतमनीकं रुक्मा न दिव उदिता व्यद्यात ॥ १ ॥

1. Udu tvaccakṣurmahi mitrayorāñ eti priyam varuṇayoradabddham. Ṛtasya śuci darśatama-nīkaṁ rukmo na diva uditā vyadyaut.

Lo! the sun, that glorious eye of the universe, darling of the day and night, rises up undaunted, and like the pure, resplendent, golden face of heaven unveiled shines from the regions of eternal light.

(The sunrise is a metaphor which may be applied to the rise of any great light - giving power, say a great leader, giver of enlightenment, a teacher, a reformer, or a great movement.)

वदु यस्त्रीणि विदथान्यषां दवानां जन्म सनुतरा च विपः ।

2. Veda yastrīṇi vidathānyeṣāṁ devānāṁ janma sanutarā ca viprah. Rju marteṣu vṛjinā ca paśya-nnabhi caṣṭe sūro aya evān.

The lord of light who is all wise, too, knows, reaches and pervades three orders of the world, i.e., the earth, the middle regions of the skies, and the highest regions of the light of heaven; three fields of life, i.e., jnana or knowledge, karma or action, and upasana or prayer and meditation; and three departments of the social order, i.e., teaching and research, governance and administration, and dharma or values of life, law and justice. He also knows the birth and life of these Vishvedevas, i.e., the divinities of nature and humanity. And watching the simple and straight paths and performances as well as the tortuous and crooked movements of the mortals, the potent master reveals where they reach in consequence.

Happy and blest, I admire and celebrate in words of song all of you, Vishvedevas, great observers and protectors of the eternal law of Truth and righteousness: Aditi, indestructible mother nature, Mitra, sun and brilliant friend, Varuna, ocean and venerable judge, Aryaman, universal guide and discriminative path maker, Bhaga, lord of honour and excellence, universally known, dauntless, intelligent and wise purifying powers all.

I reach, admire and celebrate Aditi, mother spirit of nature, and the offsprings of Aditi, destroyers of evil and protectors of the good and true, irresistible great rulers, givers of peaceful homes, ever young and unaging, makers of great social orders, well established leaders of light and all refulgent suns. I approach them with prayers for blessings, they love the supplicants.

O refulgent sun, O father, O earth, O mother, compassionate, free from hate and anger, O fire, O brother, givers of shelter and protection, give us peace and felicity. O children of mother Infinity, O Mother Nature, all ever our own, loving friends, pray bring us a homely settlement of joy and all round prosperity.

Adorable friends and unifiers, divinities of nature and humanity, throw us not to the wolf and the thief nor to the rule of the sinner, nor relegate us to seizure, deprivation and exploitation. Pray stay you constant as our guide in matters of body, health and action and in the working of our social institutions, and be the carrier medium of the word and voice of the eminent expert.

7. Mā va eno anyakṛtaṁ bhujema mā tat karma vasavo yaccayadhve. Viśvasya hi kṣayatha viśvadevāḥ svayaṁ ripustanvaṁ rīriṣīṣṭa.

O Vasus, givers of peace and settlement, dispensers of the laws of nature and humanity, let us not suffer your dispensation's punishment for the sin and crime committed by others, nor let us do that act which you hate and prohibit. You are the rulers of the world and dispensers of justice and punishment, O divinities of nature and humanity. Let the hater and the evil doer be the instrument of his own self-infliction.

8. Nama idugraṁ nama ā vivāse namo dādhāra pṛthivīmuta dyām. Namo devebhyo nama īśa eṣāṁ kṛtaṁ cidenonamasā vivāse.

Namas, the thunder of omnipotence and universal law, is mighty. Reverence on the human plane too has power. I respect law and reverence. Law and reverence sustain the earth and the sun. I offer reverence to the nobilities and the divinities. The power of the Divine and reverence for life rule the actions, good as well as evil, of all these people. I accept the power and value reverence with humility and submission to the divine dispensation.

9. Ṛtasya vo rathyah pūṭadakṣānṛtasya pastyasado adabdhān. Tāñ ā namobhirurucakṣaso nṛn viśvānva ā name mahoyajatrāḥ.

O great divinities of nature and nobilities of humanity, I, moving forward by the chariot of law and reverence, bow with homage and surrender to you all, powers strengthened and sanctified by the law of eternal truth, invincible presences in human homes, who are vastly watchful guardians of all the people and their actions in the world.

10. Te hi śreṣṭhavaracasasta u nastiro viśvāni dūritā nayanti. Sukṣatrāso varuṇo mitro agnir-ṛtadhī-tayo vakmarājasatyāḥ.

They alone are Vishvadevas, men of highest excellence, they alone lead us over and across all evil and suffering of life, and they alone are the right rulers and managers of the social order, who are men of wisdom, right judgment and discrimination as Varuna, universal ruler, unifying sustainers and saviour friends as Mitra, the sun, and pure and purifying agents of action as Agni, the fire, who are committed in thought, word and action to universal truth and eternal values of life, and who have the courage of the conviction to speak the truth in matters of governance and administration in the political order of the world state.

May those divine powers of nature and humanity, cosmic energy, the firmament, the earth, the sustainer, glorious God, mother nature, all people dear as five pranic energies, all happy home dwellers nobly protected and well guided, be our saviours and protectors.

12. Nū sadmānaṁ divyaṁ naṁśi devā bhāradvājaḥ sumatiṁ yāti hotā. Āsānebhiryajamāno miyedhair-devānām janma vasūyurvavanda.

O divine powers, the bearer of knowledge who invokes the divinities and serves the nobilities in yajnic programmes is blest with divine peace and settlement and enjoys wisdom and divine guidance. The yajamana in pursuit of wealth and excellence, sitting with inspiring and adorable yajakas, obtains the vision of rising divinities in his life.

14. Grāvāṇaḥ soma no hi kaṁ sakhitvanāya vāvaśuḥ. Jahī nyatrinaṁ paṇiṁ vṛko hi ṣaḥ.

O Soma, giver of peace and inspiration, our holy ones generous as clouds and strong as granite love peace for divine favour and friendship. Throw away the ogre of crooked behaviour, he is a wolf only.

15. Yūyam hi ṣṭhā sūdānava indrajyeṣṭhā abhidyavaḥ. Kartā no adhvannā sugaṁ gopā amā.

O Vishvedevas, bounties of nature divine and leading lights of humanity, stay you all generous as ever, shining as the sun on high above all. Make our march of progress simple and manageable, and protect our hearth and home.

And also, let us move on by the path which is faultless, auspicious, sinless and inviolable, which leads to noble attainments with peace, and by which holy brave people remove all hate, jealousy and enmity and realize all wealth and self fulfillment.

O maruts, vibrant heroes, whoever hates us, or despises our wealth and piety, or deprecates our acts and holy programmes in progress, must have his tortuous paths exposed by the blazing light of truth. Let the loving and brilliant wise men subject the hater of nobility and eternal values to disapproval until he feels sorry.

One of these, the fire divine, generates and inspires our speech, and the other, the vapours, generate the cloud which fertilises earth and produces food. May the two bring us food, energy and noble progeny.

O creative lord of vision and foresight, write out the balance sheet of life's hagglers and bargainers, touch their hearts, let them mature all round and let us be happy.

यां पू॒षन्ब॒ह्य॒चाद॑नी॒मारां॑ बिभ॑ष्याघृ॒ण ।

8. Yām pūṣan brahmacodanīmārāṁ bibharṣyā-ghṛṇe. Tayā samasya hṛdayamā rikha kikirā kṛnu.

Pusha, lord of light and grace, giver of food and growth for life, you command that analytical intellect which discriminates between truth and untruth and inspires the mind to have the vision of divinity. With that inspiring intelligence, imprint the settled mind with holiness and let it expand with ideas.

या त अष्टा गाअ पशार्धृण पशुसाधनी ।
तस्यास्त सुम्नमीमह ॥ ९ ॥

9. *Yā te aṣṭrā go-opaśā' ghr̥ṇe paśusādhanī.
Tasyāste sumnamīmahe.*

Lord of creative knowledge and development, that versatile vision and expertise of yours which develops cattle wealth and builds vast dairies and veterinary institutions, we love, and we pray for the gifts of that vision for comfort and well being.

उत न गाषणिं धियमश्वसां वाजसामुत ।
नृवत्कृणुहि वीतय ॥ १० ॥

10. *Uta no goṣaṇim̐ dhiyamaśvasāṁ vājasāmuta.
Nṛvat kṛṇuhi vītaye.*

Lord of light and life's development, give us the gift of that knowledge and intelligence which may develop the wealth of cows and horses and create modes and means of success and prosperity. Give us that intelligence inspired with love for people so that we may live in peace and joy.

Mandala 6/Sukta 54

Pusha Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

सं पूषन्विदुषा नय या अञ्जसानुशासति ।
य एवदमिति ब्रवत ॥ १ ॥

1. *Sam pūṣan viduṣā naya ya añjasānuśāsati.
Ya evedamiti bravat.*

Pusha, giver of food and nourishment for body and mind, take us forward truly with that scholar who teaches us of truth with confidence and definiteness, saying: This is what it is, and it is not otherwise.

समु पूष्णा गममहि या गृह्णँ अभिशासति ।

इम एवति च ब्रवत ॥ २ ॥

2. Samu pūṣṇā gamemahi yo grhāṇ abhiśāsati.
Ima eveti ca bravat.

Let us go forward in life with that teacher, giver of nourishment for body, mind and soul, that family physician, who rules the home and governs home life, saying with confidence and definiteness: This is it, this way and not otherwise.

पूष्णाश्चक्रं न रिष्यति न काशा व पद्यत ।

ना अस्य व्यथत पविः ॥ ३ ॥

3. Pūṣṇaścakram na risyati na koṣo'va padyate.
No asya vyathate paviḥ.

The wheel of Pusha, lord of life and provider of growth and sustenance, never slackens, nor does it violate anything. His treasury never depletes, and his knowledge and arms of defence never hurt anything positive.

या अस्म हविषाविधुः तं पूषापि मृष्यत ।

प्रथमा विन्दत वसु ॥ ४ ॥

4. Yo asmai haviṣāvidhanna taṁ pūṣāpi mṛṣyate.
Prathamo vindate vasu.

Pusha, lord ruler and giver of nourishment and growth, does not hurt or challenge him who offers homage with creative and constructive projects in honour of him. Indeed, the first and original inventor and maker of basic things wins rewards of wealth for the invention.

पूषा गा अन्वतु नः पूषा र' त्ववतः ।

पूषा वाजं सनातु नः ॥ ५ ॥

5. *Puṣā gā anvetu naḥ pūṣā rakṣatvarvataḥ.
Pūṣā vājaṁ sanotu naḥ.*

Let Pusha, patron sustainer and promoter of artists, approve and support the development of lands, cows and words of knowledge. Let Pusha protect and promote horses and other modes of transport. Let Pusha create and provide food, energy and wealth of all kinds for us.

पूषा नु प गा इहि यजमानस्य सुन्वतः ।

अस्माकं स्तुवतामुत ॥ ६ ॥

6. *Pūṣannanu pra gā ihi yajamānasya sunvataḥ.
Asmākaṁ stuvatāmuta.*

Pusha, giver of sustenance, acknowledge, protect and promote the developed lands, cows and words of knowledge of the yajamana and also of ours who are the celebrants of this yajna of development.

माकिंनश्न्माकीं रिषन्माकीं सं शारि कवट ।

अथारिष्टाभिरा गहि ॥ ७ ॥

7. *Mākirneśanmākīm riṣan-mākīm saṁ śāri kevaṭe.
Athāriṣṭābhirā gahi.*

Let none be frustrated. Let none frustrate anyone. Let none throw anyone into the pit of darkness and nothingness. O lord of nourishment and growth, come, bless us with everything whole and unhurt, with inviolable acts and unchallengeable policies.

शृण्वन्तं पूषणं वयमियमनष्टवदसम ।
इशानं राय इमह ॥ ८ ॥

8. Śṛṇvantāṁ pūṣaṇaṁ vayam-iryam-anaṣṭavedasam. Īśānaṁ rāya īmahe.

Pusha, lord of nourishment and growth, is listening, inspiring and all round ruler and guardian of indestructible wealth and knowledge. We pray to the lord for wealth and honour of permanent nature.

पूषन्तव वत वयं न रिष्यम कदा चन ।
स्तातारस्त इह स्मसि ॥ ९ ॥

9. *Pūṣan tava vrata vyaṁ na risyema kadā cana.
Stotārasta iha smasi.*

Lord of life, we are your devotees, celebrants here in life. Let us never suffer in the observance of your laws and discipline.

परि पूषा परस्ताद्धस्तं दधातु दक्षिणम् ।
पुनर्ना नष्टमार्जतु ॥ १० ॥

10. *Pari pūṣā parastāddhastāṁ dadhātu dakṣiṇam.
Punarno naṣṭamājatu.*

May Pusha grant us the perfect umbrella of his right hand all over and help us recover the losses and accelerate our gains.

Mandala 6/Sukta 55

Pusha Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

एहि वां विमुचा नपादाघृणु सं सचावह ।

रथीरुतस्य ना भव ॥ १ ॥

1. *Ehi vāṁ vimuco napādāghṛṇe saṁ sacāvahai.
Rathīr-ṛtasya no bhava.*

Come resplendent spirit of freedom indestructible, be our guide and saviour as master and pilot of the chariot on the path of eternity and divine truth and we shall be ever together.

रथीतमं कपदिनमीशानं राधसा महः ।

रायः सखायमीमह ॥ २ ॥

2. *Rathītamaṁ kapardinam-īśānaṁ rādhaso mahah.
Rāyaḥ sakhāyam-īmahe.*

We adore the highest chariot hero of flying hair, our friend and saviour, great ruler and ordainer of the wealth of existence and pray to him for wealth and power for advancement in life.

राया धारास्याघृणु वस' राशिर'जाश्व ।

धीवताधीवतुः सखा ॥ ३ ॥

3. *Rāyo dhārāsyāghṛṇe vaso rāśirajāśva.
Dhīvatodhīvataḥ sakhā.*

O resplendent lord unborn and eternal, riding the waves of light, you are the treasure house of wealth and happy settlement, and you are a ceaseless flow of honour and excellence, a happy friend for every person blest with intelligence and wisdom.

पूषणं न्वजाश्वमुप स्ताषाम वाजिनम ।

स्वसुया जार उच्यते ॥ ४ ॥

4. Pūṣaṇaṁ nvajāśvamupa stoṣāma vājinam.
Svasuryo jāra ucyate.

We honour and adore the sun, Pusha, giver of vitality and potency, rider of the eternal chariot flying like a courser in space which steals away the dawn, its own creation, they say.

मातुदिधिषुमबवं स्वसुजारः शृणातु नः ।

भातन्दस्य सखा मम ॥ ५ ॥

5. Mātur-didhiṣum-abravam svasurjāraḥ śṛṇotu naḥ. Bhrātendrasya sakhā mama.

I speak of the sun, sustainer of the earth mother, lover of its own creation, the dawn, brother of electric energy of the cosmos, and my friend and companion for life. May the sun be close to us and respond to our prayer.

आजासः पूषणं रथं निशृम्भास्त जनुश्रियम ।

द्वं वहन्तु बिभ्रतः ॥ ६ ॥

6. Ājasaḥ pūṣaṇaṁ rathe niśṛmbhāste janaśriyam.
Devam vahantu bibhrataḥ.

May the radiations of the sun, waves of light energy firmly yoked in its chariot bearing life and lustre for humanity, bring the divine light and life into this world.

Mandala 6/Sukta 56

Pusha Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

य एनमादिदशति कर्म्भादिति पूषणम ।

न तन द्व आदिश ॥ १ ॥

1. *Ya enamādideśāti karambhāditi pūṣaṇam.
Na tena deva ādiṣe.*

If one were to describe this Pusha, the sun or the universal chemistry of nourishment and vital energy, and say: It is from the solar suction of waters from earth and all space, or that, on the level of the individual human, it is from oat meal cooked with milk, then by this the divine process is neither to be defined nor to be determined nor, yet, to be exaggerated.

उ॒त घा॒ स र॒थी॒त॒मः॒ स॒ख्य॒ा स॒त्प॒ति॒यु॒जा ।
इ॒न्द॑ वृ॒त्राणि॑ जिघ्नते ॥ २ ॥

2. *Uta ghā sa rathītamaḥ sakhyā satpatiryujā.
Indro vṛtrāṇi jighnate.*

In fact, that fastest energy, Indra, heroic ruler of the chariot, supportive of the positive forces of nature and humanity in combination with friendly powers such as electric energy, breaks the clouds of darkness and want and thus remains the protector, promoter and ruling controller of natural truth.

उ॒तादः॑ प॒रु॒ष ग॒वि सूर॑श्च॒क्रं हि॒र॒ण्य॒य॒म ।
न्य॒रय॑दु॒थी॒त॒मः॒ ॥ ३ ॥

3. *Utādaḥ paruṣe gavi sūraścakram hirṇyayam.
Nyairayad rathītamaḥ.*

And that mighty hero, solar energy in combination with electric energy, at the fastest chariot like velocity, sets in motion the golden circuit of developmental evolution in the fierce rays of the sun, in the battles of life and in the fiery communication of powerful speech.

यदद्य त्वां पुरुष्टुत ब्रवीम दस्र मन्तुमः ।

तत्सु ना मन्म साधय ॥ ४ ॥

4. *Yadadya tvā puruṣṭuta bravāma dasra mantumah.
Tat su no manma sādahaya.*

O universal destroyer, preserver and promoter, most perceptive and conscientious, universally adored Pusha, lord giver of life, whatever we speak to you or wish to day, we pray, fructify and accomplish that thought and plan of ours.

इमं च ना गुवर्षणं सातय सीषधा गुणम ।

आरात्पूषासि श्रुतः ॥ ५ ॥

5. *Imam ca no gaveṣaṇam sātaye sīṣadho gaṇam.
Ārāt pūṣannasi śrutah.*

And this body of thought and speech of our socio-economic plan, pray, lead to completion and success. O lord, you are renowned far and wide as giver of success and onward progress for the achievement of wealth and honour.

आ तं स्वस्तिमीमह आरअघामुपावसुम ।

अद्या च सवतातय श्वश्च सवतातय ॥ ६ ॥

6. *Ā te svastimīmahe āre aghāmupāvasum.
Adyā ca sarvatātaye śvaśca sarvatātaye.*

We pray for your gifts of happiness and well being of the perfect order for all for today, for tomorrow and for all time for the elimination of sin and evil and for the attainment of wealth and excellence in a state of peace and harmony.

Mandala 6/Sukta 57

Indra - Pushanau Devate, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

इन्द्रा नु पूषणा वयं सख्याय स्वस्तये ।

हुवम वाजसातये ॥ १ ॥

1. *Indrā nu pūṣaṇā vayaṁ sakhyāya svastaye.
Huvema vājasātaye.*

We always invoke and call upon Indra, lord commander of power, honour and excellence, and Pusha, giver of nourishment energy and intelligence, for the sake of friendship and all round joy and well being and for the achievement of success and victory in the battles of life.

साममन्य उपासदत्पातव चम्बः सुतम ।

करम्भमन्य इच्छति ॥ २ ॥

2. *Somamanya upāsadat pātave camvoḥ sutam.
Karambhamanya icchati.*

One of them, Indra, abides in the middle region between earth and heaven and drinks the soma distilled there, i.e., it catalyses the vapours of the clouds into rain through electric charge, while the other, Pusha, loves karambha, i.e., the sun sucks up the vapours of water and herbal juices and turns them into soma clouds. Thus the two sit together and act.

अजा अन्यस्य वह्नया हरी अन्यस्य संभृता ।

ताभ्यां वृत्राणि जिघ्रत ॥ ३ ॥

3. *Ajā anyasya vahnayo harī anyasya sambhṛtā.
Tābhyāṁ vṛtrāṇi jighnate.*

The carriers of one, Pusha, are the sun beams while those of the other, Indra, are positive and negative currents of electricity, and thereby the duo, Indra and Pusha, work together and break the clouds, and humanity gets the boons of food, energy and wealth.

यदिन्द्वा अनयदित' महीरपा वृषन्तमः ।

तत्र पूषाभवत्सचा ॥ ४ ॥

4. *Yadindro anayad rito mahīrapo vṛṣantamah.
Tatra pūṣābhavatsacā.*

When most generous Indra moves and brings about heavy showers of rain, then Pusha too is the corporate power of natural energy. (Thus making and breaking, consumption and creation are simultaneous processes of natural metabolism in life.)

तां पूष्णः सुमतिं वयं वृ तस्य प वयामिव ।

इन्द्रस्य चा रभामह ॥ ५ ॥

5. Tām pūṣṇaḥ sumatiṁ vayaṁ vṛkṣasya pra vayā-miva. Indrasya cā rabhāmahe.

That immanent will and wisdom of Pusha, divine nature's creative and promotive power, and that catalytic power of Indra, natural electric energy, we love, join and apply at our level to have results like extensive branches of the tree.

उत्पूषणं युवामह भीशूरिव सारथिः ।

मह्या इन्द्रं स्वस्तय ॥ ६ ॥

6. *Ut pūṣaṇaṁ yuvāmahe'bhīśūñriva sārathiḥ.
Mahyā indraṁ svastaye.*

Just as a charioteer joins, holds and controls the reins of his horses, and just as the supreme charioteer of the universe holds and controls the activity of natural forces such as radiations of the sun and exudations of the earth or the gaseous vapours and electric charge, so do we join Pusha and Indra, study and apply complementary forces and processes for the earth and for the great happiness and well being of her children.

1. Śukraṁ te anyad yajataṁ te anyad viṣurūpe ahanī dyauryivāsi. Viśvā hi māyā avasi svadhāvo bhadra te pūṣanniha rātirastu.

O Pusha, giver of nourishment for body, mind and soul, you are the light of the world as the sun. Two are the forms of your beauty and glory, both different yet alike like the twin forms of the day: one is bright and inspiring, the other is soothing sweet adorable as the night. Lord of your own essential might, you animate, inspire, preserve and promote all intelligence, energy and powers of the world community. We pray, may your gifts of generosity be good for all in this world.

Conducted by radiating beams for horses as motive power, protector of animal life, giver of plentiful homes, inspirer of intelligence and wisdom, the brilliant sun, generous light of life dedicated to the entire world, moves on and on watching the regions of the world and inspiring and elevating general intelligence and unambitious minds to initiative.

3. Yāste pūṣannāvo antaḥ samudre hiraṇyayī-rantarikṣe caranti. Tābhiryāsi dūtyāṁ sūryasya kāmēna kṛta śrava icchamānaḥ.

O sagely scholar and realised soul, Pusha, giver of nourishment for body, mind and soul, golden are your vessels moving over the sea and in the sky. By these vessels you go round the world with love and desire for further food for knowledge and acting as messenger of the sun for the world.

4. Pūṣā subandhurdiva ā prthivyā iḷaspatirmaghavā dasmavarcaḥ. Yaṁ devāso adaduḥ sūryāyai kāmēna kṛtaṁ tavaśaṁ svañcam.

Pusha, giver of nourishment, is a noble friend and brother of all from earth to heaven, master of holy speech and light, possessing power, honour and excellence, and commanding extraordinary brilliance. A realised soul inspired with love and desire, mighty strong and self-cultured, the divinities dedicate him to Surya, dawn of a new day.

3. Okivāṁsā sute sacāñ aśvā sapṭī ivādane. Indrā nvagnī avaseha vajriṇā vayaṁ devā havāmahe.

Indra and Agni, wielders of the thunderbolt, homogeneous powers in this business of life and nature, voracious consumers, like stormy war horses and creators, we, enlightened yajakas in developmental yajna, invoke, invite and develop you with all your protective and promotive powers right here.

4. Ya indrāgnī suteṣu vām stavat teṣvṛtāvṛdhā. Joṣa-vākaṁ vadataḥ pajrahoṣiṇā na devā bhasatha-ṣcana.

Indra, lord of power and energy, Agni, lord of light, bold speakers of truth, observers and promoters of the law of truth, whoever honours and adores you in creative yajnic acts of life, you respond to him in words of truth and favour loud and bold. The divines never speak words void of value.

5. Indrāgnī ko asya vām devau martaściketati. Viṣūco aśvān yuyujāna īyata ekaḥ samāna ā rathe.

Indra and Agni, energy and power of heat and electricity, who is the mortal man in this world that knows both of you divines and who, using the all pervasive fire and electricity like horses moving in all directions, solely travels in a uniformly structured systemic chariot all by himself?

7. Indrāgnī ā hi tanvate naro dhanvāni bāhvoḥ. Mā no asmin mahādhane parā varktaṃ gavīṣṭiṣu.

Indra and Agni, cosmic energy and heat of life, leaders and best of humanity, stretch their bows between their arms. In this great battle business of life, pray do not forsake us in the heat of action in which light and fire must be integrated as life and inspiration.

10. Indrāgnī ukthavāhasā stomebhir-havanaśrutā. Viśvābhir-gīrbhirā gatam-asya somasya pītaye.

Indra and Agni, light and energy of the spirit of life, carriers and harbingers of songs of adoration, listening close by to the invocations and celebrations of the yajakas, come with all words of appreciation and praise and all voices of commendation and elevation to our yajnic performance and to taste the nectar sweet of its essence distilled.

1. Śnathad vṛtramuta sanoti vājamindrā yo agnī sahurī saparyāt. Irajyantā vasavyasya bhūreḥ sahasamā sahasā vājayantā.

One who honours and adores challenging and victorious Indra and Agni, vibrant, stormy and fiery electric forces of nature and humanity, conquers restraining opposition and wins food, energy and wealth of life. Both are most courageous and enduring commanders of power and victory, givers of honour and excellence, ample peace and settlement and harbingers of the glory of success and fulfilment.

O celebrant, love and adore that power of divinity which with its refulgence pervades all rays of the sun, moves all floods of water, and envelops all forests and makes them green with its radiations.

Indra and Agni, scholars of fire and electric energy, listen to the invitation and adoration of the yajamana and institutor of the yajnic programme of creative development. Accept the invitation and offers of homage, come, and taste the honey sweets of the pleasure of somaic achievement distilled from natural energy.

Mandala 6/Sukta 61

Sarasvati Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

इयमददादभसमृणच्युतं दिव दासं वध्यश्वाय दाशुष । या

1. Iyamadadād rabhasamṛṇacyutaṁ divodāsaṁ vadhryaśvāya dāśuṣe. Yā śaśvantamācakhādāvasaṁ paṇim tā te dātrāṇi taviṣā sarasvati.

Sarasvati, this perennial stream of divine awareness, which stabilizes a permanent, all protective and adorable perspective dedicated to the light of Divinity, gives to the generous man of yajna blest with expansive mind and senses the zeal for action dedicated to fulfilment of obligations, a dynamic spirit which leads the man to freedom from all debts of life. These are thy brilliant gifts, O mother, to humanity.

इयं शुष्मभिविसखा इवारुजत्सानु गिरीणां तविषभि-

2. Iyaṁ śuṣmebhir-bisakhā ivārujat sānu girīṇām taviṣebhir-ūrmibhiḥ. Pārāvataghnīm-avase suvṛktibhiḥ sarasvatīmā vivāsema dhītibhiḥ.

This stream of divine awareness and knowledge, with fierce blows and powerful waves of light and inspiration, breaks through the height of mountains and depths of clouds covering darkness and concealing treasures and opens them out like one who digs up and out the roots of lotus flowers. Let us adore and serve this brilliant mother stream, Sarasvati, breaking over the banks of floods, with sincere thoughts and holy actions and let us root out darkness and ignorance from life.

सरस्वति ददन्निदा नि बहय प्रजां विश्वस्य बृसयस्य

3. *Sarasvati devanido ni barhaya prajāṃ viśvasya

O Sarasvati, mighty stream of light and inspiration, uproot the maligners of divinity and divine knowledge, take over the children of the wise givers of enlightenment across the world, adopt lands and nations, and let the streams of knowledge and culture flow for all peoples of the earth.

प ण' दूवी सरस्वती वाजभिवाजिनीवती ।

4. *Pra ṇo devī sarasvatī vājebhir-vajinīvatī.
Dhīnāmavitryavatu.*

May Sarasvati, bright mother of divine light and knowledge, overflowing with streams of wealth, honour and spirit, protector and promoter of intelligence, will and enlightened action, save us from darkness and evil and advance us into the light of life.

यस्त्वा दवि सरस्वत्युपब्रूत धनं हित । इन्द्रं न वृत्रतूय' ॥ ५ ॥

5. *Yastvā devi sarasvatyupabrute dhane hite.
Indraṃ na vṛtratūrye.*

O brilliant and generous Mother Sarasvati, whoever calls upon you like one who calls upon Indra, omnipotent ruler, for the destruction of the demon of evil at the time when the battle is raging at the door, you listen, come and save the supplicant.

6. *Tvaṁ devi sarasvatvavā vājeṣu vājini.
Radā pūṣeva naḥ sanim.*

O brilliant and generous mother of divine vision and wisdom, dynamic giver of knowledge, strength and energy in the struggle of life, remove the veil from our intelligence, give us nourishment like the earth and light of discrimination like the sun, and then draw out the plan of our destiny.

उ॒त स्या॑ नः सर॑स्वती घा॒रा हिर॑ण्यव॒तनिः ।

7. *Uta syā naḥ sarasvatī ghorā hiraṇyavartaniḥ.

And may that Sarasvati, awful breaker of the clouds of darkness, come by the golden paths of light, listen and, with love and grace, acknowledge our song of praise.

8. *Yasyā ananto ahrutas-tveṣaś-cariṣnur-aṇavaḥ.

Whose radiation of light and dynamic flow of speech moves on and on endless, straight and upright, roaring across the ocean of space, that is the Mother Sarasvati.

सा ना विश्वा अति द्विषः स्वसूरन्या ऋतावरी ।
अत इह व सूर्यः ॥ ९ ॥

9. Sā no viśvā ati dviṣaḥ svasūranya ṛtāvarī.
Atannaheva sūryaḥ.

And may that flow of speech, warding off all hate and enmity, bearing truth like the light of dawn, lead us to other, different, sister streams of knowledge like the sun moving to other successive days, the same yet new.

उत नः प्रिया प्रियासु सप्तस्वसा सुजुष्टा ।

10. Uta naḥ priyā priyāsu saptasvasā sujuṣṭā.
Sarasvatī stomyā bhūt.

And may Sarasvati, dynamic stream of light, knowledge and speech, dearest among seven lovely sister streams of knowledge, word, and mind and senses, loving and blissful, be adorable and remain favourable.

आपपुषी पार्थिवान्युरु रज अन्तरि म ।
सरस्वती निदस्पातु ॥ ११ ॥

11. Āpaprūṣī pāarthivānyuru rajo antarikṣam .
Sarasvatī nidaspātu.

Pervading the objects of earth, the vast skies, the middle regions and the particles of nature, may the divine awareness and enlightening speech protect us against hate and enmity.

वा॒ज॒वा॒ज॒ ह॒व्या॑ भू॒त ॥ १२ ॥

12. Triṣadhasthā saptaadhātuḥ pañca jātā vardhayantī. Vājevāje havyā bhūt.

Existent and all pervasive in three regions of the world, sustained in seven, five elements, ahankara and mahat tattva, produced by five pranic energies, rising and expanding, Sarasvati, fluent speech and awareness, may, we pray, arise at our invocation.

प॒ या म॑हि॒म्ना म॒हिना॑सु च॒कित॑ द्यु॒म्नभि॑र॒न्या अ॒पसा॑म॒प॒स्त॒मा । रथ॑इ॒व बृ॒हती॑ वि॒श्वन॑ कृ॒ताप॑स्तु॒त्या चि॒कितु॑षा॒ सर॑स्वती ॥ १३ ॥

13. Pra yā mahimnā mahināsu cekite dyumnebhiranyā apasāmapastamā. Ratha iva bṛhatī vibh-vane kṛtopastutyā cikituṣā sarasvatī.

She that is distinguished as great by her grandeur in these things and regions, appears different and exceptional to different people by her light and lustre. She is most dynamic in the dynamics of existence, vast and expansive as space, created for the glory of Infinity by the lord creator, adorable by the celebrant: that is Sarasvati, dynamic spirit of omniscience.

14. Sarasvatyabhi no neṣi vasyo māpa spharīḥ payasā mā na ā dhak. Juṣasva naḥ sakhyā veṣyā ca mā tvat kṣetrāṇyaraṇāni ganma.

Sarasvati, perennial harbinger of divine gifts of enlightenment and prosperity, pray bring us all that is lovely and excellent more and ever more. Pray do not spurn us, don't cast us away, nor let us be consumed by excess of exuberance and power. Help us with love and friendship, and let us never fall off from you into lands forlorn and void of joy.

Mandala 6/Sukta 62

Ashvins Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

स्तुष नरा दिवा अस्य पसन्ता श्विना हुव जरमाणा अकः ।
या सद्य उस्त्रा व्युषि ज्मा अन्तान्युयूषतः पयुरू वरांसि ॥ १ ॥

1. Stuṣe narā divo asya prasantā'svinā huve jara-māṇo arkaiḥ. Yā sadya usrā vyuṣi jmo antānyu-yūṣataḥ paryurū varāṁsi.

I praise and celebrate the Ashvins, leading lights of heaven pervasive in this world, and worshipfully invoke them with holy chant of mantras. Complementary powers of nature's circuitous energy and fertility, they always conduct the rays of the sun at dawn and fill the earth from end to end with choice things of excellence.

ता यज्ञमा शुचिभिश्चक्रमाणा रथस्य भानुं रुरुचू रजभिः ।

2. Tā yajñamā śucibhiścakramāṇā rathasya bhānuṁ rurucū rajobhiḥ. Purū varāṁsyamitā mimānā'po dhanvānyati yātho ajrān.

Continuously energising nature's sacred operations and augmenting the yajna with purest splendours, they light up the light of this beautiful world on the move with showers of mist and energies. Creating many gifts and waters of measureless value, they pass over and across regions of space yet untraversed.

ता ह॒ त्यद्व॒तियदर॑धमु॒ग॒त्था धि॒य ऊ॒ह॒थुः श॒श्व॒द॒श्वः ।

3. Tā ha tyad vartir-yadaradhram-ugretthā dhiya ūhathuḥ śaśvad-aśvaiḥ. Manojavebhir-iṣiraiḥ śayadhyai pari vyathir-dāśuṣo martyasya.

They are the divinities vibrant and blazing as wind and lightning that reach the yajna by unfailing radiations of energy fast as mind and sensitive as thought. They inspire the mind and will of the mortal man otherwise groping in the pathless woods of action and raise the generous yajnic giver so that he may cross the hurdles and rest in peace with a perfect sense of fulfilment.

ता न॒व्य॒सा ज॒र॒माण॑स्य॒ मन्मा॑प॒ भूष॑ता यु॒यु॒जा॒न॒स॒प्ती ।

4. Tā navyaso jaramāṇasya manmopa bhūṣato yuyujānasaptī. Śubham prkṣam-iṣam-ūrjam vahantā hotā yakṣat pratno adhrugyuvānā.

They bless the mind and fructify the intentions of the new celebrant in search of knowledge and power. Ever young and energetic as wind and lightning, using seven currents of nature's centrifugal and centripetal energy, they bear and bring excellent gifts of water, food, energy and psychic determination. Let the learned yajaka, then, free from hate, jealousy and pride, dedicate himself to the youthful powers with faith and persistence.

5. Tā valgū dasrā puruśākatamā prasnā navyasā vacasā vivāse. Yā śamsate stuvate śambhaviṣṭhā babhūvatur-grṇate citrarātī.

With the latest words of homage, I celebrate and glorify the twin Ashvin divinities: graceful, destroyers of want and suffering, most versatile of power, ancient and eternal powers of the divine, who may, we pray, be good and blissful to the devoted celebrant and bring an immense variety of wondrous gifts for the yajaka.

6. Tā bhujyum vibhiradbhyaḥ samudrāt tugrasya sūnum-ūhathū rajabhīḥ. Areṇūbhir-yojanebhir-bhujantā patatribhir-arṇaso nirupasthāt.

I celebrate and glorify the twin Ashvins, protectors and sustainers of life, who raise by radiation usable products of nature's energy from the waters and the seas by the regions of light, and who by forces of gravitation bring down by dustless usable paths of space energy from the depths of spatial waters.

Ever anxious for all round victory and riding the chariot of waves of energy, you top the mountain and reach the cloud. Generous givers of showers, you perceive the invitation of the productive earth and the expansive skies. Mighty strong, you promote the earth and prompt the voice of her people so that they may be at peace, and, ever vibrant on the move, nourishing and sustaining, you inspire the mind with noble thoughts and will for holy actions.

8. *Yad rodasī pradivo asti bhūmā heḷo devānāmuta

O heaven and earth, O light of the world, howsoever great be the anger of the holy ones and of the average mortals, that same anger, O Adityas, seasons of time, Vasus, shelter homes of life and sustenance, Rudras, powers of natural justice and dispensation, all that sin and sufferance, bear on and reserve for correction of the negative forces of hate and enmity.

9. *Ya īm rājānāvṛtuthā vidadhad rajaso mitro

Let Mitra, man of love, and Varuna, man of judgement and discrimination, who fully knows and serves the Ashvins, pervasive and dynamic lights and rulers of world regions, according to the seasons of time, wield and duly order their power and force in respect of the inscrutable, the demoniac, the malignant as also for the latest word of praise or calumny.

O brilliant lords of humanity and nature, come by the chariot of internal wheels of the social order with leading lights of the people, making new paths for the coming generation with inspiring message of selfless performance of duty and also take off the heads of the terrorist forces of destruction.

Ashvins, complementary ruling powers of love and judgement of the nation of humanity, creators and givers of wondrous gifts of plenty, come here by the highest, middling and lowest order of cooperative participants in the social order and open the doors of the fixed as well as of the movable treasures of the nation for the celebrant.

Just as the dawn, off spring of the sun, rides the radiant chariot of light with a hundred gifts of beauty and grace, similarly, O twin divines of nature, leaders of humanity, sustainers of many, lords of vision and power, come hither with all your gifts of light and graces and be inspirers of humanity in the life of revered performers of sacred acts of yajnic creation.

Excellent and blissful you look and shine along the wide earth, the pure bright rays of light rising to heaven. O refulgent lady of morning divinity, graceful with the beauty and dignity of holiness, you reveal the heart and love of your bosom by the light apparel you wear.

3. Vahanti sīmaruṇāso ruṣanto gāvaḥ subhagā-murviyā prathānām. Apejate śūro asteva śatrūn bādhate tamo ajiro na volhā.

Bright red and crimson rays of light conduct the glorious dawn expanding over the earth, the sun takes her over as a smart bride-groom leads away the bride, and, as a brave warrior shoots away the enemies like an archer, it dispels the darkness of the night.

4. Sugota te supathā parvateṣvavāte apastarasi svabhāno. Sā na ā vaha prthuyāmannṛṣve rayim divo duhitarīṣayadhyai.

O self-refulgent dawn, holy and easy are your paths over the clouds and mountains over which you radiate across the calm oceans of space without a stir of the wind. O glorious child of the light of heaven, commanding wide expanses of the universe, bring us the wealth, honour and excellence of the world for complete fulfilment of our heart's desire.

5. Sā vaha yokṣabhiravātoṣo varam vahasi joṣa-manu. Tvaṁ divo duhitaryā ha devī pūrva-hūtau maṇhanā darśatā bhūh.

O dawn, you who rise with the love and excellence of your heart's desire freely without the obstruction of even a whiff of air, come and bless us with the virilities and fertilities of the world. You, O child of heavenly light, brilliant and generous, be comely and gracious with all your glory at the first invocation of the day's opening yajna.

6. Ut te vayaścid vasaterapaptan naraśca ye pitu-bhājo vyuṣtau. Amā sate vahasi bhūri vāmamuṣo devi dāśuṣe martyāya.

O brilliant dawn, at the rise of the day, birds and men leave their dwelling to work for the day and enjoy their family dinner in the evening. O generous and brilliant lady of the morning light, you bring ample gifts of a happy home and delicious dinner for the mortal man of yajnic generosity abiding with you in love and faith.

Note: Swami Dayananda interprets the dawn as the bride and the sun as the groom coming together in marriage by choice and beginning a new day of their life.

Mandala 6/Sukta 65

Usha Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

एषा स्या न' दुहिता दिवाजाः ितीरुच्छन्ती मानुषीरजीगः । tiras-tamasaś-cidaktūn.*

Lo! there is the dawn, born daughter of heavenly light awakening and shining up our human habitations. Shining by the light of the sun, it is perceived shooting her rays of light across the darkness of the nights.

The dawns proceed by the golden chariot of bright crimson rays of the sun and wonderfully illuminate the world of humanity. Leading the yajnic business of the wide world, they dispel and stem away the darkness of the night.

3. Śravo vājam-iṣamūrjam vahantīrni dāśuṣa uṣaso martyāya. Maghonīr-vīravat patyamānā avo dhāta vidhate ratnamadya.

O glorious dawns, bearing food, energy, knowledge and the message of divinity for the generous mortals, your lights descending like brave powers of heaven, bear and bring protection, advancement and the jewel wealth of life for the celebrant devotee.

इदा हि व' विधत् रत्नमस्तीदा वीराय दाशुष उषासः । इदा विषाय जरत् यदुक्था नि ष्म मावत् वहथा पुरा चित ॥ ४ ॥

4. Idā hi vo vidhate tatnamastīdā vīrāya dāśuṣa uṣāsaḥ. Idā viprāya jarate yadukthā ni śma māvate vahathā purā cit.

O dawns, here and now is the jewel wealth for the servant, for the brave, and for the generous giver. Here it is for the wise sage and for the worshipper. Here is the word of worship as before, pray bring the wealth of life as before for the celebrant like me.

5. Idā hi ta uṣo adrisāno gotrā gavām-aṅgirasogṛṇanti. Vyarkaṇa bibhidur-brahmaṇā ca satyā nṛṇāmabhavad devahūtiḥ.

Here and now itself, O dawn of the light of heaven riding the heights of clouds, the sages of science and wisdom sing and celebrate in praise of you with chant of the Veda and offer of yajna and worship and break open the treasures of knowledge divine and secular. May the people's yajna and worship be true and fruitful at the call of the divinities.

उच्छा दिवा दुहितः पत्नव १' भरद्वाजवद्विधृत मघानि ।

6. Ucchā divo duhitaḥ pratnavanno bhara-dvājavād vidhate maghoni. Suvīraṁ rayiṁ gṛṇate rirīhyu-rugāyamadhi dhehi śravo naḥ.

O dawn, child of the light of heaven, harbinger of light and glory, shine as ever before and let us shine too like the celebrated sage of knowledge and power and servant and celebrant of the dawn of divinity. Bestow love and care upon the worshipful admirer, bless the supplicant with wealth and noble progeny, and favour us with honour, fame and excellence of universal order.

Note: Swami Dayananda interprets this hymn as a metaphor of the virtues of women. He says that the birth of a girl child and the bride's coming to her new home is like the dawn of a new day which brings light, grace and prosperity to the family.

Mandala 6/Sukta 66

Maruts Devataḥ, Bharadvāja Barhaspatya Rshi

वपुन्रु तच्चिकितुष चिदस्तु समानं नाम धनु पत्यमानम ।

मतष्वन्यद्वाहस पीपाय सकृच्छुकं दुदुह पृश्निरूधः ॥ १ ॥

1. Vapurnu taccikituṣe cidastu samānaṁ nāma dhenu patyamānam. Marteṣvanyad dohase pīpāya sakṛcchukraṁ duduhe pṛśnirūdhaḥ.

For the man of vision and wisdom, the motherly form of nature is equal and similar by one name, Dhenu, mother cow. One on earth abounds with milk among the mortals to nurse her children, the other is Prshni, the middle region, mother of Maruts, winds or pranic energies, which simultaneously feeds the cloud with the purest soma of life energy.

य अग्रया न शाशुचिधाना द्वियत्रिमरुत' वावृधन्त ।

2. Ye agnayo na śośucannidhānā dviryat trirmaruto vāvṛdhanta. Areṇavo hirṇyayāsa eṣāṁ sākam nṛmṛṇaiḥ paumsyebhiśca bhūvan.

They, the Maruts, vital pranic energies, pure and shining like fires, grow double and triple. Non-particle and golden are their forms and conductors carrying simultaneously both bio-energy and intelligence for life on earth.

रुदस्य य मी हुषः सन्ति पुत्रा यांश्चा नु दाधृविभर'ध्य ।

3. Rudrasya ye mīlhuṣaḥ santi putrā yāṁśco nu dādhrvir-bharadhyai. Vide hi mātā maho mahī ṣā set prśniḥ subhve garbhamādhāt.

These Maruts are children of Rudra, virile spiritual energy, and the mother is there to receive, hold and nourish them in her womb. For the reason of conceiving and bearing 'the great ones, the mother is known as the great', the Mother, the mother cow, the mother earth, the holy and the noble, the one who bears and gives birth to life.

न य इषन्त जनुषा या न्वन्तः सन्त' वद्यानि पुनानाः ।

4. Na ya īṣante januṣo'yā nva'ntaḥ santo'vadyāni punānāḥ. Niryad duhre śucayo'nu joṣamanu śriyā tanvam-ukṣamānāḥ.

The Maruts neither hurt nor forsake their nativity, nor do they neglect any creature by their ethics and policy, but being noble, pure and shining in the midst of life, purging away weaknesses and perfecting virtues, vitalising and refining their body and personality with beauty, virility and splendour according to their love and ambition, they absorb the essences of nature, distil the soma and give showers of joy.

मू न यषु दाहस' चिद्या आ नाम धृष्णु मारुतं दधानाः ।

5. Makṣū na yeṣu dohase cidayā ā nāma dhr̥ṣṇu mārutaṁ dadhānāḥ. Na ye staunā ayāso mahnā nū cit sudānurava yāsadugrān.

There is none among them but instantly moves forward with showers of generosity. Bold and vibrant, they bear the name of children of the winds. They move not like thieves and sluggards by virtue of their might and grandeur, and only the generous man of holiness can approach and pacify these blazing heroes.

6. Ta idugrāḥ śavasā ghr̥ṣṇuṣeṇā ubhe yujanta rodasī sumeke. Adha smaiṣu rodasī svaśoci-rāmavatsu tasthau na rokaḥ.

Shining and blazing by strength and superior power, commanding mighty forces of nature, they join the beautiful heaven and earth by their presence. And when these forceful presences pervade heaven and earth, therein abides the self-refulgent electric energy like light and splendour itself.

7. Aneno vo maruto yāmo astvanaśvaścid yamajatyarathīḥ. Anavaso anabhīśū rajastūrvi rodasī pathyā yāti sādhan.

O Maruts, vibrant powers of nature and humanity, let your course and chariot be free from sin and error. Let it be powered without horses and let it be driven without the driver. Let it be protected without external forces, moving without food and fuel, without reins, dispelling waves, clouds and the dust of earth and space, and let it go by paths of heaven and earth, fulfilling the ambitions of humanity.

8. Nāsyā vartā na tarutā nvasti-maruto yamavatha vājasātau. Toke vā goṣu tanaye yamapsu sa vrajaṁ dartā pārye adha dyoḥ.

O Maruts, in the serious warlike business of life, whoever you protect and promote for the sake of children, grand children, or lands and cows or waters, no one can overwhelm or circumvent, no one can cross, defeat and destroy. Indeed he will be the breaker of new paths and open new treasures and then cross through the skies to the bounds of the regions of light.

9. Pra citramarkam grṇate turāya mārutāya svatavase bharadhvam. Ye sahāmsi sahasā sahante rejate agne pṛthivī makhebhyaḥ.

O men of learning, bear and offer unique and wonderful songs and presentations of reverence for the adorable, vibrant, prompt and forceful band of heroes of their own essential power and excellence, those who meet the challenges of life and confrontations by their own strength and courage. O brilliant sage, Agni, the earth itself vibrates and shines by the holy and mighty exploits of the Maruts, heroes of the winds.

10. Tviṣīmanto adhvarasyeva didyut tṛṣucyavaso juhvo nāgneḥ. Arcatrayo dhunayo na vīrā bhrājajjanmāno maruto adhrṣṭāḥ.

Bright and blazing, flames of a great yajna of love and non-violence, instantly moving to action and adorable, brave warriors born of light and fire, intrepidable heroes of the winds are shakers of the earth like the heroes of heaven. Such are the Maruts.

11. Taṁ vṛdhantaṁ mārutaṁ bhrājadṛṣṭiṁ rudrasya sūnum havasā vivāse. Divaḥ śardhāya śucayo manīṣā giraya nāpa ugrā aspr̥dhran.

With homage and reverence I adore and serve that rising and exalting hero of the winds and the blazing lance of action who is a very child of Rudra awful divine power of force and justice, whom, for the sake of celestial power, the pure, immaculate heroes of fire and conscientious intelligence envy and emulate.

Mita-Varunara Devate, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

Mitra and Varuna, complementary pranic energies, holy powers of love and justice, I adore and exalt you both, highest of the divinities of the world, with the best of my voice and words, you both, unique and incomparable, most self-controlled controllers of humanity who guide and lead the people on the right path with your own hands, holding them by the reins and the light rays of their own inner mind.

2. Iyam mad vām pra strṇīte manīṣopa priyā namasā barhiraccha. Yantaṁ no mitrāvaruṇāv-adhrṣṭaṁ chardiryad vām varūthyam sudānū.

Mitra and Varuna, dear, loving and just teachers and preachers, the holy grass is well spread for you on the vedi, and this sincere address and invitation from the core of my heart reaches out to you with homage and humility. O generous masters of holiness and knowledge, come and bless us with your gifts of the peace and happiness of a comfortable home free from fear.

3. Ā yātaṁ mitrāvaruṇā suśastyupa priyā namasā hūyamānā. Saṁ yāvapnaṣtho apaseva janāñchrudhīyataścīd yatatho mahitvā.

Mitra and Varuna, holiest loving and just powers of nature and humanity, dear as our own, invoked and invited with homage and humility, come and receive our prayer and adoration, you who, like parents of children, inspire obedient people keen for nourishment by your own action and greatness to rise together.

4. Aśvā na yā vājinā pūtabandhū ṛtā yad garbham-aditirbharadhyai. Pra yā mahi mahāntā jāyamānā ghorā martāya ripave ni dīdhaḥ.

Fast, strong and bright as heat and light all pervasive, akin to the purity of brotherly relationship, embodiments of truth and law of the universe, mother nature bears you for eternity, O Mitra and Varuna, who ever move forward as greater than the great ones, emerging, rising and blazing as terrible to the enemies of mankind from birth itself.

5. Viśve yad vām maṁhanā mandamānāḥ kṣatram devāso adadhuḥ sajoṣāḥ. Pari yad bhūtho rodasī cidurvī santi spaśo adabdhāso amūrāḥ.

Since you pervade over and across the wide earth and heaven by your presence, the brilliant and generous great powers of the world, rejoicing by virtue of your grandeur and majesty, loving and cooperative together, hold sway over the social order of the earth and rule, intelligent and enlightened, undaunted and perceptive all over like watchful eyes and ears of the nation.

6. Tā hi kṣatram dhārayethe anu dyūn dṛṇhethe sānumupamādiva dyoḥ. Dṛḷho nakṣatra uta viśvadevo bhūmimātān dyām dhāsināyāḥ.

Indeed, you hold the wealth of the nation, and you sustain and expand the bounds of world order day by day like the sun, for example, expanding the bounds of light over the world. It is through you that the refulgent lord of the universe expands and lights the world of heaven and earth in existence by the food and energy of life.

They bring the heave of passion and they bring the food too to quench the fire of that passion, and thus they sustain the wise with the food they aspire for, they who also lead the bearers of holy materials to fill the house of yajna and to feed the fire. And just as the sparkling sacred streams bear the waters of life, and unmarried maidens bear life-giving vitality, but they are never neglected and never injured in any way, so the wise and the sustainers of the wise must never be neglected, never injured.

Mitra and Varuna, givers of ghrta and food for the fire, whoever the disciple, intelligent, faithful and true, established in truth and the law of truth by virtue of your voice of truth in this house of yajna, let that be your gracious gift of achievement. And we pray throw out all sin and crime for the sake of the giver in this holy programme of moral culture.

9. Pra yad vām mitrāvaruṇā spūrdhan priyā dhāma yuvadhitā minanti. Na ye devāsa ohasā na martā ayajñasāco apyo na putrāḥ.

O Mitra and Varuna, divinities of love and justice, those holy persons, who emulate and follow the rules and injunctions loved and ordained by you, and never violate them by their power and potential, are like your children by their karmas. On the other hand, those, who envy and are jealous, who violate the principles and institutions dear to you, who are not good and generous people, and in spite of their power and potential are mortals of inferior calibre without the love and performance of noble acts, deserve to be neither you, friends nor your children.

The wise ones bear and offer words of praise in honour of you. Some others, thoughtful and faithful, offer songs of celebration. Then we too chant and address hymns of adoration to you. Joining with all holy ones by your grace and grandeur, there is none you hurt or injure.

Mitra and Varuna, thus under your care and protection and in matters of family peace and prosperity of the home gifted by you, the beneficiary feels great and grateful. And in the battle business of life which is exciting and delightful, you engage the brave, generous, simple and straight man of truth and honesty celebrated in words of praise and adoration all round.

Indra, glorious lord of power, and Varuna, lord of justice, peace and excellence, this yajna of evolution and advancement, kindled, conducted and jointly sustained by people in your honour, is for the union and cooperation of men dedicated to yajnic development and progress of the world community. Let it go on today and for ever onward for the growth of abundant food, energy and sustenance and for a high order of peace and excellent well being of life as a whole.

2. Tā hi śreṣṭhā devatātā tujā śūrāṇām śaviṣṭhā tā hi bhūtam. Maghonām maṁhiṣṭhā tuviśuṣma rtena vṛtraturā sarvasenā.

You are the best and holiest, dedicated to the divine scheme of evolution, development and progress, being most vigorous, bravest of the brave, commanding highest power and excellence among the excellent and powerful, most high spirited by dedication to truth and the law of truth, breakers of the darkest clouds for showers of vitality. Indeed you are the leaders and commanders of the total forces of nature and humanity on the paths of universal progress.

3. Tā grṇīhi namasyebhiḥ śūṣaiḥ sumnebhirin-drāvaruṇā cakānā. Vajreṇānyaḥ śavasā hanti vṛtram siṣaktyanyo vṛjaneṣu viprah.

Honour and celebrate the two, Indra and Varuna, lords of peace, power and justice, with reverence and homage. Brilliant with strength and power, over-flowing with vitality and generosity, they are loving and kind. One of them, Indra, like the sun, breaks the clouds and destroys the enemies with the force of thunder, and the other, Varuna, cool as water and vibrant as the winds, follows to bless humanity with strength and energy on the paths of life.

4. Gnāśca yannaraśca vāvṛdhanta viśve devāso narāṁ svagūrtāḥ. Praibhya indrāvaruṇā mahitvā dyauśca pṛthivi bhūtamurvī.

All the holy voices, men and women, leading lights of humanity and the holiest of the holy for the world, grow on by their own vision and performance in the course of nature. For all these who grow thus, O lords of power and peace, vision and wisdom, be good, kind and generous by your own grace and grandeur like the light of heaven and the wide expanse of mother earth.

He that is liberal, self confident and upright in matters of truth and divine law, and in his very soul does honour to you, shall, with his resources, conquer his opponents and enemies and, with his generosity, achieve wealth and power and win over men of wealth and power to his side for support and cooperation to give and share.

Indra and Varuna, lords of brilliance, power and wisdom of justice, that wealth and power which you bear and bestow upon the liberal yajaka of love and non-violence may, we pray, be for us too so that we share the honour and excellence which silences and shatters the calumny and criticism advanced by the selfish opposition.

1. Sam vām karmaṇā samiṣā hinomīndrāviṣṇū apasaspāre asya. Juṣethām yajñaṁ draviṇaṁ ca dhattam-ariṣṭairnaḥ pathibhiḥ pārayantā.

Indra, lord commander of energy and power, Vishnu, lord provider of sustenance, whole heartedly I call upon you with food and energy and with action to take us successfully to the end of this programme of work and development. Join and enjoy the yajnic programme, create and bring wealth and honour. Indeed, you are pilots of the nation to lead us on by paths of freedom without fear and danger.

Indra and Vishnu, you are creators and producers of all things of the world. You are inspirers of the mind and intelligence of all people. You are the treasure caskets of wealth, honour and joyous excellence of the world. May our voices of invocation and invitation and our songs of adoration full of appreciation, praise and homage reach you with our reverence and holy presentations.

Indra and Vishnu, ruler of power and sustainer of life, you are creators and protectors of the joy of life. Come and join the joyous celebrants over a drink of life's soma of excellence and ecstasy, and bring the wealth and honour of human values for us. And may the songs of our leading intelligent people full of homage and service exalt you by day and by night with a chant of Vedic mantras.

Indra and Vishnu, you are exalted by the oblations of sacrificial havi and thereby you exalt all others. First receivers and consumers of food and homage, you give back every thing finer in return for others. O lords, receiving oblations of ghrta and blessing others with the best of things, bear and bring the wealth and honour of life for us. Be like the sea full of jewels, be like a cask of soma and the ecstasy of life.

Both Indra and Vishnu are ever victorious. They are never defeated. Neither of them is ever vanquished or deprived. Indra and Vishnu, when you act together and contend with others, you stabilise your thousand forces, threefold raise their power and potency, and reduce the adversary to the lowest degree of efficiency.

1. Ghṛtavatī bhuvanānāmabhiśriyavī prthvī madhudughe supeśasā. Dyāvāprthivī varuṇasya dharmanā viṣkabhite ajare bhūriretasā.

Radiant and fertile, beauties of the worlds, vast and abundant, extensive, replete with honey sweets, the sun and the earth are sustained by the laws of nature with the immanent will of Varuna, centre-hold of the universe. Undecaying they are, immensely creative and exuberant with the waters of life, beautiful, blissful.

पिपतु ॥ १ ॥

1. Jimūtasyeva bhavati pratīkaṃ yad varmī yāti samadām-upasthe. Anāviddhayā tanvā jaya tvam sa tvā varmaṇo mahimā pipartu.

When a warrior in armour advances to the battle front of war he looks like a mighty rain cloud. Go forward with your body unhurt, win the battle, and may the grandeur of your armour protect and defend you in war and peace.

धन्व॑ना गा धन्व॑नाजिं ज॒यम॒ धन्व॑ना ती॒वाः सु॒मद॑ जयम ।

2. Dhanvanā gā dhanvanājim jayema dhanvanā tivrāḥ samado jayema. Dhanuḥ śatorapakā-maṃ kṛṇoti dhanvanā sarvāḥ pradiśo jayema.

Let us preserve and win lands and cows by the bow and reach our targets by the bow. Let us fight out the fiery passions by the bow and arrow of concentrated meditation. The bow and arrow thwarts the evil designs of enemy forces within and without both. Let us advance in all directions by the bow.

व॒ यन्ती॒वदा ग॑नीगन्ति॒ कर्ण॑ पि॒यं स॒खायं॑ परि॒ष्वजा॒ना ।
या॒र्षव॑ शि॒ङ्ग वित॑ताधि॒ धन्व॑ञ्ज्या इ॒यं स॒मं न पा॑रयन्ती ॥ ३ ॥

3. Vakṣyantīvedā ganīganti karṇaṃ priyaṃ sakhāyaṃ pariśasvajānā. Yoṣeva śinkte vitatādhi dhanvañ-jyā iyaṃ samane pārayantī.

Like a maiden embracing her dear lover and whispering into his ear as if saying something sweet, this string of the bow, its ends like loving hands clasping the ends of the bow, is stretched to the archer's ear, rings and seems to say: Shoot, advance and make way through the opposite ranks.

त आचरन्ती समनव याषा मातव पुत्रं बिभृतामुपस्थ । अप

4. Te ācarantī samaneva yoṣā māteva putraṁ bibhṛtāmupasthe. Apa śatrūn vidhyatāṁ saṁvidāne ārtnī ime viṣphurantī amitrān.

Just as a young mother holds the baby in her lap with both hands, so may the two ends of the bow operative together in balance hold the string at both ends and shoot the arrow upon the enemies and thus scatter the unfriendly forces out of gear.

बह्वीनां पिता बहुरस्य पुत्रश्चिश्चा कृणाति समनावगत्य ।
इषुधिः सङ्गाः पृतनाश्च सर्वाः पृष्ठ निनद्धा जयति

5. Bahvīnāṁ pitā bahurasya putraściścā kṛṇoti samanāvagatya. Iṣudhiḥ saṅkāḥ pṛtanaśca sarvāḥ prṣṭhe ninaddho jayati prasūtaḥ.

Like a guardian having many children under his care, the quiver borne on the warrior's back holds many arrows and rattles as the warrior enters upon the battle. The warrior with the bow and arrows in the quiver emerging on the battle field scatters all the enemy forces and wins all the battles of life.

रथ तिष्ठत्यति वाजिनः पुरा यत्रयत्र कामयत सुषार्थिः ।

6. Rathe tiṣṭhan nayati vājinaḥ puro yatrayatra kāmāyate suṣārathiḥ. Abhīśūnām mahimānam panāyata manah paścādanu yacchanti raśmayah.

An expert driver on the steer of the chariot directs and leads the horses forward wherever he wants. Know this and admire the great importance of the bridle strings. As the driver controls the horses so does the mind control the senses. Control the strings of the mind and the senses would follow in your conduct of the chariot of life.

तीवान्घाषान्कृण्वत् वृषपाण्या श्वा रथभिः सह वाज-

7. Tivrān ghoṣān kṛṇvate vṛṣapāṇayo 'śvā rathebhīḥ saha vājayantah. Avakrāmantaḥ prapadair-amitrān kṣiṇanti śatrūñr-anapav-yayantah.

Rushing on with the chariots, the warriors of mighty arm and war horses roar with awful war cries and, crushing the unfriendly forces with their advances without ever retreating, they eliminate the enemies.

रथवाहनं हविरस्य नाम यत्रायुधं निहितमस्य वम ।
तत्रा रथमुप शग्मं सदम विश्वाहा वयं सुमनस्यमानाः ॥ ८ ॥

8. Rathavāhanaṁ havirasya nāma yatrāyudham nihitamasya varma. Tatrā rathamupa śagman sadema viśvāhā vayanṁ sumanasyamānāḥ.

Where the chariot war materials of this warrior are collected and deposited, and where his arms and armour which routed the enemy are secured and guarded, there let us find our chariot of peace and well being for all time, planning and designing as we are always for the peace and joy of the mind.

Those who abide in the home or sit in the assembly with peace and joy at heart, who are senior parental people, advanced and experienced in age, observing Dharma without fluctuating from peace and rectitude even in crises, commanding strength and depth of wisdom, leading wonderful armies, having full forces of arms and armaments but never violent and destructive, brave heroes of truth and honesty, many, mighty and magnanimous, observers of self-chosen discipline and law of conduct, let such be our friends, ideals and leader guardians for a life of peace and happiness.

Sagely scholars, parental seniors, men of peace and good will, holy and blissful sun and earth which hurt no one, protective and promotive powers of nature and humanity, all observers and protectors of truth and law, may, we pray, protect us from sin and evil and defend us against violence. May no evil and violent power, no thief, rule over us.

11. Suparṇaṁ vaste mṛgo asyā danto gobhiḥ sannaddhā patati prasūtā. Yatrā naraḥ saṁ ca vi ca dravanti tatrāsmabhyam-iṣavaḥ śarma yamsan.

The sun wears the beauty of a divine bird and flies. The earth, its mountain tops illuminated by sun rays, moves on, urged and energised by the sun. On this earth where men run around together yet scattered, may the arrows of defence and protection and the light of the sun provide us a home of peace and stability.

ऋ॒जी॒त॒ परि॑ वृ॒ङ्धि॒ ना श्मा॑ भवतु नस्त॒नूः ।

12. Ṛjīte pari vṛṇdhi no'śmā bhavatu nantanūḥ. Somo adhi bravītu no'ditiḥ śarma yacchatu.

O ruler, let natural honesty and rectitude protect and promote us. Let our bodies be adamant strong. Let soma, nectar juice of herbs, inspire us with its message of good health and rejuvenation. Let mother earth bless us with peace and comfort in a happy home.

आ ज॑ङ्घन्ति सान्व॑षां ज॒घनाँ॑ उप॒ जिघ्र॑त ।

13. *Ā jaṅghanti sānveṣāṁ jaghanāñ upa jighnate.
Aśvājani pracetaso'śvānt-samatsu codaya.*

O inspirer of the brave like a goad, inspire the wise and brave warriors of the earth who break down the forces of these enemies of humanity and strike down the saboteurs and terrorists in the battles of life.

अ॒हि॒रि॒व भ॒ागः प॒र्य॑ति ब॒हुं ज्या॑या ह॒तिं प॒रि॒बा॒ध॒मा॒नः ।

14. Ahiriva bhogaiḥ paryeti bāhum jyāyā hetim paribādhamānaḥ. Hastaghno viśvā vayunāni vidvān pumān pumānsaṁ pari pātu viśvataḥ.

Wrapped round the arm of a warring man of action like the coils of a snake, like an arm guard protecting the shooting arm against the strike back of the bow string after the shot of an arrow, or against the recoil of a gun, the man of knowledge well versed in all the ways of life and the world should protect the man of bold action all round.

15. *Ālāktā yā ruruśīrṣnyatho yasyā ayo mukham.
Idaṁ parjanya retasa iṣvai devyai bṛhannamaḥ.*

Poison-tempered with head like a doe's and a mouth of steel, generous and abundant like a rain cloud is the brave ruling queen of arrows. For the lady of divine velocity, unbounded praise and homage of a thousand salutations!

अवसृष्टा परा पत शरव्य ब्रह्मसंशित । गच्छामित्रान्प पद्यस्व

16. *Avasṛṣṭā parā pata śaravye brahmasaṁśite.
Gacchāmitrān pra padyasva māmīṣāṁ kaṁ

O sharpest and fastest of missiles, tempered and tested by the best of defence scientists, shot and released, fly far, reach the target and fall upon the enemies. Spare none of them whatsoever even at the farthest distance.

यत्र बाणाः संपतन्ति कुमारा विशिखाइव । तत्रा ना ब्रह्मण-

17. *Yatra bāṇāḥ saṁpatanti kumārā viśikhā iva.
Tatrā no brahmaṇaspatir-aditiḥ śarma yacchatu

O ruler, where the young soldiers with shorn hair fall upon the enemy and showers of missiles rain down upon the targets, there let the controller of nation's wealth provide us total security and let the mother earth provide us a safe and comfortable shelter, a shelter of all round security.

ममाणि त वम'णा छदयामि सामस्त्वा राजामृतनानु वस्ताम ।

18. *Marmāṇi te varmaṇā chādayāmi somastvā

O warrior of the bow, I cover the vital limbs of your body with armour for protection. Let the ruler Soma, immortal spirit of life's vitality, give you close cover against death and mortality. Let the wise and judicious commander of the forces provide you the best and most abundant food and maintenance, and let the excellencies of the nation rejoice with you when you win the battle.

19. Yo naḥ svo araṇo yaśca niṣṭyo jighāṁsati. Devā-staṁ sarve dhūrvantu brahma varma mamāntaram.

Any one, whether our own or a stranger far away non-fighting, or far off and low, that hurts and violates us deserves that the best and enlightened of the nation punish him to nullity. For me, the Lord Almighty and the divine knowledge and awareness within me is my best armour for protection.

Mandala 7/Sukta1

Agni Devata, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

अ॒ग्निं नरा॒ दी॒धिति॑भिर्रण्या॒हस्त॑च्युती जनयन्त पश॒स्तम ।
दू॒र॒दृ॒शं गृ॒हप॑तिमथ्र्युम ॥ १ ॥

1. Agnim naro didhitibhiraranyorhastacyutī janayanta praśastam. Dūredrṣaṁ gr̥hapatimathar-yum.

O leading lights of yajna, let the people produce fire by the heated friction of arani woods done with the manual motion of hands. Fire is an admirable power seen from afar and shining far and wide, sustaining home life like a guardian but otherwise silent, implicit in nature and non-violent. Further create this domestic energy by your acts of research and intelligence.

तम॒ग्निमस्त॒वस॑वा न्यृ॒ण्वन्त्सु॑पति॒च ।मव॑स॒ कु॒र्त॑श्चित ।

द॒ ण्य्या॒ या दम॒ आस॒ नित्यः॑ ॥ २ ॥

2. Tamagnimaste vasavo nyrṇvantsupratīcāṣa-mavase kutaścīt. Dakṣāyṇo yo dama āsa nityaḥ.

The energy of fire and electricity, scholars of basic science and original vision produce for domestic purpose or for communication and transportation somehow from something they know best. It is of versatile use for defence and protection, universal in nature and character, and an all purpose asset in the home for any service.

पद्भ' अग्र दीदिहि पुरा ना जस्त्रया सूम्या यविष्ठ।
त्वां शश्वन्त उप यन्ति वाजाः ॥ ३ ॥

3. Preddho agne dīdihi puro na 'jasrayā sūrmyā yaviṣṭha. Tvām śaśvanta upa yanti vājāḥ.

O fire divine, ever youthful power and presence, well kindled and raised, shine on, radiate and illuminate us, constantly, through the continuous channel of nature's dynamics. All things in constant motion reach you and flow on in the cosmic cycle.

पत अग्रया ग्रिभ्या वरं निः सुवीरसः शाशुचन्त द्युमन्तः ।
यत्रा नरः समासत सुजाताः ॥ ४ ॥

4. Pra te agnayo'gnibhyo varam niḥ suvīrāsaḥ śośu-canta dyumantaḥ. Yatrā naraḥ samāsate sujātāḥ.

O light divine, brighter and stronger than flames of fire are those vibrant radiations of yours, all illuminating, purifying and sanctifying, which arise when leading lights of yajnic vision and action, well educated and holily cultured, sit together on the vedi and kindle you to join the cosmic circuit of intelligence.

दा न' अग्र धिया रयिं सुवीरं स्वपत्यं सहस्य पशुस्तम ।
न यं यावा तरति यातुमावान ॥ ५ ॥

1. Dā no agne dhiyā rayiṁ suvīraṁ svapatyaṁ sahasya praśastam. Na yaṁ yāvā tarati yātu-māvān.

O mighty fire and light of divinity, with luminous intelligence and noble action give us that honour and excellence of life and that brave, admirable and seasoned progeny worthy of us which no force would be able to violate or overcome.

उ॒प॒ यम॑ति॒ युव॑तिः सु॒द । दा॒षा वस्त॑ ह॒विष्म॑ती घृ॒ताची॑ ।

उ॒प॒ स्व॒नम॑र॒मति॑वसू॒युः ॥ ६ ॥

6. Upa yameti yuvatīḥ sudakṣaṁ doṣāvastorhaviṣmatī ghr̥tācī. Upa svainamaramatirvasūyuh.

The creative vitality of Agni is active and operative day and night: the youthful maiden approaches her versatile lover and stays with him in marriage for life, the yajna ladle overflowing with ghr̥ta reaches the kindled fire of the vedi, the rich dark night looks up to the moon and terminates with the sun, the virgin nature, divine lord's own consort, with the passion for creation, joins him for ever and creates the living world.

वि॒श्वा अ॒ग्न॒ प॒ द॒हारा॑ती॒यभि॑स्तप॒ भिर॑द॒हा ज॒रूथ॑म ।

प॒ नि॒स्व॒रं चा॑त॒यस्वा॒मीवा॑म ॥ ७ ॥

7. Viśvā agne'pa dahārātīryebhistapobhiradaho jarūtham. Pra nisvaram cātaya svāmīvām.

O divine fire, burn off all the negativities and adversities of the world with those flames of light with which you burn, eliminate the ailments, sickness and disease from the very roots, and recreate life anew.

आ यस्त॑ अ॒ग्न इ॒ध॒त अ॒नीकं॑ वसि॒ष्ठ शु॒क्र दी॒दिवः॑ पाव॒क ।

8. Ā yaste agna idhate anīkaṁ vasiṣṭha sukra dīdivaḥ pāvaka. Uto na ebhiḥ stavathairiha syāḥ.

O divine fire of life, Agni, destroyer, purifier and recreator, haven and home of the living world and blazing ruler, let your power and forces which shine all round shine on and illuminate our life, and, with all these our songs of praise and prayer, stay with us as protector and promoter and strengthen us for our self defence and protection.

वि य त अग्र भजिर अनीकं मता नरः पित्र्यासः पुरुत्रा ।

9. Vi ye te agne bhejire anīkaṁ martā naraḥ pitryā-saḥ purutrā. Uto na ebhiḥ sumanā iha syāḥ.

Agni, light of life and fiery power, many are the mortals, leading lights, good and kind as parents, dedicated to you and serving your powers and forces of existence. With all these be kind and gracious at heart toward us here in life and now.

इम नर' वृत्रहत्येषु शूरा विश्वा अदवीरभि संन्तु मायाः ।
य म धियं पनयन्त पशस्ताम ॥ १० ॥

10. Ime naro vṛtrahatyēṣu śūrā viśvā adevīrabhi santu māyāḥ. Ye me dhiyaṁ panayanta praśastām.

All these leaders of the world, best and bravest in the battles of life against evil, who approve and admire my work and intelligence consecrated to you, are unchallengeable. The wiles and tactics of the wicked would be dull and ineffective before the brave dedicated to you, O light and leader of the world.

मा शून अग्र नि षदाम नृणां माश षसा वीरता परि त्वा ।

11. Mā śūne agne ni ṣadāma nṛṇāṁ māśeṣa-so'vīratā pari tvā. Prajāvatīṣu duryāsu durya.

Agni, lord of light and fire, may we never sit idle in a state of depression or in a state of swollen pride. Among our men, let there be none without descendants. O lord sustainer of happy homes, let there be no trace of cowardice among the happy communities settled in happy homes wholly dedicated to you.

यम॒श्वी नित्य॑मुप॒याति॑ य॒ज्ञं प॒जाव॑न्तं स्वप॒त्यं त्वं नः ।

12. Yamaśvī nityamupayāti yajñam prajāvantam svapatyam kṣayam naḥ. Svajanmanā śeṣasā vāvṛdhānam.

Agni, lord of life, ruler and sustainer of happy homes and settled communities, give us a blessed home bubbling with the joy of noble children and the presence of happy people, rising and advancing with our own posterity, a happy place for yajna blest by daily visit and constant presence of Agni, lord of sun rays.

13. Pāhi no agne rakṣaso ajuṣṭāt pāhi dhūrterara-ruṣo aghāyoḥ. Tvā yujā pṛtanāyūñrabhi ṣyām.

Agni, lord of all power and inexhaustible energy, save us from monsters void of love, loyalty and friendship. Protect us against the wicked, violent and sinful. With you as friend, ally and protector, let me face and overthrow even whole armies of adversaries.

सद॑ग्रि॒र॒ग्नौ र॑त्य॒स्त्वन्या॑न्यत्र॒ वा॒जी तन॑य॒ वी॒लु॒पाणिः॑ ।

14. Sedagniragnīñratyastvanyān yatra vājī tanayo vīlupāṇiḥ. Sahasrapāthā akṣarā sameti.

That Agni, vision, power and energy, excels other forms of power and energy where the energy, like an offspring, fast and strong a thousand ways of application as working power of hands, is joined with the imperishable source and flows therefrom therewith like water.

सद्ग्नियं वनुष्यत निपाति समद्भारमंहस उरुष्यात् ।

सुजातासः परि चरन्ति वीराः ॥ १५ ॥

15. Sedagniryo vanuṣyuto nipāti sameddhāramañhasa uruṣyāt. Sujātāsaḥ pari caranti vīrāḥ.

That Agni, power and energy, is real agni which promotes the supplicants and protects them from the violent, which saves the kindler and augments from sin, and which the brave, cultured and enlightened leaders, well educated, serve and promote for a common cause.

अयं स अग्निराहुतः पुरुत्रा यमीशानः समिदिन्ध हविष्मान् ।

परि यमत्यध्वरेषु ह ता ॥ १६ ॥

16. Ayam so agnirāhutaḥ purutrā yamīśānaḥ samidindhe haviṣmān. Pari yametyadhvareṣu hotā.

This is that Agni, light and fire of existence for the sake of life, served and honoured universally, which the lord ruler of the universe commanding the creative resources of existence lights and raises, and which the yajaka with all his resources invokes all round in yajnic acts of service and development for the common cause of love and non-violence.

त्व अग्न आहवनानि भूरीशानासु आ जुहुयाम नित्या ।

उभा कृण्वन्त' वहतू मियध ॥ १७ ॥

17. Tve agna āhavanāni bhūrīśānāsa ā juhuyāma nityā. Ubhā kṛṇvanto vahatū miyedhe.

Agni, light of life, with all the resources at our disposal we always offer you abundant materials in yajna, promoting thereby both the priest and the host in the holy act of love and non-violence for development.

इ॒म अ॒ग्न॒ वी॒त॒त॒मा॒नि ह॒व्या ज॒स्र व॒ ॥ द॒व॒ता॒ति॒म॒च्छ॒ ।

18. Imo agne vītata māni havyā'jasro vakṣi devātā-timaccha. Prati na im surabhīni vyantu.

Agni, life of life, universal power, carry well these cherished, holiest and most expansive oblations offered to you in honour of the divinities and, in consequence, let the sweets and fragrances of nature come to us from all sides.

मा न॑ अ॒ग्न॒ वी॒र॒त॒ परा॑ दा दु॒वा॒स॒स म॑त॒य॒ मा न॑ अ॒स्य॒ ।

19. Mā no agne'vīrate parā dā durvāsase'mataye mā no asyai. Mā naḥ kṣudhe mā rakṣasa ṛtāvo mā no dame mā vana ā juhūrthāḥ.

Agni, refulgent lord and ruler of life, give us not up to a state of cowardice and impotence. Reduce us not to a state of rags and destitution. Subject us not to such indigence and intellectual imbecility. Reduce us not to hunger. Throw us not to the evil and the wicked. O lord observer and protector of truth and law, lead us not astray in the home and in the forest.

20. Nū me brahmāṇyagna ucchaśādhi tvaṁ deva maghavadbhyaḥ suṣūdaḥ. Rātau syāmobha-yāsa ā te yūyaṁ pāta svastibhiḥ sadā naḥ.

Agni, brilliant and generous lord of enlightenment, you are the divine reservoir of learning and the laws of Dharma. Teach me and the commanders of power and prosperity the laws and values of Dharma. We pray let us both, the priest and yajamana, ruler and ruled, high and low, abide in the orbit of your generosity. And may you both, teacher and preacher, and the divine power promote us with peace, prosperity and well being all round all time.

21. Tvamagne suhavo raṇvasaṁdr̥k sudītī sūno sahaso didīhi. Mā tve sacā tanaye nitya ā dhaṁmā vīro asmannaryo vi dāsīt.

Agni, lord of light, invoked with love and eagerly responsive, blissful of form and bright of flame, born of omnipotence, you shine and illuminate. Let not the devotee, always dedicated to you in holy work for the child's sake, be consumed by the fire of evil. Let the noble and brave son never be indifferent and callous toward us.

Agni, child of omnipotence, lord generous and brilliant, devoted as we are to you in all these yajnic fires kindled by holy ones, pray do not condemn us to indigent living and poor maintenance. Let not your displeasure, O bright and generous lord, even by mistake ever touch us.

23. *Sa marto agne svanīka revān-amartye ya ājihoti

Agni, lord of light and life, noble of flames and potent of forces, blest is that mortal with wealth of life who offers holy libations to the immortal fire of yajna. The immortal lord bears immense wealth and honour of life to gift the man of enlightenment who calls upon the lord in a mood of prayer and supplication.

Agni, lord of light and life, you know our great desire and prayer. Pray bring us abundant and expansive wealth and enlightenment for the brave by which, O lord of power, we may live and enjoy a long life with lustre and noble progeny without hurt, waste or corruption.

25. Nū me brahmāṇyagna ucchaśādhi tvaṁ deva maghavadbhyaḥ sūṣūdaḥ. Rātau syāmobhayā-sa ā te yūyaṁ pāta svastibhiḥ sadā naḥ.

Agni, lord of light and wealth of life, brilliant, generous and divine, give us more and more of food and plenty of wealth for the dedicated men of honour and power and enlighten us how to live with honour and joy. O lord, we pray let us all, givers and receivers both, abide in the bliss of your grace and generosity. O leaders of power and enlightenment, always protect and promote us on the path of peace, plenty and total well being.

1. Juṣasva naḥ samidhamagne adya śocā bṛhad yajataṁ dhūmamṛṇvan. Upa spr̥śa devyaṁ sānu stūpaiḥ saṁ raśmibhistatanaḥ sūryasya.

Agni, light of the world, accept our homage of yajnic fuel today, let the sacred flames and fragrance rise illuminating and purifying the wide space, touch the heights of celestial skies with the holy chant of mantras upto the pinnacles of purity and expand with the rays of the sun.

2. Narāśamsasya mahimānameṣāmupa stoṣāma yajatasya yajñaiḥ. Ye sukratavaḥ śucayo dhiyamdhāḥ svadanti devā ubhayāni havyā.

With yajnic acts of holy offering, we honour and celebrate the grandeur of this sacred Agni, light of life, adored by humanity in the midst of the enlightened divinities, performers of creative actions, who are pure and purifying, intelligent in heart and mind, and who accept and taste both kinds of yajnic offerings for the development of both mental and physical faculties.

3. Īḷenyaṁ vo asuraṁ sudakṣam-antardūtaṁ rodasī satyavācam. Maṇuṣvad-agniṁ manunā samiddham samadhvarāya sadaminmahema.

Let us always and for all of you honour and exalt the adorable, inspiring, efficient and generous Agni operative like a human ambassador between heaven and earth, between body and spirit, true of speech like a superman, enlightened and inspired by the wisest of humanity for the sake of creation and development with love and non-violence for progress of the world. (Agni here is the leader of humanity brilliant as light and inspired with will and enthusiasm like fire.)

4. Saparyavo bharamāṇā abhijñu pra vṛñjate namasā barhiragnau. Ājuhvanā ghr̥tapṛṣṭham pṛṣadvadadhvaryavo haviṣā marjayadhvam.

Worshippers sitting on their knees, bearing sacred grass and fragrant materials, offer the preliminary oblation of holy grass and ghr̥ta with reverence into the fire. O priests invoking and raising the fire burning bright with flames of ghr̥ta as rain from the cloud, feed the fire with holy oblations of havi and thereby purify the hearts of the worshippers.

5. Svādhyo vi duro devayanto 'śiśrayū rathayur-devatātā. Pūrvī śiśum na mātara rihāṇe samagruvo na samaneṣvañjan.

Devout thinkers and dedicated scholars committed to yajna and the divinities move at the speed of chariots in holy works, wide open the doors of heavenly bliss and beautify them for all in the battles of life. Loving and bold they are like young mothers to the child and advance forces for the ruler.

6. Uta yoṣaṇe divye mahī na uṣāsānaktā sudugheva dhenuḥ. Barhiṣadā puruhūte maghonī ā yajñīye suvitāya śrayetām.

And may the holy and divine night and the dawn, both celestial maidens of the universe abiding in spaces between heaven and earth, abundant with beauty and power, universally invoked and adored, worthy of worship, come and bless us in life for happiness and well being, like the mother earth, like the generous mother cow, and like the infinite speech of divine revelation.

O scholars and scientists, artists and craftsmen, you know all the facts, values and requirements of the world around. I honour you in the yajnic programmes of humility and invite you to participate in the creative programmes of development. Pray take the challenge and raise our corporate programmes of love and non-violence to the heights of achievement. May you all create, acquire and bring in the cherished objects of value for the noble humanity.

May Bharati, goddess of world speech, knowledge and culture come. May Ila, goddess of divine speech, knowledge and grace come. May Sarasvati, mother dynamics of universal speech, knowledge and culture come. May the three divinities, loving, kind and gracious, come with the enlightened daughters of the earth, men and divines of enlightenment, and dedicated scholars of eternal and historical knowledge, come and grace our sacred seats of yajna. May Agni, lord omniscient, come and bless us in the soul.

O Tvashta, brilliant maker of forms and shaper of men, generous and joyous giver of all round nourishment, physical, mental and spiritual, give us that vitality and that virility, that perfection of form, education and culture without delay from which is born the brave hero of action, expert scientist and technologist, specialist of clouds and rain dedicated to divinity as well as to noble humanity.

Giver of life and nourishment to the woods, lord of light and sun rays, take up the fragrance and reach it across to the generous powers of nature and humanity. Agni, fire of yajna, has catalysed and refined the holy materials in the vedi for diffusion. Agni, that's the yajaka of nature, ever true and more which coexists with the divine elements of nature from their origin, joins them, and refines and intensifies them for the common good of nature and humanity.

Agni, fire of life, light of the sun, brilliant scholar and teacher, come to us right here, burning, blazing, shining and illuminating, with Indra, light and power as that of thunder and lightning. Come by chariot across the spaces with the divines and forces of instant action, sit on the holy grass, and let Aditi, mother earth and nature, with her children of virtue and the immortal divinities all be happy and give us joy in truth of word and deed.

Agni Devata, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

1. Agnim vo devamagnibhiḥ sajoṣā yajisṭham dūtamadhvare kṛṇudhvam. Yo martyeṣu nidhr-uvirṭāvā tapurmūrdhā ghṛtānnaḥ pāvakaḥ.

O learned scholars and scientists, in your yajnic programmes of corporate endeavour for human purposes, light and produce that adorable agni, energy, from various forms of heat and sunlight, which is brilliantly useful and universally helpful and which acts as a messenger between region and region and earth and space. It is permanently present in all forms of mortal creation, abides by the laws of nature, is vested with heat and power at the highest, consumes finest food and it is fiery and purifying.

2. Prothadaśvo na yavase'viṣyan yadā mahāḥ saṁvaraṇād vyasthāt. Ādasya vāto anu vāti śoci-radha sma te vrajanam kṛṣṇamasti.

Roaring and consuming its food like a horse exulting in grass, it rises from its source and moves like velocity itself, splitting, protecting, accomplishing. Currents of wind and energy follow the rise of its power. O fiery energy, attraction and repulsion, that's your path of motion.

उद्यस्य त नवजातस्य वृष्ण गृ चरन्त्यजरा इधानाः ।

3. Ud yasya te navajātasya vṛṣṇo'gne carantyaajarā idhānāḥ. Acchā dyāmaruṣo dhūma eti saṁ dūto agna īyase hi devān.

Agni, abundant energy divine, as your flames arise, new and undecaying, the radiant waves traverse the heights of heaven in space, and thus you move like a messenger to the divinities of nature at the one end and to the brilliant scholars at the other.

वि यस्य त पृथिव्यां पाजा अश्त्तृषु यद ऽ समवृक्त जम्भः ।

4. Vi yasya te prthivyām pājo āsret tṛṣu yadannā samavr̥kta jambhaiḥ. Seneva sṛṣṭā prasitiṣṭa eti yavaṁ na dasma juhvā vivekṣi.

Your power and force spreads in and all over the earth instantly as you consume the inputs by the jaw-like motion of your flames and release the energy. The radiation of energy moves like a fighting force forward on the advance when, O mighty power, you receive the materials and convert them into energy as grain is converted into vitality.

5. Tamid doṣā tamuṣasi yaviṣṭham-agnimatyaṁ na marjayanta naraḥ. Niśiśānā atithimasya yonau dīdāya śocirāhutasya vṛṣṇaḥ.

O leading lights of science and technology, as riders groom a race horse for better performance, similarly strengthen and sharpen the power of this radiant and most youthful, unaging, Agni, serving and refining it like an undated but most welcome visitor, and increase the light and speed of this abundant treasure of energy fed with greater inputs at source, and let it shine at night and at dawn and let it radiate more and ever more.

Radiant Agni, commander of noble ensign, power and force, beautiful is your form when, close at hand, you shine like radiant gold. The light of your power radiates and blazes like lightning from the sky, and you display your splendour like the wonderful sun.

Agni, refulgent ruler of the world, as we offer homage and yajna to you in truth of word and deed with fragrant materials soaked in ghrta and exalt you with streams of holy songs without reserve, you too, we pray, in gracious response, protect and promote us a hundred-fold with great unbounded golden citadels of steel security, prosperity and culture.

Or what we know are your divine voices, loud, bold and unchallengeable, gifted to the generous yajnic giver, by which you protect your people who comprise the best men and women, by them, O child of omnipotence, Jataveda, present with every thing in existence, protect and promote us and the learned brave celebrants of divinity.

Agni, refulgent ruler of the world, emerging like fire from its mother source of arani woods or like heat and light from earth and heaven, arises from the land and her people and goes forward blazing like a thunderbolt of crystal, pure and purifying, bright by the grace of his body and mind, illuminating, sanctifying, dedicated to the service of divine nature and noble humanity.

These are our good fortunes, O fire divine, O lord of light. Shine and illuminate these so that we may attain noble intelligence and will to do good works. O lord, let all these riches be for the celebrant and servant of Divinity too. O children of the earth, O divine powers, protect and promote us always all round with peace and joy of well being.

1. Pra vaḥ śukrāya bhānave bharadhvaṁ havyaṁ matiṁ cāgnaye supūtam. Yo daivyāni mānuṣā janūṁṣyantarviśvāni vidmanā jigāti.

For your strength and vitality and for your light and wisdom, bear and offer purified fragrant oblations and songs of praise to Agni, refulgent spirit of Divinity which, with its light and awareness, inspires and enlightens all human and superhuman manifestations of life within.

स गृत्स' अग्निस्तरुणश्चिदस्तु यता यविष्ठो अर्जनिष्ठ मातुः ।

2. Sa gr̥tso agnis-taruṇāścīdastu yato yaviṣṭho ajaṇiṣṭa mātuh. Saṁ yo vanā yuvate śucidan bhūri cidannā samidatti sadyaḥ.

Let that Agni, spirit of life, be young, ever fresh and progressive since it is the youngest born of Mother Nature. As fire abides with the woods for food, so does the spirit abide with sun rays for food and energy, and as one consumes food with pure white teeth so does the fiery youth always consume lots of food for energy and growth in the physical form.

3. Asya devasya saṁsadyanīke yaṁ martāsaḥ śyetaṁ jagrbhre. Ni yo grbhaṁ pauruṣeyīmu-voca durokam-agnir-āyave śuśoca.

The grandeur of this brilliant lord of light, the mortals perceive and realise in his splendid assembly and in the blazing armies of his power. He defines spiritual excellence as the very embodiment of it in manifestation and shines as an unassailable hero for humanity.

4. Ayaṁ kavirakaviṣu pracetā marteṣvagniramṛto ni dhāyi. Sa mā no atra juhuraḥ sahasvaḥ sadā tve sumanasaḥ syāma.

This Agni, intelligent, brilliant and a poetic visionary among the unwise and unintelligent, pervades and shines, the immortal spirit among the mortals. O lord most potent and patient, forsake us never, never abandon us to the wicked in the world, let us always enjoy your good will, love and grace.

That Agni, universal spirit, which by his creative yajna resides in the cosmic home created by divine powers of Prakṛti in association with the supreme lord, and which redeems the immortal souls in mortal forms to freedom, the same cosmic creator and sustainer, the herbs, the trees and the earth bear at heart in seed form in the state of existence as the principle of growth and sustenance of the universe.

Agni, lord of light and life, commands abundant gifts of nectar-like food and immortal values, and he commands the gifts of wealth, honour and excellence. O lord of power and patience, we pray, let us always be with you but not as cowards, not without progeny, not without obedience and service in faith, not in a state of ugliness and gracelessness.

Wealth, but without debt and fight, is to be sought for. Let us be masters of wealth of permanent, undiminishing character. The child born of another is not your own as wealth earned by another is not yours. O lord Agni, pray do not vitiate the paths of the simple and ignorant, protect the innocents.

Agni, brilliant commander of knowledge and power, protect the supplicants from the violent. O lord of power and patience, protect us from sin and evil, jealousy and calumny. May food and wealth of honest imperishable nature flow to you with noble and most desirable honour and excellence.

These are the glories and good fortunes of life, Agni, which, pray, give us, shine and refine so that we may achieve the holiness of yajnic action and divine awareness. Let all these be the share of supplicants, singers and celebrants of life and divinity. O divinities of nature and humanity, may you all protect and promote us with the gifts of honour, excellence and the prosperity of well being all round.

Bear and offer words of praise and thankfulness in honour of mighty Agni which, ever active without rest at the heart of heaven and earth and all things beyond destruction, is the living light and life of the world, Vaishvanara, and rejoices with all those that are awake and keeps them alive and growing.

Note: Vaishvanara Agni is the divine fire and vitality of the earth and the terrestrial sphere, Vayu is the electric energy of the middle region, and Aditya, Taijas is the light and life of the heavenly solar region of the universe.

sufferings of mankind.

You pervade and enliven heaven and earth and the middle regions with your self-refulgence, shining, illuminating and purifying the world by your eternal heat and light.

You, O fire divine, Vaishvanara Agni of the universe, the resounding quarters of space, eloquent voices of poets, roaring winds and silence of the nights, all adore you, protector of humanity, end and aim of all wealth and honour, glory of the dawns and the blaze of days.

The Vasus, abodes of life such as earth, abide by you, find life energy in you, and while they join your universal yajna of life's creation and sustenance, they find their end and aim in you as the greatest friend and sustainer. O light divine, Agni, you reach the ignorant and their abodes and you create the vast light of life for the noble and the wise.

7. Sa jāyamānaḥ parame vyoman vāyurna pāthaḥ pari pāsi sadyaḥ. Tvaṁ bhuvanā janayann-abhi krann-apatyāya jātavedo daśasyan.

O Jataveda, lord omniscient of created existence, self-manifested in the highest heaven of space you create, and universal breath of life like Vayu, you all time sustain fire, water and earth, thus creating and perfecting all regions of the world and providing everything for the children of creation.

Agni, giver of light and life, for us, for our men of honour and excellence, create, provide and manage food for all, energy, wealth and honour and honourable success. O Vaishvanara, leading light of life, Agni, fire divine, give us a great home full of love and peace, in association with Rudras, pranic energies of nature, and the Vasus, generous life sustainers such as earth.

I speak in honour of the universal Vaishvanara, leading artist and light of the world : I honour and celebrate the glory of the self-refulgent, generous, virile, beloved hero of the nations like the exploits of mighty Indra, the sun, joy of the world.

Poets invoke and celebrate the omniscient, self-manifested, life sustaining light and blissful ruler of heaven and earth. The same Agni, omnipotent lord breaker of the clouds and mountains, I adore, and I sing and celebrate his great eternal laws and acts with the holiest words of praise.

Agni, highest ruler of the world, reforms, removes, or reduces to nullity the saboteurs, misguided plotters, evil-tongued scandalisers, retrogrades, reactionaries, selfish exploiters, wicked and antisocial elements of society.

I glorify Agni, that highest and dauntless leader of humanity, lord ruler of world power and wealth who, with his noble words and actions, converts the powers wallowing in dark negation to brilliant and progressive forces of the world and subdues the stubborn powers raising their fighting forces against humanity.

Agni, ruler of the world worthy of homage and support, controls the lawless by the force of justice and punishment and brings about the dawn of new days and new protections for the noble people. Observant of the law, dedicated to truth, the great Agni energises the people and, with his power and patience, enlightens the people to pay homage and in turn be the beneficiaries.

Brilliant Vaishvanara on sun rise takes away the darkness and gives us the wealth of light through the space and sky. Similarly from the lower sky and the farther space he takes away the darkness and gives us the light of the earth from the solar region. (Such is Agni, leading light of the world, this is Vaishvanara, Agni, brilliant ruler, leader of all.)

Citizens of the world, for you all, just as a rider spurs on the war horse on the course to achieve his goal, so do I, with homage and adorations, invoke, invite and inspire Agni, brilliant, generous and brave leader of the world, dynamic and warlike achiever, and I say: O lord all knowing, well known for your wisdom and observance of the laws among the nobilities, be the messenger and leader of our yajnic social system of peace, non-violence and all round progress for all. Conscientiously be so, and move at a measured pace.

2. Ā yāhyagne pathyā anu svā mandro devānām sakhyam juṣāṇaḥ. Ā sānu śuṣmairnadayan pr̥thivyā jambhebhīrviśvamuśadhagvanāni.

Come Agni, warm as fire, brilliant as light, forceful as lightning, happy and rejoicing, to your own people, eager for the love and friendship of noble people who love and value the paths of rectitude. Come on top of the world, proclaiming loud and bold your knowledge and power and illuminating the thickest forests of darkness with the radiations of your light.

The yajna is organised right here in front. The holy seats of grass and fragrant materials of yajna are laid. Agni as the ruling high priest invoked, anointed and initiated, is happy with a sense of fulfilment. O brilliant high priest and ruler, Agni, invoking the blessings of your twin mothers, heaven and earth, and serving them here, you arise as the most youthful favourite child of heaven and earth.

4. Sadyo adhware rathiram jananta mānuṣāso vicetaso ya eṣām. Viśāmadhāyi viśpapatirduroṇe gnirmandro madhuvacā ṛtāvā.

Agni, high priest and ruler of the social order, whom people of discernment and wisdom create and initiate as the leader of leaders in the yajna without delay, is happy at heart, sweet of tongue and observant of the laws of truth. He is the ruler and protector of the people and is held in high esteem in the heart and home of these people who have elected him to the office.

Agni, light of life, living fire and passion of the world, elected and adored, abides in the heart and home of the people, carrying the burdens of society, radiating all round in the world of humanity, ruling and conducting the business of living as the presiding power and vision. That is the universal power and presence whom heaven and earth advance and whom the yajaka honours and adores in yajna.

Those leading personalities find total fulfilment across the world with all honours and excellence who conceive and fashion forth the rule of law to the purpose of Agni, light and lord of life. And those people too cross over the seas of existence who listen and spread the light of the truth of this song of mine.

Agni, light of life, manifestation of omnipotence, ruler and ordainer of the wealth and honours of the world, we, the people, happily settled adore you: pray bless the celebrants and leading lights with honour and sustenance. O leading lights, pray always protect and promote us all with peace, comfort and total well being.

1. Indhe rājā samaryo namobhir-yasya pratīka-māhutaṁ ghr̥tena. Naro havyebhir-īḷate sabādha āgniragra uṣasāmaśoci.

The spirit of life, Agni, which the ruling leader challenging the battle of life kindles with faith, reverence and fragrant oblations, feeding its physical symbol, the yajnic fire, with ghr̥ta, honour and dignity of life, the leading lights of the nation take over, augment it and celebrate it with the best offers of yajna, and then, just as the light of the sun earlier obstructed by nightly darkness rises and shines with the dawns in advance of the day, so does the spirit of the nation earlier suppressed arise on the clarion call of yajna.

2. Ayamu śya sumahāñ avedi hotā mandro manuṣo yahvo agniḥ. Vi bhā akaḥ sasṛjānaḥ pṛthivyāñ kṛṣṇapavir-oṣadhībhir-vavakṣe.

This is Agni, that ruling spirit of life felt and known, that great and good arouser and yajaka, happy and joyous, human and mighty over all, unchallengeable, who brings out the lights of life from within, wielding great powers and forces, creating and making new things and institutions, and ruling over the earth.

3. Kayā no agne vi vasaḥ suvṛktiṁ kāmu svadhā-mṛṇavaḥ śasyamānaḥ. Kadā bhavema patayaḥ sudatra rāyo vantāro duṣṭarasya sādhoḥ.

Agni, self-refulgent lord ruler of the world, what is the method and manners of life by which your grace would shine upon us? What is the song of adoration, what fragrance of yajna you love by which we would adore and celebrate your majesty? O generous lord giver, when shall we be masters, producers and sharers of rare excellent wealth, power and honour for ourselves and others?

This Agni always listens and attends to the bearer and sharer of the wealth of life when he shines with vast splendour, like the sun. He stands by the ruler, commander and supporter of the people in all battles and problems of life, shining bright, divine, welcome as a guest, magnificent.

Agni, light and spirit of life, good and gracious at heart, all these many adorations and oblations of the earth with all powers and splendours of the world are for you and abide in you only. And when you are thus adored and celebrated, you listen, absorbed approvingly blissful. Listen then, O nobly born and self-manifested, wax with joy, and let your light of glory shine more and more on us.

We people happily settled in peace and plenty earnestly adore you, Agni, giver of patience and fortitude and ruler of wealth and power. Pray bring us cherished knowledge and enlightenment for the devoted celebrants and people endowed with wealth and honour. And may you all, men of knowledge, wealth and power, always protect and promote us with the gift of peace and well being.

1. Abodhi jāra uṣasāmupasthāddhotā mandraḥ kavitaṃ pāvakaḥ. Dadhāti ketum-ubhayasya jantorhavyā deveṣu draviṇaṃ sukṛtsu.

See, the holy fire of morning sun is risen from the lap of early dawn, the sun having stolen away the darkness of night. It is the morning yajaka, delightful, and the most poetic symbol of divinity. It radiates light to reveal the identify of both coming and going living forms, carries our oblations to the elements and bestows wealth upon the noble performers.

2. Sa sukraturyo vi duraḥ paṇīnāṃ punāno arkaṃ purubhojasam naḥ. Hotā mandro viśāṃ damūnāstirastamo dadṛṣe rāmyāṇām.

He is the noble performer of action who opens the doors of divinity for the celebrants, blesses and sanctifies light and food, giving protection and nourishment for all, performs yajna, gives delight, controls and organises people with discipline, removes darkness of the nights and appears blissful.

Far-sighted wise, creative visionary, constant as mother nature, refulgent, noble in assembly, friend, welcome as holy guest, giver of peace and prosperity, light of wonder ahead of the dawns, seed of cosmic dynamics, inspirer of life, he emerges and manifests in us all.

Agni, light and radiance of nature and humanity, go, radiate and reach for communication and enlightenment without hurting or injuring any good natural or human powers. Go well by the body of means created by nature or by words of divine language. Go by the flow of correct language, winds and currents of energy, the stars, the waters and other noble powers of means and men to bring about here all the jewel wealth of the world.

Agni, light and fire of life, the celebrant settled in peace and prosperity enkindles you. Bright and blazing, all knowing all present, burn off the dead wood, develop the living resources of nature and the cities for the sake of wealth. Extend the creative and productive programmes. And you all, Agni and other enlightened ones, always protect and promote us with happiness and all round well being.

Like the lover of the light of dawn, the sun, Agni, commands and diffuses light on a vast scale, blazing, illuminating, burning and purifying, giving abundant showers of rain, eliminating want and suffering, pure and immaculate, shines with light, inspiring the mind, intelligence and will, and exhorts men of passion and will to awake and rise for action. (Such is Agni, such is the scholar, sagely teacher and the leader.)

2. Svarṇa vastoruṣasāmaroci yajñam tanvānā uṣijo na manma. Agnirjanmāni deva ā vi vidvān dravad dūto devayāvā vaniṣṭhaḥ.

Like the light of dawn and splendour of the day, Agni shines and radiates the light of life as inspired priests enact the yajnic business of the morning and expand the thoughts of the day. Thus Agni, knowing and pervading the origin of things, most generous messenger and carrier of nature's bounties, radiates all round conducting and distributing the vitalities of life.

3. Acchā giro matayo devayantīragñim yanti draviṇam bhikṣamāṇāḥ. Susandṛśam supatī-kam svañcam havyavāhamaratiṁ mānuṣāṇām.

All holy voices of prayer, all acts of thought and will of the people dedicated to the bounties of divinity, seeking their share of the world's wealth and honour move and converge on Agni, blissful of sight, noble in manifestation, easy of access and attainment and the fastest carrier of oblations and relentless harbinger of the cherished fruits of the yajnic actions of mankind.

In their acts of vision, creation and development, with love and non-violence, people of the world inspired with love and faith invoke, kindle and adore Agni, light and life of the world of existence, most youthful, blissful and generous giver of every thing. He alone presides over the deep night before the dawn of creation. He alone, ever free from inertness and sleep, is the prime mover and harbinger of wealth, honour and excellence to bless the noble souls in life.

1. Mahāñ asyadhvarasya praketo na ṛte tvadamṛtā mādayante. Ā viśvebhiḥ saratham yāhi devair-nyagne hotā prathamah sadeha.

Agni, prime high priest of the cosmic yajna of creation, come by the chariot of nature itself with all the divine powers of existence and grace our vedi here. Great you are, the very soul and spirit of yajna. Not without you do the immortals rejoice.

त्वामी॒ळत॑ अ॒जिरं॑ दू॒त्याय॑ ह॒विष्म॑न्तः स॒द॒मिन्मा॑नु॒षासः॑ ।

2. Tvāmīḷate ajiraṁ dūtyāya haviṣmantaḥ sadaminmānuṣāsaḥ. Yasya devairāsado barhiragne 'hānyasmai sudinā bhavanti.

People of the world with offers of homage and havi always invoke and adore you, unaging and immortal Agni, for the sake of radiation and communication. When you come and grace the seats of yajna with the powers of nature's divinity, whosoever be the man, all the days of life turn into days of good fortune for him.

3. Trīścīdaktoḥ pra cikiturvasūni tve antardāśuṣe martyāya . Maṇuṣvadagna iha yakṣi devān bhavā no dūto abhiśastipāvā.

The wise know that there are three fold valuable gifts in you for the general mortal in the day and night. Come here like a human power, Agni, meet the brilliant wise, contact the powers of nature and be like a messenger to protect us against calumny and imprecation.

अ॒ग्नि॒री॒श बृ॒ह॒त अ॒ध्व॒र॒स्या॒ ग्नि॒वि॒श्व॒स्य॒ ह॒वि॒षः॒ कृ॒त॒स्य॑ ।

4. Agnirīśe bṛhato adhvarasyā'gnirviśvasya haviṣaḥ kṛtasya. Kratuṁ hyasya vasavo juṣantā'thā devā dadhire havyavāham.

Agni rules the great yajnic programmes of development without violence. Agni conditions and controls the entire yajnic materials of the world. The Vasus such as earth and other life supports take to the creative action of Agni for sustenance. Among the wise, scholars of the Vasu order of twenty four year's study specialise in Agni's gifts. And thus the generous and the wise all depend on this harbinger of life sustaining means and materials.

5. Āgne vaha haviradyāya devānindrajyeṣṭhāsa iha mādayantām. Imaṁ yajñaṁ divi deveṣu dhehi yūyaṁ pāta svastibhiḥ sadā naḥ.

Agni, scholar of the first order, light and fire of life, bring us the delicacies of yajnic production for the brilliant people so that they may taste them with delight and rejoice with the ruler on top. Take this yajna to the heights among the divinities. O holy ones, scholars and scientists, protect and promote us all time with gifts of peace, prosperity and all round well being.

2. Sa mahnā viśvā duriṭāni sāhvānagniḥ ṣṭave dama ā jātavedāḥ. Sa no rakṣiṣad duriṭādava-dyādas-mān grṇata uta no magonah.

May that Agni, self refulgent lord of cosmic energy, omnipresent percipient of every thing in existence and destroyer of all negativities and evils by his greatness in the world on prayer, save us all, devotees and celebrants blest with wealth, power and excellence, from sin and scandal.

3. Tvaṃ varuṇa uta mitro agne tvāṃ vardhanti matibhir-vasiṣṭhāḥ. Tve vasu suṣaṇanāni santu yūyaṃ pāta svastibhiḥ sadā naḥ.

O lord of light and life, Agni, you are the judge, you are the friend. Devotees and celebrants blest with settlement and prosperity exalt you with their will and wisdom. May those who repose their love and faith in you enjoy the gifts of your generosity. And may you all, scholars and leading lights, protect and promote us with peace, prosperity and all round well being of life.

3. Jāto yadgne bhuvanā vyakhyah paśūn na gopā iryah parijmā. Vaiśvānara brahmaṇe vinda gātum yūyam pāta svastibhiḥ sadā naḥ.

Agni, rising, manifesting and moving all round every where freely, you shine and fill all regions of the world with light and inspiration, and, as a shepherd looks after, protects and guides his flock so, O leading light of humanity, all knowing and all pervasive, find ample appreciation and comfortable settlement for the scholar and teacher of the universal Vedic knowledge of existence. O scholars and leading lights of humanity, always protect and promote us with peace, prosperity and all round well being of life.

3. Ā no devebhirupa devahūtimagne yāhi vaṣaṭkṛtiṁ juṣāṇaḥ. Tubhyaṁ devāya dāśataḥ syāma yūyaṁ pāta svastibhiḥ sadā naḥ.

Agni, giver of light and purifier of life, listen to our prayer of the sages, accept our service and oblations and grace our life's yajna with the bounties of divinity. We pray, may we ever abide in your service and divine favour, creating, producing, giving selflessly. O lord and all wise lovers of divinity, protect and promote us always with your gifts of peace and well being all round.

2. Sa yojate aruṣā viśvabhajasā sa dudravat svā-hutaḥ. Subrahmā yajñāḥ suśamī vasūnām devaṃ rādho janānām.

That Agni, leading power of nature and humanity, uses bright natural elements of universal value such as sun rays, fire and water, like horses harnessed to the chariot, and, when invoked and raised, would move at the fastest speed. He is the master of natural knowledge and natural materials, adorable, noble and potent worker, and the accomplisher of means, materials and projects of humanity for common success and progress.

4. Tam tvā dūtaṁ kṛṇmahe yaśastamaṁ devān ā vītaye vaha. Viśvā sūno sahaso martabhojanā rāsva tad yat tvemahe.

We light, raise and develop the holy fire as messenger and harbinger of excellent gifts of life's light and fragrance. So do we elect, adore and anoint you on the highest and most glorious office of the nation. Bring us the divine nobilities and brilliancies of the world of nature and humanity together and give us all the cherished blessings of life for which purpose we love and adore the fire and you, O lord of power and honour manifest and embodiment of excellence.

5. Tvamagne gr̥hapatistvaṃ hotā no adhvare. Tvaṃ potā viśvavāra pracetā yaṅṣi veṣi ca vāryam.

Agni, fiery and enlightened ruling power of nature and humanity, you are the protective and promotive head of the family and the home land. You are the receiver and giver of every thing in the loving and non-violent business of the nation's governance and administration. You are the purifier, sanctifier and giver of enlightenment universally adored. You organise, accomplish and pervade the yajnic business of life and living together by choice and common will.

11. Devo vo draviṇodāḥ pūrṇāṃ vivaṣṭyāsicam. Uddhā vā siñcadhvamupa vā pṛṇadhvamādid vo deva ohate.

Agni, self-refulgent lord giver of wealth, honour and excellence, loves to have your fire of yajnic action sprinkled with overflowing ladle of ghrta and the highest refined action. Serve him closely, feed the fire to the full, let the flames rise, and the generous lord refulgent would lead you to the heights of prosperity and excellence.

O man of knowledge and enlightenment, acquire and disseminate all the cherished gifts and virtues of the world so that all our hopes and ambitions for a full living may be truly fulfilled here and now.

त्वामु त दधिर हव्यवाहं द्वास' अग्र ऊज आ नपातम ॥ ६ ॥

6. Tvāmu te dadhire havyavāhaṁ devāso agna ūrjā ā napātam.

Agni, light and fire of life and humanity, all divinities of nature and humanity acknowledge, take over and advance you for their life's fulfilment, you being the source of infallible hope, energy and karma and bearer as well as harbinger of the divine invitations to live.

त त द्वाय दाशतः स्याम मह ना रत्ना वि दध इयानः ॥ ७ ॥

7. Te te devāya dāśataḥ syāma maho no ratnā vi dadha iyānaḥ.

O great one, as you come, you bear and bring for us the jewel wealths, honours and excellences of life. We pray may we too with gratitude be servers and givers in honour of the generous and brilliant light and fire of life.

Mandala 7/Sukta 18

Indra (1-21) and Sudasa Paijavanasya Dana stuti (22-25) Devata, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

त्व ह यत्पितरंश्चि । इन्द्र विश्वा वामा जरितार असन्वन ।

त्व गावः सुदुघास्त्व ह्यश्वास्त्वं वसु दवयत वनिष्ठः ॥ १ ॥

1. Tve ha yat pitaraścinna indra viśvā vāmā jaritāro asanvan. Tve gāvaḥ sudughāstve hyaśvāstvam vasu devayate vaniṣṭhaḥ.

Indra, lord of power, splendour and beneficence, ruler of the world, all beauties and graces of life which our parents and sustainers pray for and achieve, all fertile cows, lands and lights with high yield, all horses and fast communications are there for them because you are there. All wealth of home, habitat and materials, you alone give to the devotee who prays for the favours and light of divinity.

2. Rājeva hi janibhiḥ kṣesyevā'va dyubhirabhi viduṣkaviḥ san. Piśā giro maghavan gobhiraśvai-stvāyataḥ śiśīhi rāye asmān.

Like a brilliant prince you live with the people all round, every way, every day. Being a scholar, poet and visionary, inspire us, your admirers, with your lights of wisdom, and refine our voices of admiration with gentle forms and manners. Lord of wealth, power and honour, sharpen our plans and initiatives with the development of lands and cows, horses and transport for our assets and prosperity.

3. Imā u tvā pasprdhānāso atra mandrā giro devayanīrupa sthuḥ. Arvācī te pathyā rāya etu syāma te sumatāvindra śarman.

Indra, glorious ruler, these are the people and our voices of admiration, earnest and joyous, vying with each other in love and reverence on this occasion, which may, we pray, reach you and be accepted. May your modern ethics and policies lead us all to wealth, honour and excellence. May we always abide in peace and prosperity in a happy home under your care and kindness.

4. Dhenum na tvā sūyavase duduḥṣannupa brahmāṇi sasṛje vasiṣṭhaḥ. Tvāminme gopatim viśva āhā''na indraḥ sumatiṁ gantvaccha.

As a shepherd goes to the cow in a rich pasture for good milk, so the man of peace and enlightenment approaches you seeking fulfilment and creates songs of appreciation in praise of your policy and performance as a ruler. Indra, O lord ruler of the world, the whole world calls you the preserver, defender and promoter of the earth and her social order for me, and I pray you enjoy the favour and goodwill of the people for our sake.

5. Arṇāṃsi cit paprathānā sudāsa indro gādhān-yakṛṇot supārā. Śardhantaṁ śimyum-ucathasya navyaḥ śāpaṁ sindhūnām-akṛṇod-aśastīḥ.

Indra, brilliant ruler, rising anew like the sun, controls and bounds overflowed expansive waters into fordable limits for comfortable movement of business, converts the violent to peaceable beneficence, silences the imprecations of the vociferous and controls the erratic behaviour of the rivers and the seas.

पुर॒ळा इ॒त्तुव॒शा य॒ पु॒रासी॒दाय॒ मत्स्या॑सा॒ नि॒शि॒ता॒ अपी॑व ।

6. Puroḷā it turvaśo yakṣurāsīd rāye matsyāso niśitā apīva. Śruṣṭim cakrur-bhṛgavo druhya-vaśca sakhā sakhāyam-atarad viṣūcoḥ.

The ruler is chief of all, all controller and instant achiever, keen yajaka and sociable with open doors, sharpest reacher to the target like fish in the ocean, for economic and social progress. Men of economic ambition, science and wisdom do him honour, enemies cower before him, and as a friend he saves and supports the friend of versatile genius.

आ प॒क्थास॑' भ॒ला॒नस॑' भ॒न॒न्ता लि॑नास॒ वि॒षा॒णिनः॑

7. Ā pakthāso bhalānaso bhanantā'lināso viṣāṇinah śivāsaḥ. Ā yo'nayat sadhamā āryasya gavyā tṛtsubhyo ajagan yudhā nṛn.

Men of ripe age and experience, vibrant experts of yajnic material, nobly born and cultured, graceful and highly sagacious, who bring about peace and joy for all, approve and glorify the ruler who leads and guides members of the council who manage the governance and administration of the land for the noble people and organise the defence forces to deal with the violent, destructive and lawless elements from within and without.

8. Durādhyo aditiṁ srevaṃyanto' cetaso vi jagrbhre paruṣṇīm. Mahnāvivyak pṛthivīm patyamānaḥ paśuṣ-kavir-aśayac-cāyamānaḥ.

Thoughtless men of evil disposition try to fail his policy of universal and inviolable values and grab lands of fertility. But Indra, a man of vision, all round perceptive, saving the land and policy frustrates their designs and maintains national integrity and rests in peace and fearlessness.

इ॒युरथ॑ न न्य॒र्थं परु॑ष्णीमा॒शुश्च॑नद॒भिपि॑त्वं ज॒गाम । सु॒दास॑

9. Īyurartham na nyartham paruṣṇīm-āśuścaneda-bhipitvaṁ jagāma. Sudāsa indraḥ sutukāñ amitrā narandhayan-mānuṣe vadhrivācaḥ.

When Indra, generous ruler and commander equipped fully with assistant forces, overcomes unfriendly powers and evil voices rampant in society and thus reaches his target of correction and achievement in the daily business of life's governance and administration including the optimum means of sustenance and development, the people too realise the ends of his universal policy and achieve their goals of life in definiteness without any delay.

10. Īyurgāvo na yavasādagopā yathākṛtamabhi mitraṁ citāsaḥ. Pr̥śnigāvaḥ pr̥śninipreṣitāsaḥ śruṣṭiṁ cakurniyuto rantayaśca.

Just as cows free from the cowherd rush to the master from the pasture, as friends rush to meet a friend, as people having performed good actions by nature and law advance to receive their prize, and as the sun rays radiate across space and sky to meet the variegated earth, so do the forces of Indra, whether organised in battle order or resting off duty, and the people at peace rally and rush to Indra, the ruler, for service immediately on the clarion call.

11. Ekam ca yo viṁśatiṁ ca śravasyā vaikarṇayor-janān rājā nyastaḥ. Dasmo na sadman ni śiśāti barhiḥ śūraḥ sargam-akṛṇod-indra eṣām.

The ruler, personally resigned and socially committed as a trustee, commanding power and brilliance as Indra, dedicated to the elimination of want and suffering, creates and ministers a senate of twenty and one reputed people over a variety of views and opinions and thus, brave and brilliant as he is, organises the nation into a dynamic social order like a high priest organising and energising the vedi in the house of yajna.

अथ श्रुतं कवषं वृद्धमप्स्वनु दुह्यं नि वृणग्वजबाहुः । वृणाना

12. Adha śrutam kavaṣaṁ vṛddham-apsvanu druhyum ni vṛṇag-vajrabāhuḥ. Vṛṇānā atra sa-khyāya sakhyam tvāyanto ye amadann-anu tvā.

The lord of thunder power and justice engages the scholar, the teacher, the senior and even the jealous critic and opponent into the thick of social action, choosing some positively and others to weed out negativity. Thus they too, O ruler, opt for you, some opting for you as a friend for friendship, and others to be with you and around, but all in order to be happy and joyous in consonance with you.

वि सद्य विश्वा दृंहितान्येषामिन्द्रः पुरः सहसा सप्त ददः ।

13. Vi sadyo viśvā dṛmhitānyeṣāmindraḥ purah sahasā sapta dardaḥ. Vyānavasya trtsave gayam bhāgjeṣma pūrum vidathe mṛdhravācam.

Let the ruler with his enlightened forces always and at the earliest rule out and destroy the sevenfold citadels of these outmoded enemies, and let him serve and support the home and institutions of values anew for the rising people of free thought and action. Let us always realise and win the values of the eternal and liquid flow of the holy voice in our yajnic business of systemic life.

ṣaṭ sahasrā. Śaṣṭirvīrāso adhi ṣaḍ duvoyu viśvedindrasya vīryā kṛtāni.*

All the wondrous deeds of the world are accomplished by Indra, since sixty-six of his brave warriors devoted to their lord, all fervent, new and ferocious fighters dedicated to the land and light, send to eternal sleep sixtysix thousand of his enemies.

इन्द्रेण तृत्सवा वविषाणा आपा न सृष्टा अध्वन्त नीचीः । vanta nīcīḥ. Durmitrāsaḥ prakalavinmimānā

There furious warriors overwhelming the enemy like turbulent waters rushing down hill are the creation of Indra, and they, over-coming and cutting to size the enemies and strategists camouflaged as friends, are prepared to renounce all comforts for the sake of their devotion to the generous master and ruler.

अर्ध वीरस्य शृतपामनिन्दं परा शधन्तं नुनुद अभि ताम ।

16. Ardhaṁ vīrasya śṛtapāmanindram parā śardha-ntaṁ nunude abhi kṣāṁ. Indro manyuṁ manyumyo mimāya bheje patho vartaniṁ patyamānaḥ.

Indra, ruler of the earth, inspires and promotes the person who promotes the brave, prepares ripe inputs for yajnic development, and challenges and eliminates want and dishonour from the world. Being the destroyer of pride and anger, he reduces the proud and angry to zero, and promotes, defends and serves the paths of rectitude and processes of law and justice.

17. Ādhreṇa cit tadvekaṁ cakāra sinhyaṁ cit petvenā jaghāna. Ava sraktīr-veśyāvṛścād-indraḥ prāya-cchad viśvā bhojanā sudāse.

By patience, fortitude and stabilized power, Indra, destroyer of evil and enmity, unites and consolidates the world into one socio-political order. With limited but committed powers of love and creativity, he defeats the tigers of violence and destruction. With pointed advance like the penetration of a needle, he routs deep formations of hostility and opposition. And thus he provides all sustenance and peaceful comfort and prosperity for a happy and generous humanity.

18. Śaśvanto hi śatravo rāradhuṣṭe bhedasya cicchar-dhato vinda randhim. Martāñ enaḥ stuvato yaḥ kṛṇoti tigmaṁ tasmin ni jahi vajra-mindra.

Indra, lord destroyer of division, opposition and hostility, let your persistent enemies be subdued relentlessly. Let the persistent purveyors of division and dissidence be brought to justice. And whoever does evil and violence to the supportive and celebrative people among humanity, strike the sharp and instant bolt of justice upon them.

19. Āvadindram yamunā tṛtsavaśca prātra bhedam sarvatātā muṣāyat. Ajāsaśca śigravo yakṣavaśca balim śīrṣāṇi jabhruraśvyāni.

Let the powers of justice, keepers of law and order and defence guards provide security cover for Indra, ruler of the social order. Let the ruler eliminate all elements of division, dissension and secession from this one, united and universal order of governance and human welfare. And let the weapon launchers, intelligence network using code language, supporting and cooperative yajnic powers of the system bear and offer him the highest loyalty and conduct fastest services of defence and communication for him.

20. Na ta indra sumatayo na rāyaḥ saṁcakṣe pūrvā uṣaso na nūtnāḥ. Devakam cinmānyamānam jaghanthā'va tmanā brhataḥ śambaram bhet.

Indra, lord ruler of power, honour and excellence, like the beauty, blessedness and grandeur of the dawns old and new, your knowledge and wisdom, ethics and policies and your wealth and excellence cannot be described, since you achieve the adorable light of divinity, shatter the pride and pretence of simulated brilliance, and by your innate power and splendour break the greatest and deepest clouds to bring down showers of rain.

By virtue of your blazing glory and showers of generosity, the sage who dispels evils, the warrior who goes forward with a hundred and faces many hundreds, and the host who provides the best shelter and hospitality like mother earth, all who rejoice in the home as well as outside, would never neglect, forget or forsake the kindness and friendship of yours who are the ruler and protector of the world community. And we pray may happy days ever shine upon these brave, learned and generous people.

22. Dve napturdevavataḥ śate gordvā rathā vadhūmantā sudāsaḥ. Arhannagne paijavanasya dānam hoteva sadma paryemi rebhan.

Two hundred cows and two chariots drawn by double motive powers are the gifts of the generous yajamana, grand child of a dynamic, pious and progressive God-fearing yajaka. O Agni, lord and leader of the light and fire of the corporate life of humanity, happily acknowledging, singing and celebrating the gift of the man of peace and progress, I go round the house of yajna with reverence like the high priest and the yajaka myself.

Four-fold gifts of the generous yajamana, grand child of the pious progressive yajaka, golden majestic and moving straight on the right course in life in the most stable manner without jolt or deviation on the earth, bear me like a child of divinity to my grand child for the achievement of honour and excellence.

One whose honour and fame rings in the skies and over the wide earth, whose gifts of generosity are distributed over from person to person of eminence, whom the seven fluent regions of heaven and earth celebrate and glorify like Indra, lord of light and fire and power, and who fights out a war monger in battle close at hand as one would eliminate a disease, such a person and power is fit to be the ruler.

25. Imaṁ naro marutaḥ saścatānu divodāsaṁ na pitaraṁ sudāsaḥ. Aviṣṭanā paijavanasya ketaṁ dūṇāśaṁ kṣatramajaraṁ duvoyu.

O leading lights of humanity and vibrant people of the world in general, join, support and celebrate this generous giver of light and life like the father creator of the generous yajaka and high priest of world yajna, and there by join and integrate with the divine and undecaying social order which is the irresistible will and creation of the gracious lord of peace and forgiveness.

Mandala 7/Sukta 19

Indra Devata, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

Indra, lord commander of weapons sharp and blazing as rays of light, virile, generous and yet fearsome as a bull, is the one supreme who guides, controls, rules and inspires the world community, and he is the one who always is the supporting power of the house and children of the indigent who cannot afford to pay for education and development. O lord, you are the guide and giver of wealth and knowledge to the man dedicated to the yajnic development of humanity.

Indra, brilliant ruler, you govern and strike your thunderbolt of justice and punishment, listen to the voice of the people in the battle business of life and protect the sagely man of judgement and discretion with your force when you fight the demon of drought, punish the selfish exploiter and food polluter and help and arrange for the education of the children of noble mothers all for our sake.

O bold and determined ruler, with all your power and determination and with all your methods and tactics of defence and offence, protect and preserve the assets of the nation acquired, support the commander of services, guard the wielders of high class weapons and protect their families, defend the powers of law and order against crime, and in the battle against want and darkness and for victory in the battle field of defence and development, protect the supply line and citizens of the land.

O wielder of the thunderbolt, those frightful forces of yours which instantly destroy nintynine citadels of want and darkness and hundreds more for the entry of light and justice, pray demolish the unbreakable walls of the forts of impenetrable ignorance, superstition, prejudice, hatred and violence.

O lord of peace, patience and justice, ruler of dynamic powers and people, in this social order of your governance, let us not be exposed to a state of throw away sin and crime. Save us by virtue of the company of non-violent, best and wisest protective people. Let us abide among your dearest favourites and loved ones, among the brave, the wise and the virtuous.

11. Nū indra śūra stavamāna ūtī brahmajūtanvā vāvṛdhasva. Upa no vājān mimīhyupa stīnyūyam pāta svastibhiḥ sadā naḥ.

Indra, wise and brave leader and ruler of the world celebrated in song, exhorting the brave, commanding the defence and protection and the wealth of power, prosperity, food, energy and divine wisdom, grow in body, mind and soul by your body politic, and help us grow as a united commonwealth blest with honour, excellence and prosperity, and let there be no alliances of opposition and enmity against humanity. O lord and leaders of the world, protect and promote us in a state of honourable peace, prosperity and all round well being for all time.

1. Ugro jajñe vīryāya svadhāvāñcakrirapo naryo yat kariṣyan. Jagmiryuvā nṛṣadanam-avobhis-trātā na indra enaso mahaścīt.

Indra, the ruling soul, a great performer blest with innate powers, rises bright and blazing to do great heroic deeds when he undertakes the manly acts he plans to do. Youthful and bold, he goes to the house of the people with his powers of protection as a saviour of us all from great sin and transgression.

2. Hantā vṛtramindraḥ śūśuvānaḥ prāvīnnu vīro jaritāramūtī. Kartā sudāse aha vā u lokam dāta vasu muhurā dāśuṣe bhūt.

Growing and rising, Indra is breaker of the clouds and destroyer of want and darkness of ignorance. The youthful hero protects the dedicated celebrant with his powers of protection. He is the creator of a beautiful world for the man of service and charity and he is the giver of wealth again and again to the generous man of charity and gratitude to Divinity.

4. Ubhe cidindra rodasī mahitvā' 'paprātha taviṣī-bhis-tuviṣmaḥ. Ni vajramindro harivān mimikṣantsamandhasā madeṣu vā uvoca.

Mighty Indra with his splendour and irresistible forces pervades both earth and sky by the strength of his presence felt all round. Wielding his thunderbolt of justice, protection and correction, commanding humanity and mixing with the people by perceptible presence as well as social gatherings over joyous celebrations, he maintains his dialogue with them.

5. Vṛṣā jajāna vṛṣaṇam raṇāya tamu cinnāri naryam sasūva. Pra yaḥ senānīradha nṛbhyo astīnaḥ satvā gaveṣaṇaḥ sa dhṛṣṇuḥ.

Him the omnipotent generous father begets, and him the supreme creative mother nature bears and nurtures as the mighty, virile and generous leader for the battle of humanity for a full joyous life on earth, the mighty ruler Indra who then rises as the commander of armies and glorious protector promoter of the world community: brave and true, seeker of truth and the divine Word of nature, the ruler irresistible for the people.

Never does that person waver or go astray, never does he fail or face disaster, never does he hurt anyone, who obeys and serves the venerable thought and will of this awesome master. Whoever reposes his trust and prayers by love, self-sacrifice and yajna in him abides in peace for the achievement of wealth, honour and excellence, serving truth and rising in stature in truth and divine law.

What the former generation teaches and bequeathes to the next, and what the elder generation may learn and obtain from the younger one as a valuable gift, and that immortal wealth of life far out of sense, experience and time, O lord sublime, that sits eternal, O lord of omniscience and omnipotence, Indra, bear and bring us, that wondrous, super existential wealth and vision of life.

Indra, lord ruler of the world over clouds and mountains, whoever the person that pays homage to you, may he be dear to you as a friend in the open honest business of living. In this social order of goodwill and human welfare of the lord of love and grace free from violence, let us live in peace at home blest with sustenance and security in comfort and divine grace.

Indra, lord giver of energy and vitality, sustain us and those who join you vitally and spiritually for the gift of energy and pranic vitality in contact with universal energy. May your universal vitality be the harbinger of universal wealth, honour and excellence for the celebrant. O lord and divinities, all time protect and promote us with success, prosperity and good fortune all round.

1. Asāvi devaṃ goṛjīkamandho nyasminn-indro januṣemuvōca. Bodhāmasi tvā haryaśva yajñairbodhā naḥ stomam-andhaso madeṣu.

Distilled is the spirit of life, divine, brilliant, the very essence of earth and nature's energy. Let Indra, the ruling lord of life, by his very nature and origin, join and address the assembly and make it resound. O lord of instant powers and faculties, we invoke and invite you by our yajnic adorations. Join us in the ecstasy of our celebration and inspire our congregation to awake into enlightenment.

2. Pra yanti yajñam vipayanti barhiḥ somamādo vidathe dudhravācaḥ. Nyu bhriyante yaśaso grbhādā dūra-upabdo vṛṣaṇo nṛṣācaḥ.

Lovers of soma ecstasy march forward to join the yajna of the social order, their shouts of joy resounding to the skies. The brave and generous leaders of the nation move forward from the home, with resounding proclamations bearing vibrations of their characteristic home and fame, to join the assembly.

3. Tvamindra sravitavā apaskaḥ pariṣṭhitā ahinā śūra pūrvīḥ. Tvad vāvakre rathyo na dhenā rejante viśvā krtrimāṇi bhīṣā.

And you Indra, leader and ruler, set aflow the natural voice and energies of the nation otherwise withheld from expression by diffidence, fear and darkness of ignorance. Freed by you, the energies of the nation flow freely into action like words of eloquence directed to a definite purpose like streams flowing to the sea and chariot horses directed to a destination, and then all artificial creations of fear tremble like fear itself.

4. Bhīmo viveṣāyudhebhir-eṣāmapāṁsi viśvā naryāṇi vidvān. Indraḥ puro jarhṛṣāṇo vi dūdhodvi vajrahasto mahinā jaghāna.

Indra, formidable scholar and fearsome warrior, enters with his weapons of offence and defence and inspires all the will and actions of the people which are in the interest of humanity and which are humanly possible. Happy and rejoicing, wielding the thunderbolt of power and justice in hand, he shakes to naught the strongholds of evil, sin and crime with his grandeur.

5. Na yātava indra jūjuvurno na vandanā śaviṣṭha vedyābhiḥ. Sa śardhadaryo viṣuṇasya jantormā śīśnadevā api gurṛtaṁ naḥ.

Indra, lord most potent, let not the wicked and violent approach and hurt us. Let them not affect our holy works in spite of their tactics worth knowing though they be. O noble lord, control and nullify the various and disorderly people. Let not the sensual and licentious sex slaves vitiate our moral conduct and rectitude.

6. Abhi kratvendra bhūradha jman na te vivyaṁ mahimānaṁ rajāṁsi. Svenā hi vṛtraṁ śavasā jaghantha na śatrurantaṁ vividat yudhā te.

Indra, lord of splendour, by your own strength overthrow the enemies of humanity on earth. They do not know the greatness and glory of your powers. By your innate powers you destroy the demon of darkness, want and ignorance. O mighty warrior, the enemies do not realise the expanse of your power and grandeur.

7. Devāscit te asuryāya pūrve'nu kṣatrāya mamire sahaṁsi. Indro maghāni dayate viṣahyendram vājasya johuvanta sātau.

Indra, ruling power of the world, brilliant divines, scholars and scientists of veteran eminence value your courage and bold actions in the field of energy and spirituality for the development, prosperity and well being of the social order. Having faced challenges with patience and fortitude, Indra commands and shares powers, privileges and prosperity, and the people invoke and support him for leadership in their struggle for peace, prosperity and progress. Therein lies honour and victory.

For protection and advancement, the devotee calls upon you, Indra, lord ruler and giver of abundant power and prosperity, honour and excellence. O lord of a hundred protective powers, be the guardian, protector and saviour of our abundant power and prosperity. And our guardian and protector against the challenging enemy too, may, we pray, be brave as you.

Indra, lord of life and majesty, hold us all, sustain us all, all the blessed souls who by their sincere devotion enjoy the glory of your favour and grace so that we may continue to enjoy the strength and success granted by you. May your power and grace be the source of wealth and excellence for the celebrant. All you divinities of nature and humanity, protect and promote us for all time with all freedom and security.

1. Pibā somamindra mandtu tvā yaṁ te suṣāva haryaśvādriḥ. Soturbāhubyām suyato nārvā.

Indra, lord ruler and controller of the dynamic forces of the world, drink this soma of ecstasy which, I am sure, would exhilarate you. The cloud, generative power of nature, has distilled it and showered on you. And just as a horse well controlled by the hands and reins of the driver moves to the right destination, so is this soma generated by the hands of the creator meant to exhort you to take the dominion to its destination.

can they surpass, equal or even comprehend your power and potential or your munificence.

I ride the chariot of worship in pursuit of the light of truth harnessing the two carriers of mind and intellect alongwith the senses. My prayers reach the lord of love who accepts the supplicant with grace. The lord pervades both heaven and earth with his might, prevents evil, and destroys the demons of sin and darkness which we cannot even perceive with our human eyes of ordinary vision.

Indra, lord of light and action, just as waters flow and rays of light radiate over darkness, so let your celebrants, men of holy action, rise and attain to the light of truth. O lord of the cosmic chariot, come like the wind to your servants of action with grace since you bless us with mercy and with gifts of intelligence, vision and the light of divinity.

of action settled and settlers at peace with homage and adorations celebrate Indra, lord ruler and commander of world forces, giver of showers of joy and wielder of thunder arms for the world order. The lord commands forces of the youthful brave and prosperity of the world's commonwealth. Praised and celebrated thus, may the lord protect and promote us. O lord, and O men of vision and potent action, protect and promote us all time with all modes of happiness and well being.

Indra, friendly ruler, lover of divinity and the best things of life, commanding the best of assistants, blest with a gracious personality, come to us with all the means of protection and progress for us, bringing showers of strength, honour and excellence for the nation and warding off all opponent forces, come supported by the wisest veterans of the land.

5. Eṣa stomo maha ugrāya vāhe dhurīvātyo na vājayannadhāyi. Indra tvāyamarka īṭṭe vasūnām divīva dyāmadhi naḥ śromataṁ dhāḥ.

This inspiring song of felicitation and this vibrant institution of governance is created and offered to Indra, great and brilliant lord ruler and sustainer of the world, like the leading power of the nation's chariot. O lord Indra, this supplicant and celebrant prays to you for the gift of wealth, honour and excellence for the nation. Pray raise our honour and fame to the regions of bliss over the sky and light of the sun.

Likewise O lord of excellence, Indra, destroyer of suffering, bless us with abundant good fortune of the choicest order. Grant us the great favour of your love and good will. Protect and promote the honour, energy and sustenance of the nation blest with youthful brave for the noble people. O lord and veterans of the world, protect and advance us with the peace, prosperity and all round well being for all time.

1. Ā te maha indrotyugra samanyavo yat samaranta senāḥ. Patāti didyunnaryasya bāhvormā te mano viṣvadryagvi cārīt.

Indra, blazing lord of glory and illustrious commander of the forces of defence and protection, when your armies impassioned by ardent zeal march forward, the thunderbolt in your hands, O magnificent leader of humanity, flashing and blazing, falls upon the enemy. O lord, your mind instantly traversing over spaces otherwise, would never ramble from us but hit the target.

2. Ni durga indra śnathihiyamitrānabhi ye no martāso amanti. Āre taṁ śaṁsaṁ kṛṇuhi ninitso-rā no bhara sambharaṇaṁ vasūnām.

Indra, lord destroyer of want and suffering, strike upon the strongholds of the enemies and break down the hostilities of mortals that afflict us with violence and disease. Throw out far off that curse and calumny of the malevolent and bring us fulfilment with abundance of health, wealth, honour and excellence of life.

3. Śataṁ te śiprinnūṭayaḥ sudāse sahasraṁ śamsā uta rātirastu. Jahi vadharvanuṣo martyasyā'sme dymnamadhi ratnaṁ ca dhehi.

O lord of golden helmet, hundreds be your favours and protections for the man of generosity, thousands your blessings and gifts of grace. Destroy the weapons of death in the hands of the violent mortal and vest us with that wealth, honour and excellence of life which is the supreme jewel of existence.

4. Tvāvato hīndra kratve asmi tvāvato'vituḥ śūra rātau. Viśvedahāni taviṣīva ugraṁ okaḥ kṛṇuṣva harivo na mardhīh.

Indra, mighty lord beyond fear, in submission to your will, I abide in holy action and pray for the gift of your protection and grace. O lord illustrious of blazing power, pray dwell in my heart for ever. Forsake us not, O lord of tempestuous forces.

5. Kutsā ete haryaśvāya śūṣamindre saho devajū-tamiyānāḥ. Satrā kṛdhi suhanā śūra vṛtrā vayan tarutrāḥ sanuyāma vājam.

All these arms and armaments of thunder power, all the sagely people who have come to peace and power, patience and fortitude inspired by divinities for the attainment of honour and excellence: all these are dedicated to Indra, lord ruler of vibrant powers and people of the world. O lord giver of freedom from fear and violence, make it easy for us to dispel the evil and darkness of life. Let us be victors of light over ignorance and darkness and cross over the seas to the realms of bliss.

Thus O lord Indra, bless us with honour and excellence of our choice in abundance. Let us have the divine bliss of your love and good will. Sustain and promote food, energy and knowledge for the noble people blest with youthful and brave warriors of freedom. O lord, O noble people, O saints and sages, O youthful brave, protect and promote us with all modes of good fortune and well being for ever.

Mandala 7/Sukta 26

Indra Devata, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

न साम इन्द्रमसुता ममाद् नाब्रह्मणा मघवानं सुतासः ।
तस्मा उक्थं जनय यज्जुष ष इव वीयः शृण्वद्यथा

1. Na soma indramasuto mamāda nābrahmāṇo maghavānaṁ sutāsaḥ. Tasmā ukthaṁ janaye yajjujoṣan-nrvannavīyaḥ śṛṇavad yathā naḥ.

Undistilled soma does not please Indra, lord of humanity. Nor do distillations of soma unsanctified by divine chants of Veda satisfy the lord of power and divinity. Therefore I create and compose the latest song of adoration with Vedic vision with the distillation so that the lord may listen and accept our homage of soma with pleasure.

उक्थउक्थ साम इन्द्रं ममाद नीथनीथ मघवानं सुतासः ।
यदीं सुबाधः पितरं न पुत्राः समानद ॥ अवस हवन्त ॥ २ ॥

2. Uktha-ukthe soma indram mamāda nīthenīthe maghavānaṁ sutāsaḥ. Yādīm sabādhaḥ pitaraṁ na putrāḥ samānadakṣā avase havante.

With every chant of song divine, the soma pleases Indra. At every stage of adoration, at every step of the song, the draughts of soma exhilarate the lord. For this reason, surely, eager supplicants, equally proficient, invoke and offer homage to the lord for protection and progress like children approaching parents with love to have their blessings.

चकार ता कृण्वतु नमन्या यानि बुवन्ति वधसः सुतषु ।

3. Cakāra tā kṛṇavannūnamanyā yāni bruvanti vedhasaḥ suteṣu. Janīriva patirekaḥ samāno ni māmrje pura indraḥ su sarvāḥ.

What the sages and scholars say and proclaim in matters of science and development of soma, let the pursuant follow and do even more, and just as the ruler protector and sustainer looks after the people and the father looks after the children by himself equally well, so should Indra first and foremost look after and refine the development of knowledge and all the pursuers.

4. Evā tamāhuruta śṛṇva indra eko vibhaktā taraṇirmaghānām. Mithastura Ūtayo yasya pūrvīrasme bhadraṇi saścata priyāṇi.

Only Indra they celebrate in holy words. Only of him do we hear, that he is the giver of all power, progress, honour and excellence and he alone is the saviour and protector. Instant and unfailing are his powers and forces of protection and defence, unbreakable as ever. May all dear and cherished good things of life come to us by the lord's kindness and grace.

5. Evā vasiṣṭha indramūtaye nṛṇ kṛṣṭīnām vṛṣabham sute gṛṇāti. Sahasriṇa upa no māhi vājān yūyam pāta svastibhiḥ sadā naḥ.

Thus does the ardent sage settled in peace and wisdom celebrate Indra, the soul and generous ruler of the world and leading lights of humanity for the sake of defence and protection in the social order of the lord's creation. May the lord bring us a thousand fold honour and excellence in food, sustenance and knowledge. O lord and leaders, protect and promote us with all your gifts of good fortune and all round well being as ever.

Leading people call upon Indra, lord ruler of the world, in their serious struggles of life and pray for those concentrative faculties of mind and intelligence by which they can join the divine presence and win their goal. The lord is the brave, generous and fearless leader of humanity in their corporate life, lover of strength and inspirer of heroic souls. O lord, give us the grace of your divine presence and lead us in our development of lands and cows and in our plans of education, enlightenment and our vision of the divine Word.

2. Ya indra śuṣmo maghavan te asti śikṣā sakhibhyaḥ puruhūta nṛbhyaḥ. Tam hi dṛḷhā maghavan vicetā apā vṛdhi parivṛtaṁ na rādhaḥ.

Indra, lord of power, honour and excellence, that strength and power of yours for which you are invoked by all humanity, pray give us, your friends and leaders of a free world. O lord of honour and majesty, unshakable lord of universal vision and knowledge, remove the cover of darkness and open out our potential like a hidden treasure revealed.

3. Indro rājā jagataścarṣaṇīnāmadhi kṣami viṣurūpaṁ yadasti. Tato dadāti dāśuṣe vasūni codad rādha upastutaścidarvāk.

Indra is the sovereign ruler of the moving world and her people on the earth. Whatever various and manifold wealth there is on the earth, he alone is the master ruler. And therefrom he gives profusely of wealth, honour and excellence to the generous man of charity, inspires our potential strength and success, and when he is closely adored in meditation, he reveals his presence to our direct vision and experience.

4. Nū cinna indro maghavā sahūtī dāno vājaṁ ni yamate na ūtī. Anūnā yasya dakṣiṇā pīpāya vāmaṁ nṛbhyo abhivītā sakhibhyaḥ.

Surely Indra, lord of honour and glory, is the generous and instant giver on invocation and prayer. He gives sustenance, protection and progress, and he controls and guides our advance to victory in life. Boundless is his grace which ever inspires and promotes our will and action, and it is freely available to people who seek his love and friendship.

Indra, generous lord of munificence, we turn ourselves to you seeking your love and kindness to achieve the honour and treasures of life. Pray open the paths of advancement for us to wealth and victory of lands and cows, horses and chariots of the good life. O lord, O leading lights, be gracious and protect and promote us with all good fortune and well being for ever.

Indra, lord omniscient, all pervasive in the world, come, listen to our prayer, let the horses harnessed to your chariot be directed hitherward to us. All people of the world without exception invoke you. Pray listen to our prayer and bring us the gifts of Divinity.

O lord of might, since you protect and preserve the voice of the seers of divine vision, your grandeur vests in the holy voice and holy projects of humanity. Awful lord of blazing lustre, when you wield the thunderbolt in hand in a state of divine passion for action you rise invincible for any power of the world.

Indra, by your ethics and policy you guide the leading lights of humanity and those called upon to duty as you light up the earth and space, and thus surely by nature and character you rise to the mighty power of the governance of the great social order. Truly the mighty and the dynamic govern and guide the weak who need protection.

4. Ebhirna indrāhabhir-daśasya durmitrāso hi kṣitayaḥ pavante. Prati yaccaṣṭe anṛtamanenā ava dvitā varuṇo māyī naḥ sāt.

Indra, lord ruler of the world, in these few days bless us that the evil in friends be purged and they become good citizens. O lord, if the man of judgement and discrimination were to see untruth and false conduct, then he, Varuna, with justice and power, may cause it to be reduced to half and then purged off.

We speak and sing, thus, of Indra, this lord of power, honour and excellence who gives us great wealth and further capacity for success and victory and who accepts homage as the most loving protector of the worshipper. O lord, may you and your divine forces protect and promote us with all gifts of good fortune and well being for all time.

What is the honour and pleasure we can do by our songs of adoration to your grace? O lord of glory, what can we offer and when in homage to you? All thoughts, imagination and songs we offer are but an extension of your grace in adoration of your honour. So, O lord, only listen to these songs of adoration and be pleased.

Such is Indra, glorious lord of knowledge and power whom we celebrate in song. He gives us the grandeur and abundance of wealth, honour and excellence and the competence for higher and higher success. And he loves and accepts the homage and adorations of the celebrant supplicant of divinity. O lord, O visionaries, poets and teachers, protect and promote us with all modes of honour and well being for all time.

Indra, lord divine, generous and most potent ruler, come to us with strength and power and be the promoter of this commonwealth. O lord ordainer of humanity, heroic wielder of the thunderbolt of defence and order of law and justice, come for the rise of this great social order, for wealth and splendour and for the manly character, courage and vigour of the nation.

In their discussions, debates or differences of opinion, in matters of language and education, in their heart of hearts and in all organisational bodies of the common wealth, and in their struggles for light, enlightenment and brilliance of the order, brave and fearless leaders of the nation call upon you, the real adorable leader. You are the leader and commander among all powers and forces of humanity. O leader and commander, Indra, expose all strongholds of darkness and negation, eliminate all evil and wickedness, for there is no evil too difficult for you to destroy.

Indra, generous lord ruler of glory, brave and fearless leader of the nation, we are yours and we stand for you, and so are all those who praise and celebrate the giver and creator of wealth and excellence for all. Pray give to the learned and the wise a good home, sustenance and security worthy of them, noble seniors they are in their own right, moving on forward to a whole fulfilled life.

You are great and glorious, Indra, and accordingly your courage and fortitude is great. The abundant heaven and fertile earth both acknowledge your grandeur.

8. Taṁ tvā marutvatī pari bhuvad vāṇī sayāvarī.
Nakṣamāṇā saha dyubhiḥ.

The voice of admiration, expression of your essential nature and power, raised by vibrant humanity, reaching you incessantly with the light and truth of your power and performance, may ever abide around you.

सं तं नमन्त कृष्टयः ॥ ९ ॥

9. Ūrdhvāśastvānvindavo bhuvan dasmamupa dyavi. saṁ te namanta kṛṣṭayaḥ.

People of the world together in unison bow to you in homage and subsequently joyous voices of admiration rise for you, mighty lord destroyer of enemies, like mists of soma unto the heights of heaven.

10. Pra vo mahe mahivṛdhe bharadhvaṁ pracetase pra sumatiṁ kṛṇudhvam. Viśaḥ pūrvīḥ pra carā carṣaṇiprāḥ.

Bear and bring homage, assistance and cooperation and offer positive thoughts and advice to Indra, your leader and ruler. Great is he, promoter of great people and the common wealth, and a leader wide-awake with deep and distant foresight. O leader and ruler of the land, be good to the settled ancient people and take care of the farming communities and other professionals so that all feel happy and fulfilled without frustration.

11. Uruvyacase mahine suvṛktim-indrāya brahma janayanta viprāḥ. Tasya vratāni na minanti dhīrāḥ.

To the great Indra, the ruler widely perceptive and all aware, vibrant people of the land, the learned and the wise with a sense of dynamism, all offer homage, rooting out dead wood, planting new saplings, generating new forms of sustenance and energy, and creating new forms of appreciating and realising the eternal spirit. And they, people of constancy and settled mind, never violate the laws and discipline of the lord's Eternal Law.

12. Indraṁ vāṇīr-anuttamanyum-eva satrā rājānaṁ dadhire sahadhyai. Haryaśvāya barhayā samāpīn.

All voices of the people, all sessions of yajnic programmes of action, uphold and support only the brilliant ruler, Indra of constant vision and passion, in order to maintain the social order of governance without obstruction. O friends and citizens of the land, exhort your people in support of Indra, leader of the dynamic nation of humanity.

Mandala 7/Sukta 32

Indra Devata, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

मा षु त्वा वाघतश्चना र अस्मि रीरमन ।
आरात्ताच्चित्सधमादं न आ गहीह वा स गुप श्रुधि ॥ १ ॥

1. Mo ṣu tvā vāghataścanā're asmanni rīraman. Ārāttāccit sadhamādaṁ na ā gahīha vā sannupaśrudhi.

Let not your worshippers be far away from us, nor let them detain you. Come to our house of celebration from the farthest distance even, and when you are here, listen to our songs of celebration and divine adoration.

इम हि तं ब्रह्मकृतः सुत सचा मधा न म ॥ आसत ।

इन्द्र कामं जरितार' वसूयवा रथ न पादमा दधुः ॥ २ ॥

2. Ime hi te brahmakṛtaḥ sute sacā madhau na makṣa āsate. Indre kāmam jaritāro vasūyāvo rathe na pādama dadhuḥ.

When the celebrants have distilled and seasoned the soma of homage and worship for Indra, ruler of the social order of governance, they sit together like bees clustering round honey. The celebrants dedicated to the honour and prosperity of the ruling order place their trust and faith in Indra, the ruler and the law of governance, like travellers who place their foot on the step and ride the chariot to reach their goal.

रायस्कीमा वज्रहस्तं सुदक्षिणं पुत्रा न पितरं हुव ॥ ३ ॥

3. Rāyaskāmo vajrahastaṁ sudakṣiṇaṁ putro na pitarāṁ huve.

Dedicated to the honour and prosperity of the human nation, and keen to realise the excellence of life for myself too, I invoke generous Indra, lord ruler of the world, wielder of the thunderbolt of defence and protection in hand as keeper of the law and justice of the order of governance. I invoke him like a child yearning for the father for his generosity.

इम इन्द्राय सुन्विर् सामासा दध्याशिरः ।

4. Ima indrāya sunvire somāso dadhyāśiraḥ. Tāñ ā madāya vajrahasta pītaye haribhyām yāhyoka ā.

These somas of the nation's honour and excellence energised by the ferment of inspiration and enthusiasm have been distilled to celebrate the dignity and majesty of the land and the ruler Indra. O lord wielder of the thunderbolt, come to our hall of fame for the joy of a drink of them. Come fast by the chariot drawn by horses of the winds.

श्रवच्छ्रुत्कण इयत् वसूनां नू चि ॥ मधिषद गिरः ।

5. Śravac-chrutkarṇa īyate vasūnām nū cinno mardhiṣad girah. Sadyaścid yaḥ sahasrāṇi śatā dadan-nakir-ditsantam-ā minat.

The lord has a keen ear to listen to the supplicant. He listens, therefore he is approached for the gift of wealth, honour and excellence. May the lord never ignore our prayers, may he, instead, soften and sanctify our supplications. Indeed, instant giver of a hundred thousand gifts of good fortune as he is, no one can withhold him when he extends his hand of generosity.

6. Sa vīro apratiṣkuta indreṇa śūśuve nr̥bhiḥ. Yaste gabhīrā savanāni vṛtrahant-sunotyā ca dhāvati.

He who approaches you, does your behest and performs the serious assignments given by you, O destroyer of evil, he goes forward bold and unshaken, and, exhorted by leading men, rises under the protection of Indra.

भवा वरूथं मघवन्मघानां यत्समजासि शध'तः ।

7. Bhavā varūtham maghavan maghonām yat samajāsi śardhataḥ. Vi tvāhatasya vedanam bhajemahyā dūṇāśo bharā gayam.

O lord of power and glory, be the shelter home and all round protector of those who wield, control and rule the wealth and honour of the nation — you who impel and inspire the bold and daring, and humble the defiant. Let us share the knowledge and learn from the painful experience of those who have been punished by you. O lord indestructible, bless our home and give us fulfilment.

8. Sunotā somapāvne somam-indrāya vajriṇe. Pacatā paktīravase kṛṇudhvamit pṛṇannit pṛṇate mayah.

Extract, mature and prepare the nectar of life for the lord, Indra, wielder of the thunderbolt of justice and punishment and destroyer of evil, who loves the soma spirit of life's beauty and joy. Ripen and perfect the drinks and drugs for health care and protection of life, and create the state of comfort and well being, giving success and fulfilment for those who work for the joy and fulfilment of all in general.

मा स्रधत सामिना द ता मह कृणुध्वं राय आतुज ।

9. Mā sredhata somino dakṣatā mahe kṛṇudhvaṁ rāya ātuje. Taraṇir-ijjayati kṣeti puṣyati na devāsaḥ kavatnave.

Relent not, O makers of soma. Hurt not the lovers of soma. Perfect the nectar for life's grandeur, strengthen the makers for the beauty and glory of life. Work on and on for the growth of life and for the strong defence of life's vitality. The one that runs wins the race, lives in peace as well as provides for peace and security, grows and contributes to growth. The brilliant and generous are not for the lazy, the miser and the selfish.

नकिः सुदासा रथं पयास न रीरमत ।

10. Nakiḥ sudāso rathaṁ paryāsa na rīramat. Indro yasyāvitā yasya maruto gamat sa gomati vraje.

No one can counter turn the chariot of the generous nor stop it for rest or entertainment. The rider whose patron is Indra, destroyer of obstructions, and Maruts, vibrant defenders of life, stops not until he reaches the goal where abides the treasure of his love and ambition.

गमद्वाजं वाजयिन्द्र मत्या यस्य त्वमविता भुवः ।

11. Gamad vājaṁ vājayann-indra martyo yasya tvam-avitā bhuvaḥ. Asmākaṁ bodhyavitā rathānām-asmākaṁ śūra nṛṇām.

Indra, lord of light and life, the mortal whose guardian protector you are runs the race and reaches the victory post of enlightenment. O lord of might and fearlessness, take care of us too, enlighten us and be the guardian protector of our chariots and our people.

उदि वस्य रिच्यतं शा धनं न जिग्युषः ।

12. Udinnvasya ricyateñ'so dhanam na jigyuṣaḥ. Ya indro harivān na dabhanti taṁ ripo dakṣaṁ dadhāti somini.

High rises the victor's share of excellence as his wealth of life increases when Indra, guardian protector of the brave, vests his love of victory and soma-sublimity with the will and expertise of yajnic living. And then no enemies can ever defeat and destroy him.

मन्त्रमखर्व सुधितं सुपशंसं दधात यज्ञियष्वा ।

13. Mantram-akharvaṁ sudhitaṁ supeśasaṁ dadhāta yajñiyeṣvā. Pūrvīścana prasitayas-taranti taṁ ya indre karmanā bhuvat.

Offer perfect, well structured and graceful mantric thoughts, adorations and actions to the divinities in yajnic programmes of creativity and development. Then even the oldest bounds of will and passion take the yajaka across the seas who dedicates his actions to the service of Indra.

कस्तमिन्द्र त्वावसुमा मत्या दधषति ।

14. Kastamindra tvāvasumā martyo dadharṣati. Śraddhā it te maghavan pārye divi vājī vājaṁ siṣāsati.

Indra, lord ruler of the world, who can assail that mortal who wholly lives under the shade and shelter of your protection? O lord of the wealth and power of existence, whoever reposes his faith and dynamism in you as the sole saviour and pilot while he is in action receives his share of victory in the light of divinity.

15. Maghonaḥ sma vṛtrahatyēṣu codaya ye dadati priyā vasu. Tava praṇīti haryaśva sūribhirviśvā tarema duritā.

O lord commander of world forces, in the battles against darkness, want and evil, inspire those leaders of wealth, honour and power who contribute to world service in the manner dear to you. O ruler of the dynamics of nations, we pray, may we, along with the wise and the fearless, cross over all evils of the world under the guidance of your ethics, morals and policy in matters of universal values.

16. Tavedindrāvamam vasu tvaṁ puṣyasi madhyamam. Satrā viśvasya paramasya rājasi nakiṣṭvā goṣu vṛṇvate.

Indra, you protect, promote and rule over the lower orders of wealth of the world. You promote and rule over the middle order of the world's wealth. And you rule and shine over wealth of the highest order of the world. You are the true and the eternal power. No one can resist you among the lands and lights of the world. Who would not accept you?

17. Tvaṁ viśvasya dhanadā asi śruto ya īm bhavantyājayah. Tavāyaṁ viśvaḥ puruhūta pārthivo 'vasyurnāma bhikṣate.

You are the wealth giver of the world, universally heard and acclaimed, universally invoked in all battles of the world that there are, since the whole humanity on earth in search of protection looks up to you and prays for sustenance and progress.

18. Yadindra yāvatas-tvametāvad-ahamīśīya. Stotāramid didhiṣeya radāvaso na pāpatvāya rāsiya.

Indra, lord ruler of the world, giver of wealth and excellence, as much as you grant, so much I wish I should control and rule. I would hold it only to support the devotees of divinity and would not spend it away for those who indulge in sin and evil.

शि 'य॒मिन्म॑ह॒यत॑ दि॒वदि॑व रा॒य आ कु॑ह॒चिद्वि॑द ।

19. Śikṣeyaminmahayate divedive rāya ā kuhacid-vide. Nahi tvadanyanmaghavan na āpyaṁ vasyo asti pitā cana.

Every day I would wish to give wealth and support for the person who seeks to rise for enlightenment wherever he be. O lord of wealth, power and honour, there is none other than you worthy of love and attainment as our own, as father indeed.

तरणिरित्सिषासति वाजं पुरन्ध्या युजा ।

20. Taraṇirit siṣāsati vājaṁ purandhyā yujā. Ā va indraṁ puruhūtaṁ name girā nemiṁ taṣṭeva sudrvam.

Only the saviour, a person of dynamic will and action joined in the soul with a controlled and dedicated mind, would share wealth and knowledge with the people and distribute it over the deserving. With words of prayer I bow to Indra, the ruler invoked by you all and draw his attention to you just like the carpenter bending flexible wood round as felly of the wheel. (The lord is flexible too, his heart melts with sympathy for the people.)

21. Na duṣṭutī martyo vindate vasu na sredhantaṁ rayirnaśat. Suśaktirinmaghavan tubhyaṁ māvate deṣṇaṁ yat pārye divi.

By protest and violence the mortal does not win the wealth of life. Nor does wealth oblige the inactive and malevolent. O lord of honour and excellence, right competence dedicated to Divinity is your gift for a person like me which is good on the day of the cross over.

O lord almighty, we adore you and wait for your blessings as lowing cows not yet milked wait for the master. Indra, lord of glory, you are ruler of the moving world and you are ruler of the unmoving world and your vision is bliss.

There is none other like you, neither heavenly nor earthly, neither born nor yet to be born. O lord of power and glory, we invoke you and pray for veteran scholars, dynamic scientists and technologists and the light of the divine Word of knowledge.

Indra, lord of honour, power and excellence, you are the eternal lord of universal wealth and shelter home of all existence, invoked and worshipped in all challenging situations. Pray bring us the knowledge and experience of that essence of ultimate reality which is smaller than the smallest and greater than the greatest.

परा णुदस्व मघव मित्रान्त्सुवदा न वसू कृधि ।

25. Parā ṇudasva maghavann-amitrānt-suvedā no vasū kṛdhi. Asmākaṁ bodhyavitā mahādhane bhavā vṛdhaḥ sakhīnām.

Lord of wealth, honour, power and excellence, treasure home of glory and grandeur, throw off the enemies far away. Give us the wealth of life. Give us the knowledge and awakenment for good living. Be our saviour and protector in the strife of existence which is otherwise too great for us. Be the promoter of all friendly forces.

Bring us the divine vision, will and intelligence as father does for his children. O lord universally invoked and worshipped, instruct us as a teacher at this present time so that we, ordinary souls, may have the new light of life and living experience of Divinity.

27. Mā no ajñātā vṛjanā durādhyo māśivāso ava kramuḥ. Tvayā vayanṁ pravataḥ śaśvatīrapo 'ti śūra tarāmasi.

O lord almighty beyond fear, let not the ignorant and unknown, crooked intriguers, evil designers, and malevolent opponents in ambush attack us on way to you. May we, guided, directed and protected by you, cross the universal streams of life rushing down the slopes of time.

1. Śvityañco mā dakṣiṇatas-kapardā dhiyañjin-vāso abhi hi pramanduh. Uttiṣṭhan voce pari barhiṣo nṛn na me dūrādavitate vasiṣṭhāḥ.

Celibate disciples of the first order of scholars wearing locks of hair on the right side, settled for studies to collect knowledge for intellectual advancement come from far to study under my care and give me delight. I arise from my seat of grass, speak to them and speak of them as leading lights of the future.

From far off and in view of their achievement in preference to others', they invite and bring over Indra, pioneer of knowledge and power and strong supporter of people settled in peace, and Indra agrees and accepts the invitation of the aspiring scholars in recognition of the progress and prosperity of the producers of wealth, scholarship of the learned and the governance and justice of the organisers.

(The mantra points to the free movement of scholars and specialists across the globe for advancement of knowledge and culture on the international level.)

3. Evannu kaṁ sindhumbhistatārevenu kaṁ bhedamebhirjaghāna. Evennu kaṁ dāśarājñe sudāsaṁ prāvadindro brahmaṇā vo vasiṣṭhāḥ.

This way, for sure, Indra, leader of knowledge and power, crosses with ease any river of difficulty by virtue of these scholars. This way too he easily overcomes difference, division and disunity. This way, again, O scholars and leaders settled at peace, by your vision, wisdom and mantric formulae, he defends and promotes generous rules for the advancement of good government and administration.

O leading lights of the nation, by your vision, wisdom and active homage, the tradition of the ancients is preserved and happily advanced. Therefore, never for any reason, obstruct the relentless wheel of the nation and never disturb the inviolable equilibrium of forces which, O leading lovers of peace, by your reverberating words and heroic action in the great battles of humanity, you vested in the nation and its governance as the centre of stability.

The leading lights of the nation, selected and duly appointed, thirsting to cross over the hurdles of life, shine and glorify the generous ruler like the sun for the advancement of the liberal order for the people. Let Indra, enlightened ruler, listen to the leading lights and scholars and create vast and brilliant channels and possibilities for the defence and developmental forces of the nation.

Let the pioneers and bearers of the burdens of social order be straight and strong like the sceptre of authority, eloquent and progressive in language, education and culture, definite and judicious in law and policy and youthful in energy. Let the leader of these, wise and stable in mind, be ever first and foremost in the advance specially of the people and of the defence and development forces.

O holy sage of knowledge, peace and power, sun and moon, heat and air, virility and fertility, pranic energies, receive and bear you when, as light of life you leave your sojourn in nature. That is one birth of yours. Then Agastya, the teacher scholar free from sin and stain brings you back to the community of people (as a complete and finished human being, i.e., dvija).

Vasishtha, sage and scholar, living soul, you are a child of sun and moon, born of the heart of Mother Nature nurtured by mother knowledge. Like a drop of distilled soma, all divine powers of the world nourish you in the lotus cradle on celestial wealth of food for vitality and light for knowledge.

13. Satre ha jātāviṣitā namobhiḥ kumbhe retah siṣi-catuḥ samānam. Tato ha māna udiyāya madhyā-ttato jātam-ṛṣim-āhur-vasiṣṭham.

Inspired teachers and scholars risen to eminence over yajnic sessions of teaching relentlessly feed the disciples with gifts of vital knowledge, and from that rises the faithful scholar and sage whom they call Vasishtha, brilliant seer and visionary.

14. Ukthabhṛtaṁ sāmabhṛtaṁ bibharti grāvāṇaṁ bibhrat pra vadātyagre. Upainamādhvaṁ sumanasyamānā ā vo gacchāti pratṛdo vasiṣṭhaḥ.

O men of noble mind and heart, the brilliant sage who bears the knowledge of Rgveda and Samaveda and who commands the secrets of yajna relating to the clouds and mountains for rain, and who proclaims the knowledge to dispel the darkness of ignorance, comes to you. Receive him, and welcome him for your good.

Mandala 7/Sukta 34

*Vishvedevah, Ahi, Ahirbudhnya Devatah, Vasishtha
Maitravaruni Rshi*

प शुक्रतु द्रवी मनीषा अस्मत्सुतष्टा रथा न वाजी ॥ १ ॥

1. Pra śukraitu devī manīṣā asmat sutaṣṭo ratho na vājī.

May divine intelligence of pure and brilliant order come to us like the dawn riding a wonderfully crafted chariot drawn by flying horses.

विदुः पृथिव्या दिवा जनित्रं शृण्वन्त्यापो अध् रन्तीः ॥ २ ॥

2. Viduḥ pṛthivyā divo janitraṁ śṛṇvantyāpo adha kṣarantīḥ.

Those who listen to words of knowledge as earth receives the showers of rain know the cause and creator of heaven and earth.

आप॑श्चिदस्म॒ पिन्व॑न्त पृ॒थ्वीवृ॑त्र॒षु शूरा॑ मंस॑न्त उ॒गाः ॥ ३ ॥

3. Āpaścidasmai pinvanta pṛthvīrvṛtreṣu śūrā maṁsanta ugrāḥ.

The showers of rain nourish the earth and her progeny for this Indra, social order of humanity, and in the battles of life the blazing brave bow down in honour to it.

आ धूर्ष्व॑स्म॒ दधा॑ताश्वा॒निन्दा॒ न व॒जी हि॑र॒ण्यबा॑हुः ॥ ४ ॥

4. Ā dhūrṣvasmai dadhātāśvānindro na vajrī hiraṇyabāhuḥ.

Like Indra of the thunderbolt and golden hands of charity, rally the fastest forces and harness them to the centre pole of the earthly order in the service of Indra, the ruler.

अ॒भि प॒ स्था॒ताह॑व॒ य॒ज्ञं या॑त॒व॒ प॒त्न॒न्त॒मना॑ हि॒नात॑ ॥ ५ ॥

5. Abhi prasthātāheva yajñam yāteva patman tmanā hinota.

Like the dawn go forward to the yajna of the day and, like the pilgrim of divinity, advance on the way with self-confidence and enthusiasm.

त॒मना॑ स॒मत्सु॑ हि॒नात॑ य॒ज्ञं दधा॑त॒ क॒तुं ज॑ना॒य वी॒र॒म ॥ ६ ॥

6. Tmanā samatsu hinota yajñam dadhāta ketuṁ janāya vīram.

Advance the yajna in the battles of life conscientiously and keep the flag of victory flying high in the service of humanity.

उदस्य शुष्माद्भानुनात् बिभर्ति भारं पृथिवी न भूम ॥ ७ ॥

7. Uadasya śuṣmād bhānurnārta bibharti bhāraṁ pr̥thivī na bhūma.

And the sun rises by its own essential power and bears the burden of the earth, so does the earth bear the burden of her children, so let us be like the sun and the earth.

ह्वयामि द्वाँ अयातुरग्न साधं तूतन् धियं दधामि ॥ ८ ॥

8. Hvayāmi devāñ ayāturagne sādhanṛtena dhiyaṁ dadhāmi.

Agni, lord of light and life, I invoke the divinities of nature and humanity, living life by the practice of truth and eternal law, and I acquire the wisdom of life and action from the teacher dedicated to peace and non-violence.

अभि व' द्वाँ धियं दधिध्वं प व' दवत्रा वाचं कृणु-

9. Abhi vo devīm dhiyaṁ dadhidhvaṁ pra vo devatrā vācaṁ kṛṇudhvaṁ.

Acquire and maintain your intelligence and wisdom of the order of divinities and speak the language worthy of noble sages.

आ चष्ट आसां पाथ' नदीनां वरुण उगः सहस्रच ॥ १० ॥

10. Ā caṣṭa āsāṁ pātho nadīnām varuṇa ugraḥ sahasracakṣāḥ.

Just as the refulgent sun, lord of a thousand eyes, watches and reveals the course of the streams of water, so does the brilliant sage of the Word and wisdom commanding a thousand streams of speech oversee the flow of holy speech and communication.

राजा राष्ट्रानां पश' नदीनामनुत्तमस्म त्रं विश्वायु ॥ ११ ॥

11. Rājā rāṣṭrānām peṣo nadīnām-anuttam-asmai kṣatram viśvāyu.

If the ruler of nations, Varuna, of a thousand eyes, be of the form of flowing streams, dynamic and fluent in speech, policy and action, his order of governance would be better than the best, i.e., permanent, of universal sway over the world.

अविष्टा अस्मान्विश्वासु वि वद्युं कृणातु शंसं
निनित्साः ॥ १२ ॥

12. Aviṣṭo asmān viśvāsu vikṣvadyuṁ kṛṇota śamsaṁ ninitsoḥ.

Give us safety and security among people of the world, black out the envy and malignity of scandal mongers, and turn criticism into appreciation.

व्यतु दिद्युद द्विषामश्वा युयातु विष्वगपस्तनूनाम ॥ १३ ॥

13. Vyetu didyud dviṣāmaśevā yuyota viṣvagr-apaśtanūnām.

Let the flaming arrow and pernicious ill will of the jealous be thrown off far away. Eliminate all the ailments, ill health and infirmities of our body.

अवीं ढ अग्रिहव्या तम'भिः पष्ठ' अस्मा अधायि स्तामः ॥ १४ ॥

14. Avīno agnir-havyān-namobhiḥ preṣṭho asmā adhāyi stomah.

May Agni, light of life, dearest ruler, consume and eliminate negativities, protect and preserve us with good food and health care, and accept our song of praise and prayer in appreciation.

स॒जू॒द्व॒भिर्पां॑ न॒पातं॑ स॒खायं॑ कृ॒ध्वं शि॒वा न॑ अस्तु ॥ १५ ॥

15. Sajūr-devebhir-apām napātaṁ sakhāyaṁ kṛdhvaṁ śivo no astu.

Be friends with Agni, fire and the sun, which creates the indestructible waters of space and the firmament, along with other nature's divinities, so that there may be happiness and well being in our life.

अ॒ब्जामु॒क्थर॑हिं गृ॒णीष॑ बु॒ध्न न॒दीनां॑ रजः॒सु षी॑दन ॥ १६ ॥

16. Abjāmukthairahim grṇīṣe budhne nadīnām rajahsu śidan.

With songs of praise adore the sun which creates the cloud born of waters and which, while abiding in high space, also abides in every particle of river waters.

मा ना हि॒बु॒ध्न्य॑ रि॒ष धा॒न्मा य॒ज्ञा अस्य॑ स्त्रि॒ध॒दृता॒याः ॥ १७ ॥

17. Mā no'hirbudhnyo riṣe dhānmā yajño asya sridhadṛtāyoh.

May the yajnic governance and administration of this ruler dedicated to truth and eternal law never rule us with the motive of hurt and exploitation. So may also the cloud in the firmament never hurt us by excess or drought of rain.

उ॒त न॑ ए॒षु नृ॒षु श्रव॑ धुः प॒राय॑ य॒न्तु श॒ध॒न्ता अ॒यः ॥ १८ ॥

18. Uta na eṣu nṛṣu śravo dhuḥ pra rāye yantu śar-dhanto ayaḥ.

And may the ruler and governors generate and consolidate food, sustenance and prosperity among these noble people and move forward on way to honour and excellence, strengthening the devoted faithfuls and overcoming the envious rivals and hostile forces of opposition.

तपन्ति शत्रुं स्वर्ण भूमा महासनासा अर्माभिरषाम ॥ १९ ॥

19. Tapanti śatruṃ svarṇa bhūmā mahāsenāsa amebhīreṣām.

Leaders and commanders of mighty forces, they mortify and purge or defeat and destroy the enemies by these forces. Let us then be happy as in heaven on earth.

आ यः पत्नीगमन्त्यच्छा त्वष्टा सुपाणिदधातु वीरान ॥ २० ॥

20. Ā yannaḥ patnīr-gamantyaḥchā tvaṣṭā supāṇir-dadhātu vīrān.

And when wives come and meet us, may Tvashta, lord destroyer of suffering and dexterous maker of graceful forms, bless us with brave and handsome children.

पति नः स्तामं त्वष्टा जुषत स्यादस्म अरमतिवसूयुः ॥ २१ ॥

21. Prati naḥ stomaṃ tvaṣṭā juṣeta syādasme aramatirvasūyuh.

May Tvashta, creator and ruler of world forms and institutions, accept our praise and prayer and, lord of vision and intelligence as he is, may he be the giver of wealth, honour and excellence for us.

22. Tā no rāsan rātiṣāco vasūnyā rodasī varuṇānī śṛṇotu. Varūtrībhiḥ suśaraṇo no astu tvaṣṭā sudatro vi dadhātu rāyaḥ.

May the heaven and earth, generous and judicious givers of gifts, overflowing with liquid wealth and energy, listen to our prayer and give us peace and comfort in a settled state of life. May Tvashta, creator and maker of forms, with all modes of protection and promotion be our shelter home, and may he, generous giver of the best things of life, bring us wealth, honour and excellence.

23. Tanno rāyaḥ parvatāstanna āpastad rātiṣāca oṣadhīruta dyauḥ. Vanaspatibhiḥ pṛthivī sajoṣā ubhe rodasī pari pāsato naḥ.

That wealth, honour and excellence of ours, the clouds and mountains, the waters, the liberal givers, the herbs, the solar region, the dear motherly earth with her trees and forests and both heaven and earth protect, preserve and promote for us all round.

21. Anu tadurvī rodasī jihātāmanu dyukṣo varuṇa indrasakhā. Anu viśve maruto ye sahāso rāyaḥ syāma dharuṇam dhiyadhyai.

May the wide earth and heaven be kind and favourable to us and procure for us the wealth, honour and excellence of life we pray for. May the refulgent sun, the ocean, the friendly powers of the ruling lord Indra, and all the winds of space and vibrant heroes of the world who command both challenging force and fortitude be favourable so that we may be able to hold and manage the wealth, honour and excellence of life which the divinities of nature and humanity have given us.

May Indra, ruling lord of the world, Varuna, the ocean and the world's powers of judgement and discrimination, Mitra, the sun and our brilliant friends, Agni, cosmic fire and the leaders, Apah, spatial waters and our people of holy action, and the herbs and trees of the earth, all brilliant and inspiring, be favourable and generous. May we, we pray, live close under the protection of the best of human world and nature. O divine powers of nature and humanity, protect, preserve and promote us with all good fortune and well being of life all round, all ways, all time.

Let the knowledge of existence arise from the divine centre of universal truth : the sun radiates light with its rays and illuminates the earths, the wide earth moves on with her peaks of mountains, and fire rises and blazes over the vedi, symbol of cosmic yajna.

2. Imām vām mitrāvaruṇā suvṛktimiṣaṁ na kṛṇve asurā navīyaḥ. Ino vāmanyāḥ padavīradabdhō janam ca mitro yatati bruvāṇaḥ.

O Mitra and Varuna, sun and cosmic energy and intelligence, both givers of life energy to the living world, I offer this new song of adoration as homage to you. One of you, Varuna, is resistless, all pervasive and coexistent with every stage of life's evolution, and the other, Mitra, the sun, as a friend enjoins humanity to the life of activity proclaiming its rise as direct presence.

Sarasvati, the eternal stream of life, of cosmic waters, and of speech and sacred knowledge, the seventh over the streams flowing through five senses and the mind, through five elements and the stuff of mind and intelligence, and through the poetic streams of the Veda, all these streams which flow abundantly, exuberant, magnificent, roaring with splendour, all of them ever growing and rising with their own flood of water: may all these continue to flow together gloriously for us.

7. Uta tye no maruto mandasānā dhiyaṁ tokam ca vājino'vantu. Mā naḥ pari khyadakṣarā carantyavīrddhan yujaṁ te rayiṁ naḥ.

And those happy and joyous Maruts, vibrant scholars and sages, leaders of the nation, pioneers of science, manners and traditions, protect and advance our rising generation and our knowledge, intellect, imagination and culture. May the eternal mother stream of light and knowledge continuously flow for us and never forsake us. And may the Maruts augment and consolidate our wealth, honour and excellence for use and future progress.

O Vishvedevas, divinities of nature and brilliant scholars, sages and leaders of humanity, create, cultivate, increase and consolidate a high order of intelligence, nutrition and health care, a force of the brave to face the warlike business of life, a high standard of honour and excellence, protection for our order of knowledge, culture and tradition, and a generous and abundant state of this stable polity equipped with instant powers of defence and advancement.

O Maruts, vibrant forces of divinity in nature and humanity, may this song of celebration reach you well and gracefully. And so may it reach Vishnu, protector of the initiated dedicated to Dharma, who protects us with all methods of protection and advancement. We pray bring us life energy and a full span of good health and age for the celebrant and the people. O divinities, protect us always with all means of protection and advancement for our well being all round.

O Rbhus, high spiritual experts of science and technology, equipped with noble visor and helmet, come and join this celebration of ours to enjoy yourselves on abundant thrice distilled and seasoned drinks of soma in our yajnic meets. Let your strongest, fastest and unbreakable chariot transport you here. Regale yourselves and refine the yajna to perfection.

O scholars of science and technology, visionaries of light, you bring jewels of imperishable wealth for men of power and excellence. O commanders of food, sustenance and power, drink the soma of success in the yajnas of corporate programmes, and with your research and intelligence create the infrastructure for the development and success of our nation.

O Savita, glorious lord of generation, sustenance and resolution, may all means and materials of life come to us for success and self-fulfilment, may all forms of wealth, honour and excellence come to us so that we adore and amply glorify you through the gifts of the clouds of abundance. O Vishvedevas, divines of the world, pray you protect and promote us with all modes of peace and security for all time.

1. Udu śya devaḥ savitā yayāma hiraṇyayīm-amatiṁ yāmaśisret. Nūnaṁ bhago havyo mānuṣebhirvi yo ratnā puruvasūrdadhāti.

Let us rise and attain to that golden glory of divinity which the self-refulgent Savita radiates — Savita, lord of splendour and treasure-hold of universal wealth who truly rules and gives the jewel glories of existence. The lord alone is to be worshipped by humanity.

O Savita, lord creator of the world and giver of light with golden hands of infinite generosity, arise and shine at the dawn of the light of truth in the heart and listen to the prayer of this soul in mortal body. You create the wide wide earth of golden beauty and you generate the food for mortals for the sake of living humanity on earth.

May Savita, lord refulgent and generous, be praised and celebrated, the lord whom all learned saints and sages worship and adore. May he, worthy of homage and obedience, accept our songs of celebration and prayer and protect and promote the learned brave with all modes of protection and advancement.

The holy mother, divine earth and indestructible nature, all adore lord Savita, enjoying and celebrating the generous lord's creation. So also do brilliant rulers, men of choice merit, friends of life and humanity, and the lord of justice and dispensation, Varuna, all enjoying and appreciating the lord's creation, adore and worship him.

We are the supplicants all together who seek and pray for the grace and gifts of generous heaven and earth. May the lord creator, original cause of the universe all pervasive in space, listen, and may the divine mother protector and giver of vision protect us with all those virtues which converge and focus on a single thought, voice and decisive action.

O immortal heroes commanding knowledge, strength of arms and production in matters of eternal truth and law and the science of yajna, protect and promote us at every stage in the battles of life. Drink of the honey sweets of this celebration of the organised system of life, celebrate joyously and, self-fulfilled here, go forward by the paths of divines.

1. Ūrdhvo agniḥ sumatiṁ vasvo āśret pratīcī jūrñir-devatātimeti. Bhejāte adrī rathyeva panthāmṛtaṁ hotā na iṣito yajāti.

The fire on high radiates light inspiring pleasure and enlightenment. The dawn as veteran lady of the house goes forward to offer homage to the divinities. The yajamana and his wife together move forward as by chariot on way to yajna to adore the lord, and the priest offers to join the yajna like one inspired.

The yajna of these people proceeds, richly provided with holy materials. Vayu and Pusha, wind and life-giving sun, like guardian rulers and protectors of the people, move across the skies as if riding a chariot drawn by horses at the sacred call of night and dawn to yajna early for the good of humanity.

Let the Vasus, life giving energies of nature, and enlightened people settled at peace in learning, abound and rejoice here on earth. Let radiant purities of divine refulgence from yajna rise to the vast sky and purify the atmosphere. Let divine energies of vast extension receive and respond to this yajnic code of our participation in nature's dynamics and converge on this way to our earth.

All those divinities of the world, adorable and conjoined in nature's dynamics of cosmic yajna, are catalytic agents of protection and promotion keenly concentrative toward life's evolution and advancement. O generous yajamana, O bright fire, keen and passionate as they are in yajna, join them in yajna right away: join Bhaga, universal treasure of wealth, honour and excellence, Nasatya, constant complementarities of nature and natural law, and Purandhi, keeper and protector of habitations and institutions.

O sage and scholar, bring us the knowledge and the language of the knowledge of heaven and earth. Bring us the gifts of Mitra, sun and pranic energy, Varuna, water and air, Indra, electric energy, and Agni, fire and light, of Aryaman, cosmic gravitation, Aditi, nature's constancy, Vishnu, omnipresent cosmic intelligence, so that Sarasvati, corresponding language of their expression may grow and children of the earth may rejoice with enlightenment.

Let us offer oblations of holy materials to Agni with the thoughts and words of adorable sages so that the desires of mortals bound in love may be fulfilled. May the lord ruler of the world bring us imperishable wealth of universal value, and may we join with brilliant people worthy of association.

Thus heaven and earth are adored and celebrated by brilliant sages. May Varuna, Mitra and Agni, lords of truth and law, justice, love and light, grant us gifts of exemplary beauty, bliss and brilliance. O Vishvedevas, pray always protect and promote us with all modes of peace, progress and all round well being.

May Mitra, lord dear as friend, Varuna, oceans of earth and space, the heaven and the earth and sky, Indra, lord ruler of energy, power and excellence, and Aryama, lord of justice, give us heavenly gifts of divinity. And may Aditi, imperishable generous Mother Nature, Vayu, the wind, and Bhaga, lord of power and glory, bestow upon us what they produce, promote and preserve for us.

Surely that person would be strong and brilliant whom the Maruts, great commanders of the power of fire, wind and water, protect and promote. Indeed, none would be able to counter his power and prosperity whom Agni, brilliant leader of divinities, and Sarasvati, spirit of knowledge and speech, inspire, energise and motivate.

Of this generous, self-refulgent, creative and omnipresent lord Vishnu, all divinities and varieties of existence are extensive manifestations like branches of a tree, in this well sustained system of the universe by virtue of the homage they offer and the sustenance they receive. Rudra, lord sustainer of the good and scourage of evil, alone knows the mighty majesty I adore, and I pray may the Ashvins, sun and moon and twin divine complementarities of nature's energy, come by the paths of divine bounties and bless us.

Thus are the heaven and earth adored and celebrated by sages of enlightenment settled at peace in divine bliss. May Varuna, lord of justice and universal choice, Mitra, lord of universal love and light, and Agni, lord of leadership and enlightenment, all sustainers of truth and law, shower us with exemplary gifts of beauty, bliss and enlightenment for maintenance of piety. O Vishvedevas, divinities of nature and humanity, pray protect and promote us with all modes and means of progress and well being for all time.

Early morning we invoke Bhaga, all victorious lord and spirit of glory, child of indestructible mother Infinity and sustainer of all regions of the universe, universally acknowledged and adored, to whom the weakest as well as the most powerful and brilliant ruler prays and rays: O lord, give me the glory and the grace I need.

3. Bhaga praṇetar-bhaga satyarādho bhagemām dhiyamudavā dadannaḥ. Bhaga pra ṇo janaya gobhir-aśair-bhaga pra nṛbhir-nrvantaḥ syāma.

Bhaga, lord of power and glory, you are the leader. Lord of light, you are the giver of victory in the field of truth. Lord omniscient, protect and promote this wisdom and intelligence of ours, giving us more and ever more of it. Lord of universal prosperity, promote us with lands, cows and the light of knowledge and with speed and success in the field of transport, communication and achievement. O lord of life and humanity, let us be blest with leaders and manpower of exceptional order.

4. Utedānīm bhagavantah syāmota prapitva uta madhye ahnām. Utoditā maghavant-sūryasya vayan devānām sumatau syāma.

And let us be happy and prosperous now at this very time and at the end of the day, and also at the middle of the day through the seasons. And also, O lord of power and glory, let us enjoy the good will and kindness of the divinities at the rise of the sun.

भ॒ग ए॒व भ॒गवाँ॑ अ॒स्तु द॒वा॒स्तन॑ व॒यं भ॒गव॒न्तः॒ स्या॑म ।

5. Bhaga eva bhagavāṁ astu devāstena vayan bhagavantah syāma. Tam tvā bhaga sarva ijjoḥa-vīti sa no bhaga pura etā bhaveha.

Bhaga, lord of glory, is really the lord of glory. By virtue of his grace, let us too be masters of power, prosperity and excellence, brilliant and generous. O lord of universal power and grace, all life and humanity does you homage and obeisance. O lord of power, prosperity and excellence, you alone be our guide, pioneer and leader here in life.

6. Samadhvarāyoṣaso namanta dadhikrāveva śucaye padāya. Arvācīnam vasuvidam bhagam no rathamivāsvā vājina ā vahantu.

As the dawns arise and bless our morning yajna with holiness, as the sun inspires us to rise to the highest and purest divine attainment, as the motive forces of energy drive the chariot and lead the master to the desired destination, so may the Vajins, scholars, sages and warlike leaders lead us and thus bring us the latest and highest honour and excellence overflowing with the wealth and values of life.

May the blessed and blissful dawns, vibrant with energy and light of the sun, full of inspiration for the bright and brave youth, showering milk and honey all round with hands overflowing with generosity, arise and bless our home with light and prosperity. O dawns of light and knowledge, O youthful ladies of the home bright as dawn, pray you all protect, promote and advance us with all life's modes of peace, progress and protection for all time.

Let the sagely scholars of Veda and the vibrant scientists dear as life breath come and join the yajna all round, let the chant of hymns and fragrance of yajna rise to the skies, let the fertile cows, overflowing streams and vaulting voices celebrate divine generosity, and let the clouds and mountains take the blessed form of yajna full of peace and prosperity.

2. Sugaste agne sanavitto adhvā yukṣvā sute harito rohitaśca. Ye vā sadmannaruṣā vīravāho huve devānām janimāni sattah.

Agni, lord of light and fire, master of divine knowledge, simple and straight is your path of motion and radiation, ancient, known, pursued and followed in this world of the lord's creation. Join the forces of nature and divinity wide as quarters of space, fluent as streams of water and passionate as flames of fire, which lead the brave to the house of yajna wherein, sitting and meditating, I sing and celebrate the origins of the divinities of nature and humanity.

3. Samu vo yajñam mahayan namobhiḥ pra hotā mandro ririca upāke. Yajasva su purvaṇīka devāna yajñīyām-aramatiṁ vavrtyāḥ.

Together and holily they sing, celebrate and glorify your yajna with reverence and homage while close at hand the happy and meditative yajaka and generous priest excels in faith and generosity. O lord of manifold forces, Agni, join the divinities of nature and humanity and keep on the holy and yajnic vision and wisdom of the life divine for us without relent.

4. *Yadā vīrasya revato duroṇe syonaśīratithirāciketat. Suprīto agniḥ sudhito dama ā sa viśe dāti

When Agni, brilliant and blissful honoured guest, is welcomed in the house of the brave and prosperous host, then Agni, happy, well provided and comfortably rested at home, gives to the host and his people the gifts of knowledge and wealth they desire.

इमं न' अग्र अध्वरं जुषस्व मरुत्स्विन्द यशसं कृधी नः ।

Agni, venerable and brilliant guest of the house, accept and enjoy this yajnic hospitality of ours for the sake of the people and our social order and thereby enhance our honour and virtue. For the night and day, grace the yajnic seat and join the people who respect you, for the advancement of love, friendship and sense of justice in society.

Thus does Vasishtha, the brilliant sage settled at peace in love with the pursuit of life's wealth and excellence, adore Agni, omnipresent inspirer of life forms with fire and passion alongwith moral stability and spiritual constancy, Agni that creates, expands and gives us food and energy, wealth and honour, and speed, success and progress in social and cultural life. O divinities, protect and promote us with all round good fortune all time.

In your yajnas of science and research, let vibrant scholars dedicated to the pursuit of divinity study heaven and earth with reverence and homage for self fulfilment so that their exceptional adorations of universal knowledge rise and spread all round like branches of the universal tree.

Let the yajna expand and rise like a tempestuous flying horse, and you, altogether of one mind, fill the ladle full, raise it and offer the oblation into the yajna of love, peace and non-violence to cover the sky with fragrance. Let the bright and blissful flames rise high to the divinities.

3. Ā putrāso na mātaraṁ vibhṛtrāḥ sānau devāso barhiṣaḥ sadantu. Ā viśvācī vidathyāmanaktva-gne mā no devatātā mṛdhaskaḥ.

Just as children in the mother's lap rest blissfully, so let the conductors and organisers of yajna, all noble and brilliant souls, rise and reach the heights of skies. And then let universality of values adorn and sanctify our yajnic policy of governance and administration so that, O lord of light, fire and power, Agni, no one may violate us in our divine programme of development and progress.

And let those divinities of nature committed in love and accord with you, all of them abundant and adorable, harbingers of rain and revelations of nature's truth, come and bless you. O people of the land, thus may the first and highest of the wealth of existence come to you, and thus may you abide, all with one mind, in your common programme and yajnic commitment.

Thus O lord of light, fire, power and constancy, Agni, bless us along with all peoples of the earth so that, O lord of challenge, patience and fortitude, committed as one with you and blest with wealth, honour and excellence, we may live happy and abide healthy and unhurt in the land and her yajnic order. O divinities of nature and humanity, pray protect and promote us all round with all good fortune for all time.

For your protection and progress, I invoke and adore Dadhikra, original divine energy which moves, sustains and energises all movers and sustainers of existential forms, Ashvins, the sun and moon, the dawn, the burning fire, and Bhaga, honour and glory of life, Indra, electrical energy, Vishnu, cosmic wind energy, Pushan, cosmic vitality and nourishment, Brahmanaspati, cosmic Soul, Adityas, Zodiacs of the sun, heaven and earth, the cosmic waters, and eternal happiness and well being.

2. Dadhikrāmu namasā bodhayanta udīrāṇā yajñam-upaprayantaḥ. Ilām devīm barhiṣi sādawayanto 'śvinā viprā suhavā huvema.

Awakening cosmic motive energy with reverence and homage, rising and moving to the yajna with full knowledge, sanctifying the holy grass on the vedi with holy speech, we invoke and invite the ready and instant moving Ashvins like the sagely teacher and the preacher to guide and conduct our yajnic business of life.

3. Dadhikrāvāṇaṁ bubudhāno agnimupa bruva uṣasaṁ sūryaṁ gām. Bradhnaṁ maṁścatorva-ruṇasya babhruṁ te viśvāsmad duritā yāvayantu.

Knowing full well the all-motive cosmic energy, I specifically speak of fire power, and I celebrate the dawn, the sun and the earth, and I speak of the great integrative and sustaining power of the cosmic oceans of waters, and I pray that these natural energies may ward off all evils and ailments away from us.

4. Dadhikrāvā prathamō vājyavā'gre rathānām bhavati prajānan. Saṁvidāna uṣasā sūryeṇā-'dityebhir-vasubhir-aṅgirobhiḥ.

That cosmic energy is the primary intelligent dynamic force which moves at the fastest velocity, and that energy is basically the first motive and transportive power of everything in motion, like a horse in front of a chariot, whether it is in relation to the dawn or the sun or motion of the sun in orbit through the Zodiacs or the abodes of life such as earth or the pranic energy forms of nature and life.

5. Ā no dadhikrāḥ pathyāmanaktvṛtasya panthā-manvetavā u. Śṛṇotu no daivyaṁ śardho agniḥ śṛṇvantu viśve mahiṣā amūrāḥ.

May the cosmic forms of energy and may the supreme mover of cosmic energy adorn, illuminate and sanctify our path and our movement over the path of truth and eternal law so that we may safely tread the holy paths of living. May Agni, lord omniscient, listen to our prayer and be favourable to our brilliance and divine gift of strength and power. May the mighty sages of the world listen to us and favour us with gifts of wisdom.

1. Ā devo yātu savitā suratno 'ntarikṣaprā vhamāno aśvaiḥ. Haste dadhāno naryā purūṇi niveśayañca prasuvañca bhūma.

May the self-refulgent Savita, giver of light and life, come and bless, bearing jewels of life, radiating through the sky, carried by light rays, bearing in hands manifold treasures for humanity, suffusing and fertilising the earth with life and vitality. We pray we too may be brilliant and generous like the sun.

2. Udasya bāhū śithirā brhantā hiraṇyayā divo antāñ anaṣṭām. Nūnaṁ so asya mahimā paṇiṣṭa sūraścidadsmā anu dādapasyām.

Mighty are his hands and arms, vast and extensive, golden generous, reaching unto the bounds of heaven. Truly that grandeur of his is adorable. May the brave refulgent sun inspire us with will and passion for initiative and action.

3. Sa ghā no devaḥ savitā sahāvā'' sāvīṣad vasupa-tirvasūni. Viśrayamāṇo amatim-urūcīm marta-bhojanam-adha rāsate naḥ.

May that refulgent creator and inspirer Savita, mighty and friendly, lord and master of wealth, radiating his wide expansive glory, provide vital food and energy for the mortals.

इ॒मा गिरः॑ स॒वि॒तारं सु॒जिह्वं॑ पू॒णग॑भ॒स्तिमी॒ळत सु॒पा॒णिम ।

4. Imā girah savitāram sujihvaṁ pūrṇagabhastim-īlate supāṇim. Citraṁ vayo bṛhadasme dadhātu yūyaṁ pāta svastibhiḥ sadā naḥ.

These celebrant voices adore and glorify Savita, life giver and inspirer, bright and benedictive of light and flame, generous of hands full of blessings. May the lord bear and bring us universal health and life full of wonderful wealth and value. O lord Savita, O brilliancies of nature and humanity, protect and promote us with all modes of good fortune and well being for all time.

1. Imā rudrāya sthiradhanvane girāḥ kṣipreṣave devāya svadhāvne. Aṣaḥhāya sahamānāya vedhase tigmāyudhāya bharatā śṛṇotu naḥ.

Offer these words of adoration and prayer to Rudra, brilliant destroyer of evil and injustice, wielder of the unshakable bow, shooting flying arrows of lightning speed. He bears his own essential power and sense of justice, irresistible is he, unconquerable, a challenger with unfailing fortitude, all knowing and equipped with blazing arms and armour. May the lord listen to us and accept our call.

He is known by his own divine refulgence and, by the same exceptional brilliance and by close proximity of his presence and residence among the peace loving people of his blessed dominion, he proclaims himself and enlightens the people while he is perceived and glorified by them. O Rudra, protecting, sustaining and promoting our defence forces, be at the doors of our settlements by your presence and power among our people, and ever be giver of freedom from ailments and evil.

The blaze of your lightning power released from heaven prevails over earth which may, we pray, spare us and not uproot us. O lord of refreshing winds, thousands are your rejuvenations and medicaments. Pray strike not upon our children and grand children, refresh, nourish and strengthen them to full maturity.

4. Mā no vadhī rudra mā parā dā mā te bhūma prasitau hīḷitasya. Ā no bhaja barhiṣi jīvaśamse yūyaṁ pāta svastibhiḥ sadā naḥ.

O lord of justice, punishment and good health, strike us not, forsake us not to alienation. Let us not fall into the snares of your anger. Be with us on the vedi over earth and spaces for the joyous celebration of life. O lord ruler and physician of health, protect and promote us with all good fortunes of well being for all time.

1. Āpo yaṁ vaḥ prathamam devayantaṁ indrapānam-ūrmim-akṛṇvatelaḥ. Taṁ vo vayaṁ śucimari-ripram-adya ghṛtapruṣaṁ madhuman-taṁ vanema.

O cosmic waters, seers and sages in pursuit of divinity, we love and yearn for that pure, divine, delicious and honey sweet primordial thrill of the ecstasy drink of yours which you distilled from the Cosmic Word, original nature and the earth for the taste of Indra, the human soul, at the dawn of creation.

That sweetest of honey thrill of joyous ecstasy of existence in which Indra rejoices with the wealth, honours and excellences of life may, we pray, the holy fire, infallible extension of cosmic waters, protect and promote. That same thrill and ecstasy, we pray, may we too in our pursuit of divine joy attain here and now.

The holy and ecstatic waters, hundred ways pure and flowing with their innate inspiring vitality, move on and converge to the divinities, centre yajna of the cosmos. They do not violate the divine laws of Indra, lord of existence. O men and women, offer oblations with ghrta for augmenting the rivers and the seas.

4. Yāḥ sūryo raśmibhir-ātatāna yābhya indro aradad gātumūrmim. Te sindhavo varivo dhātana no yūyaṁ pāta svastibhiḥ sadā naḥ.

The vapours and waters which the sun expands with its rays in space, the showers of rain for which Indra, cosmic electricity, breaks the clouds of vapour to fall and flow, and the currents of water which dig out the river beds on earth, may all those oceans, seas and rivers bear and bring us treasurefuls of choice food, energy and wealth to sustain and support us. O cosmic waters, sun and showers, rivers and seas, protect and promote us with the best of good fortune for well being for all time.

O great scientists, leaders of humanity commanding power and excellence, rejoice and let us rejoice in the excellence of our science, power and culture. Come to us and let the Kratus, expert workers of holy will and resolution, as the Vibhus, artists and technologists, turn your chariot worthy of the human nation towards us.

Let us be scientists with the great scientists, let us be experts with the experts and command powers and forces with the power and knowledge of the scientists and technologists. May the warriors of power and speed protect you and us in the battles of life's freedom and success in excellence. And let us join Indra, lord of power and excellence and cross over evil, darkness and want to light, freedom and prosperity.

They, the Rblus, eternal presences, surely excel and advance the borders of knowledge and power by discipline, being attached to their master with loyalty in all battles for progress. And Indra, the ruler vested with power, having settled eminent scientists, artists and craftsmen, and, having scattered out all enmities in conflicts, they develop new wealth and prosperity for the nation.

O divine brilliant Rbhus, wondrous scientists, artists and craftsmen of the world, creators of wealth and providers of settlement at peace, create the best of comfort and prosperity for us. Loving and cooperative all, be for our safety, security and progress. Eminent masters of knowledge and expertise, provide the best of food, energy and sustenance for us. O Rbhus, O Vasus, pray always protect and promote us with all the good fortune for life's well being all round, all time.

1. Samudrajyēṣṭhāḥ salilasya madhyāt punānā yantyaniviśamānāḥ. Indro yā vajrī vṛṣabho rarāda tā āpo devīriha māmavantu.

The divine waters, chief of which is the ocean, arise from the heart of cosmic energy as a surge of liquidity and ceaselessly flow, purifying, sanctifying everything they suffuse. Indra, the sun and electric energy of the firmament, power of thunder and generosity, creates the channels for their flow. May those streams of waters inspire and impel me too with the initiative and drive of life for initiative and action here in the world and protect me against evil and sloth.

2. Yā āpo divyā uta vā sravanti khanitrimā uta vā yāḥ svayamjāḥ. Samudrārthā yāḥ śucayaḥ pāvakāstā āpo devīriha māmavantu.

May those divine streams of water and cosmic energy which flow in channels made by man and those which flow their own way and rush to join the sea, all of which are pure and sacred, purifying and sanctifying, may all those streams protect and promote me onward here in the world of dynamic activity.

3. Yāsām rājā varuṇo yāti madhye satyānṛte avapaśyañ-janānām. Madhuścutaḥ śucayo yāḥ pāvakāstā āpo devīriha māmavantu.

Those liquid streams of waters and divine energy in the currents of which the cosmic ruler of universal law, Varuna, vibrates with universal judgement and omnipotence, watching the truth and untruth of the people's actions within the rules of divine law, the streams which are replete with the honey sweets of life's joy, pure and purifying, may all these streams of divinity protect, inspire and promote me here in this world of action.

4. Yāsu rājā varuṇo yāsu somo viśve devā yāsūrjaṁ madanti. Vaiśvānaro yāsvagniḥ praviṣṭastā āpo devīriha māmavantu.

Those streams of water and cosmic energy in which Varuna, self-refulgent ruler, pervades, in which Soma, peace and life's vitality and joy, resides, in which all divinities of nature and brilliancies of humanity find their breath of life and rejoice, in which Vaishvanara, vital heat of earth life, resides and inspires her children, may those divine streams of the waters of existence inspire, protect and promote me here in this world.

1. Ā mām mitrāvaruṇeha rakṣataṁ kulāyayaḍ viśvayanmā na ā gan. Ajakāvaṁ durdrśīkaṁ tiro dadhe mā mām padyena rapasā vidat tsaruḥ.

May the sun and waters, curative and preventive health care, protect me here. Let no bodily infirmity, no insidious or infectious disease come to me. Let me keep off all diseases that spread through animals and insects, all those that spread through germs and viruses difficult to see with naked eye. Let all those ailments be off which arise from external contact or from internal weakness such as lack of resistance, depression or self-guilt.

Whatever poison there be in the cotton plant or silk tree or in the streams of water or what is produced by herbs and trees, let the scholars of science and medicine of the world isolate and eliminate from there as antibiotic. Let no surreptitious ailment from external or internal causes come and afflict me.

1. Ādityānāmavasā nūtanena sakṣīmahi śarmaṇā śāntamena. Anāgāstve adititve turāsa imam yajñam dadhatu śroṣamāṇāḥ.

May we join the Adityas, eminent sagely scholars of knowledge and science, and benefit from their latest modes of protection and promotion and from the peace of a blessed home. May they, swift and powerful of action, listen to our prayer and conduct this social yajna of ours in a state of sinlessness and invincibility.

1. Ādityāso aditayah syāma pūrdevatrā vasavo martyatrā. Sanema mitrāvaruṇā sananto bhavema dyāvāprthivī bhavantah.

O Adityas, dynamic unassailable lights of the world, may we too be brilliant and unassailable. O Vasus, shelter homes of life, let us be servants of divinity and servants of humanity, shelter and comfort for all, holy as the city. O Mitra and Varuna, sun and ocean, joining and serving you, let us acquire depth and brilliance. O earth and heaven, trying to be like you, let us be generous and free and blest beyond all bonds of lower existence.

1. Pra dyāvā yajñaiḥ pṛthivī namobhiḥ sabādha īḷe brhatī yajatre. Te ciddhi pūrve kavayo gṛṇantaḥ puro mahī dadhire devaput্রে.

Challenged by difficulties on the way forward, I invoke high heaven and mother earth with offers of homage and adoration. Vast and abundant they are, close friends and generous givers, divine sources of hope and energy, whom noble men serve and exalt with songs. To these, for sure, celebrant poets and visionaries of all time look up and these they adore for inspiration with offers of homage and adoration.

Lord of wealth and glory, lover of values and essence of things in life, keep on pursuing the thief and the smuggler and bring them to book. And don't you appreciate and encourage those who support and augment the wealth of the nation and the ruling order and assure that we are safe against evil and the negationists? You do. If so, you may thus rest in peace and security in the state of readiness.

O Maruts, mortals, pure are your yajnic transactions, clean your gifts, receipts and dispensations. I invoke and augment the pure and non-violent yajna of and love and creativity of the pure for the sake of pure and sacred people who, committed to truth, advance the truth by observance of truth and divine law of rectitude. Bright and pure is your birth and origin, pure you are and sanctifying.

May the Maruts, leaders and pioneers serving and replenishing the beautiful heaven and earth, be kind and gracious and bring us peace and joy. May the butcher and the murderer be far from us. May the weapon of death be far from you and from us. O givers of peace and settlement in joy and prosperity turn to us with happiness and well-being.

1. Yadadya sūrya bravo'nāgā udyan mitrāya varuṇāya satyam. Vayaṁ devatrādite syāma tava priyāso aryaman grṇantah.

O sun, while you arise today, purify us and proclaim to Mitra and Varuna, presiding powers of day and night and upholders of earth, sky and heaven, that we are free from sin. O Aditi, immortal mother earth and Infinity, O Aryaman, lord of justice and the paths of rectitude, dedicated as we are to the divinities, celebrating and glorifying them, hold us dear as dedicated to you.

Mitra and Varuna, this is the sun that pervades both gross and subtle worlds, watcher and light giver of humanity, which rises across the sky over the earth and witnesses both the simple and the crooked ways of action among the mortals. It is the protector, life giver and promoter of the moving and the unmoving world.

The sun, like a charioteer harnessing his horses, radiates seven rays of light which from the solar region carry the energy of light and cosmic waters and bring about the nights as they withdraw. The sun, also, joining and pervading various regions, the prana and udana energies of life and the origins of causal entities, proclaims them all as one multitudinous living system of which it is the centre.

These Adityas, Mitra, Varuna and Aryama, loving friend, discriminative judge, and the path maker of rectitude, give us the sense and awareness of right and wrong, of falsehood as distinct from truth and correctness, in all varieties of situations. And they persist, and they augment the order of truth and right in the house of divine law, children of mother Infinity as they are, happy at peace, loving and kind, yet dauntless and unchallengeable.

6. Ime mitro varuṇo dūḷabhāso 'cetasam ciccitayanti dakṣaiḥ. Api kṛtuṁ sucetasam vatantastiraści-damhaḥ supathā nayanti.

These powers of love and friendship, judgement and rectitude and universal truth and law are rare and undaunted, and with their intelligence and expertise of method, they awaken even the stupid and ignorant to sensitivity and wisdom. Further, inspiring the man of noble mind and holy action, they protect him from crookedness and sin and lead him on by the path of truth, goodness and beauty to higher attainment.

7. Ime divo animiṣā pṛthivyāścikitvāṁso acetasaṁ nayanti. Pravrāje cinnadyo gādhamasti pāraṁ no asya viṣpitasya parṣan.

The ever vigilant powers of light and love, judgement and discrimination of right knowledge and right action, know of heaven and earth and constantly guide the ignorant to wake up and move on the right path. Even in the depth of rivers in flood, there is ground to stand on, a ford to cross. May Mitra, Varuna and Aryama take us across the deep seas of existence by our karma.

8. Yad gopāvadaditih śarma bhadraṁ mitro yacchanti varuṇaḥ sudāse. Tasminnā tokaṁ tana-yaṁ dadhānā mā karma devaheḷanaṁ turāsaḥ.

When, like the lord ruler of the earth and protector of her children, Aditi, Mitra and Varuna, mother nature and her law, and divine powers of love, friendship and judgement provide a blessed home of peace, plenty and joy for the generous man of noble action and charity, then in that state of good fortune we, all dynamic and enthusiastic fast achievers, in the joyous company of our children and grand children must not do anything to affront our sages, seniors and scholars or to violate the sanctity of the divinities of nature and suffer their anger.

9. Ava vedīm hotrābhīryajeta ripaḥ kāścid varuṇa-dhrutaḥ saḥ. Pari dveṣobhir-aryamā vṛṇaktūrum sudāse vṛṣaṇā u lokam.

One who dishonours and desecrates the vedi of yajna with unholy chant and stingy insulting libation of holy offerings suffers. What sin and suffering does he not face when he is shaken by Varuna, power of justice and discrimination? May Aryama, divine guide and path maker, keep him away along with the jealous and the hostile, and may Mitra and Varuna, liberal givers, create and award the generous yajaka with a happy home and vast freedom of spirit in an age and environment of bliss.

10. Sasvaściddhi samṛtis-tveṣyeṣām-apīcyena sahasā sahante. Yuṣmad bhiyā vṛṣaṇo rejamānā dakṣa-sya cinmahinā mṛlatā naḥ.

The nature, character and policy of these divine powers of love and friendship, justice and discrimination, and thought and action in rectitude is mysteriously integrated, brilliant and blazing. They move and act with patience, fortitude and irresistible force. O generous powers, shakers of the jealous and the enemies with fear, save us and let us prosper in peace and joy with the grandeur of your power and force.

Whoever applies his holy and faithful mind for the vision of Divinity and for the achievement of food and energy and supreme wealth, honour and excellence of life, the generous divine powers energise his righteous passion and bless his action, and they create a vast house of joy and prosperity for him and award him golden wealth and irresistible vitality.

O divine Mitra and Varuna, powers of love and judgement of nature and humanity, this homage of reverence is created and offered in your honour in the congregations of academic and socio-economic yajna. Pray protect us, promote us, help us cross the hurdles of life with action and bless us with complete fulfilment. O generous powers, save us, defend us and let us advance with all round peace and security for all time.

1. Ud vām cakṣurvaruṇa supratīkaṁ devayoreti sūryas-tatanvān. Abhi yo viśvā bhuvanāni caṣṭe sa manyuṁ martyeṣvā ciketa.

O Varuna, up rises the sun, bright and beautiful eye of you both, Mitra and Varuna, divine pranic energies of the universe, spreading the light far and wide over spaces. It illuminates and reveals all regions of the world, and awakens and inspires all mortals' love for life and living.

O Mitra and Varuna, divinities of nature and humanity, your hymns of knowledge and power, that vibrant sage and scholar, a veteran reader and long time listener dedicated to truth and the laws of nature, studies, proclaims and extends by application. O powers of divine action, inspire, strengthen and protect his studies and fulfil his mission with intelligence and revelations as you fulfil the seasons of the year with natural evolution of their spirits.

O Mitra and Varuna, light and life of the universe, generous love and intelligence of nature and humanity, you transcend the wide earth and the vast heaven by your dynamic power and sublimity. You vest life energy and distinct form in herbs and trees and specific identity in people and their communities while you preserve and protect the truth of law and the pursuers of truth with relentless vigil.

Study and meditate on the origin and abode of Mitra and Varuna, pranic energies of nature and human virtue of love and friendship, light and enlightenment, and justice and discrimination. By virtue of their great universal power and force they hold and sustain the earth and heaven together and yet apart. The time, months and years of those who do not perform yajna, corporate acts of social and environmental value, pass by without the joy of children. On the other hand, those who serve Divinity, nature and humanity with their heart and soul cross the paths of life and reach the ultimate freedom of Moksha.

O wise and generous powers of the world, Mitra and Varuna, these words of adoration are for you and your divine gifts to humanity, in which there is nothing that is not marvellous and nothing that is not divinely consecrated. Only the jealous and hostile among humanity indulge in scandal and falsehood, and even your smallest favours are too deep for the ignorant to perceive and appreciate.

Your latest thoughts, visions and revelations are created, structured and gifted to us for the advancement of knowledge and wisdom in relation to the highest reality of existence.

O divines, Mitra and Varuna, this song of adoration is offered to you in your holy congregations of yajnic creation. Pray reduce our difficulties and help us cross them to success and fulfilment. O saints and sages, scholars and teachers, come you all and all time protect and promote us with all happiness and well being.

The cosmic Sun, self refulgent life of the universe, rises and radiates his vast and mighty abundant rays of light, constantly shining day and night and revealing the birth and evolution of all people of the world. Sung and celebrated, adored and worshipped by holy performers of yajna, he himself is the cosmic yajna by virtue of his manifestive creation, the supreme yajamana as well as the presiding Deity.

O Sun, self refulgent lord giver of light and life, come in response to these songs of adoration and specified waves of thought energy stimulated by our songs. Let the light arise in our heart and mind, and speak to Mitra, Varuna, Aryama and Agni, powers of love and friendship, judgement, discrimination and integration, guidance and leadership with rectitude, and energy and enlightenment in our human community. Speak to us so that we may maintain a state of purity and freedom from sin and crime.

O Mitra and Varuna, loving and discriminative pranic vitalities of our health system, extend your power and energy like helping hands for our life and health and sprinkle the vital movement of our senses and mind with liquid rejuvenation and replenishment of energy. O youthful powers of rejuvenation, vest our people with the glow of health and light of intelligence in response to my invocation and input of pranayamic exercise for the pranic energy system.

cosmos and from the individual human to the world community, bless us with the best of life's gifts for the enlightenment of our soul and the continuation of our race. Let all our paths of life and living be simple and straight, noble and easy to follow. O powers of health and enlightenment, protect and promote us on our way onward with all modes and means of happiness and well being all round for all time.

The glorious Sun, self-refulgent sovereign lord of the universe, rises high and higher, watching the world, giving light and intelligence to humanity in general. The lord that gives light to the day and depth to the ocean dispels all darkness and confusion as the storm disperses leaves of dry grass. (The mantra refers to the rise of the light of Divinity in the soul of the individual human being during meditation. The Light blesses any one who practices meditation under the instructions of a teacher and continues the practice with unquestionable faith.) of divinity, follow the meaningful paths of life and perform their karmic acts with piety.

O Mitra and Varuna, light of day and peace of night, sun and cosmic ocean, sage and scholar, giver of knowledge and leader to judgement and rectitude, when the rising light emerges and the mind is awake, we honour and serve you with homage and reverence and with presentations of yajnic fragrance.

Early at the dawn of sun rise, with songs of adoration, I invoke and worship Mitra, lord of infinite love and universal friendship, Varuna, lord of omniscient wisdom, judgement and justice, lords of pure omnipotence whose life giving energy and power is boundless and imperishable, first, foremost and highest, and when invoked and realised, it is all victorious in the battles of life.

Mitra and Varuna, manifestations of the Supreme Lord's generous love and justice, are the best and highest of nature's bounties. They strengthen and energise our lands and people and make them fertile and creative. O Mitra and Varuna, may we receive your favours whereby the earth and heaven, both exuberant, may promote us day and night.

Many are their bonds and chains, bridges to cross over untruth and sin, which are difficult to approach and cross for the mortal man of enmity and jealousy. O Mitra and Varuna, we pray, let us cross over sin and evil by your divine path of truth and law just as we cross the seas by the boat.

the dynamic force of cosmic order. Pray protect and promote our mind and will, and enlighten our rulers and intelligentsia. O generous and brilliant powers of nature and humanity, protect and promote us with all modes of happiness and all round well being all time.

Namasvān tuvijātayoḥ.*

May this peaceful yet powerful song and yajna of ours in praise of Mitra and Varuna, unborn and distinctive yet integrated manifestations of the Lord Divine's potent love and justice vested in nature, go forward full of energy and reverential gratitude and stimulate the consequential process in nature for the prosperity of humanity and the environment.

O self-refulgent Adityas, immortal powers of light, generous givers of wisdom and vision, who protect us from sin and darkness, may that home, homeland and dominion of ours be protected, protective and full of peace throughout our paths of onward progress.

O saints and sages of dynamic will and wisdom, let this golden wealth of divinity, this intelligence and the song of praise be for the growth of holy strength free from sin, and for the accomplishment of yajnic acts for human progress and prosperity.

O lord self-refulgent Varuna, lord of justice, Mitra, just friend of humanity, give us the will and wisdom that with all our wise and brave we be dear and dedicated to you and we meditate to achieve the strength and bliss of Divinity.

Many are the leaders and pioneers, with vision bright and pure as light of the sun and speech as flames of fire, who extend the bounds of truth, law and selfless service of life through yajnic creativity and, with their wisdom, will and commanding action, lead and conduct the three basic institutions of research and education, governance and economy, and human culture and values of life through beauty, goodness and truth with gratitude to Divinity for the world.

11. Vi ye dadhuḥ śaradaṁ māsam-ād-aharyajñam-aktum cādr̥cam. Anāpyaṁ varuṇo mitro aryamā kṣatraṁ rājāna āśata.

They, Varuna, Mitra and Aryama, brilliant leaders and rulers with dedication to Dharma and justice, love and friendship, and the right sense of action and direction in the light of universal knowledge and eternal values, conduct the yajnic governance and administration of the social order through years and months, days and nights, relentlessly holding on to the Vedic vision of eternity. They achieve what has not yet been achieved and thus extend the possibilities of the good and happy life in the united world order.

12. Tad vo adya manāmahe sūktaiḥ sūra udite. Yadohate varuṇo mitro aryamā yūyam-ṛtasya rathyah.

Today at the rise of dawn, with Vedic hymns and meditation, we think and deliberate upon that social order which is desired and which is to be achieved. For that we call upon Varuna, Mitra and Aryama, leaders of justice and order, love and light and the universal laws of rectitude and direction. That we pray for, O lords, since you command the chariot of the laws of truth, action and progress on the right path.

O brilliant scholars, rulers and all those who are redoubtable leaders, lovers and seekers of truth by knowledge and action, born in truth and extending the bounds of the values of truth in the social order, terrible in action with no tolerance for untruth and social evil, let us abide in law in your good will and in the felicity of a happy home in peace and security.

And now (when we are at peace), the glorious vision of Divinity arises on the horizon of consciousness when the divine frequency of the illuminative mind with the divine communicates it to the consciousness instantly in response to meditative concentration for the man of universal vision.

By virtue of the highest human intelligence in respect of person and practice, seven dynamic faculties, i.e., five senses, mind and intellect, carry the light of Divinity to the soul at the right time for its good during its meditative sojourn in the vehicle of this beautiful body. This is the light of the self-refulgent Sun, creator, sustainer and ordainer of the moving and non-moving world from the particle to the entire universe through eternity.

Ashvins, twin harbingers of light dedicated to truth of the ruling order, for sure the host and performer of the inaugural session of the yajna of social order, speaking words of truth and piety celebrates you and your light in songs of adoration. O prophets of the light of heaven commanding the wealth, honour and excellence of the world, ascend your chariot and come by the eternal paths of universal truth and rectitude.

O sweet and kind twin divine powers of nature and humanity, Ashvins, harbingers of a new dawn for the social order of the world, dedicated to your means and modes of preservation, defence and progress, and desirous of advancement in the wealth, honour and excellence of the nation, I invite you to take over the conduct of this great yajna of the ruling order. May seasoned and strong sages, scholars and experts of the nation lead you hither. Come, share and promote for us all the honey sweets of our yajnic planning and achievement.

O brilliant and generous Ashvins, commanders of the twin powers of nature and humanity, inspire my simple, ancient and progressive intelligence and will, strengthen it and make it inviolable in the pursuit of higher wealth, honour and excellence. In all our battles of life, protect our mind and will and, with all the powers and potential at your command, strengthen us to move forward and rise higher and higher.

Ashvins, divine powers of creation, preservation, recuperation and procreation, protect us in all our acts of thought, will and action for achievement. May our creative and procreative vitality remain intact and inviolable for our posterity. By virtue of your inspiration and invigoration for the sake of children and grand children, let us be blest with jewels of posterity and let us rise to the company of the divines.

Ashvins, responsive givers of fulfilment, pranic energies of nature and mind, dedicated to a common purpose with humanity, the radiant inspiration of your spiritual power as a carrier of vision goes past the fluctuations of the five senses, mind and intellect. The seven, which otherwise involve the soul with fluctuations of the mind, when converted, inverted and converged on to the spirit of your vision at the centres of consciousness, no longer distract the soul, instead they become the carriers of consciousness to the divine goal of spiritual bliss.

Thus does the divine poet, wakeful in advance of the rise of dawn, with holy mind and faithful intelligence, celebrate in song the divine Ashvins, twin harbingers of new life to nature and humanity. May the inviolable Mother Nature and Infinity advance him in life with vision, will and energy. O saints and scholars, ruler and administrators, O Ashvins, protect and promote us with peace, happiness and all time well being in life.

O harbingers of light and fresh life for the dawn of a new day, let your golden chariot traversing heaven, earth and the skies by powerful forces on blazing wheels across the cosmic waters come to us loaded with nourishments and inspiring energies and be the guide and protector of humanity for higher victories. (The mantra is an address to the brilliant powers of social governance and management for the protection and progress of the people. These powers should act as harbingers of fresh life and energy with the light of a new sun at the rise of a new dawn every day.)

2. Sa paprathāno abhi pañca bhūmā tribandhuro manasā yātu yuktaḥ. Viśo yena gacchatho devayanīḥ kutrā cid yāmamaśvinā dadhānā.

Let this chariot structured on five-fold body bound by three bonds come to us evolving day by day. It is structured on a five-fold chassis fixed by three bonds in an ascending order and it moves forward as controlled by the mind. By this, O Ashvins, you come to the people and radiate light and energy to those who are in search of divinity. On way, you choose your own stages of rest and travel for further progress.

(This mantra is a metaphor of the human body in which the ruler is soul, the controller is mind, and motive forces for perception and volition are senses. The body is made up of five elements: earth, water, fire, air and space, and characterised by three conditioning qualities of nature: sattva, rajas and tamas which are intellectual, sensual and material qualities of personality. It is through this body-chariot that the Ashvins, circuitous complementarities of divine nature radiate and inspire light and energy to the human being and to humanity too as one personality.)

O leaders and pioneers of the world, harbingers of light and power, you retrieve the ruling powers sunk in distress, recover the resources of wealth and joy hidden in the oceans, and you take them across the oceans of water and space to the shore to the wanted destination by unfailing, indefatigable and inviolable floating and flying machines created by your marvellous knowledge, power and skill.

Ashvins, world heroes of universal choice, come to our yajna. The seat on the earth vedi is fixed, reserved and proclaimed for you and stays like a war horse at rest after victory. That you would occupy without disturbance as in your own home and there be firm as the pole star.

2. Siṣakti sā vām sumatiścaniṣṭhā'tāpi gharmo manuṣo duroṇe. Yo vām samudrānt-saritaḥ pipartyetagvā cinna suyujā yujānaḥ.

Ashvins, O complementary currents of nature, the yajnic process in song and action with holy offerings of fragrant havi reaches you and serves you. The fire of yajna is burning in the house of the yajamana, which, like the radiations of sunlight, activates the catalysis of heat and water in nature and fills up the streams and seas with rain.

Divine Ashvins, life giving powers of natural and human complementarities, whatever appropriate gifts of food and energy worthy of the sages you radiate and vest into herbs and waters, bearing jewels of eternal value, give us too in continuance at the present time as you have been doing for ages immemorial, as you yourself have revealed.

Ashvins, observers of truth and law in theory and practice, this yajna of adoration and liberal havi presided over by Vedic scholars and conducted with Vedic hymns for you in honour of Divinity is dedicated to the unity and victory of humanity over want and suffering. Come and join this holy programme of brilliance, peace and settlement for all. These words of song are chanted for you and radiate for you in living vibrations.

O generous and brilliant Ashvins, divine and human givers of success and fulfilment, come and join this thoughtful programme of yajna, this song of adoration, this divine praise and prayer. These sacred words of adoration and acts of homage are offered in your honour. O saints and scholars, divine powers of nature and humanity, listen, and protect and promote us with all time peace, prosperity, happiness and well being all round.

The night takes leave of her sister dawn, darkness departs and clears the path for the light of day. O harbingers of light and wisdom, pioneers of action and achievement, masters of plenty and prosperity, Ashvins, we invoke you at this hour of the dawn, pray come and bless us, and dispel all sin and evil, darkness and ignorance, inaction and poverty far off from us day and night relentlessly.

Ashvins, leaders of light and action, generous givers of fulfilment, this reflection and prayer, these words of adoration, this act and song of homage offered to you, pray accept with pleasure. May these holy tributes reach you. May you, saints and scholars, leaders and pioneers, harbingers of light, freedom and progress, protect and promote us with happiness and well being all round all time.

3. Ete tye bhānavo darśatāyāścitrā uṣaso amṛtāsa āguḥ. Janayanto daivyāni vratānyāpṛṇanto antarikṣā vyasthuḥ.

These are radiations of light divine at the break of dawn, wonderful, sublime and immortal that come and inspire, creating a deep sense of awareness of the ways and disciplines of life divine. They radiate through the cosmic spaces out and vibrate in the space within in the heart and abide in the soul.

1. Udu jyotiramṛtaṁ viśvajanyaṁ viśvānaraḥ savitā devo aśret. kratvā devānāmajaniṣṭa cakṣurāvira-karbhuvanāṁ viśvamuṣāḥ.

Self-refulgent Savita, leading light of the world and inspirer of life, radiates universal and immortal light for the benefit of humanity. The sun, eye of the divinities of nature and humanity, is risen by the cosmic yajna of divinity and the light of dawn illuminates and reveals the entire world to view.

प म पन्था दवयाना अदृश्र मधन्ता वसुभिरिष्कृतासः ।

2. Pra me panthā devayānā adrśrann-amardhanto vasubhiriṣkṛtāsaḥ. Abhūdu keturuṣasaḥ purastāt pratīcyāgādadhi harmyebhyaḥ.

The paths of divinity are clearly visible for me, blissful, unobstructed and unobstructing, showing the order of stars and planets. The morning light of dawn, symbol of divinity, is risen in the east and spreads westward dispelling darkness over high altitudes.

तानीदहानि बहुलान्यासन्या पाचीनमुदिता सूर्यस्य ।

3. Tānīdahāni bahulānyāsan yā prācīnamuditā sūryasya. Yataḥ pari jāra ivācarantyauso dadṛkṣe na punaryatīva.

Many and intense are those resplendent lights of the divine sun arisen long before antiquity from where the dawns are seen rising like fire but never seen returning, deserted or deserting or forsaken.

4. Ta id devānām sadhamāda āsannṛtāvānaḥ kavayaḥ pūrvyāsaḥ. Gūḥm jyoṭiḥ pitaro anva-vindant-satyamantrā ajanayann-uṣāsam.

They alone share communion and union with divinities in the house of meditative yajna who, dedicated to divine truth and law, are veteran visionaries and creative poets, who are sagely father figures and realise the mysterious sublimity of light divine, and who, having realised and mastered the activating mantra, recreate and reveal the light of divinity in spiritual vision.

समान ऊव अधि संगतासुः सं जानतु न यतन्त मिथस्त ।

5. Samāna ūrve adhi saṁgatāsaḥ saṁ jānate na yatante mithaste. Te devānām na minanti vratā-nyamardhanto vasubhir-yādamānāḥ.

Men of vision dedicated to common and equal programmes of vast significance join together not only in mutual covenant but also in absolute union, and together endeavour to realise their divine aim without ever contending against one another. They do not break the laws and disciplines of truth and divinities, nor do they violate the conventions and traditions of the wise and, marching forward by the light of stars and wealth of Vedic knowledge without violence to any one, they attain their aim.

6. Prati tvā stomairīlate vasiṣṭhā uṣarbudhaḥ subhage tuṣṭuvāṁsaḥ. Gavāṁ netrī vājapantī na ucchoṣaḥ sujāte prathamā jarasva.

O dawn, lady of light and good fortune, nobly born of the sun divine, generous sustainer and giver of inspiration and energy, harbinger of light and controller of mind and senses, brilliant and celebrant sages of highest faith and intelligence awake at dawn offer you homage with songs of adoration: Come, first born, light of divinity, shine and bring us too the life divine.

This light divine of eternal life that arises at dawn shines and dispels the darkness of the external and internal world of humanity. It illuminates the mind and soul of the people dedicated to holy truth and the divine law of eternity, perfects their faculties and guides them over the paths and ways of divine pursuits to the accomplishment of success and glory. It bears and brings us the wealth, honour and excellence of life we have heard of since time immemorial and leads us to the eternal light of divinity. Thus is it celebrated by the most brilliant sages of knowledge and wisdom. Pray save us, protect us and advance us with the means and modes of peace and fulfilment all ways, all time.

Lo, there arises the dawn and shines like a youthful maiden breathing, radiating and inspiring life energy and light for the moving world. Let the holy fire be kindled. When it is kindled, it creates the light and dispels the darkness of humanity. This too is the holy fire kindled at the dawn of creation which radiates light and life for the living beings and dispels the darkness of the pre-creation state.

Indra, lord of ruling power, and Varuna, lord of justice, you both together for our people in general provide a very home and comfortable security of life so that they may do their creative and productive work in peace without fear and violence and, in our joint ventures for the nation, we may defeat, better win over, the person who out of hate and malevolence injures or violates the peace of a citizen engaged in continuous work for the nation.

O Indra, lord ruler, and Varuna, lord of justice, grand powers of the common wealth, one of you is called 'Samrat, sovereign ruler of the nation as one collected person', the other is called 'Swarat, autonomous ruler of the judiciary as a sub-system of the sovereign state'. O brave and generous lords, may all the brilliant sages and scholars of the nation and all the divinities of nature in this vast sovereign common wealth of humanity vest you with dignity and power.

(This mantra may also be interpreted as pointing to the two extreme ends, though both mutually balanced, of the sovereign social order, whether the order is a nation or the entire human world on earth. One is 'Samrat' the total sovereign system with one supreme head, the other is 'swarat', the autonomous individual, the citizen with his or her freedoms and loyalty to the national law, and the balance of rights and duties of the 'swarat' individual.)

With your light and lustre, O Indra and Varuna, sovereign ruler and lord of independent judgement, state and the individual, general will and collective power and individual will and autonomous judgement, together you break open the flood gates of waters and national energy in social dynamics. You raise the social brilliance in the regions of culture and enlightenment to the highest degrees of freedom and sovereignty.

O lords of power and judgement, together in the joy of this wonderful ruling order, you replenish the dry streams of life to flow with fresh energy and energise our bored will and intellect with new vision, ambition and resolution all round.

Indra and Varuna, ruler and preserver of both the citizen and the state for earthly as well as for higher values, men of fiery passion and action call upon you in their joint struggles for advancement and fresh acquisitions. Men of settled vision and judgement seated on firm ground call upon you in their efforts for peace, preservation and stability. Creators of the wealth of the nation thus, we all call upon you in our battles for both yoga and kshema, progress and preservation in balance, constant watchers and instantly responsive as you are.

Indra and Varuna, with your strength and vision you rule and advance and thus serve all these children of the earth. Mitra, power of love and friendship with warmth of passion for peace and stability serves and supports Varuna, judgement and discrimination for the collective good, and the other, Indra, power and passion for advancement, with all his storm troopers fast as winds fights for the defence and advancement of the good of all.

For the greatness and rising prosperity of the social order of peace and progress, Indra and Varuna augment its power and lustre and preserve and increase what its basic and consolidated national asset is. One of them, Indra, overthrows its unfriendly and hostile opponents who try to sabotage and arrest its progress, and the other, Varuna, even with minimum but convincing power, subdues many devastating critics.

the people and the ruling services invite you in their struggles for the progress of their children and grand children.

May Indra, Varuna, Mitra and Aryama, lord of power, justice and generosity, love and friendship, and guide and lord ruler of the world order, bless us with honour and excellence and give us great good peace and prosperity ever increasing. We pray for the kind and beneficial light of mother Infinity and celebrate the glory of the self-refulgent Savita, lord creator, inspirer of life and protector of the truth and law of this expansive universe.

Indra and Varuna, O warrior and tactician of the commanding order, the bold and brave front rank leaders, seeing your power and performance, march forward and join you with large axes in hand and reach you as leaders with an open door. O fighters, having destroyed the forces of darkness and sabotage, with all your forces protect and promote the noble, the generous and the dedicated people of society.

Where the leading brave of the nation meet with banners in hand, where there would be but little good in battle or in contest, where the people of the earth quake with fear though they see the light and joy of heaven otherwise, of that, O Indra and, Varuna, speak to us.

3. Sam bhūmyā antā dhvasirā adrṣatendr-āvaruṇā divi ghoṣa āruhat. Asthur-janānāmupa māmaraṭayo'rvāgavasā havanaśrutā gatam.

Indra and Varuna, destroyers of the evil and the violent, look to the ends of the earth, let the clang of arms and roar of battle rise to the sky, let the people's enemies stand at the door and face me, and in any crisis, as you hear the signal and the clarion call, come forward with all the defence forces.

Indra and Varuna, leading warrior and enemy destroyer and saviour and rebuilder, facing and breaking the difficult enemy lines of offence with fatal weapons, protect the generous ruler of the land. In this strife of battle, listen to the earnest voices of the priests engaged in yajnic development of the nation, and let the priest-like prophecy and expectations of the people seeking peace and freedom come true.

Indra, lord of power, Varuna, lord of justice and mercy, the evil deeds of the violent and the adversities caused by the saboteurs torment me all round. You alone rule and order the power and prosperity of both terrestrial and celestial worlds. Protect us on the earth and lead us to the light and joy of freedom beyond the bounds of earth.

Both the people and the leaders call upon you in battles, O Indra and Varuna, for victory in battle and regaining of success and prosperity. They call upon you in battle where you defend the generous ruler against tens of tormenting dictators and, alongwith the ruler, you save three orders of scholars and sages in three fields of arts, sciences and universal values of Dharma and justice.

Indra and Varuna, spirit of life and sense of judgement victorious over evil and impiety, even ten brilliant but impious and impulsive forces together cannot fight against the versatile and generous ruler of the self and society. The prayers of holy men dedicated to divinity in the house of yajna and charity come true and the divinities of humanity and nature both join the invocations of these holy men in their acts of piety and divine service.

Of Indra and Varuna, one destroys evil and darkness in the battles of life, the other always protects the laws and observances of pious people's holy disciplines. O generous and divine lords of power and wisdom, we invoke you and offer you homage with adorations and holy presentations. May Indra and Varuna give us a happy home of peace and prosperity.

May Indra, Varuna, Mitra and Aryama bless us with power, justice, love and friendship, and passion for progress, honour and excellence with settlement in a happy home wherein, ever advancing, we may live a life of truth, observing the eternal law of Dharma operative in nature and humanity. We pray for the blissful light of mother Infinity and celebrate in song the glory of Savita, lord giver of the light of life and inspiration for the True, the Good and the Beautiful in existence.

Indra-Varuna, self-refulgent rulers of life, Supreme Lord's power and justice, light and rectitude, law and freedom, reward and punishment, I pray, let me turn to you and abide there. I invoke you with salutations and homage worthy for divinity in this yajna of life full of love and free from violence. The ladle in all universal forms overflowing with ghrta held in hands spontaneously moves to you to make the offer of total surrender to the sacred fire.

Indra-Varuna, pray raise our yajnic acts in the business of life to beauty and grace. May you vest our songs of adoration and gratitude with love and faith among the wise and brave of the community. May wealth, honour and excellence of life inspired by divinities come to us. May you, Indra-Varuna, help us cross the seas of life with cherished means of protection and progress.

Let my voice of adoration reach Indra and Varuna at the earliest and bring protection and progress for our children and grand children at the fastest. Let us all blest with the jewels of life reach the house of yajna and attain the blessings of Indra and Varuna. O divinities of nature and humanity, saints and sages, protect and promote us with all modes and means of safety, security and all round well being of life for all time.

I dedicate and sanctify the song of adoration free from evil, enmity and malice, and offer it to Indra and Varuna, having made a presentation of holy soma to the ruler warrior and the chief of justice. It is soft and sweet and brilliant, full of power like the divine dawn. May Indra and Varuna come and inspire us to shine in our battle of life against evil with full divine protection.

And those who fight and oppose us in this struggle of the social order, and in those battles in which the enemy weapons fall upon our flags of honour, all those enemies and crooked adversaries, O Indra and Varuna, pray frustrate and destroy with the force and justice of the social order.

Intelligent and brilliant people in their own right of quality and social prestige select, appoint and consecrate Indra and Varuna, brilliant and noble authorities, in their offices and assemblies. One of them, Varuna, manages the different orders of people, the other, Indra, destroys forces of darkness and enmity who refuse to be managed otherwise.

May this earnest and vibrating voice of homage and prayer reach Indra and Varuna for the protection and progress of our children and grand children. May we, blest with the jewels of life, reach and join the noble assembly of the enlightened and participate in the yajnic business of the nation. O Indra and Varuna, O enlightened citizens and leaders of humanity, protect and promote us with all safeguards and securities and all modes of happiness and well being all ways all time.

Firm in balance are the creations of this Varuna, light of the universe, by virtue of his greatness as he holds and stabilises the heaven and earth and indeed the expanding universe. He energises and impels the high heavens of bliss and the distant stars and lights them both day and night, pervading the vast world of existence. Only the wise and brave know this.

Varuna, what is the greatest sin or crime for which you punish your friend and celebrant? Speak of that to me, O lord rare to be attained, self-refulgent and self-omnipotent. Save me, lord. A sinless innocent soul, post haste I come to you with homage, prayer and surrender.

Loosen and free us from weaknesses inherited from the forefathers. Save us from the sins and evils committed by ourselves in person. O sovereign ruler, free us from animal passions, like the thief from jail, and relieve the earnest celebrant from passions and slavery, like the calf set free from bonds of the tether.

It is not our own essential virtue, competence and expertise that is the cause of evil and the fall. It is liquor, anger, gambling and infatuation, ignorance and loss of good sense that is the cause of evil. It is also the company of the wrong senior with the junior and the dreams of unrealistic ambition that tempt a person to fall a victim to falsehood and evil.

Let me, an innocent person free from evil, do unreserved service and offer sincere prayers like a dedicated servant to Varuna, refulgent and generous lord giver of sure and complete fulfilment. He, brilliant and generous lord of all, wiser than any one else, omniscient master, enlightens the ignorant and inspires the holy and intelligent, and leads them to honour and prosperity.

Varuna, self-existent lord of omniscience and omnipotence, may this song of adoration reach your heart and be graciously accepted. Let there be all good and full protection for what we have achieved, and all good grace and advancement for what we may further achieve. O lord, O divinities of nature and humanity, pray protect and promote us with all happiness and well being all ways all time, bless us with yoga and kshema in peace.

1. Radat patho varuṇaḥ sūryāya prārṇānsi samu-driyā nadīnām. Sargo na sṛṣṭo arvatīr-ṛtāyañ-cakāra mahīr-avanīr-ahabhyah.

The universe is a mighty explosion of thought, energy and matter let free like a cosmic horse on course: Varuna, lord of supreme power, intelligence and imagination, carving out orbits for the self-refulgent stars, setting cosmic oceans into floods of rivers heading for the sea, structuring mighty moving galaxies and great planets and satellites from the stars, all moving in observance of the cosmic law.

Your spirit, O Varuna, sets the currents of energy in motion like winds and energises the cosmic particles anew, once asleep all, now rushing restless for food for existence like a horse moving for grass. O lord immanent and transcendent, all this great expansive universe of heaven and earth, all these abodes of existence, are homes of life dear to you, dear to the living forms.

Currents of cosmic intelligence which are observant forces of Varuna appointed to their task, together watch both heaven and earth and they also observe and inspire to thought and imaginative creation, poets, intellectuals and devotees constantly dedicated to yajna all of whom observe the laws of eternal truth and Dharma and celebrate the divinity of Varuna.

Varuna, vibrant lord of cosmic intelligence, supreme teacher, spoke to me, dedicated faithful disciple, that divine nature, divine speech, divine earth and sacred cow, each inviolable, bears thrice seven names. Enlightening the scholar approaching the teacher with homage and reverence, the omniscient lord speaks of the supreme state of freedom and bliss as the mystery of existence.

Three heavens of light are contained in the presence of this lord Varuna and there are three orders of the earthly globe over which there are six variations. The all - wise refulgent omnipotent ruler Varuna created all this universe including the vibrant and glorious sun in the blissful heaven high up for light of the world.

1. Pra śundhyuvaṁ varuṇāya preṣṭhām matim vasiṣṭha mīlhuṣe bharasva. Ya īmarvāñcam karate yajatram sahasrāmāgham vṛṣaṇam bṛhantam.

Holiest sage and brilliant scholar, develop pure, purifying and transparent intelligence of the dearest order and offer reverence and yajnic homage to Varuna, potent and generous lord inspirer of life, who creates, energises and brings us the great adorable sun and the expansive and deepening cloud of showers bearing a thousandfold wealth of life.

5. Kva tyāni nau sakhyā babhūvuḥ sacāvahe yadavṛkaṁ purā cit. Brhantaṁ mānaṁ varuṇa svadhāvaḥ sahasradvāraṁ jagamā gṛhaṁ te.

O lord, where are those days of dawn, that flight of bliss, that friendship and intimacy we lived together ever before without violation? What happened? O Varuna, lord of absolute power and bliss, let us come home with you, to that very state of bliss open a thousand ways, that grace abounding and infinite.

2. Īśānāya prahutiṁ yasta ānaṭ śuciṁ somam śucipāstubhyaṁ vāyo. Kṛṇoṣi taṁ martyeṣu praśastaṁ jātojāto jāyate vājyasya.

Vayu, ruler, controller and giver of energy, whoever the person makes an offering to you with yajna for energy and serves you with pure soma of delight, you raise him to honour and fame among mortals and, O protector, promoter and lover of purity and energy, he grows stronger and more powerful as he emerges in one manifestation and birth after another.

3. Rāye nu yaṁ jajñatū rodasīme rāye devī dhiṣaṇā dhāti devam. Adha vāyurṇ niyutaḥ saścata svā uta śvetarṇ vasudhitirṇ nireke.

Vayu is the brilliant and generous power of energy which the heaven and earth generate for the production of wealth, the light of which the divine voice of omniscience, Veda, holds and bears for the knowledge of humanity. This pure and brilliant power, treasure hold of wealth and prosperity, Vayu, its own companion forces serve, and bear it to fight out want and poverty where they prevail.

4. Ucchannuṣasaḥ sudinā ariprā uru jyotir-vividur-dīdhyānāḥ. Gavyaṁ cidūrvamuṣijo vi vavru-steṣāmanu pradivaḥ sasrurāpaḥ.

Pure and immaculate lights of dawn arise and shine to bring in the happy day. Shining they collect and radiate vast light for the world, and, brilliant with beauty and living energy, they uncover and reveal the wealth of the earth and vast sky. Consequently the lights of dawn lead to radiations of light from the sun and the day's activities follow and proceed.

5. Te satyena manasā dīdhyānāḥ svena yuktāsaḥ kratunā vahanti. Indravāyū vīravāhaṁ ratham vā-mīśānayaorabhi prkṣaḥ sacante.

They, Indra and Vayu, electric and wind energies, kindled, energised and developed by sincere application of the scholar's mind and, together augmented with homogeneous means and materials, give power, by yajnic combustion, to the chariot for transport of the brave. O scientists of wind and electricity, ruling the field of energy, all friends, associates and colleagues in the field join you in kindred programmes.

Indra and Vayu, scholars and scientists of wind and electric energy, those leaders, pioneers and rulers, who bear and bring us peace, prosperity and joy with lands, cows and holy speech, horses and other means of transport, and golden wealths of the world, are brave heroes. They attain full health and longevity in the world for themselves and others, and win in the battles of life over enemies and negativities by virtue of warriors provided with fast and efficient means of transport and communication.

1. Kuvidaṅga namasā ye vṛdhāsaḥ purā devā anavadyāsa āsan. Te vāyave manave bādhitāyā- 'vāsayann-uṣasaṁ sūryeṇa.

Often indeed the veteran scholars of old who were brilliant and admirable beyond reproach and question, working with reverence and dedication for the advancement of knowledge and for giving new inspiration and vibrant motivation to humanity in crisis, kindled the yajnic fire at dawn and ushered in a new era with the rise of the sun.

Indra and Vayu, leaders of power and vibrancy of passion motivated like prophets, you are not for oppression but for the defeat of oppression. You are protectors of humanity and pioneers over paths of progress for many many months, seasons and years. O harbingers of power and progress, our song of adoration addressed to you seeks compassion and prays for a new rise in wealth and well being.

3. Pīvo-annān rayivṛdhaḥ sumedhāḥ śvetaḥ siṣakti niyutāmabhiśrīḥ. Te vāyave samanaso vi tasthur-viśvannaraḥ svapatyāni cakruḥ.

Leaders and pioneers of holy intelligence and yajna augment foods, they augment wealth, which the sun like a white orb of heaven favours as it energises the grace and power of the yajnic acts of pioneers with the light of its rays. The Dedicated Scholars together of one mind and resolution for the inspiration and motivation of the people stay strong and, being leaders of the world, they execute holy programmes leading to nobler generations of the future.

8. Etā agna āśuṣāṇāsa iṣṭīryuvoḥ sacābhyaśyāma vājān. Mendro no viṣṇurmarutaḥ pari khyan yūyam pāta svastibhiḥ sadā naḥ .

Agni, lord of light and knowledge, we, your devotees, reaching you in earnest with ardent desire, pray that we may have the favour of fulfilment with knowledge and power and win strength and success in our battles of life, and may Indra, lord omnipotent, Vishnu, lord omnipresent, and Maruts, energies and inspirations of all moving Vayu, never forsake us. O lords of light, power and inspiration, O saints and scholars, pray you all protect and promote us with all means and modes of well being and fulfilment all ways all time.

Indra-Agni Devate, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

इयं वामस्य मन्मन् इन्दाग्नी पूव्यस्तुतिः ।
अभाद वृष्टिर्वाजनि ॥ १ ॥

1. *Iyaṁ vāmasya manmana indrāgnī pūrvyastutiḥ.
Abhrād vṛṣṭirivājani.*

Indra and Agni, lords of action and enlightenment, this principal and ancient song of adoration for you from the celebrant flows spontaneously like rain from the cloud.

शृणुतं जरितुहवमिन्दाग्नी वनतं गिरः ।

इशाना पिप्यतं धियः ॥ २ ॥

2. *Śṛṇutaṁ jaritur-havam-indrāgnī vanataṁ girah.
Īśānā pipyataṁ dhiyaḥ.*

Indragni, lords of action and enlightenment, listen to the celebrant's song of adoration, accept and appreciate the words, O sovereign lords, and refine and energise his thought and imagination to flow into expression and action.

मा पापत्वाय ना नरन्दाग्नी माभिर्शस्तय ।

मा न' रीरधतं निद ॥ ३ ॥

3. *Mā pāpatvāya no narendrāgnī mābhiśastaye.
Mā no rīradhataṁ nide.*

Indragni, leaders of humanity, pioneers of progress and enlightenment, deliver us not to the sinner, not to the tyrant, not to the reviler. Let us be free.

धिया धना अवस्यवः ॥ ४ ॥

4. *Indre agnā namo bṛhat suvṛktim-erayāmahe.
Dhiyā dhenā avasyavaḥ.*

Salutations and high honour to Indra and Agni, leading lights of action and advancement with enlightenment. Let us offer them high praise and gratitude in the best of words with the best of thoughts. We need protection, and they are protectors and guides in our course of progress.

ता हि शश्वन्त॒ इळत॑ इ॒त्था वि॒पास॑ ऊ॒तय॑ ।

10. Yat soma ā sute nara indrāgnī ajohavuh.
Saptīvantā saparyavaḥ.

When the soma is pressed out and distilled in yajna and the leading performers with full faith offer it to you in homage, then O Indra and Agni, guides and pioneers of light and action for success, pray accept the call and come post haste to join and enjoy the celebrations.

Destroy with a fatal blow the despicable and disreputable mortal, the negative scholar who abuses knowledge, the demonic destroyer and the rapacious ogre. Churn the sea of evil with heat and burn it up with a single fatal blow.

Mandala 7/Sukta 95

Sarasvati, Sarasvan Devata, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

प ादसा धारसा सस्त्र एषा सरस्वती धरुणमार्यसी पूः ।

1. Pra kṣodasā dhāyasā sasra eṣā sarasvatī dharuṇamāyasī pūḥ. Prabābadhānā rathyeva yāti viśvā apo mahīnā sindhuranyāḥ.

This Sarasvati, perennial stream of living waters and dynamic knowledge, is a treasure fortress of gold that holds all wealth of the world of knowledge. It is a constantly running stream that flows with waters, ever rushing and ever refreshing, towards the infinite ocean of omniscience wherefrom it arises and where it terminates. It goes on and on like a chariot on course in race, collecting and comprehending all other streams of world knowledge by virtue of its all inclusive majesty of character.

एकाचतत्सरस्वती नदीनां शुचियती गिरिभ्य आ समुदात ।

2. Ekācetat sarasvatī nadīnām śuciryatī giribhya ā samudrāt. Rāyaścetantī bhuvanasya bhūrer-ghṛtaṁ payo duduhe nāhuṣāya.

Sarasvati is the one stream of streams which is crystalline pure, receives her content from the eternal ocean, emerges from the mountains and flows to the ocean, collecting on way reflecting and revealing the wealths of this great existential world and yielding water, milk, honey and the cream of enlightenment for humanity.

स वावृध नया याषणासु वृषा शिशुवृषभा यज्ञियासु । स

3. Sa vāvṛdhe naryo yoṣaṇāsu vṛṣā śīśurvṛṣabho yajñiyāsu. Sa vājinam maghavadbhyo dadhāti vi sātaye tanvaṁ māmṛjīta.

That human wealth of knowledge revealed by the eternal stream grows for humanity. It is inspiration in the divine hymns of the Veda, holy fire in the yajna vedis, destroyer of ignorance, and the shower of rains for the yajnic priests of the world of business. It bears and brings passion and ambition for the people of honour and excellence and strengthens and refines the body, mind and spirit for success and victory in the battles of life.

4. Uta syā naḥ sarasvatī juṣāṇopa śravat subhagā yajñe asmin. Mitajñubhir-namasyair-iyānā rāyā yujā ciduttarā sakhibhyaḥ.

And that perennial living stream, Sarasvati, loving and gracious, overflowing with wealth, honour and excellence, may come, we pray, and listen to us in this yajna of life. When approached by the yajnic discipline with reverence and homage, she showers her favours full of wealth higher and ever more on her devoted friends.

5. Imā juhvānā yuṣmadā namobhiḥ prati stomam sarasvati juṣasva. Tava śarman priyatame dadhānā upa stheyāma śaraṇam na vrkṣam.

Sarasvati, eternal stream of the waters of life, these adorations presented to you with homage and reverence, we pray, accept and cherish at every yajna.

Enjoying your gift of peace and a happy home, let us abide under your divine shelter and sustenance as birds nestle on the tree.

6. Ayamu te sarasvati vasiṣṭho dvārāvṛtasya su-bhago vyāvaḥ. Vardha śubhre stuvate rāsi vājān yūyam pāta svastibhiḥ sadā naḥ.

Sarasvati, crystalline stream of the life and light of eternity, this sagely scholar in search of brilliance opens the double doors of truth, Rtam, the eternal law of the dynamics of existence, and Satyam, the world of existence living constant under the law at the levels of matter, energy and mind enveloping the spirit. O divinity of purity, power and excellence, grow and rise to manifest in the mind and spirit for the celebrant. You give the ultimate wealths and victories of the world. Pray come, arise and bless with the perennial flow. O Mother stream, O saints and sages, teachers and preachers, protect and promote us with all means and modes of happiness and well being all ways all time.

2. Ubhe yat te mahinā śubhre andhasī adhikṣiyanti pūravaḥ. Sā no bodhyavitṛī marutsakhā coda rādho maghonām.

O divine stream of crystalline power and purity, by the grandeur of your light of knowledge devoted celebrants of all time receive both material nourishment and spiritual enlightenment, and thereby achieve both worldly honour and ultimate freedom. O saving spirit, protective mother, companion of the vibrations of divinity, awaken us and inspire in us the power and potential of eternal wealth and grandeur implicit in us and raise it to realisation and perfection.

1. Yajñe divo nṛṣadane pṛthivyā naro yatra deva-yavo madanti. Indrāya yatra savanāni sunve gamanmadāya prathamam vayaśca.

Where in the yajna in the house of assembly, leading lights of humanity from the earth and leading lights of life from heaven join and rejoice in pursuit of divinity, and where the exhilarating essences of soma are distilled for celebration in honour of Indra, lord of the world, there let us join and pray, and may the lord arrive in the first and foremost manifestations of divinity for young and old.

2. Ā daivyā vṛṇīmahe'vāmsi brhaspatirno maha ā sakhāyaḥ. Yathā bhavema mīlhuṣe anāgā yo no dātā parāvataḥ piteva.

And there, O friends, let us pray for the protection and blessings of divinity, and may Brhaspati, lord of the mighty universe, exalt us in the spirit so that we grow sinless in the eyes of the generous lord of life and vitality who alone is our generous giver and supreme saviour as father for children.

3. Tamu jyeṣṭham namasā havirbhiḥ suśevam brahmaṇaspatiṁ grṇīṣe. Indram śloko mahi daivyaḥ siṣaktu yo brahmaṇo devakṛtasya rājā.

The same lord supreme of the universe, merciful protector and saviour, I adore with humility, reverence and offers of homage, and may this song of divine adoration reach the great lord Indra who rules this world of divine creation and reveals the divine Word of the Veda, universal knowledge.

5. Tamā no arkamamṛtāya juṣṭamime dhāsura-mṛtāsaḥ purājāḥ. Śucikrandam yajataṁ pastyā-nām brhaspatim-anarvāṇaṁ huvema.

That self-refulgent adorable Brhaspati, lord sustainer and ruler of the vast world, loved and worshipped for the attainment of the immortal state of bliss, may these Sages of primeval and original vision reveal to us and bring us close to it. That same Brhaspati, incomprehensible supreme lord all loving and enemy to none, celebrated in the purity of divine hymns of the Veda, sole object of the worship and yajnic homage of our citizens in our homes, we invoke and adore.

That lord, Brhaspati, is pure, purifying and sanctifying, infinitely manifest in the countless leaves of the cosmic tree, golden sweet of word and voice in the Veda, ever dynamic in nature and ever rejoicing in the self. He is easy of access, being immanent in the universe and beatific, creating abundant peace, prosperity and joy for the devotees.

O Brahmanaspati, lord sustainer and protector of the vast reality of existence and its law and divine knowledge, this holy song of adoration is addressed to you and Indra in honour of the might and majesty of your glory and divine protection against darkness and evil. Pray listen, and protect our mind and action, awaken the rulers and protectors of our social order, fight out and destroy the enemies and oppositions of the devotees.

Brhaspati, lord of this vast universe, and Indra, you are lords omnipotent of the glory and majesty of the world, you rule and order the light of heaven and the wealths of the earth. Pray bear and bring the light of divinity and wealth of the world to bless the celebrant and the worshipper. O lords and divinities of nature and humanity, protect and promote us with all modes and means of peace, prosperity and excellence all ways all time.

O devotees of creative yajna, at the dawn of the fiery sun, offer refined and energised soma and milk into the fire of yajna in honour of Indra, generous omnipotent ruler of the worlds. Having received exhilarating soma inspiration from the sacred vedi of light, Indra, the ruler, the scholar, the human soul, proceeds to the day's activity with passion for consecrated action every new day.

2. Yad dadhiṣe pradivi cārvannaṁ divedive pītimidasya vakṣi. Uta hr̥dota manasā juṣāṇa uśanni-ndra prasthitān pāhi somān.

Indra, since you have received and internalised the exhilarating soma of the mission of life at the vedi in earlier days, and love to live the taste and message of it every day, then, loving the soma by heart and soul and passionately anxious for action, take the soma offered, and inspire and exhort these yajakas for the appointed tasks of the day.

3. Jajñānaḥ somaṁ sahase papātha pra te mātā mahimānam-uvāca. Endra paprathor-vantrikṣaṁ yudhā devebhyo varivaścakartha.

Aware of the self, knowing your tasks in life, recognising your powers and potential, dedicated to your yajna and your yajnic performers, you drank the soma of initiation for the realisation of your power, patience and passion, and Mother Nature spoke to you and dedicated you to the Infinite and Omnipotent. You fought with courage and fortitude, achieved wondrous peace and prosperity with your warriors for noble humanity, and rose to the skies with honour and fame.

Indra, yours is all this living wealth around which you see under the light of sun. You are the sole master, possessor, ruler, protector and promoter of lands and cows and the lights of knowledge and culture of this earth. We ask of you and solicit wealths of the world for ourselves, because you are the giver.

Brhaspati, lord of the vast universe, Indra, omnipotent and illustrious ruler, you are the lord of the beauty and majesty of the light of heaven and wealths of the earth. You alone rule and order these. Pray bear and bring light and wealth to bless the celebrant and the worshipper. O lord and divinities of nature and humanity, protect and promote us with all modes and means of peace, prosperity and excellence all ways all time.

2. Na te viṣṇo jāyamāno na jāto deva mahimnaḥ paramantamāpa. Udastabhna nākamṛṣvaṁ bṛhantaṁ dādhartha prācīm kakubhaṁ prṥhivyāḥ.

Vishnu, self-refulgent lord immanent and transcendent, no one born either in the past or at present can reach the ultimate bounds of your grandeur and majesty. You uphold the high heaven of boundless glory and divine beauty and joy, and you hold the expanse of the directions of universal space.

3. Irāvati dhenumatī hi bhūtaṁ sūyavasiniṁ manuṣe daśasyā. Vyastabhna rodasī viṣṇavete dādhartha prṥhivīmabhito mayūkhaiḥ.

O heaven and earth full of food and energy, milk and honey, herbs and rejuvenation, givers of food, energy and light of knowledge, both of you are generous for humanity. Vishnu, omnipresent and omnipotent, upholds these heaven and earth worlds and stabilises the earth all round by solar radiations of cosmic energy.

4. Uruṁ yajñāya cakrathuru lokam janayantā sūryam-uṣāsam-agnim. Dāsasya cid vṛṣaśiprasya māyā jaghnathurnarā pṛtanājyeṣu.

Indra-Vishnu, lord omnipotent and omnipresent, leader and maker of the world, creating the sun, dawn and fire you make up this vast world for yajna, evolution and expansion of things at the level of nature and humanity. You also destroy the wiles and crookedness of negative powers even though they be strong and well armed, in close battles among human forces.

5. Indrāviṣṇū dṛaṁhitāḥ śambarasya nava puro navatiṁ ca śnathiṣṭam. Śataṁ varcinaḥ sahasraṁ ca sākaṁ hatho apratyasurasya vīrān.

Indra-Vishnu, lord of unrivalled might and universal presence, you break through the nine and ninety fortified strongholds of the dark and expansive citadels of hoarded treasure and destroy a hundred, even thousand, of the brave warriors together even before the unique evil power is up for defence and offence.

6. Iyam manīṣā bṛhatī bṛhantorukramā tavaśā vardhayantī. Rare vām stomaṁ vidatheṣu viṣṇo pinvatamiṣo vrjaneṣvindra.

This resounding song of thoughtful and conscientious adoration exalting the grand, versatile and mighty Indra-Vishnu, I offer in honour of the lord. Indra-Vishnu, pray exhort our power and exalt our honour and excellence in our yajnic battles of life on the paths of progress.

Vishnu, lord omnipresent of unbounded power, this holy song of adoration I sing and offer to you directly. O lord of blazing lustre, pray accept this homage of mine. May the holy words of my adoration please and exalt you. O lord, O divine powers of nature and humanity, protect and promote us with all modes and means of happiness, prosperity and well being all ways all time.

1. Nū marto dayate saniṣyan yo viṣnava urugāyāya dāśat. Pra yaḥ satrācā manasā yajāta etāvantam naryamāvivāsāt.

That mortal for sure finds success and fulfilment who, while he loves Vishnu, lord omnipresent, gives in charity in service to the lord, and who, with concentrated mind, meditates, worships and exalts the lord of such universal love of infinite measure.

Vishnu, lord omnipresent and omnificient, who fulfil the aspirations of all humanity, bless us with such intelligence, understanding and faith in values of pure and universal character by which we may achieve our target of untarnished happiness and plenty of universal wealth of honour, beauty and complete fulfilment of earthly ambition.

3. Trirdevaḥ pṛthivīmeṣa etāṁ vi cakrame śatar-casaṁ mahitvā. Pra viṣṇurastu tavasastavīyān tveṣaṁ hyasya sthavirasya nāma.

This self-refulgent and self-potent generous lord Vishnu has made and set in motion the three dimensional world of matter, energy and mind by virtue of his own essential power and has vested it with the light of countless stars. Immanent in the world, mighty Vishnu manifests mightier and mightier. The very name of this lord beyond motion is 'Lord of Light.'

4. Vi cakrame pṛthivīmeṣa etāṁ kṣetrāya viṣṇur-manuṣe daśasyan. Dhruvāso asya kīrayo janāsa urukṣitiṁ sujanimā cakāra.

Vishnu, this lord omnipresent, with the desire to give humanity a place of birth and a home for dwelling and sphere of action, made this wide earth and set it in motion. Poet celebrants of this lord, men with constant mind, celebrate the glorious manifested maker and sing that he it is that made the wide earth for their dwelling and place of action.

O lord self-refulgent, you that have made this wide world, I adore today, celebrate and glorify your name: You are the master, lord omniscient of the ways and laws of existence. You are the mighty power, all pervasive far and wide in the moving world, and you are transcendent even beyond.

Vishnu, can that manifestive form of your presence be described or ignored? You yourself reveal in the Veda that you are self - refulgent. Pray do not hide off that form of yours from me, nor the other one which manifests in the divine wrath and punishment in the existential battle between good and evil.

Vishnu, lord omnipresent, I do honour to your presence in song and offer it to you as homage in words. O lord of universal light of life, pray accept this offer of homage. May my words of celebration exalt your presence in manifestation. O lord, O divinities of nature and humanity, pray protect and promote us with all means and modes of peace, prosperity and all round well being all ways all time.

Mandala7/Sukta 101

*Parjanya Devata, Vasishtha or Kumara Agneya
Maitravaruni Rshi*

तिस्त्रा वाचः प वद ज्यातिरगा या एतदुह मधुदाघमूर्धः ।
स वत्सं कृण्वन्गर्भमाषधीनां सद्या जाता वृषभा
ररवीति ॥ १ ॥

1. Tisro vācaḥ pra vada vyotiragrā yā etad duhre madhudogham-ūdhah. Sa vatsam kṛṇvan garbhamoṣadhīnām sadyo jāto vṛṣabho roravīti.

Chant aloud three voices of the divine Word, Rk, Sama and Yajush verses of the four Vedas headed by the light of Divinity symbolised by the eternal Name: AUM. (They comprise the knowledge, action and prayerful gratitude of total human endeavour, the three being 'jnana, karma and upasana.) With yajna they distil from the cosmic ocean the milky essence of liquid vitality, soma, elementary form of the cloud, parjanya. That parjanya produces the fiery electric current (here-in called the calf) which then gives rise to the seed of vegetation in the form of cloud laden with living rain waters. 'The calf' then full grown as 'the virile bull' i.e., the cloud, upon the instant roars and thunders, rains and fertilises the earth with the seed of vegetation.

Note: An extension of this knowledge of the evolution of life on earth is found in the science of 'Panchagni', five fires, in Chhandogya Upanishad 5, 4-9, and in Brhadaranyaka Upanishad 6, 2, 9-14. Chhandogya Upanishad is an explanatory extension of parts of Sama Veda, and Brhadaranyaka Upanishad is a similar work on parts of Yajur Veda. An indication of this science is given in Kathopanishad 1, 1, 12-19. Kathopanishad is an explanatory footnote to Yajur-Veda.

2. Yo vardhana oṣadhīnām yo apām yo viśvasya jagato deva īṣe. Sa tridhātu śaraṇam śarma yaṁsat-trivartu jyotiḥ svabhiṣṭyasme.

He that generates and augments the vegetation and generates the waters and the power that orders and rules over the entire moving universe may, we pray, give us three fold health and peace of body, mind and soul and bless us with threefold shelter against heat, cold and rain, and give us threefold light of earth, heaven and the middle regions for our well being all round.

3. Starīru tvad bhavati sūta u tvad yathāvaśam tanvaṁ cakra eṣaḥ. Pituḥ payaḥ prati gr̥bhṇāti mātā tena pitā vardhate tena putraḥ.

By virtue of you the heifer becomes fertilized, from you this soul assumes the body form it takes according to its latencies, the mother receives the shower of fertility from the father, by which, again, the father receives extension of the self and the off spring grows in body.

4. Yasmin viśvāni bhuvanāni tasthustisro dyāvastredhā sasrurāpaḥ. Trayāḥ kośāsa upa-secanāso madhvaḥ ścotantyaabhito virapṣam.

(What is the ultimate parjanya, source of life and its joy?) That in whom abide all regions of the universe, all three heavens, i.e., highest, middle and the lower, or the earth, the sky and the heaven of light, in whom the three currents of air, light and water energy flow, or the three grades of karma operate, i.e., sanchit (past), kriyamana (present) and prarabdha (conditional) rule the soul, and in whom three body-forms of the soul, i.e., karana sharira (causal body), sukshma sharira (subtle body) and sthula sharira (gross body) overflow with energy and shower the honey sweets of pleasure, enlightenment and the ecstasy of ananda upon the soul in abundance: that is the ultimate cloud from whom life flows.

5. Idaṁ vacaḥ parjanyaāya svarāje hṛdo astvantaram tajjujoṣat. Mayobhuvo vṛṣṭyaḥ santvasme supippalā oṣadhīr-devagopāḥ.

This song of adoration, spontaneous flow of love from the heart, in honour of the self - refulgent sovereign cloud, lord infinite, supreme source of life, may the lord accept and cherish to the very core of divine being, and may the imprint abide in our heart too. May the showers of rain be full of peace and abundance for us. May the herbs and trees be profuse in fruit, give life and protective health to noble humanity and be protected and promoted by noble humanity.

That lord is the infinite reservoir of the seeds of existence, mighty abundant and generous, from whom flows the eternal cycle of life. Therein abides the very soul of existence in motion and stabilised in motion. May the lord sustain, protect and promote the abundant flow of truthful life in action for me for a full span of hundred years. O lord, O clouds, O showers of rain, protect and promote us by all modes and means of happiness and well being all round all ways all time.

1. Parjanyaāya pra gāyata divasputrāya mīlhuṣe. Sa na yavasamicchatu.

Sing in praise of the mighty generous and virile

Parjanya, the cloud that gives us showers of life and joy. It is the child of light and saviour of the brilliant. May the cloud, that bearer and harbinger of life and joy, give us lovely food for body, mind and soul.

2. *Yo garbham-oṣadhīnām gavām kṛṇotyarvatām.

Celebrate the Parjanya, cloud of the showers of life and existence, who generates the Golden Egg, Hiranyagarbha, the seed of moving stars and revolving planets, herbs and trees, cows and horses and the humans, and the cloud which then brings the showers of living waters and vests the seeds of life in earth for vegetation and all that moves and achieves and all the human race for the continuance of life in existence.

3. *Tasmā idāsyē havirjuhātā madhumattamam.

To him, the omnipotent omnificient Parjanya, life bearing cloud, offer the sweetest oblations into the fiery mouth of the yajna vedi with selfless surrender of love and non-violence so that he may keep and help us keep the unity and integrity of the earth and environment well in order and maintain the integrity and harmony of humanity and culture in a state of creativity and progressive continuity of a familial order.

Mandala7/Sukta 103

*Mandukah (Parjanya) Devata, Vasishtha
Maitravaruni Rshi*

संवत्सरं शशयाना ब्राह्मणा वतचारिणः ।

वाचं पजन्यजिन्वितां प मण्डूकां अवादिषुः ॥ १ ॥

1. *Samvatsaram śaśayānā brāhmaṇā vratacār-iṇaḥ.
Vācam parjanyaajinvitām pra maṇḍūkā avādiṣuḥ.*

Devoted Brahmanas dedicated to Brahma, supreme spirit of the universe, observing the sacred vows of discipline in silence for a yearly session, spontaneously burst into the chant of divine hymns, inspired by the cloud of divine showers and celebrate the divine spirit, the divine voice and the divine shower with enthusiasm.

दिव्या आप' अभि यदनमायन्दृतिं न शुष्कं सरसी शयानम ।

गवामह न मायुवत्सिनीनां मण्डूकानां वग्नुरत्रा समति ॥ २ ॥

2. Divyā āpo abhi yadenamāyan dṛtiṁ na śuṣkaṁ sarasī śayānam. Gavāmaha na māyurvatsinī-nām maṇḍūkānām vagnuratrā sameti.

When the heavenly waters shower upon these celebrants, like rain on frogs who have been hybernating in a dry pond like empty leather bags, they revive with exhilaration, they burst into chant, and the chant of these celebrants seems like the eager lowing of mother cows for their calves or like the excitement of the heart on the reflection of a new revelation on the imagination.

यदीमनाँ उशता अभ्यवषीतृष्यावतः पावृष्यागतायाम ।

अखब्रुलीकृत्या पितरं न पुत्रा अन्या अन्यमुप वदन्त-मति ॥ ३ ॥

3. Yadīmenāñ uśato abhyavarṣīt trṣyāvataḥ prāvṛṣyāgatāyām. Akhkhālīkrtyā pitaraṁ na putro anyo anyamupa vadantameti.

And when the rainy season has set in, then, if the cloud showers rain upon these longing celebrants of life, thirsting for the divine waters of life, one goes to meet another, chanting and shouting hilariously like the child going to meet the father.

अ॒न्या अ॒न्यम॒नु गृ॒भ्णात्य॒नार॒पां प॒स॒ग यद॒म॒न्दि॒षाता॒म ।

4. Anyo anyamanu gr̥bhñātyenorapām prasarge yadamandiṣātām. Maṇḍūko yadabhivṛṣṭaḥ kaniṣkan pṛśniḥ saṁpṛṅkte haritena vācam.

On the fall of divine showers they seize upon each other while both experience the ecstasy of meeting and the rain. When the celebrant is soaked in the rain, the spotted versatile one springs forward and communicates with the green one in concentration in the language of intimacy.

यद॒षाम॒न्या अ॒न्यस्य॒ वाचं॒ शा॒क्तस्य॑व॒ वद॑ति॒ शि॒ माणः॑ ।

5. Yadeṣāmanyō anyasya vācam śāktasyeva vadati śikṣamāṇaḥ. Sarvaṁ tadeṣāṁ samṛdheva parva yat suvāco vadathanādhyapsu.

When one of these speaks to the other, they seem to repeat each other's language like pupils repeating the words of the teacher. While communicating like this they jump and play on the water, their bodies swell with joy and the pride of being.

गामायुरक्' अजमायुरक्ः पृश्निरक् हरित एक एषाम ।

6. Gomāyureko ajamāyurekaḥ pṛśnireko harita eka eṣām. Samānaṁ nāma bibhrato virūpāḥ purū-trā vācaṁ pipiśurvadantaḥ.

One of them croaks like a cow, another like a goat, one of them is spotted, another is green. Of different voice and colour, they bear the same one name, the “manduka”, the celebrant, but they seem to communicate in many different languages.

बाह्यणास' अतिरात्र न साम सरा न पूणमभिता वदन्तः ।
संवत्सरस्य तदहः परिष्ठयन्मण्डूकाः पावृषीणं बभूव ॥ ७ ॥

7. Brāhmaṇāso atirātre na some saro na pūrṇa-mabhito vadantaḥ. Saṁvatsarasya tadahaḥ pariṣṭha yanmaṇḍūkāḥ prāvṛṣīṇaṁ babhūva.

O Brahmanas, devotees of supreme Brahman, at the end of the annual session when the last night is over, then, at the time before dawn, abide as in meditation and yajnic celebration just like the frogs who play, rejoice and celebrate around the overflowing lake when the showers of the season begin.

बाह्यणासः सामिना वाचमकत बह्व कृण्वन्तः परिवत्स-

8. Brāhmaṇāsaḥ somino vācamakrata brahma kṛṇvantāḥ parivatsarīṇam. Adhvaryavo ghar-miṇaḥ siṣvidānā āvirbhavanti guhyā na ke cit.

Brahmanas engaged in the yearly soma yajna for peace and harmony conduct the yajna in honour of the Supreme Brahman and chant the Vedic mantras at the end of the first year. The priests facing the fire and soaked in sweat emerge as if from seclusion in the cave.

द्वहि॑तिं जुगु॒पुद्वा॒दश॑स्य ऋ॒तुं नरा॑ न प॒मि॒नन्त्यु॒त ।

सं॒वत्स॒र पा॒वृष्या॑गतायां त॒प्ता घ॒मा अ॑श्नुवत विसृ॒गम ॥ ९ ॥

9. Devahitiṃ jugupurdvādaśasya ṛtuṃ nara na praminantye. Samvatsare prāvṛṣyāgatāyām taptā ghamā aśnuvate visargam.

These Brahmanas, leading lights of the yajnic order, do not neglect, never violate, but strictly abide by the divinely ordained twelve month seasons and the discipline and observances prescribed. At the end of the year when the rains set in they emerge seasoned and tempered in the heat of yajnic fire and attain their freedom.

गामा॑युरदा॒दज॑मा॒युरदा॑त्पृ॒श्नि॒रदा॑द्धरि॒ता ना॒ वसू॑नि । गवां॑

10. Gomāyuradādajamāyuradāt pṛśniradāddharito no vasūni. Gavāṃ maṇḍūkā dadataḥ śatāni sahasrasāve pra tiranta āyuh.

All those that speak and sound like nature in motion give us something; all those that speak and sound like nature and spirit unborn and eternal give us something; all those that speak and sound like the spectrum of colours in various forms give us something; all those that speak and sound like the dark and green in life and nature give us something; all these give us wealths of the world. Indeed all that speak and sound and celebrate nature and the eternal spirit of nature give us hundreds of wealths and values of existence on the move, advance us and give us full health and age in the thousandfold business of creative living and lead us to fulfilment and ultimate freedom. (Such is the gift of nature in the rainy season.)

Indra-Soma, O lord and commander of power, peace and justice, O lord and master keeper of love, peace and harmony, subject the evil and wicked to the heat of discipline and correction or punish and reduce them to nullity. O generous and virile lord and ruler, let not the forces of darkness grow, keep them down, let not the misguided rise and spread out, shut these down and far off. Let the hoarders, grabbers, ogres and devourers be subjected to law and punishment, destroy the exploiters, stop them and let their fangs be blunted and rooted out.

Indra-Soma, lord and master of peace and power, love and justice, let the sinner and the criminal, the supporter and admirer of sin and crime along with the sin and crime, and the tormentor of the good and innocent go to the fire of discipline, punishment, or elimination like a handful of dirt meant for the fire. Never compromise with the enemy of nature, divinity, humanity and the wisdom of humanity. Rule out the cannibal and the carrion eater, the man of hate and evil eye, the sceptic, the cynic and the negationist. For them, have the disdain they deserve and either correct them or eliminate them.

Indra-Soma, fix the evil doer and throw him into a deep dungeon of darkness without remission so that by reason of that punishment no one again may raise his head for evil doing. That power of yours full of patience, fortitude and courage, that righteous passion of yours be for the destruction of evil and sabotage against life and social harmony.

Indra-Soma, from heaven and earth, from thunder and lightning and the showers of clouds, from the light of idealism, love and generosity and down to earth realism, bring unfailing laws of punishment and correction against sin and crime, acts and policies against poverty, disease, unemployment and wilful sloth, and against the supporters of sin and crime as well as against compromisers with negativities and negationists of evil. Enact law of incentive and encouragement for the generous, and blazing prohibitions for the adamant evil so that you nip and burn off rising crime and evil in the bud.

Indra-Soma, lord of power and force, lord of peace and harmony, turn all round, revolve your search lights and from the skies shoot out your weapons of defence and offence, and with fiery, thunder-tipped, fatally destructive, irresistible and inviolable weapons fix the voracious ogres, strike them on the precipice and throw them into the abyss, running off into silence and oblivion without uttering a sigh of pain or voice of protest.

Indra-Soma, leading powers of governance and peace, like mighty forces in harness ruling the nation, may this prayer of mine, which, with the best of my intention and understanding I address to you as an exhortation, reach you and inspire you and guide you all round, and may you, like the protector and ruler of the nation as you are, make these words of prayer, exhortation and adoration fruitful.

And remember, be watchful and alert against the malignant, evil and treacherous forces, ward them off and eliminate them with the fastest interceptors and destroyers at the very outset. Indra-Soma, let there be no peace, nothing easy, for the evil doer whoever any time may try to injure, sabotage or enslave us out of jealousy, malignity or enmity.

And while I live and act and behave with a mature mind of purity and truth, if someone malign me with false words, let him be caught up like water in the hand grip and evaporate in the heat and, O lord Indra, ruler and law giver of power, let him be reduced to nothing because he speaks nothing but falsehood.

9. Ye pākaśamsaṁ viharanta evairye vā bhadraṁ dūṣayanti svadhābhiḥ. Ahaye vā tān pradadātu soma ā vā dadhātu nirṛterupasthe.

O Soma, lord of peace and justice, if there are those who with their smartness and fast actions malign, lacerate and deprive the man of purity, truth and immaculate honour and spotless reputation, or with their powers and prestige denigrate the man of goodness and charitable action and bring disgrace upon him, deliver such men to the sufferance of darkness and the pain of remorse or let them suffer the fangs of deprivation themselves.

10. Yo no rasam dipsati pitvo agne yo aśvānām yo gavām yastanūnām. Ripuḥ stenaḥ steyakṛd dabhrametu ni ṣa hīyatām tanvā tanā ca.

Whoever pollutes the flavour, taste and vitality of our food and injures or impairs the vigour and power of our horses, cows and our bodies, let such an enemy, the thief, the robber and saboteur, O lord of light and vitality, Agni, be reduced to nullity and himself suffer debility of body and even deprivation from self-extension and further growth.

11. Paraḥ so astu tanvā tanā ca tisraḥ pṛthivīradho astu viśvāḥ. Prati śuṣyatu yaśo asya devā yo no divā dipsati yaśca naktam.

O divinities of nature and humanity, he who wants to injure and destroy us in the day and in the night, must stay far off by his personal presence and also by the progeny of his evil tendencies and even fall lower than all the three orders of earthly existence, i.e., lower far than the good, the bad and the indifferent. His honour and reputation would dry up and evaporate to zero and there would be none even to remember him after. Let it be so with such a person.

12. Suvijñānaṁ cikituṣe janāya saccāsacca vacasī paspr̥dhāte. Tayoryat satyaṁ yataradr̥jīyastadit somo'vati hantyaśat.

Words of truth and words of untruth rival and contend with each other. Of these, the one that is true to the extent it is true and that which is simple and natural, this Soma, lord of peace, harmony and the goodness of life, preserves and protects, and the untrue, he destroys. This simple and straight natural knowledge, the lord reveals for the man who has the desire and ambition to know the truth and reality of life.

13. Na vā u somo vṛjinam hinoti na kṣatriyaṁ mithuyā dhārayantam. Hanti rakṣo hantyaśad vadantam-ubhāvindrasya prasitau śayāte.

Soma, lord of truth, peace and harmony, does not call forth the crooked to the distinction between truth and untruth, nor does he impel the selfish kshatriya, ruler administrator, who parades his power and valour in a false manner, nor does he incite the two toward the untrue. But he does destroy the evil and the wicked and also the one who speaks the untruth, since both the evil and the liar end up in the bonds of Indra, lord of justice and power.

14. Yadi vāhamanṛtadeva āsa moghaṁ vā devāñ apyūhe agne. Kimasmabhyaṁ jātavedo hrñīṣe droghavācaste nirṛthaṁ sacantām.

If I were a worshipper of falsehood as my divine ideal, or if I adore the lord and divinities falsely, deceiving them as if, then O lord of light and truth, Agni, you would be angry with me. But I have not been thus, then why would you, knowing everything born in existence, feel angry with us? Not at all, because only the speakers of falsehood would suffer your wrath and punishment.

If I were a demon on the move, and if I tormented any person in life, then let me suffer death today just now. But I am not such, nor have I done so. Then let that man be forsaken of all his ten faculties of power and prana who falsely proclaims that I am a demonic tormentor of others.

May such a falsifier fall to the abyss as the worst of all living beings.

O Maruts, vibrant social powers of vigilance and action, stay among the people, keenly watch for the forces of evil and violence, and there, grab them and crush them all that fly about like birds over the nights and cause disturbance and violence in the divine morning yajnas of love and non-violence for creative production and advancement.

Indra, lord of power and justice, from the light of heaven and wisdom of the sages, bring up and strike the thunderbolt of justice and correction tempered and sharpened with soma for peace and progress, and refine and enlighten the noble people dedicated to peace and happiness. From front and back, up and down, seize the wicked and the destroyers and punish them with the bolt.

These miscreants with the mentality of street curs roam around, pull people down, and try to damage Indra, the ruler, who is otherwise indomitable. Indra then, commander of power and force, sharpens the thunderbolt, the edge of justice and punishment, for these crafty saboteurs on the prowl and strikes the fatal blow upon them.

Indra is the lordly power that throws off the upcoming saboteurs who damage the inputs and infrastructure of yajnic development, he does so for the peace and progress of the human community. He is mighty powerful just like what the axe is for the wood, breaking down the evil and wicked destroyers like pots of clay whenever they raise their head.

Indra, refulgent and potent ruler of the world, crush the evil and the wicked like pieces of clay with a stone: the fiend in the garb of an owl or an owlet or a dog or a wolf or a hawk or a vulture. They are covert, stealthy, clever, jealous and growling, cruel destroyers, cunning and voracious.

Let no wicked demonic forces harm and destroy us. Let the darkness of tormentors harming us either by joint force or by doubt and scepticism be off. May the earth protect us against earthly sin and crime. Let the sky protect us against dangers from above.

O friends, do not worship any other but One, be firm, never remiss, worship only Indra, sole lord absolute, omnipotent and infinitely generous, and when you have realised the bliss of the lord's presence, sing songs of divine adoration spontaneously, profusely, again and again.

Worship Indra only, who most spontaneously rushes to the devotee for protection and upon the evil for punishment, correction or destruction. He is profusely and potently generous, free from age and decay, patient and forbearing giver of peace and nourishment to people like the meek cow and motherly earth, saviour from hate and jealousy, most adorable, giver of both material well being (abhyudaya) and spiritual freedom (nihshreyas), most munificent and majestic, and lord ruler and protector of both nature and the soul.

O celebrants of Indra, lord of the thunderbolt, sing hymns of adoration in Gayatri music in honour of Indra who is breaker of the strongholds of darkness which oppose and oppress the lord's devotees, so that, pleased by these adorations, the lord may reveal his presence and grace the mind and vedi of the enlightened sages and break through the citadels of darkness to bless the devotees.

10. Ā tvadya sabardughām huve gāyatravepasam. Indram dhenum sudughām-anyām-iṣamur-udhārām-aramkṛtam.

Today I invoke Indra, I invoke the motherly spirit of the universe, giver of total fulfilment of the heart's desire, pleased and stirred by the chant of Gayatri songs of adoration, omnipotent and omnificent, generous as Mother Nature, giver of ample gifts beyond the earth and the earthly cow, harbinger of showers of the cherished nectar milk of life, all blissful and gracious.

11. Yat tudat sūra etaśam vaṅkū vātasya paṇinā. Vahat kutsam-ārjuneyam śatakratuḥ tsarad gandharvam-astr̥tam.

Indra, lord immanent, omnipresent and all energiser, gives the initial stroke of motion to everything on the move such as the sun and the cloud by the waves of cosmic energy. Thus the lord of countless actions of cosmic yajna brings the thunderstroke of cosmic energy to move the sun, wielder of the earth, and he brings the thunder stroke of lightning to break the cloud into rain. (Indra thus is the unmoved, all immanent, original mover of the universe.)

12. Ya rte cidabhiśriṣaḥ purā jatrubhya ātrdaḥ. Saṁdhātā saṁdhiṁ maghavā purūvasur-iṣkartā vihrutaṁ punaḥ.

Indra is that vibrant immanent lord of unbounded natural health and assertive life energy who, without piercing and without ligatures, provides for the original jointure of the series of separate vertebrae and collar bones and then, later, heals and sets the same back into healthy order if they get dislocated or fractured.

Indra, lord almighty, maker and breaker of clouds and mountains, free from anger and fear we adore you and pray: Give us the grace that we may never be like the lowest of human species with nothing to be proud of, let us never be like the indifferent and the depressed, let us never be reduced to the state of forsaken thickets of dead wood.

Indra, omnipotent lord, destroyer of darkness and ignorance, we pray that, gently and at peace without anger or impatience, we always worship and meditate on you and, by virtue of your grandeur and glory, we should celebrate and exalt your honour and rejoice with exciting songs and yajnic sessions.

O lord, pray come and accept the joint praise and adorations of your friends and devotees. And may the spontaneous and heart felt prayers and adorations of the wealthy and powerful also reach you today. And now it is my time and desire to offer my song of adoration.

O friends and celebrants of Indra, lord omnipotent, extract the soma with grinders, mix and stir it in waters. Then leading lights of yajna, refining it like the concentration of sun rays, offer it into the fire and milk out waters in showers from space for the flowing streams.

Note: This mantra is a metaphor of meditation and spiritual realisation also. When you churn the world of your sense experiences, thought and memory, extract the essential value and offer it into the fire of meditation, then the light of divinity descends on you and your life is changed. It is then that the light of divinity flows into the channels of your thought and action.

Bhūrṇiṁ mṛgaṁ na savaneṣu cukrudhaṁ ka īśānaṁ na yāciṣat.*

O lord, always beseeching you for one thing or another with my words of prayer as with each drop of soma offered to you, I pray, I may not provoke you to anger in yajna, you who are infinite giver and sole ruler of the universe like a lion of the forest. Listen, O lord, who doesn't ask of the ruler and the munificent?

मद॑न॒षितं॑ मद॑मु॒गमु॒गण॑ शव॑सा ।

वि॒श्व॑षां तरु॒तारं॑ मद॒च्युतं॑ मद॒ हि ष्मा॑ ददा॒ति नः॑ ॥ २१ ॥

21. *Madeneṣitaṁ madam-ugram-ugreṇa śavasā.
Viśveṣāṁ tarutāraṁ madacyutaṁ made hi śmā dadāti naḥ.*

When the lord is pleased with our devotion, then he grants us the most exciting joy along with brilliant strength and power which we love and pray for with enthusiasm and which eliminates all pride of the ego and helps us cross over all challenges of life.

शवा॑र् वा॒या पु॒रु द्वा॒ मता॑य द॒शुष॑ ।

स सु॑न्व॒त च॑ स्तु॒वत च॑ रा॒सत॑ वि॒श्व॒गूता॑ अ॒रिष्टु॑तः ॥ २२ ॥

22. Śevāre vāryā puru devo martāya dāśuṣe. Sa sunvate ca stuvate ca rāsate viśvagūrto ariṣṭutah.

In the treasure hold of yajna, the self-refulgent lord universally adored keeps wealth and excellence of choice for the generous mortal which he, acknowledged and adored even by adversaries, gives to the celebrant and the worshipful lover of soma for homage to the lord.

ए॒न्द्र॒ याहि॑ म॒त्स्व॒ चि॒त्र॒णं द॒व॒ राध॑सा ।

23. Endra yāhi matsva citreṇa deva rādhasā. Saro na prāsyudaram sapītibhirā somebhiruru sphiram.

Indra, lord of glory, come with various wondrous forms of wealths of the world and let us rejoice in the bliss of your presence. Like the universal reservoir, fill our vast world of existence with exciting and soothing wealth, honour and excellence for complete self-fulfilment.

आ त्वा॑ स॒हस्र॑मा श॒तं यु॒क्ता रथ॑ हिर॒ण्यय॑ ।

ब्र॒ह्म॒युजा॑ हर॒य इन्द्र॑ क॒शिना॑ वह॒न्तु॒ साम॑पीतय ॥ २४ ॥

24. Ā tvā sahasramā śataṁ yuktā rathe hirṇyaye. Brahmayujo haraya indra keṣīno vahantu somapītaye.

May the hundreds and thousands of forces of nature and humanity harnessed to the golden chariot of the universe, radiant with light and dedicated to divinity, invoke and invite you hither into the heart so that we may experience the bliss of divine presence.

आ त्वा रथं हिरण्यय हरीं मयूरशय्या ।

शितिपृष्ठा वहतां मध्वा अन्धसा विव णस्य पीतय ॥ २५ ॥

25. Ā tvā rathe hiraṇyaye harī mayūraśepyā. Śiti-prṣṭhā vahatām madhvo andhaso vivakṣaṇasya pītaye.

May the vibrant forces of divine energy, joined to your golden chariot of the universe with rhythmic majesty like the peacock's feather tail and mighty power with circuitous motion of energy currents, radiate your presence here so that you may acknowledge and accept our love and homage and we experience the bliss of divine presence.

पिबा त्वस्य गिवणः सुतस्य पूर्वपाईव ।

परिष्कृतस्य रसिन इयमासुतिश्चारुमदाय पत्यत ॥ २६ ॥

26. Pibā tvasya girvaṇaḥ sutasya pūrvapā iva. Pariṣkṛtasya rasina iyam-āsutiś-cārur-madāya patyate.

Like the eternal lord of love fond of the celebrant's homage, come and accept the devotee's love and faith distilled from life's experience. The flow of the ecstatic celebrant's clairvoyance pure and sweet is full of ananda and radiates from the heart for spiritual bliss.

य एका अस्ति दंसना मह्यं उगा अभि व्रतः ।

27. Ya eko asti daṁsanā mahāṇ ugro abhi vṛtaiḥ. Gamat sa śiprī na sa hoṣadā gamaddhavaṁ na pari varjati.

He is one, unique and incomparable, great by his omnipotence and action, refulgent and supreme by his laws and observance. May the lord, like the light of grace, descend on us, may he never be away, may be ever respond to our call and come to our yajna and never forsake us.

त्वं पुरं चरिष्वं वृधः शुष्णस्य सं पिणक ।

त्वं भा अनु चरा अध द्विता यदिन्द्र हव्या भुवः ॥ २८ ॥

28. Tvaṃ puram carishvam vadhaiḥ śuṣṇasya saṃ piṇak. Tvaṃ bhā anu caro adha dvitā yadindra havyo bhuvah.

With fatal strokes of arms, you destroy the forces of evil and exploitation on the rampant, you are the light of life and bless the lights of life in action, and thus you are doubly adorable and worshipped in two complementary aspects, as destroyer and as preserver, O lord omnipotent and self-refulgent.

मम त्वा सूर उदित मम मध्यन्दिन दिवः ।

मम पिपित्व अपिशवर वसवा स्तामासा अवृत्सत ॥ २९ ॥

29. Mama tvā sūra udite mama madhyandine divaḥ. Mama prapitve apishavare vasavā stomāso avṛt-sata.

O lord of the universe, shelter of life and existence, at the dawn of sunrise let my prayers and songs of exaltation reach you. At the middle of the day when the sun is on the high, let my prayers and songs of adoration reach you. And when the day is over and night is fallen and the stars shine, let my songs of prayer and peace reach you.

स्तुहि स्तुहीदत घा त मंहिष्ठासा मघानाम ।

30. Stuhi stuhīdete ghā te maṁhiṣṭhāso maghonām. ninditāśvaḥ prapathī paramajyā maghasya medhyātithē.

O Medhyatithi, venerable traveller on life's highway, O guest, O host, pray to Indra, adore him, and these too around you, all richest of the rich and mightiest of the mighty, should adore him: omnipresent, faster than the fastest, instantly moving all round over paths of infinity, commanding the rule and dispensation of the highest wealth and power of existence.

आ यदश्वान्वन्वतः श्रद्धयाहं रथं रुहम ।

उत वामस्य वसुनश्चिकतति या अस्ति याद्वः पशुः ॥ ३१ ॥

31. Ā yadaśvān vananvataḥ śraddhayāham rathe ruham. Uta vāmasya vasunaściketati yo asti yādvah paśuḥ.

When I control the outgoing senses and mind and look within riding as if the body chariot with faith, then in that state of experience whoever is refined and watchful knows the inner secrets of this beautiful world of existence.

य ऋजा मह्यं मामह सह त्वचा हिरण्यया ।

एष विश्वान्यभ्यस्तु साभगा सङ्गस्य स्वनदथः ॥ ३२ ॥

32. Ya ṛjā mahyam māmāhe saha tvacā hiraṇyayā. Eṣa viśvānyabhyastu saubhagā'saṁgasya svanadrathaḥ.

Who gives me dynamic and powerful gifts of life with a golden cover and thus does me honour may be blest with the highest good fortunes of the world and may this devoted man go forward in life by a resounding chariot.

अध॒ प्ला॒यागि॒रति॑ दा॒सद॒न्याना॑स॒ङ्गा अ॒ग्र द॒शभिः॑ स॒हस्रः॑ ।

33. Adha plāyogirati dāsadanyānāsaṅgo agne daśa-bhiḥ sahasraiḥ. Adhokṣaṇo daśa mahyaṁ ruśanto naḷā iva saraso niratiṣṭhan.

Agni, omnipresent light of life, the dedicated man of charity conducting yajnic and spiritual projects in science and spirituality exceeds others by tens and thousands especially when he gives to me ten highly brilliant and creative gifts rising like lotus from a lake.

अ॒न्व॒स्य स्त॒थूरं॑ द॒दृश॑ पु॒रस्ता॑द॒न॒स्थ ऊ॒रुर॑व॒रम्ब॑माणः ।

34. Anvasya sthūram dadṛśe purastād-anastha ūruravarambamāṇaḥ. Śaśvatī nāryabhi-cakṣyāha subhadram-arya bhojanam bibharṣi.

The gross form of the universe is seen emerging from the infinite transphysical spiritual reality. The eternal Mother Nature watches and says: O lord of gracious charity, you alone hold the blessed food for the life of mortal humanity.

Mandala 8/Sukta 2

*Indra (1-40) Danastuti (41-42) Devata, Medhatithi
Kanva and Priyamedha Angirasa (1-40), Medhatithi
Kanva (41-42) Rshis*

इदं वसा सुतमन्धः पिबा सुपूणमुदरम् ।

अनाभयिनरिमा त ॥ १ ॥

1. *Idaṁ vaso sutam-andhaḥ pibā supūrṇam-udaram.
Anābhayin rarimā te.*

O lord of the world's treasure of wealth, honour and excellence, here is this exhilarating soma nectar of love and devotion distilled from the heart and soul. Pray drink of it to your heart's content. We offer it to you, lord beyond fear.

नृभिधूतः सुता अश्नुरव्या वारः परिपूतः ।

अश्वा न निक्ता नदीषु ॥ २ ॥

2. *Nṛbhirdhūtaḥ suto aśnairavyo vāraiḥ paripūtaḥ.
Āśvo na nikto nadīṣu.*

Stirred by best of men, crushed and filtered by men of adamant character, purified and guarded by best of the brave, it is sparkling like sun rays reflected on the river waters.

तं त यव यथा गाभिः स्वादुर्मकम श्रीणन्तः ।

इन्द त्वास्मिन्त्सधमाद ॥ ३ ॥

3. Taṁ te yavaṁ yathā gobhiḥ svādumakarma śrīṇantaḥ. Indra tvāsmint-sadhamāde.

That sparkling soma drink of devotion seasoned with barley, mixed with milk and cream, we, blenders, having prepared it, offer to you in this house of celebration.

इन्द्र इत्सामपा एक इन्द्रः सुतपा विश्वायुः ।

अन्तद्वान्मर्त्याश्च ॥ ४ ॥

4. Indra it somapā eka indrah sutapā viśvāyuh.
Antardevān martyāṁśca.

Among ordinary mortals and among divines of wisdom and vision, Indra, the karmayogi, alone is the protector of soma, Indra, the man of knowledge and dedication, alone is the valuer of the worshipper's devotion and homage as he alone has the world vision.

न यं शुका न दुराशीन तृपा उरुव्यचसम ।

अप्रस्पृण्वत सुहादम ॥ ५ ॥

5. Na yaṁ śukro na durāśīrna tṛpā uruvyacasam.
Apasprṇvate suhārdam.

Neither the most sparkling soma of devotion nor the most sophisticated and aromatic, nor the most delightful, ever satiate the lord infinite of the holiest heart and love.

गाभियदीमन्य अस्मन्मृगं न वा मृगयन्त ।

अभित्सरन्ति धनुभिः ॥ ६ ॥

6. Gobhir-yadīmanye asmanmṛgaṁ na vrā mṛga-yante. Abhitsaranti dhenubhiḥ.

Multitudes of people other than us approved him and try to inveigle him with creamy entertainment and sweet flattering words of adoration just like a hunter baiting a lion (but they fail).

त्रय॒ इन्द्र॑स्य॒ सामाः॑ सु॒तासः॑ सन्तु॒ द्वस्य॑ ।

स्व॒ त्व॑ सु॒तपा॑न्नः ॥ ७ ॥

7. Traya indrasya somāḥ sutāsaḥ santu devasya.
Sve kṣaye sutapāvnaḥ.

For self-refulgent and generous Indra who is fond of the soma dedication of devotees, there are three sessions of soma distilled and offered in homage in the devotee's own home of yajna and prayer, at dawn, at mid-day and in the evening before night fall.

त्रयः॑ काशासः॑ श्चातन्ति॒ तिस्रश्च॑म्व॒ः सु॒पूणाः॑ ।

स॒मान॑ अधि॒ भाम॑न ॥ ८ ॥

8. Trayaḥ kośāsaḥ ścotanti tisraścamaḥ supūrṇāḥ.
Samāne adhi bhārman.

In the same one session of yajna, there are three vessels of soma dripping with the nectar and three ladles of ghrta overflowing with homage for the fire in honour of the lord.

शुचि॑रसि॒ पुरु॑निः॒ष्ठाः॑ गिर॒म॑ध्य॒त आशी॑तः ।

द॒ध्ना म॑न्दि॒ष्ठः॑ शूर॒स्य ॥ ९ ॥

9. Śucirasi puruniḥṣṭhāḥ kṣīrair-madhyata āśīrtaḥ.
Daghnā mandīṣṭhaḥ śūrasya.

Celestial soma, divine devotion of the dedicated, you are pure and potent, dedicated to the joy of many and the lord eternal, and seasoned in the process with milk, cream and curds. Surely you are the most delightful love of the heroic brave.

इ॒म त॑ इन्द्र॒ सामा॑स्ती॒वा अ॒स्म सु॒तासः॑ ।

शु॒का आ॒शिरं॑ याचन्त ॥ १० ॥

10. *Ime ta indra somāstīvrā asme sutāsaḥ.
Śukrā āśiraṁ yācante.*

These are for you, Indra, soma oblations of the most potent order distilled by us. Pure and powerful they are, offered in homage with prayer and hope for a share of the celestial bliss of faith and love.

ताँ आ॒शिरं॑ पु॒राळा॑श्मिन्दु॒मं सामं॑ श्रीणीहि ।
र॒वन्तं॑ हि त्वा॒ शृ॒णामि॑ ॥ ११ ॥

11. *Tāñ āśiraṁ puroḷāśam-indremaṁ somaṁ śrīṇīhi.
Revantaṁ hi tvā śṛṇomi.*

Indra, lord of glory, come and join this soma celebration of milk and barley delicacies with joy. You command the wealth, honour, excellence and glory of the world, I hear. I believe, I share and celebrate.

हृ॒त्सु पी॒तासा॑ यु॒ध्यन्त॑ दु॒मदा॑सा॒ न सु॒रायाम॑ ।
ऊ॒ध्न न॒ग्रा ज॑रन्त ॥ १२ ॥

12. *Hṛtsu pītāso yudhyante durmadāso na surāyām.
Udharna nagnā jarante.*

Draughts of soma create exhilarations in the heart unlike intoxication and illusions of wine, and the celebrants adore the spirit divine as the ocean of ecstasy.

र॒वाँ इ॒द्वतः॑ स्ता॒ता स्या॒त्त्वाव॑ता म॒घानः॑ ।
पदु॑ हरि॒वः श्रु॑तस्य ॥ १३ ॥

13. *Revāñ id revataḥ stotā syāt tvāvato maghonaḥ.
Predu harivaḥ śrutasya.*

Indra, master and commander of dynamic forces, may the celebrant of the brilliant, bountiful and renowned like you be brilliant, prosperous and celebrated. That is but natural.

उक्थं च॒न श॒स्यमा॒नमगा॒रिरा चि॒कत ।

न गा॒य॒त्रं गी॒यमा॒नम ॥ १४ ॥

14. *Uktham cana śasyamānam-agorarirā ciketa.
Na gāyatrām gīyamānam.*

Indra, lord of power and piety, the man attached to divinity in faith and opposed to doubt and disloyalty knows the words of praise spoken by a man of doubtful faith as much as he knows the songs of adoration sung by a man of faith (and makes a distinction between the two).

मा न॑ इ॒न्द्र पी॒य॒त्नव॒ मा श॒र्ध॒त॒ परा॑ दाः ।

शि॒ त श॒ची॒वः श॒ची॒भिः ॥ १५ ॥

15. *Mā na indra pīyatnave mā śardhate parā dāḥ.
Śikṣā śacīvaḥ śacībhiḥ.*

Indra, lord of refulgent power, give us not away to the scornful abuser nor to the wild tyrant. With your laws and powers, pray discipline, rule, instruct and enlighten us.

व॒यमु॑ त्वा त॒दि॒द॒र्था इ॒न्द्र त्वा॒य॒न्तः स॒खायः॑ ।

क॒ण्वा उ॒क्थ॒भिर्ज॒रन्त॑ ॥ १६ ॥

16. *Vayamu tvā radidarthā indra tvāyantaḥ sakhāyaḥ.
Kaṇvā ukthebhir-jarante.*

Indra, we too have the same aims and objectives as you. We are your friends and admirers. We know and wish to achieve, and with all words of praise and appreciation, we adore you as others, wise devotees, do.

न घ॒म॒न्यदा प॑प॒न् वजि॑ ऽप॒सा नवि॑ष्टा ।

तव॒दु स्तामं॑ चि॒कत ॥ १७ ॥

17. Na ghemanyadā papana vajrinnapasō naviṣṭau.
Tavedu stomaṁ ciketa.

Indra, lord of thunder and justice, in the beginning of a new plan, action or programme of holiness, I adore none else but only you. I know only one song of adoration and that is for you alone.

इ॒च्छन्ति॑ द॒वाः सु॒न्वन्तं॑ न स्वप्ना॒य स्पृ॑हयन्ति ।

यन्ति॑ प॒मादु॑म॒र्तन्दाः ॥ १८ ॥

18. Ichchānti devāḥ sunvantam na svapnāya sprhāyanti. Yanti pramādam-atandrāḥ.

Divines of brilliance and holy action love those engaged in creative actions of piety. They care not for dreams and love no dreamers. Active, wakeful and realistic beyond illusion, they achieve the joy of success in life.

आ षु प या॑हि वाज॒भि॒मा हृ॑णीथा अ॒भ्य॑स्मान् ।

म॒हाँइ॑व॒ युव॑जानिः ॥ १९ ॥

19. O ṣu pra yāhi vājebhirmā hr̥ṇīthā abhyasmān.
Mahāñ iva yuvajāniḥ.

Come along with us with all your strength and enthusiasm without hesitation or embarrassment, and go forward like a great hero inspired by a youthful maiden.

मा ष्व॑द्य दुह॑णावान्त्सा॒यं क॑रदार अ॒स्मत ।

अ॒श्रीर॒इव॒ जामा॑ता ॥ २० ॥

20. *Mo śvadya durhaṇāvāntsāyaṁ karadāre asmat.
Aśrīra iva jāmātā.*

Invincible and unconquerable, come to our yajnic celebrations today, delay not till the last hour, of evening, hesitating like an indigent son-in-law.

वि॒द्या ह्य॑स्य वी॒रस्य॑ भूरि॒दाव॑रीं सु॒म॒तिम॑ ।

त्रि॒षु जा॒तस्य॑ मनांसि ॥ २१ ॥

21. *Vidmā hyasya vīrasya bhūridāvarīm sumatim.
Triṣu jātasya manāṁsi.*

We know the mind, noble intentions and generous liberty of this brave hero, Indra, who is risen high in life's three active fields of thought, energy and stability.

आ तू षि॑ञ्च कण्वमन्तं॑ न घा॑ वि॒द्य शव॑सानात ।

य॒शस्तरं॑ श॒तमू॑तः ॥ २२ ॥

22. *Ā tū ṣiñca kaṇvamantaṁ na ghā vidma śavasānāt.
Yaśastaraṁ śatamūteḥ.*

O man, with the nectar of soma, regale Indra, who commands wisdom and the wise and a hundred ways of defence, protection and progress. Indeed for reasons of his heroism and grandeur we know no one else more honourable and renowned than he.

ज्य॑ष्ठेन सा॒तरि॒न्दाय॑ सामं वी॒राय॑ श॒काय॑ ।

23. *Jyeṣṭhena sotarindrāya somam vīrāya śakrāya.
Bharā pibannaryāya.*

O maker of soma, bring and serve a drink of prime soma first for Indra, brave, brilliant and manly leader of men, and see that the lord accepts.

या वदि॑ष्ठा अव्य॒थिष्व॑श्वावन्तं जरि॑तृभ्यः ।

वाजं स्ता॒तृभ्या॒ गाम॑न्तम ॥ २४ ॥

24. *Yo vediṣṭho avyathiṣvaśvāvantam jaritrbhyaḥ.
Vājam stotrbhyo gomantam.*

Among men of yajnic love and non-violence, he is the most venerable on the vedi, harbinger of wealth and success for the celebrants and giver of nourishing food and energy full of milk and honey of the land for the singers of hymns.

पन्यं॑पन्य॒मित्सा॑तार॒ आ धा॑वत॒ मद्या॑य ।

सामं वी॒राय॒ शूरा॑य ॥ २५ ॥

25. *Panyampanyamit sotāra ā dhāvata madyāya.
Somam vīrāya śūrāya.*

O makers of soma, to Indra, offer the drink of soma, brave, ecstatic and heroic, and let each draught be more and more delicious and adorable.

पाता॑ वृ॒त्रहा॒ सुत॑मा घा॒ गम॒ णर॒ अ॒स्मत् ।

May the connoisseur of distilled soma, destroyer of darkness, dishonour and destitution, come and never be far away from us. The lord who commands a hundred forces of defence, protection and progress rules all, friends and foes.

एह हरी॑ ब॒ह्म॒युजा॑ श॒ग्मा व॑ त॒तः स॒खाय॑म ।

गी॒भिः श्रु॑तं गि॒व॑ण॒सम ॥ २७ ॥

27. Eha harī brahmayujā śagmā vakṣataḥ sakhāyam. Gīrbhiḥ śrutam girvaṇasam.

Let the brave veterans of knowledge and yajnic karma, dedicated to Veda Brahma and humanity, with holy songs of divinity, invoke the most venerable and celebrated lord here on the vedi as our friend and companion.

स्वा॒दवः॑ सा॒मा आ॒ या॒हि श्री॒ताः सा॒मा आ॒ या॒हि ।

28. Svādavaḥ somā ā yāhi śrītāḥ somā ā yāhi. Śipinnṛṣīvaḥ śacīvo nāyamacchā sadha-mādam.

Indra, hero of the visor, commander of wisdom and powers of nature and humanity, patron of poets and sages, come and have a drink of delicious soma, come and enjoy the seasoned and matured soma with the celebrant's devotion. We invoke and invite the leader, friend of the hall of celebration.

स्तु॒तश्च॑ या॒स्त्वा व॒धा॑न्ति म॒ह रा॒धस॑ नृ॒म्णाय॑ ।

इ॒न्द का॒रिणं॑ वृ॒धन्तः॑ ॥ २९ ॥

29. Stutaśca yāstvā vardhanti mahe rādhase nṛmnāya. Indra kāriṇam vṛdhantaḥ.

Indra, adoring and exhilarating you as the great achiever, honoured by songs of praise, the devotees celebrate and exalt you for the sake of greatness, wealth and excellence of life and their songs glorify you.

गिरश्च यास्तं गिवाह उक्था च तुभ्यं तानि ।

सत्रा दधिरे शवांसि ॥ ३० ॥

30. Giraśca yāste girvāha ukthā ca tubhyaṁ tāni.
Satrā dadhire śavāṁsi.

O lord of voice divine and lover of holy song, your words of the holy Veda and the songs sung in your honour, all these together inspire and exalt the grandeur and glory of life divine.

एवदृष तुविकूमिवाजाँ एका वज्रहस्तः ।

सनादमृक्ता दयत ॥ ३१ ॥

31. Evedeṣa tuvikūrmir-vājāñ eko vajrahastah.
Sanādamṛkto dayate.

Only this lord omnipotent of universal karma, the one lord of thunder and justice in hand, inviolable and imperishable, gives us food and energy, success and victory since eternity.

हन्ता वृत्रं दक्षिणन्दः पुरू पुरुहूतः ।

महान्महीभिः शचीभिः ॥ ३२ ॥

32. Hantā vṛtram dakṣiṇenendrah purū puruhūtaḥ.
Mahān mahībhiḥ śacībhiḥ.

Destroyer of darkness and evil by his power and versatility, Indra is universal and universally adored and celebrated. great is he by his glorious majesty, sublime by infinite possibilities.

यस्मिन्विश्वाश्चषणय उत च्यात्रा जयांसि च ।

अनु घन्मन्दी मघानः ॥ ३३ ॥

33. Yasmin viśvāś-carṣaṇaya uta cyautnā jrayāmsi ca. Anu ghenmandī maghonaḥ.

He in whom entire humanity of the world, and all powers and forces and expansive victories abide and are sustained, surely he is the giver of happiness and competence to humanity for wealth, honour and excellence.

एष एतानि चकारन्दा विश्वा या ति शृण्व ।

वाज्रदावा मघानाम ॥ ३४ ॥

34. Eṣa etāni cakārendro viśvā yo'ti śṛṇve. Vājadāvā maghonām.

This Indra does all these wonders, the lord who is celebrated all over the world and who is the giver of power and prosperity to men of honour and excellence.

पभता रथं गव्यन्तमपाकाच्छिद्यमवति ।

इना वसु स हि वा ही ॥ ३५ ॥

35. Prabhartā ratham gavyantam-apākāccid yamavati. Ino vasu sa hi volhā.

The one who sustains and supports all and protects the chariot of life moving on course from the unforeseen is the lord who is also the bearer and harbinger of the world's wealth.

सनिता विपा अवद्भिहन्ता वृत्रं नृभिः शूरः ।

सत्या विता विधन्तम ॥ ३६ ॥

36. Sanitā vipro arvadbhir-hantā vrtram nrbhiḥ śūrah. Satyo'vitā vidhantam.

The one that commands knowledge, power and energy with commitment is the generator and harbinger of wealth by dynamic forces. He is the destroyer of darkness and harbinger of light. He is brave and commands the brave. He is ever true to himself and the world and he is the protector of those who are dedicated to work.

38. Gāthaśravasaṁ satpatiṁ śravaskāmaṁ purut-mānam. Kaṇvāso gāta vājinam.

O men of knowledge and wisdom, sing in praise of the lord celebrated in song, defender of truth and the truthful, lover of honour and excellence, versatile in form and spirit and instantly victorious in action.

य ऋ॒त चि॒द्रास्प॑द॒भ्या दा॑त्सखा॒ नृभ्यः॑ शची॒वान ।

य अ॑स्मिन्काम॒मश्रि॑यन् ॥ ३९ ॥

39. Ya ṛte cid gāspadebhyo dāt sakhā nṛbhyaḥ śacī-vān. Ye asmin kāmamaśriyan.

Indra is a friend and mighty commander of forces and, without visible motion or lure of office, gives the gift of speech and powers of perception and intelligence to people who surrender their desires and ambitions to him and act selflessly, depending on him for success.

इत्था धीवन्तमदिवः काण्वं मध्यातिथिम ।

40. Itthā dhīvantam-adriyaḥ kāṇvaṁ medhyātithim. Meṣo bhūto'bhiyannayaḥ.

Thus, O lord commander of the clouds and mountains, do you reach and guide the celebrant sage of the line of the wise and bless the honoured guest, being a very shower of peace and pleasure of soma.

शि णि विभिन्दा अस्म चत्वाययुता ददत ।

अष्टा परः सहस्रा ॥ ४१ ॥

41. Śikṣā vibhindo asmai catvāryayutā dadat. Aṣṭā paraḥ sahasrā.

Indra, destroyer of the fortresses of evil, enmity and poverty, thus teaches and gives his celebrant forty and eight thousand powers and potentials to fight his battles and win.

उत सु त्य पयावृधा माकी रणस्य नृप्या ।

जानित्वनाय मामह ॥ ४२ ॥

42. Uta su tye payovṛdhā māki raṇasya nṛptyā. janitvanāya māmaha.

O heaven and earth, givers of the liquid energies of life, sustainers of the excitement of the battle of existence, I pray for your favour of generating those powers of sustenance and advancement.

In your guidance and goodwill may we be prosperous and progressive with vibrancy. Hurt us not lest we fall a prey to an enemy. Protect us and advance us to all kinds of success with fulfilment of our aspirations, and lead us in a life of happiness, refinement and grace.

4. Ayam sahasram-rṣibhiḥ sahaskr̥taḥ samudra iva paprathe. Satyaḥ so asya mahimā gr̥ṇe śavo yajñeṣu viprarājye.

This Indra, adored and exalted by poets and sages a thousand ways to power and glory, rises like the sea. Ever true and inviolable is he, and I celebrate his might and grandeur expanding in the yajnic programmes of the dominion of the wise.

5. Indramid devatātaya indram prayatyadhvare. Indram samīke vanino havāmaha indram dhana-sya sātaye.

We invoke Indra for our programmes of natural and environmental development. We invite Indra when the yajna of development is inaugurated. Lovers and admirers dedicated to him, we pray for his grace in our struggles of life, and we solicit his favour and guidance for the achievement of wealth, honour and excellence.

6. Indra, by the power and abundance of his omnipotence, expands and pervades heaven and earth. Indra gives the radiance of light to the sun. All regions of the universe and her children are sustained in life and order in Indra, and in the infinite power, presence and abundance of Indra flow all liquid energies of life's evolution to their perfection and fulfilment.

7. Indra, men in general, learned experts of vision and wisdom, illustrious powers of law and order, and fighting warriors of defence and protection all together, raising a united voice of praise, prayer and appreciation, with songs of holiness and acts of piety, invoke and invite you, ancient, nearest and most excellent lord of power and lustre, to inaugurate their yajnic celebration of the soma session of peaceful and exciting programme of development.

8. Asyedindro vāvṛdhe vṛṣṇyaṁ śavo made sutasya viṣṇavi. Adyā tamasya mahim-ānamāyavo 'nu ṣṭuvanti pūrvathā.

In the ecstasy of this soma success of achievement through the yajnic programme, Indra augments the strength and enthusiasm of this host and master of the programme, while now as ever before, the people appropriately adore and exalt the greatness of this lord.

9. Tat tvā yāmi suvīryaṁ tad brahama pūrvacittaye. Yenā yatibhyo bhr̥gave dhane hite yena praskaṇvamāvitha.

O lord resplendent, I come to you and ask for that vigour and wisdom, that knowledge of reality and divinity, that prime acquisition and awareness of values by which, when the battle rages and money and materials are called for, you provide for the retired holy men, scientists, technologists and the inventors and by which you protect the man of advanced special knowledge.

10. Yenā samudram-asṛjo mahīrapas-tadindra vṛṣṇi te śavaḥ. Sadyaḥ so asya mahimā na saṁnaśe yaṁ kṣoṇīranucakrade.

Indra, lord omnipotent of creation, I pray for the knowledge and experience of that overwhelming power and potential of yours by which you create the mighty waters and the oceans to roll and flow. That mighty power of this lord is not easily to be realised, the heaven and earth obey it, and when they move they celebrate it in the roaring and resounding music of stars and spheres.

12. Śagdhī no asya yaddha pauramāvitha dhiya indra siṣāsataḥ. Śagdhī yathā ruśamam śyāvakaṁ kṛpamindra prāvaḥ svarṇaram.

Give us the strength and power by which you protect the citizen for this yajamana, the intelligentsia, and the obedient workers, the strength and power by which you protect and promote for advancement the brilliant, the poor, the weak and disabled and the leading men of the nation on way to common joy and prosperity.

14. Kadu stuvanta ṛtayanta devata ṛṣiḥ ko vipra oḥate. Kadā havam maghavannindra sunvataḥ kadu stuvata ā gamah.

Who is the seer and scholar among those who adore you, honour you by yajna, or do homage to your refulgence, that can deliberate on you and understand you? When would you, O lord of honour and glory, Indra, respond to the call of the sage who presses the soma for you? When would you grace the yajnic home of the celebrant?

15. Udu tye madhumattamā girah stomāsa īrate. Satrājito dhanasā akṣitotayo vājayanto rathā iva.

The sweetest of honeyed songs of praise and vibrations of homage rise to you flying like victorious, unviolated and invincible chariots laden with gold heading for higher destinations.

16. Kaṇvā iva bhr̥gavaḥ sūryā iva viśvamid dhītam-ānaśuḥ. Indram stomebhir-mahayanta āyavaḥ priyamedhāso asvaran.

Brilliant scholars and sages as well as brave heroes of the human nation and loving and intelligent citizens of the land, praising and exalting Indra in one vaulting voice, rise and reach the presence of the lord in a world their own like rays of the sun filling the world of space they know.

यु वा हि वृत्रहन्तम हरीं इन्द्र परावतः ।

17. Yukṣvā hi vṛtrahantama harī indra parāvataḥ. Arvācīno maghavant-somapītaya ugra ṛṣvebhirā gahi.

O greatest destroyer of darkness, Indra, omnipotent lord of glory and majesty, blazing ruler and controller of the world, take to the chariot, harness the fastest vital forces of radiance and come from the farthest to us right here and now, with brilliant and indefatigable powers of light, wisdom and bravery, to join us in the soma celebrations of our yajnic victory.

18. Ime hi te kāravo vāvaśurdhiyā viprāso medha-sātaye. Sa tvaṁ no maghavannindra ghirvaṇo veno na śṛṇudhī havam.

Indra, lord of power and glory, these scientists, designers and workers, vibrant and intelligent all, love and honour you and shine with their intellect and expertise. O lord adorable of all, listen to our prayer like a lover and admirer of your own celebrants and receive their homage on the success of their yajnic endeavour.

निरिन्द बृहतीभ्या वृत्रं धनुभ्या अस्फुरः ।

निरबुदस्य मृगयस्य मायिना निः पवतस्य गा आजः ॥ १९ ॥

19. Nirindra brhaṭībhyo vṛtram dhanubhyo asphuraḥ. Nirarbudasya mṛgayasya māyino niḥ parvatasya gā ājah.

Indra, even from far and wide regions you destroy the forces of darkness and evil, free helpless victims of the mighty violent and crafty demon, set in motion showers of the cloud and open out treasures of the mountain.

निरग्र्या रुरुचुनिरु सूया निः साम इन्दिया रसः ।

निरन्तरि णदधमा महामहिं कृष तदिन्द्र पस्यम ॥ २० ॥

20. Niragnayo rurucurniru sūryo niḥ soma indriyo rasaḥ. Nirantarikṣādadhama mahāmahim kṛṣe tadindra paumsyam.

When you broke the mighty cloud in showers from the sky and destroyed the evil from earth, the fires of earth shone and rose bright, the sun shone in glory and the soma juices for the celebration of Indra, lord of might and majesty, flowed from the herbs. That was a great deed of prowess worthy of the lord.

(Similarly when Indra, lord almighty, and also the individual soul, throws out the evil from the heart and mind, then the inner light shines bright, the fire of good life is kindled and rises, and the soma spirit of divine joy flows and rolls in the heart. That indeed is a mighty deed of the lord's prowess, and of the individual soul too.)

21. Yaṁ me durindro marutaḥ pākasthāmā kaurayāṇaḥ. Viśveṣāṁ tmanā śobhiṣṭhamupeva divi dhāvamānam.

The light of knowledge and spiritual enlightenment which Indra, self-refulgent lord, and vibrant saints and sages have given me is stable, mature and universally dynamic, it is the brightest of all wealths of the world in the spiritual essence, and it shines within like the sun coursing in the spaces of light as a divine horse.

22. Rohitaṁ me pākasthāmā sudhuraṁ kakṣya-prām. Ādād rāyo vibodhanam.

Indra, lord of divine and inviolable power, has given me a chestnut horse, a rising sun of crimson hue, the mind, and a smooth axled and strongly built chariot, the body, and wealths of the world, intelligence, awareness and enlightenment.

The individual self is but filial manifestation in reflection of the father, giver of the soul's dwelling in body, giver of light and lustre, purifier and sanctifier, divine destroyer of evil, giver and cleanser of mind and its colourful fluctuations. I celebrate the holy father of purity and sanctity, giver of food and energy for the world of stability.

1. *Yadindra prāgapāgudaṁ nyagvā hūyase nṛbhiḥ.
Simā purū nṛṣūto asyānave'si praśardha turvaśe.*

Indra, illustrious lord of the world, ruler and commander of human forces, karmayogi, when you are invoked by people anywhere east or west, north or south, up or down, then, O lord of excellence, you feel highly impelled by those many and come and act as the destroyer of many evils for the people of reverence and exceptional strength.

4. Mandantu tvā maghavann-indrendavo rādhodeyāya sunvate. Āmuṣyā somamapibaścamū sutam jyeṣṭham tad dadhiṣe sahaḥ.

Indra, lord of power and glory, may these soma drinks exhilarate you for the bestowal of wealth and honour upon the dedicated lover of the soma of honour and enlightenment. Having won over the soma of victory prize in the contests of competing parties, you drank of the soma of ecstasy of the highest order and for that reason you command the courage and confidence of the victor.

The joyous world of soma in relation to the earth, you illuminate and rule with a fraction of your prowess. Whoever plays his part well and renders his share to the refulgent ruler never regrets nor displeases the ruler ever. Come fast, O lord, rush in and drink the soma mixed with sweets of honey and seasoned with milk.

13. Ratheṣṭhāyādhvaryavaḥ somamindrāya sotana. Adhi bradhnasyādrayo vi cakṣate sunvanto dāśva-dhvaram.

O performers of the yajna of love, loyalty and non-violence, prepare the soma offering of devotion for Indra, lord of the chariot of the world. On the heights of space, the mighty lord's thunder and clouds of rain are seen pouring forth showers of bliss on the devout yajamana's love and loyalty of yajnic service.

For our loyalty and the lord's favour of friendship, we choose to do homage to the lord of universal wealth and bliss of health and nourishment. May the lord almighty, giver of freedom from fear and sin, universally invoked and solicited, enlighten us with intelligence and bless us with the spirit of action for the attainment of freedom, victory and prosperity.

Ashvinau (1-37), Danastuti (37-39) Devatah, Brahmatithi Kanva Rshi

दूरादिहव॒ यत्स॒त्यरु॒णप्सु॒रशि॒श्वित॑त ।

वि भानुं॑ वि॒श्वधा॑तनत ॥ १ ॥

1. *Dūrādiheva yat satyaruṇapsur-aśiśvitat.
Vi bhānuṁ visvadhātanat.*

The bright red dawn from far off, which yet appears so close, wraps the world in crimson glory and then spreads it over with the light of the sun.

नृ॒वद्स्त्रा॑ म॒नायु॒जा रथे॑न पृथु॒पाज॑सा ।

सच॑थ अ॒श्विना॒षस॑म ॥ २ ॥

2. *Nṛvad dasrā manoyujā rathena pr̥thupājasā.
Sacethe aśvinoṣasam.*

The Ashvins, wondrous charming divine currents of complementary energies, the yajamana and the participants, the yogi dedicated to knowledge and karma, devout men and women arise and move by the vast and strong chariot of the mind and spiritual energies and go forward to share the divine glory of the dawn like world leaders.

यु॒वाभ्यां॑ वाजिनीवसू॒ पति॑ स्तामा॒ अद् त॑ ।

वाचं॑ दू॒ता यथा॑हिष ॥ ३ ॥

3. *Yuvābhyāṁ vājinīvasū prati stomā adṛkṣata.
Vācam dūto yathohiṣe.*

O Ashvins, commanders of wealth and energy on way, the chants of adoration in your honour you seem to hear, and I, too, like an appointed messenger, send up my voice of adoration to you and the dawn and I wait to hear the divine voice in response.

पुरु॒पि॒या ण॑ ऊ॒तय॑ पुरु॒म॒न्दा पु॒रू॒वसू॑ ।
स्तु॒ष क॒ण्व॑सा अ॒श्वि॒ना ॥ ४ ॥

4. Purupriyā ṇa ūtaye purumandrā purūvasū.
Stuṣe kaṇvāso aśvinā.

Ashvins, dear and favourite with many, givers of joy to many, commanding great wealth of the world, we of the family of the learned and the wise admire and praise you for the sake of our protection and advancement.

मं॒हि॒ष्ठा वा॒ज॒सा॒त॒म॒षय॑न्ता शु॒भस्प॑ती ।
गन्ता॑रा दा॒शु॒षा गृ॑हम ॥ ५ ॥

5. Manhiṣṭhā vājasātameṣayantā śubhaspatī.
gantārā dāśuṣo grham.

Ashvins, you are great and generous, givers of nourishment and energy, loving and inspiring, promoters and protectors of good, you visit and bless the homes of the generous yajakas. As such, we adore you.

ता सु॒द॒वाय॑ दा॒शु॒ष सु॒म॒धाम॑वितारिणीम ।
घृ॒तग॑व्यूतिमु॒ तम ॥ ६ ॥

6. Tā sudevāya dāśuṣe sumedhām-avitāriṇīm.
Ghṛtair-gavyūtim-ukṣatam.

For the generous yajaka dedicated to divinity, we pray, bring noble intelligence of the saving order and sprinkle and energise his path of progress with inspiring waters and sparkling ghrta.

आ नुः स्ताममुषं द्रवत्तूयं श्यनभिराशुभिः ।

यातमश्वभिरश्विना ॥ ७ ॥

7. Ā naḥ stomamupa dravat tūyaṁ śyenebhir-āśubhiḥ. Yātam-aśvebhir-aśvinā.

Ashvins, fly to our congregation of yajna and divine adoration at the earliest on the wings of celestial eagles upon the instant, hasten to us by flying horses.

यभिस्तिस्त्रः परावता दिवा विश्वानि राचना ।

त्रीरक्तून्परिदीयथः ॥ ८ ॥

8. Yebhistisraḥ parāvato divo viśvāni rocanā. Trīṇraktūn paridīyathaḥ.

Come by those eagles and horses by which in three days and three nights you traverse over the farthest regions of light and beauty across the universe.

उत ना गामतीरिष उत सातीरहविदा ।

वि पथः सातय सितम ॥ ९ ॥

9. Uta no gomatīriṣa uta sātīraharvidā. Vi pathaḥ sātaye sitam.

And bring us food and energy and inspiration with lands and cows and the light of knowledge, and bring us possibilities of victory, and clear our paths of progress free from difficulties.

आ ना गामन्तमश्विना सुवीरं सुरथं रयिम ।

वा हमश्वावतीरिषः ॥ १० ॥

10. Ā no gomantam-aśvinā suvīraṁ surathaṁ rayim. Volham-aśvāvatīr-iṣaḥ.

Ashvins, bring us wealth of lands and cows, brave progeny, fast chariots and progress, and bring us nourishment, energy and advancement with motive forces of the highest order of attainment.

वावृ॒धा॒ना शु॒भस्प॒ती द॒स्रा हिर॑ण्यव॒तनी ।

पि॒बतं॑ सा॒म्यं म॒धु ॥ ११ ॥

11. *Vāvṛdhāna śubhaspatī dasrā hiraṇyavartanī.
Pibatam somyam madhu.*

Rising and exalting, protectors and promoters of good, destroyers of enmity, moving by golden paths of advancement to victory, drink and enjoy the honey sweets of soma, peace and progress.

अ॒स्मभ्यं॑ वा॒जिनी॑वसू म॒घव॑द्भ्यश्च स॒प॒थः ।

छु॒दिय॑न्त॒मदा॑भ्यम ॥ १२ ॥

12. Asmabhyam vājinīvasū maghavadbhyaśa sapra-thaḥ. Chardir-yantam-adābhyam.

And, O harbingers of wealth, victory and progress, bring for us and for the leading lights of power, honour and excellence spacious and peaceful homes free from fear and pressure.

नि षु ब॒ह्म ज॒नानां॑ या॒विष्टं॑ तू॒य॒मा ग॑तम ।

मा च्व॑न्याँ उ॒पा॒रत॑म ॥ १३ ॥

13. *Ni ṣu brahma janānām yāviṣṭam tūyamā gatam.
Mo śvanyāñ upāratam.*

Come soon to the yajna of the people and protect and promote their creative development, but please neglect not the others too, nor offend and grieve them.

अस्य पिबतमश्विना युवं मदस्य चारुणः ।

मध्वा रातस्य धिष्ण्या ॥ १४ ॥

14. Asya pibatam-aśvanā yuvaṁ madasya cāruṇaḥ.
Madhvo rātasya dhiṣṇyā.

Adorable Ashvins, bold and resolute harbingers of a new dawn, drink of this charming, exciting and honey sweet soma offered by us as a tribute of love and gratitude.

अस्म आ वहतं रयिं शतवन्तं सहस्रिणम ।

पुरु ँ विश्वधायसम ॥ १५ ॥

15. Asme ā vahataṁ rayiṁ śatavantaṁ sahasriṇam.
Puruṣum viśvadhāyasam.

Bring us a hundredfold and a thousandfold wealth of universal value in abundance for all humanity which would sustain the world in a stable state of peace and progress.

पुरुत्रा चिद्धि वां नरा विह्वयन्त मनीषिणः ।

वाघद्भिरश्विना गतम ॥ १६ ॥

16. Purutrā ciddhi vāṁ narā vihvayante manīṣiṇaḥ.
Vāghadbhir-aśvinā gatam.

Learned men, thinkers and leading lights of humanity all over the world invoke and invite you many times in many ways. Ashvins, pray come by supersonic transports at the earliest.

जनासा वृक्तबहिषा हविष्मन्ता अरंकृतः ।

युवां हवन्त अश्विना ॥ १७ ॥

17. *Janāso vr̥ktabarhiṣo haviṣmanto aram̐kṛtaḥ.
Yuvām havante aśvinā.*

Ashvins, the people in top form of readiness, having prepared the hall of yajnic reception in top gear with provisions of homage, invoke you and call upon you to come.

अ॒स्माक॑म॒द्य वा॑म॒यं स्ता॒मा वा॒हि॒ष्ठा अ॒न्त॑मः ।
यु॒वाभ्यां॑ भू॒त्व॒श्वि॒ना ॥ १८ ॥

18. Asmākamadya vāmayaṁ stoma vāhiṣṭho antamaḥ. Yuvābhyām bhūtvaśvinā.

Ashvins, may this song of our invocation, adoration and yajnic prayer be most touching for you at heart and impel you to respond and come.

या॒ ह॒ वां म॒धु॒ना दृ॒ति॒रा॒हि॒ता रथ॑च॒षण॑ ।
ततः॑ पि॒बत॑म॒श्वि॒ना ॥ १९ ॥

19. *Yo ha vām madhuno dṛtirāhito rathacarṣaṇe.
Tataḥ pibatam-aśvinā.*

Ashvins, the soma cask of honey sweets installed in the chariot and the pathway is full. Therefrom drink as you come.

त॒न॒ ना वा॒जि॒नीव॑सू प॒श्व॒ ता॒का॒य॒ शं ग॒व॒ ।
व॒ह॒तं पी॒व॒री॒रि॒षः ॥ २० ॥

20. *Tena no vājinīvasū paśve tokāya śaṁ gave.
Vahataṁ pīvarīriṣaḥ.*

And thereby, O lords of power and wealth, bring us abundant and ever growing food, energy, wealth and peace for our children, our animals, our lands and cows, and for our knowledge and culture, and let all that grow higher.

उ॒त ना॑ दि॒व्या इ॒ष उ॒त सि॒न्धू॒र॒ह॒वि॒दा ।

अ॒प॒ द्वा॒रे॒व व॒ष॒थः ॥ २१ ॥

21. *Uta no divyā iṣa uta sindhūñraharvidā.
Apa dvāreva varṣathah.*

And, O harbingers of a new day, while you bring us heavenly food and energy in plenty, open the floods of streams and rivers and control the flow as by doors.

क॒दा वां ता॒ग्या वि॒धत्स॑मु॒द ज॒हि॒ता न॑रा ।

य॒द्वां र॒था वि॒भि॒ष्प॒ता॒त ॥ २२ ॥

22. *Kadā vāṁ taugrya vidhat samudre jahito narā.
Yad vāṁ ratho vibhiṣpatāt.*

O leading lights of life, some day the powers jettisoned or installed on the sea would glorify you when your chariot flying by wings would rescue them or take off from there.

यु॒वं क॒ण्वा॑य ना॒स॒त्या पि॑रि॒साय॑ ह॒म्य ।

श॒श्व॑दू॒तीद॑श॒स्य॒थः ॥ २३ ॥

23. *Yuvaṁ kaṇvāya nāsatyā'piriptāya harmye.
Śaśvad-ūtīr-daśasyathah.*

Ashvins, observers and protectors of truth without fail, you always provide protection for the oppressed man of knowledge and wisdom in his home.

ता॒भि॒रा या॑त॒मृ॒तिभि॒न॒व्य॒सी॒भिः सु॒श॒स्ति॒भिः ।

य॒द्वां वृ॒ष॒ण्व॒सू हु॒व ॥ २४ ॥

24. *Tābhirā yātam-ūtibhir-navyasībhiḥ suśastibhiḥ.
Yad vām vṛṣaṇvasū huve.*

O generous lords of wealth and power, come to us with those most modern and most admirable means and methods of protection whenever we call upon you.

यथा चित्कण्वमावतं प्रियमधमुपस्तुतम् ।
अत्रिं शिञ्जारमश्विना ॥ २५ ॥

25. *Yathā cit kaṇvam-āvataṁ priyamedham-upastu-
tam. Atriṁ śiñjāram-aśvinā.*

Come the same way as you protect and save the man of knowledge and wisdom, the celebrated intellectual and the sage loud and bold who has broken off all his three snares of body, mind and soul.

यथात कृत्य धनं शुं गाघ्वगस्त्यम् ।
यथा वाजेषु साभरिम ॥ २६ ॥

26. *Yathota kṛtye dhanem'śum goṣvagastyam.
Yathā vājeṣu sobharim.*

Come the way you protect and promote the earnest beginner in matters of possible success in business, the man of moral values in matters of self-control, and the man of charity and social awareness in matters of social success.

एतावद्वा वृषण्वसू अता वा भूया अश्विना ।
गृणन्तः सुम्नमीमह ॥ २७ ॥

17. *Etāvad vām vṛṣaṇvasū ato vā bhuyo aśvinā.
Grṇantaḥ sumnamīmahe.*

O virile and generous harbingers of wealth and power, Ashvins, thus do we so far and even more, celebrating your glory, pray for your favour and good will.

रथं हिरण्यवन्धुरं हिरण्याभीशुमश्विना ।
आ हि स्थाथा दिविस्पृशम ॥ २८ ॥

28. Ratham hiraṇyavandhuram hiraṇyābhīśumaśvinā. Ā hi sthātho diviṣpṛśam.

Ashvins, you ride a chariot of golden structure and golden control which flies and touches the borders of the regions of light on high.

हिरण्ययीं वां रभिरिषा अ तं हिरण्ययः ।
उभा चक्रा हिरण्यया ॥ २९ ॥

29. Hiraṇyayī vāṁ rabhirīṣā akṣo hiraṇyayah. Ubhā cakrā hiraṇyayā.

O travellers of the skies, golden is the chassis of your chariot, golden the axle, and both the wheels are golden too.

तनं ना वाजिनीवसू परावर्तश्चिदा गतम ।
उपमां सुष्टुतिं मम ॥ ३० ॥

30. Tena no vājinīvasū paravataścidā gatam. Upemāṁ suṣṭutiṁ mama.

O winners of wealth and victory, by that golden chariot come from far, from the farthest wherever you be, and accept this holy song of mine in praise of you.

आ वहथ पराकात्पूवीरश्नन्तावश्विना ।
इषा दासीरमत्या ॥ ३१ ॥

31. *Ā vahethe parākāt pūrvīraśnantāvaśvinā.
Iṣo dāsīramartyā.*

Immortal Ashvins, winners and harbingers of ancient sources of wealth, you bring us food, energies and wealths of tremendous positive value from farthest places and since times beyond memory.

आ ना द्युम्नरा श्रवाभिरा राया यातमश्विना ।
पुरुश्चन्द्रा नासत्या ॥ ३२ ॥

32. *Ā no dyumnairā śravobhirā rāyā yātamaśvinā.
Puruścandrā nāsatyā.*

Ashvins, observers and protectors of truth, blest with grace and glory of universal character, come to us with lights of knowledge, honour and wealth of imperishable value.

एह वां पुषितप्सवा वया वहन्तु पणिनः ।
अच्छा स्वध्वरं जनम ॥ ३३ ॥

33. *Eha vām prūṣitapsavo vayo vahantu parṇinah.
Acchā svadhvaram janam.*

May carriers consuming combustible fuel for energy transport you here on flying wings and you join the holy man at his yajna of love and non-violence.

रथं वामनुगायसं य इषा वतत सह ।
न चक्रमभि बाधत ॥ ३४ ॥

34. *Ratham vāmanugāyasam ya iṣā vartate saha.
Na cakramabhih bādgate.*

Your chariot which moves on fuel and energy and the wheel of your progress thereby, no one can obstruct on course.

हिरण्ययनं रथेन द्रवत्पाणिभिरश्वः ।

धीजवना नासत्या ॥ ३५ ॥

35. Hiranyayena rathena dravat-pāṇibhir-aśvaiḥ.
Dhījavanā nāsatyā.

Ashvins, ever truthful and imperishable powers, flying at the speed of thought by a golden chariot running by the power of revolving hands (like pistons, cranks or turbines and motors), no one can obstruct your course of progress.

युवं मृगं जागृवांसं स्वदथा वा वृषण्वसू ।

ता नः पृङ्गमिषा रयिम ॥ ३६ ॥

36. Yuvaṁ mṛgaṁ jāgrvāṁsaṁ svadatho vā vṛṣaṇ-vasū. Tā naḥ pṛṅktamiṣā rayim.

O generous and virile leading lights of the day, you take delight in hunting the hunter on the wake (not in ambush). Similarly join the wealth of victory with the taste of food and season it with the sweets of honey.

ता म अश्विना सनीनां विद्यातुं नवानाम । यथा चिच्छद्यः

कशुः शतमुष्टानां ददत्सहस्रा दश गानाम ॥ ३७ ॥

37. Tā me aśvinā sanīnāṁ vidyātāṁ navānām. Yathā ciccaidyah kaśuḥ śatamuṣṭrānām dadat sahasrā daśa gonām.

Such as you are, Ashvins, harbingers of the sweets of life, please know the newest and most favourite gifts I love just as the perceptive ruler knew when he granted me a hundred camels and ten thousand cows.

या म॒ हिर॑ण्यस॒ंदृ॒शा द॒श रा॒ज्ञा अम॑ंहत ।

अ॒ध॒स्प॒दा इ॒च्छ॒द्यस्य॑ कृ॒ष्टय॑श्चम॒म्ना अ॒भि॒ता ज॒नाः ॥ ३८ ॥

38. *Yo me hiraṇyasaṁdr̥śo daśa rājño amāṁhata.
Adhaspadā iccaidyasya kṛṣṭayaścarmamnā abhito janāḥ.*

Similarly that ruler knew who gave me ten estates of real beauty and value like gold. All people are under control of the wise ruler and men in armour stand round in readiness to serve and obey.

माकि॑र॒ना प॒था गा॒द्यन॒म यन्ति॑ च॒दयः॑ ।

अ॒न्या न॒त्सूरि॑राह॒त भूरि॑दाव॒त्तरा॑ ज॒नः ॥ ३९ ॥

39. *Mākirenā pathā gād yeneme yanti cedayah.
Anyo net sūrīrohate bhūridāvattaro janah.*

No one else goes by the path by which the wise people go. And no one else is as brave as they, no one excels them in charity and generosity.

Mandala 8/Sukta 6

Indra (1-45), Dana-stuti (46-48) Devata,

Vatsa Kanva Rshi

म॒हाँ इ॒न्द्रा य॑ आ॒जसा॑ प॒जन्या॑ वृ॒ष्टि॒माँ इ॒व ।

स्ताम॑व॒त्सस्य॑ वावृ॒ध ॥ १ ॥

1. *Mahāñ indro ya ojasā parjanya vṛṣṭimāñ iva.
Stomairvatsasya vāvṛdhe.*

Great is Indra by his power and splendour like the cloud charged with rain and waxes with pleasure in the dear devotee's awareness by his child like hymns of adoration.

प॒जामृ॑तस्य॒ पिप॑तः॒ प यद्भर॑न्त॒ वह्न॑यः ।

विप॑ा ऋ॒तस्य॒ वाह॑सा ॥ २ ॥

2. Prajāmṛtasya piprataḥ pra yad bharanta vahnayah. Viprā ṛtasya vāhasā.

When the forces of nature carry on the laws of divinity and sustain the children of creation through evolution, and the enlightened sages too carry on the yajna of divine law of truth in their adorations, Indra, immanent divinity, waxes with pleasure.

कण्वा॒ इन्द्रं॒ यद॑क॒त॒ स्ताम॑य॒ज्ञस्य॒ साध॑नम॒ जामि॑ बु॒वत्
आयु॑धम ॥ ३ ॥

3. Kaṇvā indram yadakrata stomairyajñasya sādhanam. Jāmi bruvata āyudham.

When the wise sages with their adorations rise to Indra and surrender to him as their yajnic destination, they exclaim: Verily the lord of thunder is our brother, father, mother, sister, everything.

सम॑स्य म॒न्यव॒ विशा॑ विश्वा॑ नमन्त॒ कृष्ट॑यः ।

स॒मुदा॑र्य॒व॒ सिन्ध॑वः ॥ ४ ॥

4. Samasya manyave viśo viśvā namanta kṛṣṭayah. Samudrāyeva sindhavaḥ.

The people, in fact the entire humanity, bow in homage and surrender to this lord of passion, power and splendour just as rivers flow on down and join into the sea.

आज॒स्तद॑स्य॒ तित्वि॑ष॒ उ॒भ यत्स॒मव॑तयत ॥

इन्द्र॑श्चम॒व॒ राद॑सी ॥ ५ ॥

5. Ojastadasya titviṣa ubhe yat samavartayat.
Indraścarmeṇa rodasī.

When Indra, lord almighty, pervades and envelops both heaven and earth in the cover of light, the light that shines is only the lord's divine splendour that blazes with glory.

वि चिद वृत्रस्य दार्धता वज्रेण शतपवणा ।
 शिरा बिभद वृष्णिना ॥ ६ ॥

6. Vi cid vṛtrasya dodhato vajreṇa śataparvaṇā.
Śiro bibheda vṛṣṇinā.

And when the lord of might and munificence with his thunderbolt of a hundred potentials shatters the head of Vṛtra, terror striking demon of darkness, drought and despair, the bolt is nothing but the blazing omnipotence of the lord.

इमा अभि प णानुमा विषामग्नेषु धीतयः ।
 अग्रः शाचिन दिद्युतः ॥ ७ ॥

7. Imā abhi pra ṇonumo vipāmagreṣu dhītayaḥ.
Agneḥ śocirna didyutaḥ.

These hymns of ardent adoration like rising flames of radiant fire, we among the front ranks of vibrant sages offer are homage and surrender to the lord omnipotent, Indra.

गुहा सतीरुप त्मना प यच्छाचन्त धीतयः ।
 कण्वा ऋतस्य धारया ॥ ८ ॥

8. Guhā satīrupa tmanā pra yacchocanta dhītayaḥ.
Kaṇvā ṛtasya dhārayā.

Hymns of adoration which abide in the depths of the heart, wise sages let flow and shine forth spontaneously with the overflowing streams of natural truth and law divinely embedded in the soul.

प तमिन्दु नशीमहि रयिं गामन्तमृश्विनम् ।

प ब्रह्म पूर्वचित्तय ॥ ९ ॥

9. Pra tamindra naśīmahi rayiṁ gomantamaśvinam.
Pra brahma pūrvacittaye.

Indra, lord of light and power, pray let us realise that wealth and honour of earthly character overflowing with motherly generosity and superfast achievement which is the prologue to perfect realisation of the nature and divinity of the ultimate reality of Brahman.

अहमिद्धि पितुष्परि मधामृतस्य जगभम् ।

अहं सूर्यइवाजनि ॥ १० ॥

10. Ahamiddhi pituṣpari medhāmṛtasya jagrabha.
Ahaṁ sūrya ivājani.

I have received from my father super intelligence of the universal mind and law, I have realise it too in the soul, and I feel reborn like the refulgent sun.

अहं प्रतन मनमना गिरः शुम्भामि कण्ववत ।

यनन्दः शुष्ममिदध ॥ ११ ॥

11. Ahaṁ pratnena manmanā giraḥ śumbhāmi kaṇvavat.
Yenendraḥ śuṣmamid dadhe.

With the realisation of ancient and eternal knowledge I sanctify and adorn my words and voice in song like a wise sage, and by that, Indra, lord of light and power, vests me with strength and excellence.

य त्वामिन्द न तुष्टुवुऋषया य च तुष्टुवुः ।

ममद्वधस्व सुष्टुतः ॥ १२ ॥

12. Ye tvāmindra na tuṣṭuvur-ṛṣayo ye ca tuṣṭuvuḥ.
Mamed vardhasva suṣṭutah.

There are men who do not adore you, and there are sages who adore you, (both ways you are acknowledged and adored by praise or protest). O lord thus adored by me and pleased, pray accept my adoration and let us rise.

यदस्य मन्युरध्वनीद्वि वृत्रं पवशा रुजन ।

अपः समुदमरयत ॥ १३ ॥

13. Yadasya manyur-adhvanīd vi vṛtram parvaśo rujan. Apah samudramairayat.

When the lord's passion rises and roars, breaking the dark cloud stage by stage, showers rain and rivers flow to the sea.

नि शुष्णा इन्द धणसिं वजं जघन्थ दस्यवि ।

वृषा ह्युग शृण्विष ॥ १४ ॥

14. Ni śuṣṇa indra dharaṇasim vajraṁ jaghantha dasyavi. Vṛṣā hyugra śṛṇviṣe.

Indra, when you strike the mighty thunderbolt on the devil of drought and cloud of denial, then you are celebrated as the lord of showers and divine passion.

न द्याव इन्दुमाजसा नान्तरि णि वजिणम ।

न विव्यचन्त भूमयः ॥ १५ ॥

15. *Na dyāva indramojasā nāntarikṣāṇi vajriṇam.
Na vivyacanta bhūmayah.*

Neither heavens nor the middle regions nor earths with all their lustre and power can violate, comprehend or even contain Indra, lord of the thunderbolt of omnipotence, justice and punishment.

यस्त इन्द्र महीरुपः स्तभूयमान आशयत ।
नि तं पद्यासु शिश्नथः ॥ १६ ॥

16. *Yasta indra mahīrapaḥ stabhūyamāna āśayat.
Ni taṁ padyāsu śisṇathah.*

Whoever chooses to hold up and stand in the way of the mighty flow of your waters, will and action, you pierce and break open like the dark cloud and make him flow with the flow into the channels of nature, the universal flow.

य इम रादसी मही समीची समजगभीत ।
तमाभिरिन्द्र तं गुहः ॥ १७ ॥

17. *Ya ime rodasī mahī samīcī samajagrabhīt.
Tamobhir-indra taṁ guhah.*

That nature, Prakṛti, which comprehends these great heavens and earths together, that same you cover and hide in deep darkness when this universe is withdrawn into zero during Pralaya, annihilation.

य इन्द्र यतयस्त्वा भृगवा य च तुष्टुवुः ।
ममदुग श्रुधी हवम ॥ १८ ॥

18. *Ya indra yatayastvā bhṛgavo ye ca tuṣṭuvuḥ.
Mamedugra śrudhī havam.*

Indra, those self-controlled sages, those veteran scholars of disseminative knowledge who cleanse themselves of negativities, all who adore and celebrate you, while you listen to all, among them, O lord of blazing resplendence, listen to my invocation, adoration and prayer.

इमास्तं इन्द्र पृश्नया घृतं दुहत आशिरम ।
एनामृतस्य पिप्युषीः ॥ १९ ॥

19. Imāsta indra prśnayo ghr̥taṁ duhata āśiram.
Enāmṛtasya pipyuṣīḥ.

Indra, these spotted cows of yours, various earths, starry skies which yield and shower honey sweets of milk and life giving soma are augmenters of the divine yajna of universal evolution.

या इन्द्र पस्वस्त्वा सा गभमचकिरन ।
परि धमव सूयम ॥ २० ॥

20. Yā indra prasvastvā''sā garbham-acakriran.
Pari dharmeva sūryam.

All these stars and planets are fertile and creative, and all round, like the nature and action of the sun, they suck up vitality in by the divine mouth and hold the seed of life for new birth.

त्वामिच्छवसस्पत कण्वा उक्थन वावृधुः ।
त्वां सुतासु इन्द्रवः ॥ २१ ॥

21. Tvāmic-chavasaspate kaṇvā ukthena vāvṛdhuḥ.
Tvām sutāsa indavaḥ.

O lord of universal power and potential, wise sages with their hymns of adoration exalt only you, and so also the distilled soma offers of initiated devotees exhilarate you alone.

तवदिन्द्र पणीतिषूत पशस्तिरदिवः ।

यज्ञा वितन्तसाय्यः ॥ २२ ॥

22. Tavedindra praṇītiṣūta praśastiradrivaḥ.
Yajño vitantasāyyaḥ.

Indra, in all matters of right ethics, morals, policy and social conduct in the world, it is your glory only that inspires, it is all a version of your universal yajna, lord mover and ruler of the world.

आ न इन्द्र महीमिषं पुरं न दधि गामतीम ।

उत पजां सुवीयम ॥ २३ ॥

23. Ā na indra mahīmiṣaṁ puram na darṣi gomatīm.
Uta prajāṁ suvīryam.

Indra, bestow upon us abundant food and high quality energy as well as a great city for habitation, rich in cows, culture and excellence and bless us with a noble virile progeny.

उत त्यदाश्वश्व्यं यदिन्द्र नाहुषीष्वा ।

अगं वि उ प्रदीदयत ॥ २४ ॥

24. Uta tyadāśvaśvyaṁ yadindra nāhuṣīṣvā.
Agne vikṣu pradīdayat.

Indra, lord omniscient and omnipotent, give us that dynamic energy and refulgent power strategy for sure and certain targeted achievement which you bestowed upon earlier people of the world committed to the pursuit of truth and rectitude in the social struggle between good and evil, positive and negative, and between love and hate.

अ॒भि व॒जं न त॑न्निष॒ सूर॑ उपा॒कच॑ त्सम ।

यदि॑न्द मृ॒ळया॑सि नः ॥ २५ ॥

25. Abhi vrajaṁ na tatniṣe sūra upākacakṣasam.
Yadindra mṛḷayāsi naḥ.

For when you are kind, O lord of light and power, you switch on the light for us and reveal the target close at hand in sight and you mark the way too by which we must reach our aim and object of love.

यद॒ङ्ग त॑विषी॒यस् इ॒न्द प॒राज॑सि ि॒तीः ।

म॒ह्यं अ॑पा॒र आ॑ज॒सा ॥ २६ ॥

26. Yadaṅga taviṣīyasa indra prarājasi kṣitīḥ.
Mahāñ apāra ojasā.

Indra, lord of life and love, dear as our very breath, when you shine and blaze ruling over lands and people, then you reveal your grandeur, you are incomprehensible by virtue of your self-refulgence.

तं त्वा॑ ह॒विष्म॑ती॒विश॑ उप॒ ब्रुव॑त ऊ॒तय॑ ।

उ॒रु॒जय॑स॒मिन्दु॑भिः ॥ २७ ॥

27. Taṁ tvā haviṣmatīrviśa upa bruvata ūtaye.
Urujrayasam-indubhiḥ.

People with most exhilarating offers of soma in hand for homage invoke and adore you for protection and advancement, lord omnipresent and ever vibrant in the expansive universe.

उ॒प॒ह्व॒र गि॒री॒णां॑ सं॒ग॒थ च॑ न॒दीना॑म ।

धि॒या वि॒पा अजा॑यत ॥ २८ ॥

28. *Upahvare girīṇām saṅgathe ca nadīnām.
Dhiyā vipro ajāyata.*

In seclusion over mountain slopes and in the caves and on the confluence of rivers, the vibrant presence of the lord within reveals itself by illumination in the self.

अतः॑ समु॒दमु॒द्व॒तश्चि॒क्त्वाँ अव॑ पश्यति ।

यता॑ वि॒पान॑ एजति ॥ २९ ॥

29. *Ataḥ samudram-udvataścikitvāñ ava paśyati.
Yato vipāna ejati.*

Thence the enlightened devotee rising over the ocean of existence watches how and from where the vibrant omnipresence descends into inner consciousness.

आदि॒त्प॒त्रस्य॑ रत॒सा ज्योति॑ष्पश्यन्ति वास॒रम॑ ।

पु॒रा यद्वि॑ध्यत दि॒वा ॥ ३० ॥

30. *Ādit pratnasya retaso jyotiṣ-paśyanti vāsaram.
Paro yadidhyate divā.*

And then the devotees see like day light the self-refulgence of the eternal lord and source of life who shines above and beyond the day through the night of annihilation too.

क॒ण्वा॒स इ॒न्द त म॒तिं वि॒श्व व॒धन्ति॑ प॒स्य॒म ।

उ॒ता श॑वि॒ष्ट वृ॒ष्ण्य॒म ॥ ३१ ॥

31. Kaṇvāsa indra te matiṁ viśve vardhanti paurnsyam. Uto śaviṣṭha vṛṣṇyam.

Indra, lord most potent, all the learned sages of the world celebrate and exalt your omniscience, creative power and universal generosity.

इमां म इन्द्र सुष्टुतिं जुषस्व प सु मामव ।
उत प वधया मतिम ॥ ३२ ॥

32. *Imām ma indra suṣṭutiṁ juṣasva pra su māmava.
Uta pra vardhayā matim.*

Indra, just and merciful lord, pray accept this hymn of adoration for my sake and protect me from evil, and bless me that my intelligence and awareness may grow and rise in piety.

उत ब्रह्मण्या वयं तुभ्यं पवृद्ध वजिवः ।
विप्रा अत म जीवस ॥ ३३ ॥

33. Uta brahmanyā vayaṁ tubhyaṁ pravṛddha vajrivaḥ. Viprā atakṣma jīvase.

Indra, highest and eternal lord of thunder and justice, we, enlightened sages dedicated to divinity with piety, offer these hymns of prayer and adoration for the sake of our life and advancement.

अभि कण्वा अनूषता पा न प्रवता यतीः ।
इन्द्रं वनन्वती मतिः ॥ ३४ ॥

34. *Abhi kaṇvā anūṣatā''po na pravatā yatīḥ.
Indraṁ vananvatī matiḥ.*

Wise sages offer prayers to Indra and, like streams of water flowing and reaching the sea, the prayers rise and reach the lord almighty with love and adoration.

इन्द्रमुक्थानि वावृधुः समुद्रमिव सिन्धवः ।

अनुत्तमन्युमजरम ॥ ३५ ॥

35. Indramukthāni vāvṛdhuḥ samudramiva sindhavaḥ. Anuttamanyum-ajaram.

Hymns of adoration and prayer and yajnic performances exalt Indra, unaging and eternal lord beyond anger and agitation, just as rivers augment the ocean beyond overflowing.

आ ना याहि परावता हरिभ्यां हयताभ्याम ।

इममिन्द्र सुतं पिब ॥ ३६ ॥

36. *Ā no yāhi parāvato haribhyām haryatābyām.
Imamindra sutam piba.*

Indra, come hither to us to join our yajna even from the farthest borders of the universe by brilliant vibrations of natural presence and illuminating rays of light divine and accept this distilled soma of our prayer and adoration.

त्वामिद वृत्रहन्तम् जनासा वृक्तबहिषः ।

हवन्त वाजसातय ॥ ३७ ॥

37. *Tvāmid vṛtrahantama janāso vṛktabarhiṣaḥ.
Havante vājasātaye.*

People, dedicated celebrants, seated on the vedi with homage in hand, invoke and adore you, lord most potent destroyer of darkness and evil, and they pray for victory in their struggle of life for advancement.

अनु त्वा रादसी उभ चक्रं न वत्यतशम ।

अनु सुवानासु इन्दवः ॥ ३८ ॥

38. Anu tvā rodasī ubhe cakram na vartyetaśam.
Anu suvānāsa indavaḥ.

Just as a chariot wheel turns and moves in correspondence with the horse so do both heaven and earth and all other soma transactions of life turn and move in obedience to your will and law.

मन्दस्वा सु स्वर्णर उतन्द शयणावति ।

मत्स्वा विवस्वता मती ॥ ३९ ॥

39. Mandasvā su svarṇara utendra śaryaṇāvati.
Matsvā vivasvato matī.

And Indra, O lord of love and power, in the regions of the earth and its environment close to the middle regions of space where violence is possible, pray bless the people with joy and feel exalted by the pious thought and will of the yajnic humanity.

वावृधान उप द्यवि वृषा वज्र्यरारवीत ।

वृत्रहा सामपातमः ॥ ४० ॥

40. Vāvṛdhāna upa dyavi vṛṣā vajryararavīt.
Vṛtrahā somapātamaḥ.

Exhilarated and exalted, in the heavens over the middle regions of the skies, the virile and munificent wielder of thunder, Indra, roars in response to the yajnic acts of humanity. He is destroyer of darkness and evil, drought and despair, and the greatest lover of peace and the soma of success.

ऋषि॒हि पू॒व॒जा अस्य॑क॒ इशा॑न॒ आज॑सा ।

इ॒न्द चा॑ष्कू॒यस॒ वसु॑ ॥ ४१ ॥

41. Ṛṣirhi pūrvajā asyeka īśāna ojasā.
Indra coṣkūyase vasu.

Indra, you are the omniscient poet and visionary of the universe, all seer, eternal and first manifestation of existence in creation, sole one and absolute ruler of the universe by your might and majesty, and you love to give wealth, honour and excellence with highest joy to humanity.

अ॒स्माकं॑ त्वा सु॒ताँ उप॑ वी॒तपृ॑ष्ठा अ॒भि प॒यः ।

श॒तं व॑हन्तु॒ हर॑यः ॥ ४२ ॥

42. Asmākaṁ tvā sutāñ upa vītaprṣṭhā abhi prayah.
Śataṁ vahantu harayah.

Indra, may the hundreds of your festive forces travelling like light rays transport you hither to our distilled soma and delicious foods offered in homage.

इ॒मां सु॒ पू॒र्व्या धि॒यं म॒धाघृ॑तस्य॒ पि॒प्यु॒षी॑म ।

क॒ण्वा उ॒क्थ॑न॒ वावृ॑धुः ॥ ४३ ॥

43. Imāṁ su pūrvyāṁ dhiyaṁ madhaghṛtasya pipyuṣīm. Kaṇvā ukthēna vāvṛdhuḥ.

Learned sages by chanting hymns and performing yajna exalt the glory and efficacy of this ancient science of yajnic action which augments the honey sweets of water, ghrta and all other delicacies for universal nourishment.

इ॒न्द॒मि॒द्वि॒र्म॒हीनां॑ म॒धं वृ॑णीत॒ म॒त्यः॑ ।

इ॒न्दं स॒नि॒ष्यु॒रू॒तय॑ ॥ ४४ ॥

44. *Indramid vimahīnām medhe vr̥ṇīta martyaḥ.
Indram saniṣyurūtaye.*

Mortals of the highest order of humanity choose Indra for honour in yajna, and the seeker of wealth and power too invokes Indra for protection and advancement.

अवाञ्चं त्वा पुरुष्टुत प्रियमधस्तुता हरी ।
सामपयाय व ततः ॥ ४५ ॥

45. *Arvāñcam tvā puruṣṭuta priyamedhastutā harī.
Somaṣpeyāya vakṣataḥ.*

O lord of universal adoration and worship, natural vibrations of divine energy loved and honoured by the devotees of social yajna transport you hither to the heart to accept the sweets of our love and homage.

शतमहं तिरिन्दिर सहस्रं पशावा दद ।
राधांसि याद्वानाम ॥ ४६ ॥

46. *Śatamaham tirindire sahasram parśāvā dade.
Rādhānsi yādvānām.*

Thousands of gifts of intellectual value and means of practical success I have received from Indra to give away to help others and for the destruction of darkness from humanity.

त्रीणि शतान्यवतां सहस्रा दश गानाम ।
ददुष्पजाय साम्न ॥ ४७ ॥

47. *Trīṇi śatānyarvatām sahasrā daśa gonām.
Daduṣpajrāya sāmne.*

Three hundred horses and ten thousand cows the lord has given to the celebrant of Sama Veda. (Horses and cows are symbols of achievement and generosity.)

उदान॑ट ककु॒हा दि॒वमु॒ष्टाञ्च॑तु॒युजा॑ दद॑त ।
श्रव॑सा॒ याद्वं॑ ज॒नम॑ ॥ ४८ ॥

48. Udānaṭ kakuho divam-uṣṭrāñ-caturyujo dadat.
Śravasā yādvam janam.

Having given four bullocks or camels in charity and raised a class of intellectuals, a prosperous devotee rises to divine heights of honour and fame.

Mandala 8/Sukta 7

Marutah Devata, Punarvatsa Kanva Rshi

प॒ यद्व॑स्त्रि॒ष्टुभ॑मि॒षं मरु॑ता॒ विपा॒ अ॒ र॑त ।
वि॒ पर्व॑त॒षु रा॑जथ ॥ १ ॥

1. Pra yad vastrīṣṭubham-iṣam maruto vipro akṣarat. Vi parvateṣu rājatha.

O Maruts, warriors of the nation, when the vibrant controllers of the nation's finances in yajnic management canalise national expenditure into three streams, physical, mental and spiritual, then you rise to the clouds and shine.

यद॒ङ्ग त॑वि॒षीय॑वा॒ यामं॑ शु॒भा अ॒चि॑ध्वम ।
नि॒ पर्व॑ता॒ अहा॑सत ॥ २ ॥

2. Yadaṅga taviṣīyavo yāmaṁ śubhrā acidhvam.
Ni parvatā ahāsata.

O dear bright Maruts, blazing bold warriors, when you detail your vehicles on parade for action, then even mountains shake with fear and awe.

उदीरयन्त वायुभिर्वाश्रासः पृश्निमातरः ।

धु न्त पिप्युषीमिषम ॥ ३ ॥

3. *Udīrayanta vāyubhir-vāśrāsaḥ pṛṣṇimātarah.
Dhukṣanta pipyuṣīmiṣam.*

Children of earth and heaven chanting holy songs with the winds, the Maruts bring down streams of food and energy from the skies.

वपन्ति मरुता मिहं प वपयन्ति पर्वतान ।

यद्यामं यान्ति वायुभिः ॥ ४ ॥

4. *Vapanti maruto mihaṁ pra vepayanti parvatān.
Yad yāmam yānti vāyubhiḥ.*

When the Maruts take to their vehicles with the winds, they shoot out showers of rain and shake up mountainous strongholds of energy.

नि यद्यामाय वा गिरिनि सिन्धवा विधमण ।

मह शुष्माय यमिर ॥ ५ ॥

5. *Ni yad yāmāya vo girirni sindhavo vidharmaṇe.
Mahe śuṣmāya yemire.*

Out of fear and awe of your motion and power which is opposed to their strength and character, mountains hold back and rivers pant and flow.

युष्माँ उ नक्तमृतय युष्मान्दिवा हवामह ।

युष्मान्प्रयत्यध्वर ॥ ६ ॥

6. *Yuṣmāñ u naktamūtaye yuṣmān divā havāmahe.
Yuṣmān prayatyadhvare.*

We invoke you at night for peace and protection, in the day for action and advancement, and in the beginning of yajna for completion and fulfilment.

उदु त्य अरुणप्सवश्चित्रा यामभिरीरत ।

वाश्चा अधि ष्णुना दिवः ॥ ७ ॥

7. *Udu tye aruṇapsavaścitrā yāmebhirirate.
Vāśrā adhi ṣṇunā divaḥ.*

And those ardent red wonderful stormy troops of heroes fly by their chariots roaring over mountain tops and over and across the skies.

सृजन्ति रश्मिमार्जसा पन्थां सूर्याय यातव ।

त भानुभिवि तस्थिर ॥ ८ ॥

8. *Sṛjanti raśmimojasā panthāṁ sūryāya yātave.
Te bhānubhirvi tasthire.*

By their might and lustre they carve bright paths for the radiations of vital energies of the sun and stand guard all over the places by their strength and the beams of light.

इमां म मरुता गिरमिमं स्ताममृभु णः ।

इमं म वनता हवम ॥ ९ ॥

9. Imāṁ me maruto giram-imaṁ stomamṛbhukṣaṇaḥ. Imaṁ me vanatā havam.

O Maruts, warriors of exceptional order, listen to this voice of mine, accept this poetic tribute and cherish this invocative call of mine.

त्रीणि सरांसि पृश्नया दुदुह वजिण मधु ।

उत्सं कवन्धमुदिणम ॥ १० ॥

10. *Trīṇi sarāṁsi prśnayo duduhre vajriṇe madhu.
Utsaṁ kabandhamudriṇam.*

Mothers of the Maruts distil the nectar drink of life for them from three reservoirs: the solar region of light or the sattva element of nature, the cloudy sky or the rajas element of nature, and the earth or the tamas element of nature's balance and firmness, and they feed their children on the light of knowledge and culture, energy of the winds and generosity of rain showers, and the sweetness and stability of the earth.

मरुता यद्ध वा दिवः सुम्नायन्ता हवामह ।

आ तू न उप गन्तन ॥ ११ ॥

11. *Maruto yaddha vo divaḥ sumnāyanto havāmahe.
Ā tū na upa gantana.*

Maruts, O tempestuous heroes, as we call upon you for the sake of peace, progress and prosperity, pray come fast from the heavens through the skies close to us on earth.

यूयं हि ष्ठा सुदानवा रुद्री ऋभु णा दम ।

उत पचतसा मद ॥ १२ ॥

12. *Yūyam hi ṣṭhā sudānavo rudrā ṛbhukṣaṇo dame.
Uta pracetaso made.*

You are generous, uncompromising agents of justice and punishment, highly intelligent and scholarly. Stay that in your element in the field of peace and discipline, and in a state of exhilaration keep your soul and your brains about you.

आ ना रयिं मदच्युतं पुरु ँ विश्वधायसम ।

इयता मरुता दिवः ॥ १३ ॥

13. Ā no rayiṁ madacyutaṁ purukṣuṁ viśvadhāya-sam. Iyartā maruto divaḥ.

O Maruts, bring us from the light of heaven wealth, honour and excellence full of joy for all and amply sufficient for the sustenance of world life.

अधी॒व॒ यद्गिरी॑णां॒ यामं॑ शु॒भा॒ अचि॑ध्वम ।

सु॒वा॒नम॑न्दध्व॒ इन्दु॑भिः ॥ १४ ॥

14. Adhīva yad girīṇām yāmaṁ śubhrā acidhvam. Suvānair-mandadhva indubhiḥ.

Heroes of the wind, radiant and pure, when you harness your chariots to ride over the mountains, then with the showers of soma you rejoice and move the world to rapture.

ए॒ताव॑तश्चि॒दषां॑ सु॒म्नं॑ भि॒ त् म॒त्यः॑ ।

अ॒दा॒भ्यस्य॑ म॒न्म॒भिः॑ ॥ १५ ॥

15. Etāvataścid-eṣāṁ sumnaṁ bhikṣeta martyaḥ. Adābhyasya manmabhiḥ.

To these warriors of the winds of this high order of indomitable powers, let mortal man pray for peace and joy with thoughts and words of full awareness of the giver and the supplicant.

य॒ दु॒प्सा॒इव॑ रा॒दसी॑ ध॒म॒न्त्यनु॑ वृ॒ष्टिभिः॑ ।

उ॒त्सं॑ दु॒हन्ता॑ अ॒ति॒म ॥ १६ ॥

16. Ye drapsā iva rodasī dhamantyanu vṛṣṭibhiḥ. Utsaṁ duhanto akṣitam.

Milking the imperishable cloud of space oceans like the cow, they sprinkle heaven and earth with rain like showers of elixir.

उदु॑ स्वा॒नभि॒रीर॑त॒ उदथ॑रुदु॒ वा॒युभिः॑ ।

उत्स्ता॒मः पृ॒श्नि॒मातरः॑ ॥ १७ ॥

17. *Udu svānebhir-īrata ud rathairudu vāyubhiḥ.
Ut stomaiḥ pṛśnimātarah.*

Children of the winds, heavens and the skies emerge and advance from their abode with winds and roars by chariots to the accompaniment of songs of jubilation.

यना॒व तु॒वशं॑ यदुं॒ यन् क॑ण्वं॒ धन॑स्पृ॒तम् ।

रा॒य सु॒ तस्य॑ धीमहि॑ ॥ १८ ॥

18. Yenāva turvaśaṁ yaduṁ yena kaṇvaṁ dhanaspṛtam. Rāye su tasya dhīmahi.

Of the Maruts, we solicit that wealth and power by which they protect the man fighting against violence and the wise sage who too prays for wealth and honour in the world.

इ॒मा उ॑ वः सु॒दान॑वा घृ॒तं न पि॒प्युषी॑रिषः ।

वधा॑न्का॒ण्वस्य॑ मन्म॒भिः ॥ १९ ॥

19. *Imā u vaḥ sudānavo ghrtaṁ na pipyuṣīriṣaḥ.
Vardhān kāṇvasya manmabhiḥ.*

O warriors of charity and generosity, we pray that these animations, inspirations and exhortations of ours which, like ghrta, feed the fire of life and rise in flames, may, exalt you by the thoughts and prayers of the wise sage.

क्व नूनं सुदानवा मदथा वृक्तबहिषः ।

ब्रह्मा का वः सपयति ॥ २० ॥

20. *Kva nūnaṁ sudānava madathā vṛktabarhiṣaḥ.
Brahmā ko vaḥ saparyati.*

Generous Maruts, where are you now rejoicing, seated on the holy grass? And who is the high priest conducting the yajnic celebration for you?

नहि ष्म यद्ध वः पुरा स्तामभिवृक्तबहिषः ।

शर्धा' ऋतस्य जिन्वथ ॥ २१ ॥

21. Nahi śma yaddha vaḥ purā stomebhir-vṛktabarhiṣaḥ. Śardhāñ ṛtasya jinvatha.

O Maruts, isn't it true that seated on the holy grass you have been augmenting the power and efficacy of the yajna of truth by your exhortations ever before?

समु त्य महतीरपः सं ाणी समु सूर्यम ।

सं वजं पवशा दधुः ॥ २२ ॥

22. *Samu tye mahatīrapaḥ saṁ kṣaṇī samu sūryam.
Saṁ vajraṁ parvaśo dadhuḥ.*

Those Maruts support and hold together in cosmic balance the mighty floods of water, the earth, the sun, and the force and power of thunder stage by stage.

वि वृत्रं पवशा ययुवि पवताँ अराजिनः ।

चक्राणा वृष्णि प स्यम ॥ २३ ॥

23. *Vi vṛtraṁ parvaśo yayurvi parvatāñ arājinah.
Cakrāṇā vṛṣṇi paumsyam.*

Doing acts of mighty vigour and splendour they break the clouds of darkness and evil and split open cavernous mountains step by step and bring light and showers of rain.

अनु त्रितस्य युध्यतः शुष्ममाव नुत कतुम ।

अन्विन्दं वृत्रतूय ॥ २४ ॥

24. Anu tritasya yudhyataḥ śuṣmam-āvannuta kratum. Anvindram vṛtratūrye.

They reinforce the powers of life struggling for positive forces fighting against three negativities of body, mind and soul, and they support and reinforce the ruler in his battle against evil and darkness.

विद्युद्धस्ता अभिद्यवः शिपाः शीषन्हिर्ण्ययीः ।

शुभा व्यञ्जत श्रिय ॥ २५ ॥

25. Vidyuddhastā abhidyavaḥ śiprāḥ śīrṣaṇ hiraṇyayīḥ. Śubhrā vyañjata śriye.

Thunder in hand, all round refulgent, wearing golden helmets on the head, they shine bright and pure for the beauty and glory of life.

उशना यत्परावत उ णा रन्ध्रमयातन ।

द्यान चक्रदद्भिया ॥ २६ ॥

26. Uśanā yat parāvata ukṣṇo randhramayātana. Dyaurna cakradad bhiyā.

Impassioned for action when the virile Maruts rush to a region of low pressure in the sky from afar, the cloud, as the higher regions, roars under fear and pressure.

आ ना मखस्य द॒ावन श्व॒हिर॑ण्यपाणिभिः ।

दवा॑सु उप॒ गन्त॑न ॥ २७ ॥

27. Ā no makhasya dāvane 'śvair-hiraṇyapāṇibhiḥ.
Devāsa upa gantana.

O divinities of power and generous splendour, to augment and energise our yajna, pray come by motive forces of golden hoof and golden wheel and bless us in person.

यद॑षां पृ॒षती॒ रथ॒ पष्टि॑वहति॒ राहि॑तः ।

यान्ति॑ शु॒भा रि॒ण ऽपः॑ ॥ २८ ॥

28. Yadeṣām pṛṣatī rathe praṣṭirvahati rohitah.
Yānti śubhrā riṇannapaḥ.

When the fiery force drives the Maruts in their chariot towards regions of abundant water or to the clouds laden with vapour, then these heroes go forward bright and pure splitting and flying off the vapours and waters.

सु॒षाम॑ शय॒णाव॑त्याजी॒क प॒स्त्या॑वति ।

य॒युनि॑च॒कया॒ नरः॑ ॥ २९ ॥

29. Suṣome śaryaṇāvatyārjīke pastyāvati. Yayur-nicakrayā narah.

The leading Marut forces proceed to beautiful regions of peace and joy on higher altitudes and to the simple natural planes without vehicular medium by direct currents of energy.

क॒दा ग॑च्छाथ मरु॒त इ॒त्या वि॒पुं ह॑व॒मान॑म ।

मा॒ङ्गीक॑भि॒नार्ध॑मानम ॥ ३० ॥

30. Kadā gacchātha maruta itthā vipram havamānam. Mārḍikebhir-nādhamānam.

O Maruts, when would you thus reach the vibrant scholar who calls you to yajna and awaits, and carry gifts of prosperity to the supplicant?

कब्धं नूनं कधपिया यदिन्द्रमजहातन ।

का वः सखित्व आहत ॥ ३१ ॥

31. Kaddha nūnam kadhapriyo yadindramajahātana. Ko vaḥ sakhitva ohate.

Does a friend of constancy ever forsake Indra, the ruler? Who thinks twice on the value of friendship with you? (No one forsakes you, everyone loves to be friends with you.)

सहा षु णा वजहस्तः कण्वासा अग्निं मरुद्भिः ।

स्तुष हिरण्यवाशीभिः ॥ ३२ ॥

32. Saho ṣu ṇo vajrahastaiḥ kaṇvāso agniṁ marudbhiḥ. Stuṣe hiraṇyavāśībhiḥ.

O sages and scholars, I praise and celebrate Agni, fiery leader and enlightened ruler along with thunder-handed, golden-armed Maruts, stormy troopers of the nation. Let us all praise and celebrate them.

आ षु वृष्णः परयज्यूना नव्यस सुविताय ।

ववृत्यां चित्रवाजान ॥ ३३ ॥

33. O ṣu vṛṣṇaḥ prayajyūnā navyase suvitāya. Vavṛtyāṁ citravājān.

For the sake of latest forms of happiness, prosperity and well being, I turn to the virile and generous, most adorable and wondrous versatile warriors of the winds and abide by them.

गिरयश्चि ॥ जिहत पशानासा मन्यमानाः ।

पर्वताश्चि ॥ यमिर ॥ ३४ ॥

34. *Girayaścinni jihate parśānāso manyamānāḥ.
Parvatāścinni yemire.*

Mountains give way before them, formidable peaks pant and turn into chasms and clouds change their course under the force of Maruts.

आ णयावाना वहन्त्यन्तरि ण पततः ।

धातारः स्तुवत वयः ॥ ३५ ॥

35. *Ākṣṇayāvāno vahantyantarikṣeṇa patataḥ.
Dhātaraḥ stuvate vayah.*

Chariots flying at the speed of eye-light over the paths of space transport the Maruts, harbingers of food, energy, health and full age for the celebrant.

अग्निहि जानि पूव्यश्छन्दा न सूरौ अचिषा ।

त भानुभिवि तस्थिर ॥ ३६ ॥

36. *Agnirhi jāni pūrvyaśchando na sūro arcīṣā.
Te bhānubhir vi tasthire.*

Agni, earliest ruling light of the world, came into existence with self-refulgence like the sun and the music of Vedic voice, and the Maruts manifested and ever abided by rays of the sun and flames of fire.

Mandala 8/Sukta 8*Ashvinan Devate, Sadhvansa Kanva Rshi*

आ ना विश्वाभिरूतिभिरश्विना गच्छतं युवम् ।

2. *Ā nūnaṁ yātamaśvinā rathena sūryatvacā.
 Bhuji hiraṇyapeśasā kavī gambhīracetasa.*

Ashvins, lovers of life and living, far sighted, imaginative and creative thinkers and makers, come sure to our yajna by your radiation oriented, gold coated and highly monitored chariot (and bless our programme).

आ यातं नहुषस्पया न्तरि गत्सुवृत्तिभिः ।

3. *Ā yātaṁ nahuṣasparyā''ntarikṣāt suvṛktibhiḥ.
 Pibātho aśvinā madhu kaṇvānāṁ savane sutam.*

Ashvins, come here from the world of humanity, from the skies, with the best of light, knowledge and technique you have collected, accept and enjoy the soma sweets of the scholars' creations achieved and perfected in their joint programme, and assess the taste of soma.

आ ना यातं दिवस्पया न्तरि णदधपिया ।

4. *Ā no yātaṁ divasparyā'ntarikṣādadhapriyā.
Putraḥ kanvasya vāmiha suṣāva somyaṁ madhu.*

O lovers of the earth and humanity, come to us from the heavens and from the skies. The son and disciple of the scholar has distilled for you the soma sweets of honey. (Pray take that and bless him to proceed further.)

आ ना यातमुपश्रुत्यश्विना सामपीतय ।

5. *Ā no yātamupaśrutyaśvinā somapītaye.
Svāhā stomasya vardhanā pra kavī dhītibhirnarā.*

Ashvins, harbingers of complementary revelations, come and listen closely to what we have conceived and imagine and say. Come to have a taste of this soma of our making. By the truth of your divine reflections, words and actions you extend the possibilities of our holy achievements. O leading lights, visionary creators, come with your thoughts, ideas and imaginations for our advancement.

यच्चिद्धि वां पुर ऋषया जुहूर वस नरा ।

आ यातमश्विना गतमुपमां सुष्टुतिं मम ॥ ६ ॥

6. *Yacciddhi vāṁ pura ṛṣayo juhūre'vase narā.
Ā yātamaśvinā gatamupemāṁ suṣṭutiṁ mama.*

Ashvins, whenever the ancient sages called upon you for encouragement and advancement, you came and listened. O leading lights of vision and imagination, come and listen to this prayer and adoration of mine too.

द्वि॒श्वि॒दा॒क्ष॒ना॒द॒ध्या॒ ना॑ गन्तं स्ववि॒दा ।

7. *Divaścid rocanādadhyaṅā no gantaṁ svarvidā.
Dhībhir-vatsapracetasā stomebhir-havanaśrutā.*

Visionaries of the light of omniscience, committed in conscious covenant with dear ones, responsive to the devotee's call, come to us from the heights of heaven with refulgence, knowledge, expertise and action.

कि॒म॒न्य॒ प॒या॒स॒त॒ स्म॒त्स्ता॒म॒भि॒र॒श्वि॒ना ।

8. *Kimanye paryāsate'smat somebhir-aśvinā.
Putraḥ kaṇvasya vāmṛṣir-gīrbhivatso avīvr̥dhat.*

Ashvins, harbingers of the light of heaven, do people other than us adore you with hymns of prayer? The sagely son and disciple of the wise scholar and devotee, dear as a child, exalts you with hymns of prayer.

आ॒ वां॒ वि॒प॒ इ॒हा॒व॒स॒ ह॒व॒त्स्ता॒म॒भि॒र॒श्वि॒ना ।

9. *Ā vām vipra ihāvase'hvat stomebhir-aśvinā.
Ariprā vr̥trahantamā tā no bhūtaṁ mayobhuvā.*

Ashvins, twin harbingers of heavenly light, the vibrant devotee invokes you here for protection and progress with hymns of adoration. O sinless divines, highest dispellers of the clouds of sin and darkness, come here and be for us light givers of universal peace and happiness.

आ यद्वां याषणा रथमतिष्ठद्वाजिनीवसू ।

10. Ā yad vām yoṣaṇā rathamatiṣṭhad vājīnīvasū. Viśvānyaśvinā yuvaṁ pra dhītānyagacchatam.

Ashvins, when the youthful dawn of a new day ascends your chariot with you, then, O divine harbingers of wealth and energy, you reach all that what the world thinks of for self-fulfilment.

अतः सहस्रनिणिजा रथना यातमश्विना ।

11. Ataḥ sahasranirṇijā rathenā yātamaśvinā. Vatso vām madhumad vaco'samsīt kāvyaḥ kaviḥ.

For this reason, Ashvins, come by the chariot bearing a thousand beauties of wealth and divine bliss. The poet's poet, a darling admirer of yours, adores and glorifies you with honey sweets of his sacred words.

पुरुमन्दा पुरुवसू मनातरा रयीणाम ।

12. Purumandrā purūvasū manotarā rayiṇām. Stomaṁ me aśvināvimamabhi vahnī anuṣātām.

Ashvins, harbingers of universal peace and joy for all, creators and dispensers of wealth, honour and excellence, bless this song of mine with divine grace, you being the burden bearers and hallowed leaders of the world to higher regions.

आ ना॒ विश्वा॑न्य॒श्विना॒ धृ॒त्तं राधा॑ंस्य॒हया॑ ।

Ever true and relentless observers of the laws of divinity, to the poet sage, your darling celebrant who exalts you with his words of song, bear and bring food, energy and vision of wisdom vibrating with divine illumination and grace.

18. Ā vām viśvābhirūtibhiḥ priyamedhā ahūṣata. Rājantāvadhvarāṇām-aśvinā yāmahūtiṣu.

Ashvins, all the ruling lights of yajnic performances and programmes of creation and production, lovers and devotees of solemn ceremonies, at all stages of their mission, invoke you with all your means and modes of protection and promotion of the holy projects.

आ नां गन्तं मया॒भुवा श्वि॒ना शं॒भुवा युवम ।

Ashvins, leading lights of law and defence of humanity, come with all those powers and potentials by which you keep the law and order and shatter the forces of violence and terror for the economic and social advancement of humanity. With those very powers and potentials, protect us too for the achievement of success in our struggles.

Ashvins, protectors and promoters of life and humanity, greatest destroyers of the forces of darkness and destruction, may our hymns of adoration composed in the choicest words, finished in finest form and sung in the sweetest notes and accents, please and exalt you. May you ever be the darling heroes of universal love and admiration of humanity.

Three stages of the Ashvin's advent hidden deep in the cave of mystery, namely, the victory of progressive forces of good against the negative forces of evil, maintenance of peace against violence, and law and justice against lawlessness are thus revealed. May the Ashvins, harbingers of the light of knowledge, justice, peace and prosperity, come by the paths of rectitude, divine law and the process of yajnic action for the good of living beings all over the world.

Ashvins, harbingers of energy, health and replenishment, ever true unfailing agents of natural law and life's growth, when you vibrate, radiate and energise, when you nourish, heal, resuscitate and revive things to live and grow, this conscientious darling seeker of your power and presence understands you not by observation, analysis and thought, in your entirety, because you reveal yourself only to the faithful who come to you with homage. (Life is a mystery. You can know the secret of this mystery only by being what it is, by identifying with it in meditation.)

आ नूनमश्विनाऋषिः स्तामं चिकेत वामया ।

स॒मत्सु॑ त्वा हवामह ॥ ८ ॥

8. *Purutrā hi sadṛṅṅasi viśo viśvā anu prabhuḥ.
Samatsu tvā havāmahe.*

You are the universal eye watching the entire humanity of the world as master and ruler. As such, O lord, we invoke and call upon you in our battles of life.

स॒मत्स्व॒ग्निम॒वस॑ वा॒ज्यन्ता॑ हवामह ।

वा॒ज॒षु चि॒त्ररा॑धसम ॥ ९ ॥

9. *Samatsvagnim-avase vājyanto havāmahe.
Vājeṣu citrarādhasam.*

We, seekers of strength and fighters for victory, invoke and adore Agni, omnipotent power of wondrous munificence and achievement, for protection, defence and advancement in our struggles and contests of life.

प॒त्ना हि क॒मीड्या॑ अध्व॒रेषु॑ स॒नाच्च॑ हा॒ता नव्य॑श्च स॒त्सि ।

स्वां चा॒ग्न त॒न्वं पि॒पय॑स्वा॒ स्मभ्यं॑ च॒ साभ॑ग॒मा य॑जस्व ॥ १० ॥

10. *Pratno hi kamīḍyo adhwareṣu sanācca hotā navyaśca satsi. Svām cāgne tanvaṁ piprayasvā-
'smabhyam ca saubhagamā yajasva.*

Agni, eternal and blissfully adorable lord, worshipped in sacred congregations since time immemorial, presiding over yajnas as the most youthful performer and deity ancient and latest at the newest occasions, carry on the cosmic yajna, nourish and augment the universe as your own physical manifestation, and bring us all good fortune and well being of life.

Mandala 8/Sukta 12

Indra Devata, Parvata Kanva Rshi

य इ॒न्द॒ साम॒पा॒त॒मा॒ म॒दः॑ श॒वि॒ष्ठ॒ च॒त॒ति॑ ।

य॒ना॒ ह॒ंसि॒ न्य॑त्रि॒णं॒ त॒मी॑म॒ह ॥ १ ॥

1. Ya indra somapātamo madaḥ śaviṣṭha cetati.
Yenā haṁsi nyatriṇaṁ tamīmahe.

Indra, lord most potent, highest protector and promoter of the beauty and joy of life, that ecstatic passion of yours which universally pervades, manifests and reveals your might and glory and by which you destroy the negative forces of life, we adore and pray for.

य॒ना॒ द॒श॒ग्व॒म॒धि॒गुं॒ वृ॒ष॒य॒न्तं॒ स्व॒ण॒र॒म॑ ।

य॒ना॒ स॒मु॒द॒मा॒वि॒था॒ त॒मी॑म॒ह ॥ २ ॥

2. Yenā daśagvam-adhriḡuṁ vepayantaṁ svarṇa-ram.
Yenā samudram-āvithā tamīmahe.

That omnipotent passion and ecstasy of yours by which you protect and promote the individual soul working with ten faculties of perception and volition, the unchallengeable wind and electric energy, the solar radiation which shakes and vibrates, and the ocean of water on earth and in space, that we adore, that we pray for.

य॒न॒ सि॒न्धुं॒ म॒ही॒र॒पा॒ रथौ॑ इ॒व॒ प॒चा॒द॒यः॑ ।

प॒न्था॑मृ॒तस्य॒ या॒त॒व॒ त॒मी॑म॒ह ॥ ३ ॥

3. Yena sindhuṁ mahīrapo rathāñ iva pracodayaḥ.
Panthāmṛtasya yātave tamīmahe.

That power and passion of ecstasy by which you energise and move the river and the sea, the earths and waters like rolling chariots to flow and follow the path of the divine law of nature, that we adore, that we pray for, to follow the path of truth and yajna ourselves too.

इमं स्ताममभिष्टय घृतं न पूतमदिवः ।

यना नु सद्य आर्जसा ववतिथ ॥ ४ ॥

4. Imam stomam-abhiṣṭaye ghr̥taṁ na pūtama-drivaḥ. Yenā nu sadya ojasā vavakṣitha.

Lord of clouds and mountains, commander of adamant will and power of ecstasy, pray accept this song of adoration, radiant and pure like sanctified ghr̥ta, by which we adore and pray for that power and ecstasy by which, through your splendour and glory, you reveal yourself in manifestation for ever.

इमं जुषस्व गिवणः समुद्रैव पिन्वत ।

इन्द्र विश्वाभिरूतिभिर्ववतिथ ॥ ५ ॥

5. Imam juṣasva girvaṇaḥ samudra iva pinvate. Indra viśvābhir-ūtibhir-vavakṣitha.

O lord adorable and worshipped, accept and cherish this song of homage and celebration which rolls and rises and swells you too like the sea, and you too, O lord omnipotent, manifest in glory higher and higher with all modes of protection and promotion.

या नाद्वः परावतः सखित्वनाय मामह ।

दिवा न वृष्टिं प्रथयन्ववतिथ ॥ ६ ॥

6. Yo no devaḥ parāvataḥ sakhitvanāya māmāhe. Divo na vṛṣṭim prathayan vavakṣitha.

The lord self-refulgent, to extend the grace of his love and friendship to us, waxes from heaven and blesses us like intense showers of abundant rain from the regions of light.

वव॒ गुर॑स्य क॒तव॑ उ॒त वज्रा॑ ग॒र्भस्त्याः ।

यत्सू॒या न॒ राद॑सी॒ अव॑धयत ॥ ७ ॥

7. Vavakṣurasya ketava uta vajro gabhastyoḥ.
Yat sūryo na rodasī avardhayat.

The banners of his manifestation and the thunderbolt in his hands exalt his glory as the sun illuminates and glorifies heaven and earth.

यदि॑ प॒वृद्ध॑ स॒त्यत॑ स॒हस्रं॑ म॒हिषाँ॑ अ॒घः ।

आदि॑त्त॒ इन्द्रि॑यं म॒हि प॒ वा॑वृ॒ध ॥ ८ ॥

8. Yadi pravṛddha satpate sahasraṁ mahiṣāṅ aghaḥ. Ādit ta indriyaṁ mahi pra vāvṛdhe.

O lord exalted, protector and defender of truth and positive reality, when you strike down hundreds of evils and great calamities, then your glory and the grandeur of your creation rises beyond measure.

इन्द्रः॑ सू॒र्यस्य॑ र॒श्मिभि॑न्य॒शसान॑नमा॒षति॑ ।

अ॒ग्निव॑न॒व सा॒सहिः॑ प॒ वा॑वृ॒ध ॥ ९ ॥

9. Indraḥ sūryasya raśmibhir-nyarśasānamoṣati.
Agnirvaneva sāsaḥiḥ pra vāvṛdhe.

When Indra with sun-rays kills antilife agents such as disease carrying bacteria in the atmosphere, he rises victorious and exalted like fire over forests.

इ॒यं तं॑ ऋ॒त्वि॒याव॑ती धी॒तिर॑ति॒ नवी॑यसी ।

स॒प॒यन्ती॑ पु॒रुषि॑या मिमी॒त इ॒त ॥ १० ॥

10. *Iyaṁ ta ṛtviyāvatī dhītireti navīyasī.
Saparyantī purupriyā mimīta it.*

O lord, this ever new divine intelligence of yours constantly operative in nature according to time and seasons is universally sympathetic, loving and honoured, serves life and the environment, and continues to create and cover new forms of life and nature.

गभा' यज्ञस्य दव्युः कतुं पुनीत आनुषक ।
स्ताम्रिन्द'स्य वावृधु मिमीत इत ॥ ११ ॥

11. *Garbho yajñasya devayuh kratum punīta ānuṣak.
Stomair-indrasya vāvṛdhe mimīta it.*

The devotee of Indra and lover of divinities of nature and humanity, enactor of yajna as well as shaped by yajna, continuously performs holy actions with sanctity and faith, creates new forms of holy actions and rises in life by divine songs and tributes in honour of Indra.

सुनिमित्रस्य पपथ इन्द्रः सामस्य पीतय ।
पाची वाशीव सुन्वत मिमीत इत ॥ १२ ॥

12. *Sanir-mitrasya papratha indrah somasya pītaye.
Prācī vāśīva sunvate mimīta it.*

Indra, friend and benefactor of humanity and all loving beings, rises in omnipresent glory to watch and protect the beautiful world of his creation, and, like the prime voice of the Veda, reveals new forms of truth for the dedicated maker of yajnic soma.

यं वि॒पा उ॒क्थवा॑हसा भि॒पम॒न्दुरा॒यवः॑ ।

घृ॒तं न पि॒प्य आ॒स॒न्यृत॑स्य॒ यत ॥ १३ ॥

13. *Yam viprā ukthavāhaso 'bhipramandurāyavaḥ.
Ghṛtaṁ na pipya āsanyrtasya yat.*

Indra is the lord whom vibrant sages and people in general all adore and exalt, singing hymns of worship in his honour, and I too offer songs of adoration while I offer oblations of ghṛta into the vedi of yajna.

उ॒त स्वर॑राज॒ अदि॑तिः स्ताम॒मि॒न्दा॒य जी॑जनत ।

पु॒रु प॒श॒स्तमू॒तय॑ ऋ॒तस्य॒ यत ॥ १४ ॥

14. *Uta svarāje aditiḥ stomam-indrāya jījanat.
Purupraśastam-ūtaya ṛtasya yat.*

And mother Prakṛti, inviolable Nature, too bursts into songs of adoration in honour of self-refulgent Indra, which, being all elevating and inspiring, moves him to protection and advancement of the world of his dynamic creation.

अ॒भि वह्न॑य ऊ॒तय॑ नू॒षत॑ प॒श॒स्तय॑ ।

न दे॒व वि॒व॒ता ह॒रीं ऋ॒तस्य॒ यत ॥ १५ ॥

15. *Abhi vahnaya ūtaye 'nūṣata praśastaye.
Na deva vivratā harī ṛtasya yat.*

O lord, the sages who conduct the yajna of divine adoration, and nature's powers which conduct the yajna of world creation, sing songs for adoration of divinity and for protection of life. O lord divine, let not these conductive powers ever relent in the creative process which is the dynamic course of existence, cosmic yajna.

यत्साममिन्दु विष्णावि यद्वा घ त्रित आप्त्य ।

यद्वा मरुत्सु मन्दसु समिन्दुभिः ॥ १६ ॥

16. *Yat somam-indra viṣṇavi yad vā gha trita āptye.
Yad vā marutsu mandase samindubhiḥ.*

Indra, the soma nectar which you infuse in the sun and in the three worlds of experience, i.e., earth, heaven and firmament and which you infuse in the winds and enjoy to the last drop, we pray for.

यद्वा शक परावति समुद अधि मन्दस ।

अस्माकमित्सुत रणा समिन्दुभिः ॥ १७ ॥

17. *Yad vā śakra parāvati samudre adhi mandase.
Asmākamit sute raṇā samindubhiḥ.*

And which, O lord of power, you infuse and energise in the far off sea and in this soma distilled by us and enjoy to the last drop - we pray for.

यद्वसि सुन्वता वृधा यजमानस्य सत्पत ।

उक्थ वा यस्य रण्यसि समिन्दुभिः ॥ १८ ॥

18. *Yad vāsi sunvato vṛdho yajamānasya satpate.
Ukthe vā yasya raṇyasi samindubhiḥ.*

And you, O lord protector of eternal truth, who lead the yajamana maker of soma to progress in his yajna and songs of adoration and enjoy the soma homage to the last drop, we pray for.

द्वन्द्वं वा वस इन्द्रमिन्दं गृणीषणि ।

अधा यज्ञाय तुवण व्यानशुः ॥ १९ ॥

19. *Devāṁdevaṁ vo'vasa indramindram gṛṇīṣaṇi.
Adhā yajñāya turvaṇe vyānaśuḥ.*

O dedicated performers of yajna, for the sake of your protection and progress in your acts of homage and adoration, may all these soma joys of life reach you to every generous and brilliant yajaka, to every yajaka of power and prominence, for the elimination of all obstructions in the way of corporate action.

य॒ज्ञभि॒य॒ज्ञवा॒हसं॒ साम॑भिः साम॒पात॑मम ।

हा॒त्राभि॒रि॒न्दं वा॒वृधु॑व्या॒नशुः ॥ २० ॥

20. Yajnebhīr-yajñavāhasaṁ somebhiḥ somapātā-mam. Hotrābhir-indraṁ vāvṛdhur-vyānaśuḥ.

And may all participants in corporate action join in unison and adore and exalt Indra, greatest protector and promoter of the joy of soma and the united action, with homage, with offers of soma and oblations of havi into the sacred fire of joint and creative living for the common good.

म॒हीर॑स्य॒ पणी॑तयः पू॒र्वीरु॑त प॒शस्त॑यः ।

वि॒श्वा॒ वसू॑नि दा॒शुष॒ व्या॒नशुः ॥ २१ ॥

21. Mahīrasya praṇītayaḥ pūrvīruta praśastayaḥ. Viśvā vasūni dāśuṣe vyānaśuḥ.

And may the eternal lights of this lord Indra's splendour and guidance come to bless the generous yajaka with all wealths and honours of the world.

इ॒न्दं वृ॒त्राय॑ ह॒न्तव॑ द॒वासा॑ दधि॒रपु॑रः ।

इ॒न्दं वा॒णीर॑नू॒षता॒ समा॑र्जस ॥ २२ ॥

22. Indraṁ vrtrāya hantave devāso dadhire puraḥ. Indraṁ vāṇīranūṣatā samojase.

Saints and sages honour and adore Indra as their first and foremost leader and guide for the destruction of darkness and evil, and their songs of homage and prayer too adore and glorify Indra for the attainment of light and splendour.

म॒हान्तं॑ म॒हिना व॒यं स्ताम॑भि॒हवन्॑श्रुत॑म ।

अ॒कर्॒भि प णा॑नु॒मः समा॑ज॒सः ॥ २३ ॥

23. Mahāntaṁ mahinā vayaṁ stomebhir-havana-śrutam. Arkair-abhi pra ṇonumaḥ samojase.

With highest songs of adoration and offers of homage we worship omnipotent Indra who listens and responds to our call and prayers and we bow to him for the attainment of strength and splendour.

न यं वि॒वि॒क्ता रा॒द॒सी नान्तरि॑ णि व॒जि॒णम॑ ।

अमा॒दि॒द॒स्य ति॒त्विष॑ समा॑ज॒सः ॥ २४ ॥

24. Na yaṁ vivikto rodasī nāntarikṣāṇi vajriṇam. Amādidasya titviṣe samojasaḥ.

Neither heaven nor earth nor the middle regions comprehend the lord of thunderous power, nor do they shake or disengage him. Indeed the universe shines and vibrates by the one and sole power of this lord of splendour.

यदि॑न्द्र पृ॒त॒नाज्य॑ द्वा॒स्त्वा दधि॑र पु॒रः ।

आदि॑त्त ह॒य॒ता हरी॑ वव॒ ततुः॑ ॥ २५ ॥

25. Yadindra pṛtanājye devāstvā dadhire puraḥ. Ādit te haryatā harī vavakṣatuḥ.

Since the learned sages have accepted and followed you as front leader for the attainment of victory in their struggles of life, we pray, may your radiant currents of divine energy reveal your presence and bring us the vision of divinity for our illumination.

य॒दा वृ॒त्रं न॑दीवृ॒तं श॑र्वसा वजि॒ त्वधीः ।
आदि॑त्त ह॒य॒ता हरी॑ वव॒ त्तुः ॥ २६ ॥

26. *Yadā vṛtraṁ nadīvṛtaṁ śavasā vajrinn-avadhīḥ.
Ādit te haryatā harī vavakṣatuḥ.*

O lord of the thunderbolt, as with your divine might you destroy the negativities of darkness and drought which obstruct the flow of the waters of life, we pray may your divine currents of light and will reveal your power and presence to us.

य॒दा त॒ विष्णु॑राज॒सा त्री॑णि प॒दा वि॒चक्र॑म ।
आदि॑त्त ह॒य॒ता हरी॑ वव॒ त्तुः ॥ २७ ॥

27. *Yadā te viṣṇurojasā trīṇi padā vicakrame.
Ādit te haryatā harī vavakṣatuḥ.*

Since the sun, by virtue of your might and refulgence reaches and illuminates the three worlds of existence, we pray, your radiations of light reveal your presence and illuminate our soul.

य॒दा त॒ ह॒य॒ता हरी॑ वावृ॒धात॑ दि॒वदि॑व ।
आदि॑त्त॒ विश्वा॒ भुव॑नानि यमि॒र ॥ २८ ॥

28. *Yadā te haryatā harī vāvṛdhāte divedive.
Ādit te viśvā bhuvanāni yemire.*

Since the radiations of your dynamic forces expand day by day, the entire worlds of the expansive universe are sustained in order in obedience to your law.

य॒दा त॒ मा॒रु॒ती॒वि॒श॒स्तु॒भ्य॒मि॒न्द॒ नि॒य॒मि॒र ।

19. *Yada te mārutīr-viśas-tubhyamindra niyemire.
Ādit te viśvā bhuvanāni yemire.*

Since the entire world of vibrant winds and humanity bow to you in obedience to the divine law, the entire worlds of existence are sustained in the order of the divine law.

य॒दा सू॒र्य॑म॒मुं दि॒वि शु॒क्रं ज्योति॑र॒धो॒रयः॑ ।

आदि॒त्त॒ वि॒श्व॒ा भुव॑नानि यमि॒र ॥ ३० ॥

30. *Yadā sūryam-amuṃ divi śukraṃ jyotiradhārayaḥ.
Ādit te viśvā bhuvanāni yemire.*

Since you have sustained that sun, radiant light, pure and powerful, the entire worlds of existence observe your divine law.

इ॒मां त॒ इ॒न्द्र सु॒ष्टुतिं॑ वि॒प॒ इ॒यति॑ धी॒तिभिः॑ ।

जा॒मिं प॒दे॒व पि॒प॒तीं पा॒ध्व॒र ॥ ३१ ॥

31. *Imām ta indra suṣṭutiṃ vipra iyarti dhītibhiḥ.
Jāmiṃ padeva pipratīm prādhvare.*

Indra, glorious lord of existence, the vibrant sage raises his voice and directs this joyous hymn of adoration and prayer to you in sincerity of thought, word and deed, which rises as if step by step in Holy Communion of yajna to you as to his own friend and brother.

यद॑स्य॒ धा॒म॒नि पि॒य स॑मी॒चीना॒सा अ॒स्व॒र॒न ।

नाभा॑ य॒ज्ञस्य॑ दा॒हना॒ पा॒ध्व॒र ॥ ३२ ॥

32. *Yadasya dhāmani priye samīcīnāso asvaran.
Nābhā yajñasya dohanā prādhvare.*

When in the favourite hall of this lord Indra, the congregations on the yajna vedi, exuberant with soma and fragrance, raise the voice of adoration and prayer in unison aspiring for the milky gifts of yajna—

सुवीर्यं स्वश्व्यं सुगव्यमिन्द दद्धि नः ।
हातव पूवचित्तय पाध्वर ॥ ३३ ॥

33. *Suvīryaṁ svaśvyaṁ sugavyam-indra daddhi naḥ.
Hoteva pūrvacittaye prādhvare.*

Then O lord omnipotent and self-refulgent, like a generous host of cosmic yajna, bring us the wealth of prosperity and progress and a brave and honourable progeny as the first gift and attainment of the yajna.

Mandala 8/Sukta 13

Indra Devata, Narada Kanva Rshi

इन्दः सुतषु सामेषु कतुं पुनीत उक्थ्यम ।
विद वृधस्य दत्ता महान्हि षः ॥ १ ॥

1. *Indraḥ suteṣu someṣu kratuṁ punīta ukthyam.
Vide vṛdhasya dakṣaso mahān hi ṣaḥ.*

When a special yajnic programme for the realisation of special knowledge, power and expertise in a particular field is completed with hymns of thanks and praise to divinity, then Indra, lord omnipotent and omniscient, sanctifies the joint endeavour of holiness and blesses the programme with success. Great is he.

स पथम व्यामनि दवानां सदन वृधः ।
सुपा॒रः सुश्रव॑स्तमः सम॑प्सुजित ॥ २ ॥

2. *Sa prathame vyomani devānām sadane vṛdhaḥ.
Supāraḥ suśravastamaḥ samapsujit.*

At the first expansive manifestation of space, at the centre of all divine mutations of nature, he is the efficient cause of nature's evolution, supreme pilot, most abundant and most glorious, omnipotent victor over conflicts and negativities in the way of evolution of nature and humanity in relation to will and action.

तमह्वाजसातय इन्द्रं भारीय शुष्मिणम् ।
भवा नः सुम्न अन्तमः सखा वृध ॥ ३ ॥

3. *Tamahve vājasātaya indram bharāya śuṣmīṇam.
Bhavā naḥ sumne antamaḥ sakhā vṛdhe.*

That Indra, potent and abundant, I invoke for victory in the race for life, for growth and fulfilment. O lord, be our friend, our innermost centre of conscience for our progress, peace and all round well being.

इयं त इन्द्र गिवणा रतिः रति सुन्वतः ।
मन्दाना अस्य बहिषा वि रजसि ॥ ४ ॥

4. *Iyam ta indra girvaṇo rātiḥ kṣarati sunvataḥ.
Mandāno asya barhiṣo vi rājasi.*

O lord adorable and adored, Indra, this abundant generosity of yours who create and enact this soma yajna of the universe rains in showers and flows free, in which you rejoice, shine refulgent and rule over the yajnic vedi of nature in evolution.

नूनं तदिन्द्र दद्धि ना यत्त्वा सुन्वन्त इमह ।
रयिं नश्चित्रमा भरा स्वविदम् ॥ ५ ॥

5. Nūnaṁ tadindra daddhi no yat tvā sunvanta īmahe. Rayiṁ naścitraṁā bharā svarvidam.

Indra, lord of power and potential, bless us with that wealth and prosperity, abundant and versatile, bear and bring us that power and potential full of strength and light of joy which we ask of you and pray for in our joint yajnic efforts of creation and cooperation.

स्ताता यत्तु विचषणिरतिपशुधयद्गिरः ।

वयाड्वानु राहत जुषन्त यत ॥ ६ ॥

6. Stotā yat te vicarṣaṇir-atipraśardhayad girah. Vayā ivānu rohate juṣanta yat.

When the celebrant, perceptive, loud and bold, sings his songs with passion, then, as the songs are accepted and cherished, they rise in response to the acceptance and approval like branches of a tree.

पलवज्जनया गिरः शृणुधी जरितुहवम ।

मदमद ववतिथा सुकृत्वन् ॥ ७ ॥

7. Pratnavajjanayā girah śṛṇudhī jariturhavam. Mademad vavakṣithā sukṛtvane.

Indra, listen to the celebrant's call, create and speak in appreciation as before and, with every delightful song, give holy recognition to the man of good word and action.

कीळन्त्यस्य सूनृता आपा न प्रवता यतीः ।

अया धिया य उच्यत पतिदिवः ॥ ८ ॥

8. Kṛīlantyasya sūnṛtā āpo na pravatā yatīḥ. Ayā dhiyā ya ucyate patirdivah.

The divine words of this lord, Indra, sparkle and flow like streams down the slopes, Indra who is celebrated as the lord and master of the regions of light and joy.

उता पतिय उच्यत कृष्टीनामक इद्वशी ।

नमावृधरवस्युभिः सुत रण ॥ ९ ॥

9. Uto patirya ucyate kṛṣṭīnāmekā idvaśī.
Namovrdhair-avasyubhiḥ sute raṇa.

And lord and master he is called, of the people also, the one and only master, controller and sustainer. O lord, delight in the soma, songs and acts of homage created, sung and performed by devotees who exalt you with homage and obedience and aspire for sustenance and protection.

स्तुहि श्रुतं विप्रश्चितं हरी यस्य पसि णा ।

10. Stuhi srutaṁ vipaścitaṁ harī yasya prasakṣiṇā.
Gantārā dāśuṣa grhaṁ namasvinah.

Praise the lord who is wise and all watching and whose glory resounds all over the universe, and whose overwhelming gifts of blessings flow and reach the house of the obedient and generous giver of charity.

तृतुजानामहमत श्वभिः पुषितप्सुभिः ।

आ याहि यज्ञमाशुभिः शमिद्धि त ॥ ११ ॥

11. Tūtujāno mahemate 'śvebhiḥ pruṣitapsubhiḥ.
Ā yāhi yajñamāśubhiḥ śamiddhi te.

O lord instant mover and omnipresent, mighty wise, pray come to our yajna by the fastest radiations of light draped in beauty and majesty. Peace be with all celebrants, that's your gift only.

इ॒न्द॒ श॒वि॒ष्ठ स॒त्प॒त र॒यिं गृ॒णत्सु॑ धा॒रय॑ ।

12. Indra śaviṣṭha satpate rayiṁ grṇatsu dhāraya.
Śravaḥ sūribhyo amṛtaṁ vasutvanam.

Indra, lord omnipotent, protector of truth and promoter of the truthful, vest the celebrants with wealth and wisdom and bring honour and fame and riches of immortal value for the wise, bold and brilliant intellectuals.

ह॒व॒ त्वा॒ सू॒र उ॒दि॒त ह॒व म॒ध्य॒न्दि॒न दि॒वः ।

13. Have tvā sūra udite have madhyandine divaḥ.
Juṣāṇa indra saptibhirna ā gahi.

Indra, lord of refulgence, I invoke you at the rise of the sun, at the middle of day from the heights of heaven. O lord loving and kind, come by instant radiations of light and take us on with divine blessings.

आ तू॒ ग॒हि प॒ त॒ द॒व॒ म॒त्स्वा॒ सु॒तस्य॑ गा॒मतः॑ ।

14. Ā tū gahi pra tu drava matsvā sutasya gomataḥ.
Tantum tanuṣva pūrvyaṁ yathā vide.

Come lord instantly, take us on at the yajna, be kind and gracious, let the flames of fire rise with the joyous music of Vedic hymns and oblations of the gifts of earth. Extend the eternal link of life so that we join you, we join the cosmic yajna, and we join with the life link of our fore-fathers and mother earth, so that we may know that link and live it too with our future generations.

यच्छकासि परावति यदवावति वृत्रहन ।

यद्वा समुद अन्धसा वितदसि ॥ १५ ॥

15. Yacchakrāsi parāvati yadarvāvati vṛtrahan.
Yad vā samudre andhaso 'vitedasi.

O lord omnipotent, destroyer of darkness and obstruction, who are far off in space and closest at hand, in the sea and in the skies, wherever and everywhere you are the protector of life and of the food for life.

इन्द्रं वधन्तु ना गिर इन्द्रं सुतासु इन्द्रवः ।

16. Indraṁ vardhantu na gira indraṁ sutāsa indavaḥ.
Indre haviṣmatīrviśo arāṇiṣuḥ.

Let our songs of adoration exalt the lord omnipotent. Let the soma essences of our yajnic performance in unison do honour to the lord. Let the citizens of the world bearing homage of self sacrifice in hand rejoice in the gifts and glories of Indra.

तमिद्विषा अवस्यवः प्रवत्वतीभिरूतिभिः ।

इन्द्रं णीरवधयन्वयाइव ॥ १७ ॥

17. Tamid viprā avasyavaḥ pravatvatībhir-ūtibhiḥ.
Indraṁ kṣoṇīr-avardhayan vayā iva.

Vibrant sages, aspirants for protection and progress of the world, exalt Indra with abundant songs of praise with gratitude for divine protection. Indeed, the earths and their children all, like growing branches of a tree, do him honour and celebrate his glory.

त्रिकदुक्षु चतनं द्वासा यज्ञमन्नत ।

तमिद्वधन्तु ना गिरः सदावृधम ॥ १८ ॥

18. Trikadrūkeṣu cetanaṁ devāso yajñamatnata.
Tamid vardhantu na girah sadāvṛdham.

Brilliant people and divine forces of nature all enact and expand the cosmic yajna of the lord's creation in all the three worlds of heaven, earth and the firmament. Let our voices too celebrate the same omniscient lord of the expansive universe and thereby rise in meaning and value.

स्ताता यत्त अनुवत उक्थान्यृतुथा दध ।

19. Stotā yat te anuvrata ukthānyṛtuthā dadhe.
Śuciḥ pāvaka ucyate so adbhutaḥ.

The real celebrant is the person dedicated to the observance of your discipline of divine law , the one who creates and sings songs of adoration according to the seasons of time, songs in which the lord of wonder and majesty is celebrated as radiant and pure who purifies the celebrant too into radiance and sinlessness.

तदिदुदस्य चतति यद्वं पन्नषु धामसु ।

मना यत्रा वि तद्दधुविचतसः ॥ २० ॥

20. Tadid rudrasya cetati yahvaṁ pratneṣu dhāmasu.
Mano yatrā vi tad dadhurvicetasah.

That same omnipotence of Indra as Rudra, lord of natural justice, is ever awake and shines in the ancient regions of the universe wherein the wise and wakeful sages concentrate and stabilise their mind through meditation in thought experiments.

यदि म सख्यमावर इमस्य पाह्यन्धसः ।

यन् विश्वा अति द्विष अतारिम ॥ २१ ॥

21. *Yadi me sakhyamāvara imasya pāhyandasah.
Yena viśvā ati dviṣo atārima.*

O lord, if you graciously accept me as a friend, then save this blind-folded world of ignorance, save this soma vitality of life's positivity too by which we may win over all the forces of hate and enmity in the world.

कदा त इन्द्र गिवणः स्त ता भवति शन्तमः ।

कदा ना गव्य अश्व्य वसा दधः ॥ २२ ॥

22. *Kadā ta indra girvaṇaḥ stotā bhavāti śantamaḥ.
Kadā no gavye aśvye vasau dadhaḥ.*

Indra, lord adorable, lord of all adorations, when would your celebrant settle in perfect peace? When would you establish us in the stable wealth of lands, cows and the holy voice, horses, advancement and the ultimate wealth and aim of life?

उत त सुष्टुता हरी वृषणा वहता रथम ।

अजुयस्य मदिन्तमं यमीमह ॥ २३ ॥

23. *Uta te suṣṭutā harī vṛṣaṇā vahato ratham.
Ajuryasya madintamaṁ yamīmahe.*

O lord beyond age and suffering, mighty adorable forces of nature, gravitation and radiation draw your cosmic chariot. We adore and pray for the favour of such lord of universal joy.

तमीमह पुरुष्टुतं य॒हं प॒त्नाभिरू॒तिभिः ।

25. *Vardhasvā su puruṣṭuta ṛṣiṣṭutābhirūtibhiḥ.
Dhukṣasva pipyuṣīm-iṣam-avā ca naḥ.*

Help us advance and prosper, lord universally adored and celebrated by sages, protect us with all help and bless us with abundant nutriments for body and mind.

इन्द्र॑ त्वमवितद॒सीत्था॑ स्तुव॒ता अ॒दिवः॑ ।

ऋ॒तादि॑यमि त॒ धियं॑ मना॒युज॑म ॥ २६ ॥

26. *Indra tvamavitedasīthā stuvato adrivaḥ.
Ṛtādiyarmi te dhiyaṁ manoyujam.*

Indra, lord omnipotent, controller of clouds and mountains, wielder of the thunderbolt of justice and punishment, you are the saviour and protector of the celebrant who thus adores you. I concentrate and direct my thoughtful intelligence with controlled mind arisen from meditation on the laws of universal truth and divine law to you.

इह त्या सधमाद्या युजानः सामपीतय ।

हरीं इन्द्र पतद्वसू अभि स्वर ॥ २७ ॥

27. *Iha tyā sadhamādyā yujānaḥ somapītaye.
Harī indra pratadvasū abhi svara.*

Indra, lord all gracious, engaging your divine forces of cosmic dynamics working in centrifugal and centripetal complementarity and creating the world's wealth and joy with you, pray come here, shine on top of our joint endeavour of creative production and bless our yajna.

अभि स्वरन्तु य तव रुद्रासः स त श्रियम् ।

उत मरुत्वतीविश' अभि पयः ॥ २८ ॥

28. *Abhi svarantu ye tava rudrāsaḥ sakṣata śriyam.
Uto marutvatīrviśo abhi prayāḥ.*

And let your enlightened celebrants dedicated to the wealth of beauty, grace and culture with love and justice, and all the vibrant communities engaged in creative production come and join this delightful yajnic endeavour for the common good in a state of prosperity and progressive stability.

इमा अस्य पतूतयः पदं जुषन्त यद्विवि ।

नाभा यज्ञस्य सं दधुयथा विद ॥ २९ ॥

29. *Imā asya patūrtayaḥ padam juṣanta yad divi.
Nābhā yajñasya saṁ dadhuryathā vide.*

All these dynamic communities dedicated to this lord of glory know the highest rung of the existential ladder to attain that state of joy which is in the light of divinity, they join together here on earth on the holy seat of universal yajna and eliminate negativities so that they may attain the state of enlightenment and eternal joy.

अ॒यं दी॒घाय॒ च ऽस पा॒चि प॒यत्य॑ध्व॒र ।

30. *Ayam dīrghāya cakṣase prāci prayatyadhvare.
Mimīte yajñam-ānuṣag-vicakṣya.*

This power of universal vision and potential in advance of the cosmic yajna of creative evolution instantly and simultaneously measures and projects the cosmic plan so that it can be watched and assessed on a long term basis from the beginning to the end.

वृ॒षा॒यमि॑न्द॒ त रथ॑ उ॒ता त वृ॒षणा॑ ह॒री ।

31. *Vṛṣāyamindra te ratha uto te vṛṣaṇā harī.
Vṛṣā tvaṁ śatakrato vṛṣā havaḥ.*

Indra, this cosmic chariot of yours moving on and on is exuberant and generous, the natural forces which carry it on are mighty, you, lord of infinite actions are generous and inexhaustible, and the homage and prayer offered to you is highly effective and infinitely rewarding.

वृ॒षा गा॒वा वृ॒षा म॒दा वृ॒षा सा॒मा अ॒यं सु॒तः ।

32. *Vṛṣā grāvā vṛṣā mado vṛṣā somo ayam sutah.
Vṛṣā yajño yaminvasi vṛṣā havaḥ.*

Abundant and mighty are your clouds of showers, powerful is your excitement and joy, abundant is the beauty and power of this soma you have created in the world of existence, mighty and far reaching is the beauty of the cosmic dynamics you have enacted and energise, and mighty is the order and command of your invitation to life.

वृषा त्वा वृषणं हुव वजिञ्चित्राभिरूतिभिः ।

वावन्थ हि पतिष्ठति वृषा हवः ॥ ३३ ॥

33. *Vṛṣā tvā vṛṣaṇaṁ huve vajriṅ-cirābhir-ūtibhiḥ.
Vāvantha hi pratiṣṭutiṁ vṛṣā havaḥ.*

Indra, I, your celebrant, am vibrant, exuberant and powerful too by your grace. Lord of thunder and clouds, I invoke you who command inexhaustible power and generosity along with your wonderful protections and modes of advancement. You listen and you love and bless the songs of adoration and prayer, and the invocation and prayers addressed to you are powerful and rewarding.

Mandala 8/Sukta 14

Indra Devata, Goshuktyashvasuktinau Kanvayanau Rshis

यदिन्दाहं यथा त्वमीशीय वस्व एक इत ।

स्ताता म गाषखा स्यात् ॥ १ ॥

1. *Yadindrāhaṁ yathā tvamīśīya vasva eka it.
Stotā me goṣakhā syāt.*

Indra, lord of universal knowledge, power and prosperity, if I were, like you, the sole master of wealth, wisdom and power in my field, then pray may my dependent and celebrant also be blest with wealth and wisdom of the world. (Let all of us together be blest with abundance of wealth and wisdom under the social dispensation of our system of government and administration.)

शि ऽयमस्म॒ दित्स॑यं॒ शची॑पत मनी॒षिण॑ ।

यद्द॒हं गा॑पतिः॒ स्याम॑ ॥ २ ॥

2. Śikṣeyamasmai ditseyam śavīpate manīṣiṇe.
Yadahaṁ gopatiḥ syām.

O lord and master of world power and prosperity, Indra, if I were master of knowledge and controller of power, I would love to share and give wealth and knowledge to this noble minded person of vision and wisdom.

ध॒नुष्ट॑ इ॒न्द्र स॒नृता॑ यज॒मानाय॑ सु॒न्वत॑ ।

गाम॑श्वं पि॒प्युषी॑ दुह ॥ ३ ॥

3. Dhenuṣṭa indra sūnṛtā yajamānāya sunvate.
Gāmaśvam pipuṣī duhe.

Indra, the divine voice of your omniscience, omnipotence and bliss overflows with universal truth and rectitude of the law of existence and showers the abundance of prosperity and advancement upon the dedicated yajamana who distils and creates the soma of joy for the world.

न त॑ व॒तास्ति॑ राध॒स इ॒न्द्र द॒वा न म॑त्यः ।

यद्वि॒त्ससि॑ स्तु॒ता म॒घम॑ ॥ ४ ॥

4. Na te vartāsti rādhasa indra devo na martyaḥ.
Yad ditsasi stuto magham.

Indra, when you are pleased to bless the celebrant with power, prosperity and excellence, then neither mortal nor immortal can restrain the abundant flow of your grace and generosity.

य॒ज्ञ इ॒न्द्रम॒वध॒यद्य॒द्भूमिं॑ व्य॒वत॒यत॑ ।

च॒क्रा॒ण आ॒प॒शं दि॒वि ॥ ५ ॥

5. Yajña indram-avardhayad yad bhūmim vyavartayat. Cakrāṇa opāśaṁ divi.

Yajna, joint creative endeavour which protects and replenishes the earth and environment, pleases and elevates Indra, the ruler, and creates a place of bliss in the light of heaven for the doer.

वा॒वृ॒धा॒नस्य॑ त व॒यं वि॒श्वा ध॒ना॒नि जि॒ग्युषः॑ ।

ऊ॒तिमि॒न्दा वृ॒णीम॒ह ॥ ६ ॥

6. Vāvṛdhānasya te vayaṁ viśvā dhanāni jigyuṣaḥ. Utimindrā vṛṇīmahe.

Indra, we pray for your power and protection, the lord whose glory rises with the expansive universe and who rule over the entire wealth and power of the worlds of existence.

व्य॑न्त॒रि॒ तमि॒तिर॒न्मद॒ साम॑स्य रा॒क्ष॒ना ।

इ॒न्दा यद॑भि॒नद्बु॒लम॑ ॥ ७ ॥

7. Vyantarikṣam-atiran-made somasya rocanā. Indro yadabhinad valam.

When Indra, lord omnipotent and blissful, eliminates all obstructions and negativities from our paths of progress, then we see the entire space in existence shines with light and overflows with the joy of soma bliss.

उद्गा आजदङ्गिराभ्य आविष्कृण्वन्गुहा सतीः ।

अवाञ्चं नुनुद वलम ॥ ८ ॥

*Ud gā ājad-aṅgirobhya āviṣkṛṇavan guhā satīḥ.
Arvāñcam nunude valam.*

When the lord shakes up our psychic energies to the depths and throws out our darkness and negativities, then he sharpens our senses along with pranic energies and opens out our spiritual potential hidden in the cave of the heart.

इन्द्रेण राक्षना दिवा दृ हानि दृंहितानि च ।

स्थिराणि न पराणुद ॥ ९ ॥

9. *Indreṇa rocanā divo dṛḥhāni dṛmhitāni ca.
Sthirāṇi na parānude.*

The bright and beautiful, blessed and blissful stars and planets of refulgent space, expansive, firm and constant by virtue of the omnipotence of Indra, no one can shake or dislodge from their position of stability.

अपामूर्मिमदं वि स्ताम इन्द्राजिरायत ।

वि त् मदं अराजिषुः ॥ १० ॥

10. *Apām-ūrmir-madanniva stoma indrājirāyate.
Vi te madā arājiṣuḥ.*

Like exulting waves of the sea, this hymn of adoration rises and reaches you, and the vibrations of your joyous response too emanate and pervade everywhere.

त्वं हि स्तामवधन् इन्द्रास्युक्थवधन्ः ।

स्तातृणामुत भद्रकृत ॥ ११ ॥

11. Tvaṃ hi stomavardhana indrāsyukthavar-dhanaḥ. Stotṛṇāmuta bhadrakṛt.

By you the songs of praise and adoration thrive and exalt, by you the songs of celebration and prayer vibrate and fructify. Indeed, you do all the good to the celebrants.

इन्द्रमित्कशिना हरी सामपयाय व ततः ।

उप यज्ञं सुरार्धसम ॥ १२ ॥

12. Indramit keśinā harī somapeyāya vakṣataḥ. Upa yajñam surārdhasam.

Radiations of light with expansive vibrations, herbs and trees with branches, leaves and filaments carry the spirit of divinity and nature's energy to the creative centres of life's bounty.

अपां फर्नन् नमुचः शिर इन्द्रादवतयः ।

विश्वा यदजयः स्पृधः ॥ १३ ॥

13. Apāṃ phenena namuceḥ śira indrodavartayaḥ. Viśvā yadajayaḥ sprdhāḥ.

When you fight out the adversaries of life and humanity, you crush the head of the demon of drought and famine with the sea mist and the cloud.

मायाभिरुत्सिसृप्सत इन्द्र द्यामारुरु ततः ।

अव दस्यूरधूनुथाः ॥ १४ ॥

14. Māyābhir-utsisṛpsata indra dyām-ārurukṣataḥ. Ava dasyūṇradhūnuthāḥ.

With your mysterious powers and tactics, you destroy the crafty thieves and saboteurs roaming around even if they have risen to the heights of clouds.

अ॒सु॒न्वामि॒न्द्र सं॒सदं॑ वि॒षू॒चीं व्य॑नाशयः ।

साम॒पा उत्त॑रा भव॒न ॥ १५ ॥

15. Asunvāmindra saṁsadam viṣūcīm vyanāśayaḥ.
Somapā uttaro bhavan.

Indra, protector of the creative joy and prosperity of life and humanity in a state of peace, you being the better and higher of all others, you frustrate, dismiss and dissolve the factious assembly which has failed to be creative and cooperative as a corporate body.

1. Tamvabhi pra gāyata puruhūtaṁ puruṣtutaṁ.
Indraṁ gīrbhis-taviṣamā vivāsata.

O celebrants, glorify Indra, universally invoked and praised, the lord who blazes with light and power, serve him with words and actions and let him shine forth in your life and achievement.

यस्य॑ द्वि॒ब॒ह॒सा बृ॒हत्स॑हा द॒धार् रा॑द॒सी ।

2. Yasya dvibarhaso br̥hat saho dādhāra rodasī.
Girīñrajāñ apah svarvṛṣatvanā.

Glorify Indra, who sustains the cosmic yajna in the two worlds, your life here and hereafter, whose cosmic potential sustains heaven, earth and the middle regions, who moves and controls the mighty gusts of winds and motions of mountainous clouds, and who gives us heavenly showers of rain for joy and vital energies.

स र॑जसि पुरु॒ष्टुतँ॑ ए॒का वृ॒त्राणि॑ जिघ्नस ।

इ॒न्द्र ज॒त्रा श्रव॒स्या च॒ यन्त॑व ॥ ३ ॥

3. Sa rājasi puruṣṭutaṅ eko vṛtrāṇi jighnase.
Indra jaitrā śravasyā ca yantave.

Indra, universally praised and celebrated, you rule and shine alone, one, unique, without an equal, to destroy darkness, ignorance and adversities, to control and contain what is won and to manage what is heard and what ought to be heard.

तं त॒ मदं॑ गृ॒णीम॑सि वृ॒षणं॑ पृ॒त्सु सा॑स॒हिम ।

4. Tam te madam grṇīmasi vṛṣaṇaṁ pṛtsu sāsaḥim.
U lokakṛtnum-adrivo hariśriyam.

Indra, lord of adamant will and generous disposition like clouds of rain, we celebrate and glorify that power and heavenly joy of yours which is virile and generous, heroic in battles and steadfast against challenges, creative in the worlds of existence and gracious in advancement and gifts of bliss.

यन् ज्योतीं॑ष्या॒यव॒ मन॑व च वि॒वदि॑थ ।

5. Yena jyotīṁśyāyave manave ca viveditha.
Mandāno asya barhiṣo vi rājasi.

We celebrate and adore that power and divine joy of yours by which you reveal the light of life to the mortals from generation to generation and, exalted by which, you shine and rule over the yajnic dynamics of this universe.

तद्द्या चित्त उक्थिना नु ष्टुवन्ति पूर्वथा ।

वृषपत्नीरपा जया दिवदिव ॥ ६ ॥

6. Tadadyā cit ta ukthino'nu ṣṭuvanti pūrvathā.
Vṛṣapatnīrapo jayā dive dive.

That divine power and joyous generosity of yours, today, saints and scholars of the holy Word and song sing and celebrate as ever before. O lord, conquer and control the waters of space collected in the mighty clouds and let them flow day by day.

तव त्यदिन्दियं बृहत्तव शुष्ममुत कतुम ।

वजं शिशाति धिषणा वरण्यम ॥ ७ ॥

7. Tava tyadindriyaṁ brahat tava śuṣmamuta
kratum. Vajraṁ śīśāti dhiṣaṇā vareṇyam.

That grandeur and majesty of yours, that power and potential, that continuous act of divine generosity, that adamant will and force of natural justice and dispensation of the thunderbolt which overwhelms our will and choice commands our sense of discrimination, and we glorify it, we sharpen it, we accept it with adoration.

तव द्यारिन्द पस्यं पृथिवी वधति श्रवः ।

त्वामापः पवतासश्च हिन्विर ॥ ८ ॥

8. Tava dyaurindra paumsyaṁ pṛthivī vardhati
śravaḥ. Tvāmāpaḥ parvatāsaśca hinvire.

The light of heaven glorifies your blazing power, the earth augments your honour and fame, and the rolling floods of water and mighty mountains of majesty do awesome homage to you.

त्वां विष्णुर्बृहन् त्वा मित्रा गृणाति वरुणः ।

त्वां शर्धा मृत्युनु मारुतम् ॥ ९ ॥

9. Tvām viṣṇur-brhan kṣayo mitro gṛṇāti varuṇaḥ.
Tvām śardho madatyānu mārutam.

Vishnu, cosmic dynamics of nature's expansive sustenance, Mitra, loving and life giving sun, Varuna, soothing and energising oceans of the universe, and the power and force of the showers of cosmic energy all exalt you and receive their life and exaltation from you.

त्वं वृषा जनानां मंहिष्ठ इन्द्र जज्ञिष ।

सत्रा विश्वा स्वपत्यानि दधिष ॥ १० ॥

10. Tvaṁ vṛṣā janānām maṁhiṣṭha indra jajñiṣe.
Satrā viśvā svapatyāni dadhiṣe.

Most generous and omnificent Indra, in the heart of humanity you arise as the greatest and highest paternal power and presence who sustain the worlds of existence as your darling children all together as one family.

सत्रा त्वं पुरुष्टुतं एका वृत्राणि ताशस ।

नान्य इन्द्रात्करं भूय इन्वति ॥ ११ ॥

11. Satrā tvaṁ puruṣṭutaṁ eko vṛtrāṇi tośase.
Nānya indrāt karaṇam bhūya invati.

O lord universally adored, you alone dispel and destroy all the strong holds of darkness, ignorance and evil. There is no one else other than Indra who can exceed your power and performance either now or later.

यदि॒न्द म॒न्म॒शस्त्वा॒ नाना॒ हव॑न्त ऊ॒तय॑ ।

*Sa tvaṁ na indra vājebhir-daśasyā ca gātuyā ca.
Acchā ca naḥ sumnaṁ neṣi.*

Indra, lord of power and giver of fulfilment, by gifts of science and energy and with noble acts and persistent endeavour, lead us well by noble paths to peace, prosperity and well being.

Mandala 8/Sukta 17

Indra or Vastoshpati Devata, Irimbithi Kanva Rshi

आ याहि सुषुमा हि त इन्द्र सामं पिबा इमम ।

एदं बहिः सदा मम ॥ १ ॥

1. *Ā yāhi suṣumā hi ta indra somaṁ pibā imam.
Edaṁ barhiḥ sado mama.*

Indra, lord omnipotent and omnipresent, we hold the yajna and distil the soma of life in your service. Come, grace this holy seat of my yajna dedicated to you, watch my performance, enjoy the soma, and protect and promote the yajna for the beauty and joy of life.

आ त्वा ब्रह्मयुजा हरी वहतामिन्द्र कृशिन ।

उप ब्रह्माणि नः शृणु ॥ २ ॥

2. *Ā tvā brahmayujā harī vahatāmindra keśinā.
Upa brahmāṇi naḥ śṛṇu.*

Let the radiant waves of cosmic energy engaged in the service of divinity bring you here. Pray listen to our songs of prayer and adoration.

Dedicated to divinity and the divine voice, meditating on the divine presence with concentrated mind and soul, living in truth the beauty of life and expressing the ecstasy of soma, we invoke and wait for Indra, original maker and lover of soma, to come and bless us.

ब्रह्माणस्त्वा वयं युजा सामपामिन्द सामिनः ।
सुतावन्ता हवामह ॥ ३ ॥

3. Brahmāṇastvā vayaṁ yujā somapāmindra sominaḥ. Sutāvanto havāmahe.

O lord of cosmic beauty, come to us, listen to our song of adoration and drink of the soma distilled by us with intense love and devotion.

आ नां याहि सुतावता स्माकं सुष्टुतीरुप ।

4. Ā no yāhi sutāvato'smākaṁ suṣṭutīrupa. Pibā su śipinn-andhasaḥ.

I create and pour the soma into the body spaces of your creation, taste the sweets with your tongue and let the exhilaration of honey radiate to every particle of the cosmic body.

आ तं सिञ्चामि कु यारनु गात्रा वि धावतु ।
ग्रभाय जिह्वया मधु ॥ ५ ॥

5. Ā te siñcāmi kuṣṣyoranu gātrā vi dhāvatu. Grbhāya jihvayā madhu.

May the soma be delicious to your taste, O connoisseur of soma, may the honey sweets be exhilarating to your body, and may the soma bring peace and joy to your heart.

स्वादुष्टं अस्तु संसुदं मधुमान्तन्व३ तव ।

सामः शमस्तु त हृद ॥ ६ ॥

6. Svāduṣṭe astu saṁsude madhumān tanve tava.
Somaḥ śamastu te hr̥de.

O lord of cosmic vision, let this soma distilled and seasoned, radiate to you from sense to the spirit, inspiring, soothing and beatifying like a bride on top of her beauty and virgin grace.

अयमु॑ त्वा विचषण॑ जनी॑रिवा॒भि संवृ॑तः ।

8. Tuvigrīvo vapodaraḥ subāhur-andhaso made.
Indro vṛtrāṇi jighnate.

Indra, ruler and ordainer of the world by your power and splendour, come to us and, O dispeller of darkness, go forward, destroy the evils and adversities of ignorance, injustice and poverty.

इन्द्र॒ प॒हिं पुर॒स्त्वं वि॒श्व॒स्य॒शां॒ आ॒र्ज॒सा ।

9. *Indra prehi purastvaṃ viśvasyeshāna ojasā.
Vṛtrāṇi vṛtrahañjahi.*

Indra, ruler and ordainer of the world by your power and splendour, come to us and, O dispeller of darkness, go forward, destroy the evils and adversities of ignorance, injustice and poverty.

दी॒घ॒स्त॒ अस्त्व॑ङ्कु॒शा य॒ना व॒सु प॒यच्छ॑सि ।

10. *Dīrghaste astvaṅkuśo yenā vasu prayacchasi.
Yajamānāya sunvate.*

Let your arms of law and order be long and far reaching by which you protect and provide peace, prosperity and security for the self-sacrificing performer of yajna who creates soma for the common good.

अ॒यं त॒ इन्द्र॑ सा॒मा नि॒पू॒ता अ॒धि ब॒र्हिषि॑ ।

ए॒ही॒म॒स्य द॒वा पिब॑ ॥ ११ ॥

11. *Ayam ta indra somo nipūto adhi barhiṣi.
Ehīmasya dravā piba.*

Indra, this soma pure and sanctified on the holy grass of yajna vedi, is dedicated to you. Come fast, you would love it, drink and enjoy, and protect and promote it for the good of all.

शाचि॑गा॒ शाचि॑पू॒जना॒ यं र॒णाय॑ त सु॒तः ।

12. *Śācigo śacipūjanā'yaṁ raṇāya te sutaḥ.
Ākhaṇḍala pra hūyase.*

Lord self-refulgent creator of stars and planets, glorious adorable, this cosmic soma of the universe of your creation is for the joy of life. Therefore, O lord imperishable, you are invoked and adored with love and faith.

यस्तं शृङ्गवृषा नपात्यर्णपात्कुण्डपाय्यः ।
न्यस्मिन्दध आ मनः ॥ १३ ॥

13. *Yaste śṛṅgavṛṣo napāt praṇapāt kuṇḍapāyyaḥ.
Nyasmin dadhra ā manaḥ.*

O lord, the sun on high which neither falls nor allows others, planets and satellites, to fall is your creation and it is the protector and sustainer of the vault of heaven and the firmament. On this we meditate and concentrate our mind.

वास्ताष्पत ध्रुवा स्थूणां सत्रं साम्यानाम ।

O lord of human habitations, creator of the cosmic home of life, may the centre column of our house be firm. May the lord be the protective armour of the makers of soma. May Indra, lover of soma to the last drop, be destroyer of the strongholds of evil which nevertheless persist through time, and may the lord be friends with the sages.

पृदाकुसानुयजता गवर्षण एकः स अभि भूयसः । gr̥bhendraṁ somasya pītaye.*

Challenger of poisonous negativities, adorable, giver of earthly prosperity and words of vision and wisdom, Indra by himself alone eliminates many evils. Let the devotee with inspired adoration invoke the refulgent omnipresence of Indra before his inner vision to bless his consciousness and to protect and promote it to universal awareness of the divine presence.

Mandala 8/Sukta 18

Adityah (1-3, 5, 10-22), Aditi (4, 6, 7), Ashvinau (8), Agni-Surya-Anilah (9) Devatah, Irimbithi Kanva Rshi

इदं ह नूनमेषां सुम्नं भि त् मत्यः ।

आदित्यानामपूर्व्यं सवीमनि ॥ १ ॥

1. *Idaṁ ha nūnam-eṣāṁ sumnaṁ bhikṣeta martyaḥ.
Ādityānām-apūrvyaṁ savīmani.*

Let mortal humanity ask for unique favours of these Adityas, brilliant children of Mother Nature, that is, nature's powers of light, energy and peace, seek for wealth, honour and excellence of life in a state of peace and progress, and live under the inspiration and guidance of nature, her forces of thought, energy and stability without violating nature's law.

अदब्धाः सन्ति पायवः सुगवृधः ॥ २ ॥

2. *Anarvāṇo hyeṣāṁ panthā ādityānām.
Adabdhāḥ santi pāyavaḥ sugevṛdhah.*

Irresistible are the paths and laws of these brilliant powers of nature, undaunted are they, protectors and promoters, and they increase the peace and prosperity of life (if you presume not to challenge and violate them).

11. *Yuyotā śarumasmadāñ ādityāsa utāmatim.
Ṛdhagdveṣaḥ kṛṇuta viśvavedasaḥ.*

May the Adityas, divine harbingers of light and life, drive away from us all forms of violence and enmity. May they ward off all those stupid fools who lack understanding and refuse to think positively. May the pioneers of enlightenment who know the world and all its ways eliminate hate and malignity from the world of humanity.

उप द्वयुं चाद्वयुं च वसवः ॥ १५ ॥

15. Pākatrā sthana devā hr̥tsu jānītha martyam. Upa dvayum cādvayum ca vasavaḥ.

O Vasus, brilliant and benevolent providers of peace and settlement for humanity, stand by those who are simple, honest and innocent. In your heart of hearts you know the nature and character of mortal humanity and closely discriminate between the double dealer and the person who is not a double dealer. Stand by the pure at heart, we pray.

19. Yajña hīḷo vo antara ādityā asti mṛḷata. Yuṣme id vo api ṣmasi sajātye.

O Adityas, mighty masters of refulgence and teachers of the secrets of good health and long life of felicity, the yajna, holy act of creativity, is your love and inward inspiration. That act we have performed close to you. Pray know, appreciate and be kind and happy with us. We are yours, we abide in your light, and we are of the same order of humanity as you, one with you.

O Adityas, powers of light and life, givers of enlightenment, human as we are, all kindred of the fact of death, pray give us the longest span of life for the joy of living and then help us cross over to the life beyond death.

Mandala 8/Sukta 19

*Agni (1-33), Adityah (34-35), Trasadasyu'sdana-stuti
(36-37) Devatah, Sobhari Kanva Rshi*

2. Vibhūtarātiṁ vipra citraśociṣam-agnimīliṣva yanturam. Asya medhasya somyasya sobhare premadhvarāya pūrvyam.

O vibrant scholar, worship Agni, lord of light and enlightenment, infinitely giving, awfully wondrous and self-refulgent, and the sole leader and controller of the world. Worship Him, the lord eternal, O generous man, in order that you may participate in this yajnic system of the lord's universe which is full of love without violence and overflows with the blissful joy of soma, an inspiring invitation to live and act as the child of divinity.

4. Ūrjo napātaṁ subhagaṁ sudīditimagṇiṁ śreṣṭhaśociṣam. Sa no mitrasya varuṇasya so apā-mā sumnaṁ yakṣate divi.

We worship Agni, protector and promoter of energy and men of energy, lord of grandeur and glory and the holy refulgence of nature that shines bright with the highest flames of fire and light. In the light and fire of cosmic yajna, He is the giver of joy in the light of day and the bliss of peace in the night, and He is the giver of the nectar of pleasure in the liquid flow of water and the dynamics of karmic flow.

5. Yah samidhā ya āhuṭī yo vedena dadāśa marto agnaye. Yo namasā svadhvarah.

The mortal man who performs yajna, creative activity without violence, and offers homage by giving in honour of Agni with holy fuel or with havi in ghrta and fragrant materials with the chant of Vedic verses enjoys the peace and bliss of life day and night.

7. Svagnayo vo agnibhiḥ syāma sūno sahasa ūrjāṁ pate. Suvīras-tvam-asmayuh.

O lord creator of energy and master controller of strength and power, let us, by yajnic experimentations of various forms of heat and light, all your gifts, be masters of fire energies and light radiations. You are the bravest holy power. Pray be ours, close to us as master giver and power divine.

8. Praśamsamāno atithirna mitriyo'gnī ratho na vedyah. Tve kṣemāso api santi sādhas-tvaṁ rājā rayīṇām.

Agni is worthy of praise and admiration as a friendly guest of honour and worthy to be known as a saviour like a chariot leading to cherished destinations. Abiding in you and strengthened by you, O lord, dedicated practitioners rise to be men of perfect success in peace and bliss since you are the ruler and controller of all forms of the wealth of existence.

9. So addhā dāśvadhavaro'gne martaḥ subhaga sa praśamsyah. Sa dhībhirastu sanita.

O lord of universal wealth and grandeur, Agni, we pray, may the mortal come to sure success and good fortune who gives in charity and performs acts of yajnic creativity with love and without violence. May such a man be worthy of praise and appreciation with holy acts of intelligence and may he be rich in acquisitions and liberal in dispensations of charity.

10. Yasya tvamūrdhvo adhvarāya tiṣṭhasi kṣayad-vīraḥ sa sādhat. So arvadbhiḥ sanitā sa vipanyubhiḥ sa śūraiḥ sanitā kṛtam.

The man for whose acts of yajna you rise high and stay constant is blest with brave progeny and achieves all round success in life. He is blest with horses and incoming wealth and honour. Surrounded by the wise, he is blest with praise and high appreciation. Supported by the brave, he achieves fulfilment in whatever he does and whatever he wants to do.

11. Yasyāgnir-vapurgr̥he stomaṁ cano dadhīta viśvavāryaḥ. Havyā vā veviṣad viṣaḥ.

Blest is the man in whose house Agni, lord of universal acceptance with faith and reverence, through the divine fire form of yajna, receives oblations of holy food and Vedic songs of praise and the fire sends up yajnic food to nature's divinities. He achieves total fulfilment in every field of life through the bounties of divine nature.

13. Yo agniṁ havyadātibhir-namobhir-vā sudakṣam-āvivāsati. Girā vājira-śociṣam.

One who lights the versatile yajnic fire and thereby whole heartedly serves the fire divine of imperishable flames with oblations of sacred havis, reverence and holy words of prayer never falls, never fails in life.

14. Samidhā yo niṣiṭi dāśadaditiṁ dhāmabhirasya martyaḥ. Viśvet sa dhībhiḥ subhago janāñ ati dyumnairudga iva tāriṣat.

The mortal who serves Aditi, immortal fire of mother Infinity, with blazing fuel within the radiance of its own laws is blest with the wealth and splendour of all orders of intelligence, honour and fame and surpasses all people of the other order like a captain on the helm crossing the stormy seas.

15. Tadagne dyumnamā bhara yat sāhasat sadane kaṁ cidatrinam. Manyuṁ janasya dūḍhyaḥ.

Agni, lord of light and life, give us that splendour of spirit and intelligence which may challenge and overcome any voracious friend at the door, in the heart and home, and counter the wealth of any evil minded person anywhere in life.

17. Te ghedagne svādhya ye tvā vipra nidadhire nṛcakṣasam. Viprāso deva sukratum.

Agni, self-refulgent lord of life, vibrant presence of the universe, surely they are the wise and holy men and they are the blessed men of noble thought and study worthy of reverence who hold on to the light of your presence in the heart and meditate on the presence as the lord observant of humanity and as the high priest of the cosmic yajna.

Lord of beauty and glory, may the yajna fire with offers of oblations be auspicious for us. May our charity be auspicious. May our yajna and all other acts of kindness and love free from violence be auspicious. And may all the appreciation and praise of our acts and behaviour be auspicious and fruitful.

20. Bhadraṁ manah kṛṇuṣva vṛtratūrye yena samatsu sāsahaḥ. Ava sthirā tanuhi bhūri śardhatām vanemā te abhiṣṭibhiḥ.

Agni, leading light of life, turn the mind by which you challenge the adversary in battles and win for us to gracious goodness in the victory over the forces of darkness. Reduce the many strongholds of the violent adversaries to nullity so that by your kindness and favours we may win what we desire in peace.

21. Īḷe girā manurhitam yaṁ devā dūtam-aratim nyerire. Yajīṣṭhaṁ havyavāhanam.

With words of praise I celebrate Agni, sacred fire energy, benefactor of humanity whom brilliant scholars honour and elevate as messenger, speedy ministrant, most valuable and adorable, and bearer of oblations to the divinities of nature.

ति॒ग्मज॑म्भा॒य त॑रु॒णाय॑ रा॒ज॒त॒ प॒या॑ गा॒यस्य॑ग्र॒य ।

यः पि॒ंश॑त॒ स॒नृ॒ताभिः॑ सु॒वी॒य॑म॒ग्नि॒घृ॒त॒भि॒राहु॑तः ॥ २२ ॥

22. Tigmajambhāya taruṇāya rājate prayo gāya-syagnaye. Yaḥ piṁśate sūnṛtābhiḥ suvīryam-agnir-ghṛtebhir-āhutaḥ.

O yajaka, you sing and celebrate Agni and offer libations of holy food to the flaming, ever youthful and brilliant fire of yajna which, when fed on ghrta and sung in sacred song, gives you strength and vigour in return for the homage.

यदीं घृतभिराहुता वाशीमग्निभरत उच्चाव च ।
असुर इव निणिजम ॥ २३ ॥

23. Yadī ghr̥tebhir-āhuto vāśīm-agnir-bharata uccāva ca . Asura iva nirṇijam.

When the fire of yajna fed on ghr̥ta rises in flames with a crackle up and down, then it displays its form and power like an earthly version of the sun radiating its light.

या हव्यान्यरयता मनुहिता दुव आसा सुगन्धिना ।
विवासत वायाणि स्वध्वरा हाता दुवा अमत्यः ॥ २४ ॥

24. Yo havyānyairayatā manurhito deva āsā sugandhinā. Vivāsate vāryāṇi svadhvaro hotā devo amartyaḥ.

Agni is the divine power which receives and carries the holy materials to the divinities by its fragrant vedi-mouth of fire. It is the benefactor of humanity and gives the choicest good things to all. It is the agent of good action and illuminator of the paths of piety. It is the high priest of universal yajna and an immortal divine power.

यदग्र मत्यस्त्वं स्यामहं मित्रमहा अमत्यः ।
सहसः सूनवाहुत ॥ २५ ॥

Yadagne martyastvaṁ syāmaham mitramaho amartyaḥ. Sahasaḥ sūnavāhuta.

Agni, light and life of the world, child of omnipotence and creator of the mighty cosmos, mortal as I am, if I could worship you and were to become like you, I too would be an immortal, great adorable friend of the world of existence.

न त्वा रासीयाभिर्शस्तय वसा न पापत्वाय सन्त्य ।

न म स्तातामतीवा न दुहितुः स्यादग्र न पापया ॥ २६ ॥

26. Na tvā rāsīyābhiśastaye vaso na pāpatvāya santya. Na me stotāmatīvā na durhitaḥ syādagne na pāpayā.

Agni, light of life, haven and home of humanity, let me not worship you for the sake of something despicable. Lord adorable, nor must I pray to you for something evil. Let not my own admirer, say my son or my disciple, be stupid and dull, nor malignant, nor sinful.

पितुन पुत्रः सुभृता दुराण आ द्वाँ एतु प णा हविः ॥ २७ ॥

27. Piturna putraḥ subhṛto duroṇa ā devāñ etu pra ṇo haviḥ.

Just as the son is cherished in the father's home and then the son looks after the parents, similarly Agni is cherished in the house of yajna and may Agni carry our oblations to the divinities.

तवाहमग्र ऊतिभिर्नदिष्ठाभिः सचय जाषमा वसा ।

सदा द्वस्य मत्यः ॥ २८ ॥

28. Tavāhamagna ūtibhir-nediṣṭhābhiḥ saceya joṣamā vaso. Sadā devasya martyaḥ.

Agni, light of life all pervasive, shelter home of humanity, mortal as I am, I pray, may I, by the closest protections of the power divine always enjoy the love and favour of the lord.

तव॒ क॒त्वा॒ स॒नयं॑ तव॒ रा॒तिभि॒रग्न॑ तव॒ प॒श॒स्तिभिः॑ ।

29. Tava kratvā saneyam tava rātibhir-agne tava praśastibhiḥ. Tvāmidāhuḥ pramatiṁ vaso mamā'gne harṣasva dātave.

By virtue of your mercy and grace, let me love you with yajnic life of holy action. By virtue of your acceptance, appreciation and generosity, let me serve you with all that you have given me. The wise say that you are the wisest, most high, and foremost leader and guide, O shelter of humanity. O lord, be pleased and generous to bless me that I may offer and sing praises in honour of your glory.

प॒ सा अ॒ग्न॑ तव॒तिभिः॑ सु॒वी॒राभि॒स्तिर॑त॒ वाज॑भ॒मभिः॑ ।

30. Pra so agne tavotibhiḥ suvīrābhis-tirate vājabharmabhiḥ. Yasya tvaṁ sakhyamāvaraḥ.

Agni, lord of universal love and friendship, he whose love and friendship, devotion and dedication, you accept into your kind care thrives under your protection and promotion and advances in life with noble and heroic progeny, moving from victory to glory.

तव॒ द्र॒प्सा॒ नील॑वा॒न्वा॒श ऋ॒त्विय॑ इ॒न्धा॒नः॒ सि॒ष्ण॒वा द॑द ।

31. Tava drapso nīlavān vāśa ṛtviya indhānaḥ siṣṇavā dade. Tvaṁ mahīnām-uṣasām-asi priyaḥ kṣapo vastuṣu rājasi.

Agni, giver of the showers of joy in life, the world of your creation flows on like drops of soma from the press, colourful, crackling voluble, exciting and fresh through the seasons, bright and beautiful, passionately lovable. You are darling of the glory of dawns and you shine ever in the glimmerings of the dusk and reflect in the ripples of water.

तमार्गन्म साभरयः सहस्रमुष्कं स्वभिष्टिमवस ।

समाजं त्रासदस्यवम ॥ ३२ ॥

32. Tamāganma sobharayaḥ sahasramuṣkaṁ svabhiṣṭim-avase. Samrājaṁ trāsadasyavam.

Blest with wealth and knowledge and bearing gifts of homage, for ultimate protection and further advancement, we have come to the lord almighty of a thousand forces of light and arms, object of universal love and adoration, blazing ruler of the universe and a scourge of the evil destroyers.

यस्य त अग्र अन्य अग्र्य उपतिता वयाइव ।

33. Yasya te agne anye agnaya upakṣito vayā iva. Vipo na dyumnā ni yuve janānām tava kṣatrāṇi vardhayan.

Of you, Agni, lord and light of the universe, on whom do other lights such as the sun depend like branches of the tree, I sing like a poet and, celebrating your ruling orders of the people, I enjoy the honour and pleasures of the world of your creation.

यमादित्यासा अदुहः पारं नयथ मत्यम ।

मघानां विश्वेषां सुदानवः ॥ ३४ ॥

33. *Yamādityaso adruhaḥ pāraṁ nayatha martyam.
Maghonām viśveṣāṁ sudānavaḥ.*

O Adityas, generous givers of light and life free from malice and jealousy, of all the people of wealth, honour and power, whoever the mortal you guide and lead across the world of karma and consequence, he is the man of good fortune.

यूयं राजानः कं चिच्चषणीसहः तयन्तं मानुषाँ अनु ।

35. Yūyaṁ rājānaḥ kaṁ ciccarṣaṇīsahaḥ kṣayantaṁ mānuṣāṁ anu. Vayaṁ te vo varuṇa mitrāryamant-syāmed-ṛtasya rathyaḥ.

Adityas, powers and givers of light and justice, rulers of the bright order over people, punish whoever does evil and violence toward the law abiding citizens. O Vauna, ruling power of judgement and justice, Mitra, men of love and friendship, and Aryaman, guides and pioneers of the nation, let us be cooperative participants to take over the reins of your law and order of the truth and justice of your vision.

अदान्म पारुकुत्स्यः पञ्चाशतं त्रसदस्युवधूनाम ।
मंहिष्ठा अयः सत्पतिः ॥ ३६ ॥

36. Adānme paurukutsyaḥ pañcāśataṁ trasadasyurvadhūnām. Maṁhiṣṭho aryah saptiḥ.

May the lord sustainer of all life and destroyer of negativities, protector against the wicked, most liberal, most respectable defender of truth and goodness, I pray, bless us with many manly sons in the family and give them all noble wives.

उ॒त म॑ प॒यि॒याव॑यि॒याः सु॒वास्त्वा॑ अ॒धि तु॒ग्वनि॑ । ति॒सृणां॑

37. *Uta me prayiyor-vayiyoh suvāstvā adhi tugvani.
Tisṛṇām saptatīnām śyāvaḥ praṇetā bhuvad vasur-diyānām patih.*

May the lord omnipresent, master ruler of all moving things and the three worlds, supporter of all liberal people, be my ultimate guide, inspiration, and abode at the end of my life of karma, moving as I am towards him with concentration on good things in thought and action.

Mandala 8/Sukta 20

Marutah Devatah, Sobhari Kanva Rshi

आ ग॒न्ता॒ मा रि॑ष॒ण्यत॒ प॒स्था॒वाना॒ माप॑ स्था॒ता स॒मन्य॑वः ।
स्थि॒रा चि॑म॒यि॒ष्णवः॑ ॥ १ ॥

1. Ā gantā mā riṣaṇyata prasthāvāno māpa sthātā samanyavaḥ. Sthirā cinnamayiṣṇavaḥ.

Come Maruts, warriors of nature and humanity. Do not hurt nor destroy the innocent. Already on the move as ever, pray do not tarry any more far away. Heroes of equal passion, will and desire to accomplish your mission, you can bend even the firmest forces of violence and bring them to reason.

वी॒ळु॒प॒वि॒भि॒मरु॑त ऋ॒भु ण॒ आ रु॑दा॒सः सु॒दी॒ति॒भिः॑ ।

2. Vīḷupavibhir-maruta ṛbhukṣaṇa ā rudrāsaḥ sudītibhiḥ. Iṣā no adyā gatā purusprho yajñamā sobhariyavaḥ.

Mighty leaders of will and intelligence, lovers and protectors of the good, destroyers of want and suffering, honoured and invoked by all, come right now at the fastest by blazing chariots of the strongest wheel with forces of thunder and join our yajnic programme of creation and development with abundant food and energy.

विद्वा हि रुदियाणां शुष्ममुगं मरुतां शिमीवताम ।
विष्णार्षस्य मी हुषाम ॥ ३ ॥

3. Vidmā hi rudriyāṇāṁ śuṣmamugraṁ marutāṁ śimīvatām. Viṣṇoreṣasya mīlhuṣām.

We know the virile Maruts dedicated to peace and justice against violence and injustice. They are harbingers of rain showers of plenty as participative agents of the cosmic will working in the dynamics of nature and humanity.

वि द्वीपानि पापतन्तिष्ठहुच्छुनाभ युजन्त रादसी ।
प धन्वान्यरत शुभखादया यदजथ स्वभानवः ॥ ४ ॥

4. Vi dvīpāni pāpatan tiṣṭhad ducchunobhe yujanta rodaśī. Pra dhanvānyairata śubhrakhādayo yadejatha svabhānavah.

O self-refulgent Maruts, when you in your blazing armour stir and move, islands sink at their banks, the evil stand still, both heaven and earth shake and the deserts rage with flying sands.

अच्युता चिद्धा अज्म ॥ नानदति पर्वतासा वनस्पतिः ।
भूमियामेषु रजत ॥ ५ ॥

5. Acyutā cid vo ajmannā nānadati parvatāso vana-spatiḥ. Bhūmiryāmeṣu rejate.

At your move to battle, fixed mountains roar, ancient trees crack and crackle, and the earth shakes under the force of your pressure.

अमाय वा मरुता यातव द्याजिहीत उत्तरा बृहत ।

यत्रा नरा ददिशत तनूष्वा त्व गांसि बाह्वजसः ॥ ६ ॥

6. Amāya vo maruto yātave dyaaurjihīta uttarā bṛhat. Yatrā nara dediṣate tanūṣvā tvakṣāmsi bāhvo-jasaḥ.

O Maruts, for the expansion of your force and power on the march, the vast skies give way farther and farther as the heroes of mighty arm put on and display their armour on their person.

स्वधामनु श्रियं नरा महि त्वषा अमवन्ता वृषप्सवः ।

वहन्त अहुतप्सवः ॥ ७ ॥

7. Svadhāmanu śriyaṁ nara mahi tveṣā amavanto vṛṣapsavaḥ. Vahante ahrutapsavaḥ.

These mighty heroes, blazing bright in magnificence, commanding force and power of excellence, generous with moral rectitude, far from crookedness and unshakably upright in conduct, wear and express the grace of culture and behaviour in keeping with their innate merit and dedication to the defence of mother earth and her children.

गाभिर्वाणा अज्यत साभरीणां रथ काश हिर्ण्यय ।

8. Gobhirvāṇo ajyate sobharīṇāṁ rathe kośe hiranyaye. Gobandhavaḥ sujātāsa iṣe bhuje mahānto naḥ sparase nu.

The missile of these protectors, sustainers and defenders of the earth is shot by the force of sounds in the golden interior of the carrier chariot. May these heroes, friends of the earth, nobly born and trained, great and glorious, stand for our maintenance, food and energy, comfort, love and cooperation.

पति॑ वा वृषद॒ञ्जया॑ वृष्ण॒ शर्धा॑य॒ मारु॑ताय॒ भरध्व॑म ।
ह॒व्या वृष॑पयाव॒ण ॥ ९ ॥

9. Prati vo vṛṣadañjaya vṛṣṇe śardhāya mārutāya bharadhvam. Havyā vṛṣaprayāvṇe.

O generous yajakas, makers of soma, bear and bring homage in thankful response to the generous and mighty force of the Maruts led on the march by a great and formidable generous commander.

वृ॒ष॒ण॒श्वन॑ मरु॒ता वृ॒ष॒प्सुना॑ रथ॒न वृ॒ष॒नाभि॑ना । आ श्य॒नासा॑

10. Vṛṣaṇaśvena maruto vṛṣapsunā rathena vṛṣanā-bhinā. Ā śyenāso na pakṣiṇo vṛthā naro havyā no vītaye gata.

O Maruts, stormy troops of nature and leading warriors of the human nation, come freely like the mighty high flying eagle birds and bring us holy yajnic inputs for development and human progress for our protection and advancement by your strongly built chariot drawn by mighty forces, bearing loads of riches in generous plenty for our spiritual and material well being.

स॒मान॑म॒ञ्ज्य॑षां वि भा॒जन्त रु॒क्मासा॑ अधि॒ ब॒हुषु॑ ।

11. Samānamañjyeṣām vi bhrājante rukmāso adhi bāhuṣu. Davidyutatyrṣṭayah.

The turn out, uniform and movement of these Maruts is steady and alike. So are their golden badges on the shoulders, and their weapons too shine uniformly in their hands.

त उ॒गासा॒ वृष॑ण उ॒गबा॑हवा॒ नकि॑ष्ट॒नूषु॑ यतिर ।

12. Ta ugrāso vṛṣaṇa ugrabāhavo nakiṣṭanūṣu yetire. Sthirā dhanvānyāyudhā ratheṣu vo'nīkeṣvadhi śriyah.

Bold and fearsome are they, vigorous and generous, strong of arm, so that they don't have to exert to defend their bodies and battle formations. Their arms and ammunitions are safe and strong, ready in position in their chariots, and in their battles they come out victorious with credit and admiration.

यषा॒मणा॒ न स॒पथा॒ नाम॑ त्व॒षं श॑श्व॒ताम॒क॒मिद्भु॑ज ।

वया॒ न पि॒त्र्यं स॑हः ॥ १३ ॥

13. Yeṣāmarṇo na sapratho nāma tveṣaṁ śaśvatāmekamid bhuje. Vayao na pitryaṁ sahaḥ.

Ever ready and on the move without relent, their name and fame is unique, wide as the sea and expansive. So is their courage and patience to be enjoyed like ancestral heritage.

तान्वा॑न्दस्व म॒रुत॑स्ताँ उप॒ स्तुहि॑ तषां॒ हि धुनी॑नाम ।

14. Tān vandasva marutastāṃ upa stuhi teṣāṃ hi dhunīnām. Arāṇām na caramastadeṣām dānā mahnā tadeṣām.

Honour the Maruts, celebrate them all closely and fervently. As the spokes of the wheel are all equal, so all of these shakers of the evil and the wicked are equal, none is the highest, none the lowest. Hence also the gifts of protection and security of all of them are equally great.

सुभगः स व ऊतिष्वास पूर्वासु मरुता व्युष्टिषु ।
या वा नूनमुतासति ॥ १५ ॥

15. Subhagaḥ sa va ūtiṣvāsa pūrvāsu maruto vyuṣṭiṣu. Yo vā nūnamutāsati.

Fortunate is that man, and prospers, O Maruts, who has been under your care and protection since early dawns and who for sure remains under your care for now and all time.

16. Yasya vā yūyaṃ prati vājino nara ā havyā vītaye gatha. Abhi ṣa dyumnairuta vājasātibhiḥ sumnā vo dhūtayo naśat.

O Maruts, leading lights of life, movers and shakers of negativities and opposition, whoever the man with yajnic gift when you approach to protect and partake of his offerings, is blest with peace and comfort and he prospers with honour and fame and wins victories in the battles for food, energy and wealth with prestige.

यथा रुद्रस्य सूनवा दिवा वशन्त्यसुरस्य वधसः ।

युवानस्तथदसत ॥ १७ ॥

17. Yathā rudrasya sūnavo divo vaśantyasurasya vedhasaḥ. Yuvānastathedasat.

As the Maruts, youthful children of Rudra, cosmic justice, light divine and universal life-giving intelligence, would wish, so may it be with us and all.

य चाहन्ति मरुतः सुदानवः स्मन्मी हुषश्चरन्ति य ।

अतश्चिदा न उप वस्यसा हृदा युवान आ ववृध्वम ॥ १८ ॥

18. Ye cārhamti marutaḥ sudānavaḥ smanmīḥ huṣaścaranti ye. Ataścidā na upa vasyasā hṛdā yuvāna ā vavṛdhvam.

There are those people who honour the virile and generous Maruts, warriors and rain bearers of the nation. There are also those generous and charitable people who act and conduct themselves according to the Maruts' good wishes. For this reason, O youthful heroes, come and promote us with a very liberal and sympathetic heart as your own.

यून ऊ षु नविष्ठया वृष्णाः पावकाँ अभि साभर गिरा ।

गाय गाईव चकृषत ॥ १९ ॥

19. Yūna ū ṣu naviṣṭhayā vṛṣṇaḥ pāvakāñ abhi sobhare girā. Gāya gā iva carkṛṣat.

As a farmer yokes and exhorts his bulls while ploughing the land, so should you, O manager of the nation, appreciate and celebrate the youthful, virile, generous and purifying Maruts, exhorting them with exciting words of latest praise and commendation.

साहा य सन्ति मुष्टिहव हव्या विश्वांसु पृत्सु हातृषु ।

20. Sāhā ye santi muṣṭiheva havyo viśvāsu pṛtsu hotṛṣu. Vṛṣṇaścandrāṇna suśravastamān girā vandasva maruto aha.

Those who accept challenges of hostile and formidable forces in battles of the human nation in the world and, like a veteran celebrated boxer, repulse the challengers and win, those virile Maruts, generous as cloud bearing winds, handsome as the golden moon, and most reputed in humanity, O poet, sing and celebrate in spontaneous and most exciting words and voice.

गार्वाश्चिद्धा समन्यवः सजात्येन मरुतः सबन्धवः ।
रिहत ककुभा मिथः ॥ २१ ॥

21. Gāvaścid ghā samanyavaḥ sajātyena marutaḥ sabandhavaḥ. Rihate kakubho mithaḥ.

O Maruts, heroes of equal mind bound in brotherhood, even cows, by virtue of the same species sit together and love each other under your kind care even though they may be moving around in different directions.

मर्ताश्चिद्धा नृतवा रुक्मव तस्मि उप भातृत्वमायति । अधि

22. Martaścid vo nṛtavo rukmavakṣasa upa bhrātrvamāyati. Adhi no gāta marutaḥ sadā hi va āpitvamasti nidhruvi.

Mortals too, O Maruts, singing and dancing celebrants of life wearing golden corselet on the chest, come to realise their kindred unity under your kind care and direction. Sing and speak to us over and above us since our brotherhood with you is always inviolable.

मरुता मारुतस्य न आ भेषजस्य वहता सुदानवः ।

23. Maruto mārutasya na ā bheṣajasya vahatā sudānavaḥ. Yūyaṁ sakhāyaḥ sapṭayaḥ.

O Maruts, sojourners of lands and skies, moving in formations of seven coursers, noble and generous friends of the community, bring in for us medicaments of the air for our health and environment.

याभिः सिन्धुमवथ याभिस्तूवथ याभिदशस्यथा किर्विम ।

24. Yābhiḥ sindhumavatha yābhistūrvatha yābhir-daśasyathā krivim. Mayo no bhūtotibhirmayo-bhuvaḥ śivābhirasacadviṣaḥ.

O heroes of lands and seas and skies, free from hate, jealousy and enmity, bring us that tactic and policy and modes of defence and protection by which you guard the sea, repulse encroachment, and dig and construct tanks and wells and give them to people. O heroes of peace and well-being, be good and kind with safeguards of all type, safe guards and defences of auspicious and benevolent kind.

यत्सिन्धा यदसिकन्यां यत्समुदेषु मरुतः सुबहिषः ।

25. Yat sindhau yadasiknyām yat samudreṣu marutaḥ subarhiṣaḥ. Yat parvateṣu bheṣajam.

O Maruts, who sit on the holy seat of yajna, bring us the sanatives and medicaments that are in the rivers and the seas, in the darkness of caves, in the oceans and on the mountains.

विश्वं पश्यन्ता बिभृथा तनूष्वा तनां न् अधि वाचत ।

26. Viśvaṁ paśyānto bibhṛthā tanūṣvā tenā no adhi vocata. Kṣamā rapo maruta āturasya na iṣkartā vihrutaṁ punaḥ.

O Maruts, you watch the world and all that it contains. You bear and bring all that knowledge and competence on your person, and with that pray, bless our physical body system and our body politic. By virtue of that knowledge and experience speak to us. O heroes of nature and humanity, cure the weakness, sin and suffering of our sick and restore to full health and efficiency whatever is broken and lost.

Profusely with this salutation and homage, we honour and praise you and pray to you again and again. Why do you hesitate, in thought? O lord of the moving world, we have our desires and ambitions. You are the giver of fulfilment. We are here, our prayers are here, and we are yours. We have our thoughts and intelligence too, hence we pray: Grant our prayers without delay.

8. Vidmā sakhitvamuta śūra bhojyamā te tā vajrinnī-mahe. Uto samasminnā śīśīhi no vaso vāje suśipra gomati.

O lord of might, wielder of the thunderbolt of justice and power, we know and enjoy your love and friendship and your liberal provisions of life's enjoyment, and the same we solicit of you. And we pray, O lord of the golden helmet, power and knowledge, giver of peace and settlement, establish us in this noble order of lands and cows, food and energy, knowledge and action and the holy life of freedom and happiness.

या न इदमिदं पुरा प वस्य आनिनाय तमु वः स्तुष ।

सखाय इन्द्रमूतय ॥ ९ ॥

9. Yo na idamidam purā pra vasya ānināya tamu vaḥ stuṣe. Sakhāya indramūtaye.

O friends, for the peace, freedom, progress and protection of you all, I pray to the same Indra, lord almighty, who has provided this beautiful world of joy for us since the very time of creation.

हयैश्वं सत्यति चषणीसहं स हिष्मा या अमन्दत । आ तु

10. Haryaśvaṁ satpatiṁ carṣaṇīsaḥaṁ sa hi śmā yo amandata. Ā tu naḥ sa vayati gavyamaśvyam stotr̥bhyo maghavā śatam.

He alone is happy indeed and prospers who glorifies Indra, lord of the moving universe, protector and promoter of truth and reality and ruler and justicier of humanity, who, lord almighty, weaves for us this web of a hundredfold variety of earthly provision and all attainable possibility for the celebrants.

त्वया ह स्विद्युजा वयं प्रति श्वसन्तं वृषभ बुवीमहि ।
संस्थ जनस्य गामतः ॥ ११ ॥

11. Tvayā ha svidyujā vyaṁ prati śvasantaṁ vṛṣabha bruvīmahi. Saṁsthe janasya gomataḥ.

By you alone as our friend and comrade, O lord almighty, generous giver, can we counter a gasping contestant in this settled world order of humanity full of lands and cows, blest as we are with the light of knowledge and culture.

जयम कार पुरुहूत कारिणा भि तिष्ठम दूढ्यः ।
नृभिर्वृत्रं हन्याम शूशुयाम चा वरिन्द प णा धियः ॥ १२ ॥

12. Jayema kāre puruhūta kārīṇo'bhi tiṣṭhema dūḍhyaḥ. Nṛbhirvṛtraṁ hanyāma śūśuyāma cā'verindra pra ṇo dhiyaḥ.

Indra, lord of power and light of life, universally invoked, let us win over the violent in the struggle of life, discipline and subject to rule and order the obstinate and intransigent with reason, dispel darkness and destroy evil with the help of the leading lights of society, and thus grow and march forward and higher. O lord, protect and guide our thoughts and actions against temptations to go astray.

अ॒भा॒तृ॒व्या अ॒ना त्वम॑ना॒पिरि॑न्द ज॒नुषा॑ स॒नाद॑सि ।
यु॒धदा॑पि॒त्वमि॑च्छस ॥ १३ ॥

13. Abhrāṭṛvyo anā tvamanāpirindra januṣā sanā-dasi. Yudhedāpitvamicchase.

Indra, lord of absolute might by nature, since birth of the universe, indeed for eternity, you are without a rival, need no leader, no friend and no comrade, but in the dynamics of human life you do want that the human should be your companion in and for his struggle for self-evolution and social progress.

नकी॑ र॒वन्तं स॒ख्याय॑ वि॒न्दस॒ पीय॑न्ति त सुरा॒श्वः ।

14. Nakī revantaṁ sakhyāya vindase pīyanti te surāśvaḥ. Yadā kṛṇoṣi nadanum samūhasyādīt piteva hūyase.

You do not just care to choose the rich for companionship, if they are swollen with drink and pride and violate the rules of divine discipline. But when you attend to the poor and alter their fortune for the better, you are invoked like father with gratitude which the voice of thunder acknowledges and approves.

मा त॑ अमा॒जुरा॑ यथा मू॒रास॑ इ॒न्द स॒ख्य त्वाव॑तः ।
नि ष॑दाम॒ सचा॑ सु॒त ॥ १५ ॥

15. Mā te amājuro yathā mūrāsa indra sakhye tvāvataḥ. Ni ṣadāma sacā sute.

Indra, Lord of yajnic evolution and social development, let us not like stupid fools sit at home and grow to age in years, but let us, in enlightened friendship with a power like you, sit on the yajna vedi and grow in knowledge and wisdom.

मा तं गादत्र निरराम् राधस् इन्द्र मा तं गृहामहि ।

दृ हा चिद्वयः प मृशाभ्या भर न तं दामान् आदभ ॥ १६ ॥

16. Mā te godatra nirarāma rādhasa indra mā te grhāmahi. Dr̥ḥā cidaryaḥ pra mṛśābhyā bhara na te dāmāna ādabhe.

Indra, lord giver of lands and cows, knowledge and enlightened culture, let us never fall from your gifts of divine munificence. Let us never take anything from anyone other than you. O lord of the world's wealth, bear and bring us your gifts of permanent value. No one can ever disturb or stop the flow of your gifts of love and charity to humanity.

इन्द्रा वा घदियन्मघं सरस्वती वा सुभगा ददिवसु ।

त्वं वा चित्र दाशुष ॥ १७ ॥

17. Indro vā ghediyānmaghaṁ sarasvatī vā subhagā dadirvasu. Tvam vā citra dāśuṣe.

Is it Indra, ruling power of the mortal world, that gives so much wealth to the man of yajnic charity? Or is it Sarasvati, holy speech, abundant stream and dynamics of nature that gives so much wealth to the charitable humanity? Or is it you, Lord Supreme, sublime mystery of the world of existence, who give so much wealth to the liberal donor?

चित्र इदाजी राजका इदन्यक यक् सरस्वतीमनु ।

पुजन्यइव ततनद्धि वृष्ट्या सहस्रमयुता ददत ॥ १८ ॥

18. *Citra id rājā rājakā idanyake yake sarasvatīmanu.
Parjanya iva tatanaddhi vṛṣṭyā sahasramayutā dadat.*

The mysterious divine power immanent and transcendent is the supreme ruler and ultimate giver. Other ruling divinities, human rulers or natural forces, flowing speech or rivers or river benefactors in consonance with Sarasvati, are but subservient to the supreme. Just as the cloud soaks the earth all round and over so does the lord of wonder and sublimity give thousands and tens of thousands of wealth to humanity.

Mandala 8/Sukta 22

Ashvinau Devata, Sobhari Kanva Rshi

आ त्यमह्व आ रथमद्या दंसिष्ठमूतय ।

यमश्विना सुहवा रुद्रवतनी आ सूयाय तस्थथुः ॥ १ ॥

1. *O tyamahva ā rathamadyā daṁsiṣṭhamūtaye.
Yamaśvinā suhavā rudravartanī ā sūryayai tasthathuḥ.*

Ah, on this auspicious day I invoke, imagine and structure that most wonderful and versatile chariot for protection and progress which the Ashvins, twin harbingers of the freshness of a new morning, most welcome invitees, would ascend and come by paths of love and justice free from violence for the advancement of life's light and glory.

पृवापुषं सुहवं पुरुस्पृहं भुज्युं वाजेषु पूव्यम ।

सुचनावन्तं सुमतिभिः साभरु विद्वेषसमनुहसम ॥ २ ॥

2. Pūrvāpuṣaṁ sahavaṁ puruspr̥haṁ bhujuṁ vājeṣu pūrvyam. Sacanāvantam̐ sumatibhiḥ sobhare vidveṣasam-anehasam.

O Sobhari, scientist and technologist, with your best of intelligence and intention, design, structure and perfect the chariot which has supported the life of the nation since earliest times, which is welcome and available to all easily, universally acceptable and enjoyable, first and foremost in the battles of life, friend of all on land, sea and sky, inviolable and unchallengeable by the jealous rivals and enemies.

इ॒ह॒ त्या॒ पु॒रु॒भू॒त॒मा॒ द॒वा॒ न॒मा॒भि॒र॒श्वि॒ना॒ ।
अ॒वा॒ची॒ना॒ स्व॒र्व॒स॒ क॒रा॒म॒ह॒ ग॒न्ता॒रा॒ दा॒शु॒षा॑ गृ॒ह॒म॒ ॥ ३ ॥

3. *Iha tyā purubhūtāmā devā namobhir-aśvinā.
Arvācīnā svavase karāmahe gantārā dāśuṣo gr̥ham.*

Here on the earth for the sake of protection and progress of the human nation, with all honours and reverence, we invoke, appoint and consecrate the Ashvins, universally acceptable, brilliant and generous complementary twin powers of the nation such as the ruler and the governing council or ruler and the commander of defence forces, who are harbingers of fresh life, energy and prosperity for humanity, who are latest in knowledge and competence and freely mix with the generous citizens at their homes.

यु॒वा रथ॑स्य॒ परि॑ च॒क॒मी॒यत॑ इ॒मान्य॑द्वा॒मिष॑ण्यति ।

4. Yuvo rathasya pari cakramīyata īrmānyad vāmi-ṣaṇyati. Asmāñ acchā sumatirvām śubhaspatī ā dhenuriva dhāvatu.

One chariot of yours is ever on the wheel going all round and round, the other serves, inspires and flies you anywhere when you need. O protectors of the auspicious good fortune of the human nation, may your good will and benevolence hasten to reach us like the mother cow rushing to her calf.

रथा या वां त्रिवन्धुरा हिरण्याभीशुरश्विना ।

Your famous and celebrated three-stage chariot controlled by golden steers traverses over heaven and earth. O lovers of truth and righteousness, come to us by that glorious chariot.

दशस्यन्ता मनव पूर्वं दिवि यवं वृक्केण कषथः ।

ता वामद्य सुमतिभिः शुभस्पती अश्विना पस्तुवीमहि ॥ ६ ॥

6. Daśasyantā manave pūrvyam divi yavam vṛkeṇa karṣathaḥ. Tā vāmadya sumatibhiḥ śubhaspatī aśvinā pra stuvīmahi.

O twin powers of socio-economic complementarities, rulers and protectors of the nation's auspicious good fortune, you till the land with the plough giving the people the gift of barley and setting a generous example of enlightened behaviour of permanent value. O leaders of eminence and splendour, with sincere thought, intention and action we celebrate you both this holy day of thanks giving for the nation.

उप ना वाजिनीवसू यातमृतस्य पथिभिः ।

यभिस्तृि वृषणा त्रासदस्यवं मह त्राय जिन्वथः ॥ ७ ॥

7. Upa no vājinīvasū yātamṛtasya pathibhiḥ. Yebhis-trkṣim vṛṣaṇā trāsadasyavaṁ mahe kṣatrāya jinvathah.

Generous and victorious lords of strength and progress, come to us by those paths of truth and righteousness by which, O brilliant harbingers of rain showers of prosperity, you strengthen and empower the high command of the nation to maintain the splendour of the nation's social order and keep down the forces of violence and terror in peace and submission.

अयं वामदिभिः सुतः सामा नरा वृषण्वसू ।

आ यातं सामपीतय पिबतं दाशुषा गृह ॥ ८ ॥

8. Āyaṁ vāmadribhiḥ suta somo narā vṛṣaṇvasū. Ā yātaṁ somapītaye pibataṁ daśuṣo grhe.

O leading lights of humanity, generous harbingers of the showers of prosperity, this soma of pleasure and honour distilled with the complementary forces of our social dynamics is for you. Come to participate in the celebrations of the nation for the taste of glory and ecstasy and drink the soma in the yajnic house of the generous giver and performer of yajna.

आ हि रुहतमश्विना रथ काश हिरण्यय वृषण्वसू ।

युञ्जाथां पीवरीरिषः ॥ ९ ॥

9. Ā hi ruhatamaśvinā rathe kośe hiraṇyaye vṛṣa-ṇvasū. Yuñjāthāṁ pīvarīriṣaḥ.

Ashvins, harbingers of the showers of prosperity, ascend the chariot, seat yourselves in the golden interior of the chariot, come and settle us into a powerful social order of energy and prosperity.

याभिः पक्थमवथा याभिरधिगुं याभिबुभुं विजाषसम ।

10. Yābhiḥ pakthamavatho yābhiradhrigum yābhir-babhrum vijoṣasam. Tābhirno makṣū tūyamaśvinā gataṁ bhiṣajyataṁ yadāturam.

Ashvins, rulers and administrators of the social system of health and security, come with those protections and securities by which you protect and maintain the healthy veterans of knowledge and practical action, by which you assist the disabled and help the support system for the weak and the destitute. Come fast without delay to sustain the weak and suffering in a state of emergency and provide them medical aid.

यदधिगावा अधिगू इदा चिदह्ना अश्विना हवामह ।

वयं गीभिर्विपन्यवः ॥ ११ ॥

11. Yadadhrigāvo adhrigū idā cidahno aśvinā havāmahe. Vayaṁ gīrbhirvipanyavaḥ.

We men of the mantra in need, celebrants of the irresistible Ashvins, powers of wind and electric energy, ministrants of succour and security, invoke them with voices of praise at this time of the day to come and help us.

ताभिरा यातं वृषणाप म हवं विश्वप्सुं विश्ववायम । इषा

12. Tābhirā yātaṁ vṛṣaṇopa me havam viśvapsuṁ viśvavāryam. Iṣā maṁhiṣṭhā purubhūtamā narā Yābhiḥ kriviṁ vāvṛdhus-tābhirā gatam.

Ashvins, leading lights of humanity, virile harbingers of showers of health and life's joy, listen to my manifold and persistent invocation expressive of universal love and devotion and come. Most generous and exceedingly rich all round universal presences, come with those foods and medications for recuperative energies by which you revive and strengthen the man fallen into utter depression. With those protective and promotive sanatives, pray, come in response to my call.

ताविदा चिदहानां तावश्विना वन्दमान उप ब्रुव ।

ता ऊ नमाभिरीमह ॥ १३ ॥

13. Tāvidā cidahānām tāvaśvinā vandamāna upa bruve. Tā namobhirīmahe.

At this time of the day every morning, saluting and celebrating the twin powers of human and natural complementarity, the Ashvins, I speak to them intimately, and this is how with homage and prayer we invoke them to come and bless.

ताविद्वाषा ता उषसि शुभस्पती ता यामनुदवर्तनी । मा ना मताय रिपव वाजिनीवसू पुरा रुद्रावति ख्यतम ॥ १४ ॥

14. Tāvid doṣā tā uṣasi śubhaspatī tā yāman rudra-vartanī. Mā no martāya ripave vājinīvasū paro rudrāvati khyatam.

Those two lords of auspicious good fortune moving by paths of rectitude, justice and punishment, we invoke and celebrate at night, early morning at dawn and all times of the day. May they, lord commanders of wealth and victory, scourge of evil and violence, never forsake us to the mortal enemy, never throw us far off to the hungry wolves.

आ सुगम्याय सुगम्यं प्राता रथेनाश्विना वा सु णी ।

हुव पितव साभरी ॥ १५ ॥

15. Ā sugmyāya sugmyam prātā rathenāśvinā vā sakṣaṇī. Huve piteva sobharī.

Like my father rich in knowledge and enlightenment, I invoke the Ashvins, twin, inseparable powers of complementarity in unison, in the morning to come by chariot as they please and to bring riches and joy for the devotee praying for riches and joy.

मनाजवसा वृषणा मदच्युता म णुंगमाभिरूतिभिः ।

16. Manojavasā vṛṣaṇā madacyutā makṣuṅgamā-bhirūtibhiḥ. Ārāttāccid bhūtamasm avase pūrvībhiḥ purubhojasā.

O Ashvins, complementary harbingers of showers of joy, moving at the speed of mind to provide sustenance and pleasures of life for all, come and be at the closest to us for our protection and progress by instant modes of defence and security as you have ever been since the earliest times of creation.

आ ना अश्वावदश्विना वतियासिष्टं मधुपातमा नरा ।

गामदस्त्रा हिरण्यवत ॥ १७ ॥

17. Ā no aśvāvadaśvinā vartiryāsiṣṭam madhupāt-amā narā. Gomad dasrā hiraṇyavat.

Ashvins, mighty blissful complementary twin powers of humanity in the social order, leading lights of life, commanding wealth of cows and horses, lands, culture and advancement, givers of success in high attainment, greatest protectors and promoters of the honey sweets of life and golden wealth of the world, come and bless us with the wealth we pray for.

18. Suprāvargaṃ suvīryaṃ suṣṭhu vāryamanā-dhr̥ṣṭaṃ rakṣasvinā. Asminnā vāmāyāne vājini-vasū viśvā vāmāni dhīmahi.

Ashvins, lords of wealth, power and victory, may we, upon this happy arrival of yours receive, value and meditate upon all the beauties and treasures of the world of distinguished wealth spontaneously given, creative and energetic, highly lovable and unchallengeable even by the demonic strong as our prize possession.

Mandala 8/Sukta 23

Agni Devata, Vishvamana Vaiyashva Rshi

इळिष्वा हि पतीव्यं यजस्व जातवदसम ।

चरिष्णुधूममगृभीतशाचिषम ॥ १ ॥

1. Īliṣvā hi pratīvyāṃ yajasva jātavedasam. Carīṣṇudhūmam-agrbhītaśociṣam.

Study, celebrate and by yajna develop the fire divine, immanent and omnipresent energy, versatile power whose smoke rises freely and whose light of flame no one comprehends, no one can obstruct.

दामानं विश्वचषणं गिरिं विश्वमना गिरा ।

उत स्तुषु विष्वधसा रथानाम ॥ २ ॥

2. *Dāmānaṁ viśvacarṣaṇe'griṁ viśvamano girā.
Uta stuṣe viṣpardhaso rathānām.*

And watching the world of existence and thinking and meditating at heart on its dynamics of evolution, I adore Agni with the holy voice of faith, lord and power, that giver of chariots for onward movement to those who vie with one another for progress in various ways.

यषामाबाध ऋग्मिय इषः पृश्च निगभ ।

उपविदा वह्निर्विन्दत वसु ॥ ३ ॥

3. *Yeṣāmābādha ṛgmiya iṣaḥ pṛkṣaśca nigrabhe.
Upavidā vahnir-vindate vasu.*

Those seekers whose inputs of food and energy, the all powerful Agni, adored and served with Vedic formulae, receives, consumes and directs within the dynamic laws of nature, through their investigations receive new wealth and knowledge.

उदस्य शाचिरस्थादीदियुषा व्यजरम ।

तपुजम्भस्य सुद्युता गणश्रियः ॥ ४ ॥

4. *Udasya śocir-asthādīdīyūṣa vyajaram.
Tapurjambhasya sudyuta gaṇaśriyaḥ.*

And the radiance of this burning, flaming, consuming fire, blazing brilliant, all illuminative, rises high, unaging and imperishable, adding to the wealth and glory of all classes of people.

उदु॒ तिष्ठ॑ स्वध्व॒र् स्तवा॑ना द॒व्या कृ॒पा ।

अ॒भिख्या॑ भा॒सा बृ॒हता॑ शु॒शुक्व॑निः ॥ ५ ॥

5. *Udu tiṣṭha svadhvara stavāno devyā kṛpā.
Abhikhyā bhāsā bṛhatā śuśukvaniḥ.*

O Agni, light and fire of life, adored and served with yajnic service of love and non-violence, rise high by the laws and grace of Divinity, shining ever bright with wider and higher light, power and magnificence.

(This mantra may also be interpreted as exhortation to the person dedicated to yajna.)

अग्र॑ या॒हि सु॒शस्ति॑भि॒हुव्या॑ जु॒ह्वान॑ आ॒नुष॑क ।

यथा॑ दू॒ता ब॒भूथ॑ ह॒व्यवा॑हनः ॥ ६ ॥

6. *Agne yāhi suśastibhirhavyā juhvāna ānuṣak.
Yathā dūto babhūtha havyavāhanah.*

Go, Agni, with the hymns of adoration, constantly receiving, returning, and transmitting the holy materials of yajna to the divinities as, like a messenger, you are the carrier of fragrance of the havi offered into the vedi.

अ॒ग्निं वः॑ पू॒र्व्यं हु॒व हा॑तारं च॒षणी॑नाम ।

तम॒या वा॒चा गृ॑ण॒ तमु॑ वः स्तुष ॥ ७ ॥

7. *Agniṁ vaḥ pūrvyam huve hotāraṁ carṣaṇīnam.
Tamayā vācā gṛṇe tamu vaḥ stuṣe.*

O devoted people, for you I invoke Agni, eternal power and universal high priest of humanity. By this song of adoration, I worship Agni and exhort you too to adore the universal light and power of divinity.

य॒ज्ञभि॒रद्भु॑त॒कतुं॑ यं कृ॒पा सू॒दय॑न्त॒ इत॑ ।

मि॒त्रं न॒ ज॒न॒ सु॒धित॑मृ॒ताव॑नि ॥ ८ ॥

8. Yajñebhir-adbhutakratuṃ yaṃ kṛpā sūdayanta it.
Mitraṃ na jane sudhitam-ṛtāvani.

Agni showers his love and grace on people who follow the path of rectitude and light, serve and exalt the lord of marvellous action with yajnas as a benevolent friend.

ऋ॒तावा॑नमृ॒ताय॑वा य॒ज्ञस्य॑ सा॒धनं॑ गि॒रा ।

9. Ṛtāvānam-ṛtāyavo yajñasya sādhanam girā.
Upo enaṃ jujuṣur-namasaspade.

O men of yajna and followers of the paths of universal truth, with songs of holiness, in the house of yajna, love, exalt and closely serve this Agni, lord of universal truth and eternal law and the end and aim of the perfection of yajna.

अ॒च्छा॑ न॒ अ॒ङ्गि॒रस्त॑मं य॒ज्ञासा॑ यन्तु॒ संय॑तः ।

10. Acchā no aṅgirastamaṃ yajñāso yantu saṃyataḥ.
Hotā yo asti vikṣvā yaśastamaḥ.

May all our yajnas and other yajnic actions well conducted, together, reach Agni, supreme, most vital life breath of existence and most honourable high priest of yajna among people, who is the ultimate end and aim of the perfection of yajna.

अग्र॑ तव॒ त्य अ॒ङ्ग॒रन्धा॑नासा बृ॒हद्भाः॑ ।

11. *Agne tava tye ajarendhānāso br̥had bhāḥ.
Āśvā iva vṛṣaṇas-taviṣṭyavaḥ.*

O unaging and imperishable Agni, those blazing flames of expansive brilliance, generous and virile like solar radiations, are reflections of your supreme power and glory.

स त्वं न ऊर्जा पत रयिं रास्व सुवीर्यम् ।
पाव नस्ताक तनय समत्त्वा ॥ १२ ॥

12. *Sa tvam̐ na ūrjāṁ pate rayim̐ rāsva suvīryam.
Prāva nastoke tanaye samatsvā.*

Agni, lord protector of universal energy, pray bear, bring and bless us with manly vigour, and in the battles of life protect us and our children and grand children.

यद्वा उ विश्वपतिः शितः सुपीता मनुषा विशि ।
विश्वदग्निः पति र तांसि सधति ॥ १३ ॥

13. *Yad vā u viśpatiḥ śitaḥ suprīto manuṣa viśi.
Viśvedagniḥ prati rakṣāṁsi sedhati.*

When Agni, presiding spirit of human life, is animated, energised and sharpened by yajna, then, active in the human settlements, it counters and dispels all evil influences and forces of negativity.

श्रुष्ट्यग्र नवस्य म स्तामस्य वीर विश्वत ।
नि मायिनस्तपुषा र तासां दह ॥ १४ ॥

14. *Śruṣṭyagṇe navasya me stomasya vīra viśpate.
Ni māyinas-tapuṣā rakṣaso daha.*

Mighty brave Agni, lord of the people, saving spirit of life, hearing my new song of praise and prayer, burn off the destructive wiles of the evil forces with your heat.

न तस्य मायया च न रिपुरीशीत मत्यः ।

या अग्नये ददाश हव्यदातिभिः ॥ १५ ॥

15. *Na tasya māyayā cana ripurīśīta martyaḥ.
Yo agnaye dadāśa havyadātibhiḥ.*

Whoever offers homage to Agni with sacred oblations into the holy fire is safe, no mortal enemy even with the worst of his fraudulent power or sorcery can prevail over him or his home.

व्यश्वस्त्वा वसुविदमु ण्युरपीणादृषिः ।

महा राय तमु त्वा समिधीमहि ॥ १६ ॥

16. *Vyaśvas-tvā vasuvidam-ukṣanyur-aprīṇād-ṛṣiḥ.
Maho rāye tamu tvā samidhīmahi.*

The sage in search of dynamic energy and showers of the wealth of knowledge and bliss adores and serves you, giver of the world's wealth and knowledge. We too light you well in the correct manner for the attainment of the same great wealth of life.

उशना काव्यस्त्वा नि हातारमसादयत ।

आयजिं त्वा मनव जातवदसम ॥ १७ ॥

17. *Uśanā kāvyastvā ni hotāram-asādayat.
Āyajim tvā manave jātavedasam.*

The lover with passion and the poet with paternal vision attain to you, Agni, high priest of the real cosmic yajna and immanent and omniscient presence in existence for the good of humanity.

विश्वं हि त्वां सृजाषसा द्वासां दूतमकृत ।

श्रुष्टी देव पथमा यज्ञियां भुवः ॥ १८ ॥

18. Viśve hi tvā sajoṣaso devāso dūtamakrata.
Śruṣṭī deva prathamo yajñīyo bhuvah.

All the brilliant sages and scholars of the world in unison with love accept you, Agni, as the messenger of Divinity, and, being the fastest carrier, O brilliant and generous power, you become the first adorable yajaka of existence.

इमं घां वीरा अमृतं दूतं कृण्वीतु मृत्युः ।

पावकं कृष्णवर्तनिं विहायसम ॥ १९ ॥

19. Imaṁ ghā vīro amṛtaṁ dūtaṁ kṛṇvīta martyaḥ.
Pāvakaṁ kṛṣṇavartaniṁ vihāyasam.

Let the brave mortal accept the imperishable and immortal Agni as the messenger of Divinity and medium of the dynamics of existence, purifier, agent of cosmic gravitation and sustenance and the mightiest natural power.

तं हुवम यतस्त्रुचः सुभासं शुक्रशाचिषम ।

विशामग्निमजरं पत्नमीड्यम ॥ २० ॥

20. Taṁ huvema yatasrucaḥ subhāsaṁ śukraśo- ciṣam. Viśām-agnim-ajaraṁ pratnam-īḍyam.

We invoke Agni and, holding ladles of ghrta and havi, feed and serve the divine fire blissfully shining bright in flames, unaging prime power adorable for the people.

या अस्म हव्यदातिभिराहुतिं मता विधत ।

भूरि पाषं स धत्त वीरवद्यशः ॥ २१ ॥

21. *Yo asmai havyadātibhir-āhutiṁ marto'vidhat.
Bhūri poṣaṁ sa dhatte vīravad yaśaḥ.*

The mortal who, with faith and reverence, dedicates himself to this Agni and offers oblations into the fire divine with holy fragrant materials receives the blessings of ample health and nourishment, honour and fame and the gift of heroic progeny.

पथमं जातवदसमग्निं यज्ञेषु पूव्यम ।

पतिं स्रुगतिं नमसा हविष्मती ॥ २२ ॥

22. Prathamam jātavedasam-agniṁ yajñeṣu pūrvyam. Prati srugeti namasā haviṣmatī.

To Agni, first and prime power immanent in everything born in existence, every ladle full of holy materials moves with chant of faith, reverence and selfless service in yajnas.

आभिविधमाग्रयं ज्येष्ठाभिव्यश्ववत ।

मंहिष्ठाभिमतिभिः शुक्रशाचिष ॥ २३ ॥

23. *Ābhir-vidhemāgnaye jyeṣṭhābhir-vyaśvavat.
Mamhiṣṭhābhir-matibhiḥ śukraśociṣe.*

With these oblations and the chant of highest and most powerful hymns, let us, like the sage of perfect discipline of mind and sense, offer service and submission to Agni, yajnic power of purest flame.

नूनमच विहायस् त्तामभिः स्थूरयूपवत ।

ऋष वयश्व दम्यायाग्रयं ॥ २४ ॥

24. *Nūnamarca vihāyase stomebhiḥ sthūrayūpavat.
Rṣe vaiyaśva damyāyāgnaye.*

Holy sage of mental and moral discipline, like a yajaka of eminence and unshakable faith, offer honour and reverence with songs of adoration and selfless service to Agni, presiding power of the home and infinite presence of the universe.

अतिथिं मानुषाणां सूनुं वनस्पतीनाम् ।

विप्रा अग्निमवस पत्नमीळत ॥ २५ ॥

25. *Atithim mānuṣāṇāṁ sūnuṁ vanaspatīnām.
Viprā agnim-avase pratnam-īlate.*

Sages and scholars worship Agni, primeval presence of the universe, life giver of herbs and trees and honourable like a welcome guest in people's homes for the sake of protection and progress.

महा विश्वाँ अभि षता३ भि हव्यानि मानुषा ।

अग्र नि षत्सि नमसाधि बहिषि ॥ २६ ॥

26. *Maho viśvāṅ abhi ṣato 'bhi havyāni mānuṣā.
Agne ni ṣatsi namasādhi barhiṣi.*

Great Agni, you pervade everything in existence, you sanctify all yajnic materials of mankind and, honoured with reverence and oblations of havi, you vibrate on the holy grass and illuminate the heart of the yajamana.

वंस्वा ना वाया पुरु वंस्व रायः पुरुस्पृहः ।

सुवीर्यस्य प्रजावता यशस्वतः ॥ २७ ॥

27. *Vaṁsvā no vāryā puru vaṁsva rāyaḥ puruspr̥haḥ.
Suvīryasya prajāvato yaśasvataḥ.*

Give us the gifts of our choice in abundance.
Give us wealth and honours of the love and desire of all mankind, give us abundance of brave progeny, honour, excellence and fame.

त्वं वरा सुषाम्ण गृ जनाय चादय ।

सदा वसा रतिं यविष्ठ शश्वत ॥ २८ ॥

28. Tvaṁ varo suṣāṃṇe'gne janāya codaya.
Sadā vaso rātiṁ yaviṣṭha śaśvate.

Agni, most youthful light and life of existence, worthy of the first order of love and reverence for us, pray grant your gracious favours of wealth and generosity to mankind. Lord giver of wealth and peace and comfort of a settled life, inspire the celebrants through continuous generations to sing songs of gratitude for your generosity.

त्वं हि सुपतूरसि त्वं न गामतीरिषः ।

महा रायः सातिमगृ अपा वृद्धि ॥ २९ ॥

29. Tvaṁ hi supratūrasī tvaṁ no gomatīriṣaḥ.
Maho rāyaḥ sātimagne apā vṛddhi.

Agni, you are the holy giver, you are the giver of food, energy and victory, and abundant wealth of lands and cows, culture and enlightenment. Give us liberally of our share of wealth and grandeur and promote our possibilities of progress.

अगृ त्वं यशा अस्या मित्रावरुणा वह ।

ऋतावाना समाजा पूतद तासा ॥ ३० ॥

30. Agne tvaṁ yaśā asyā mitrāvaruṇā vaha.
Ṛtāvānā samrājā pūtadakṣasā.

Agni, you are great and glorious. Pray bring us Mitra and Varuna, rule of love and friendship, reason and justice, through scholarly Brahman as and brilliant Kshatriyas, men of rectitude, brilliant will and intellect and purity and excellence of culture and enlightenment in their field.

Mandala 8/Sukta 24

Indra, Danastuti Devata, Vishvamana Vaiyashva Rshi

सखाय॑ आ शिषाम॑हि ब्रह्मन्दाय॑ वज्रिण॑ ।

स्तुष॑ ऊ॒ षु वा॒ नृत्तमाय॑ धृष्णव॑ ॥ १ ॥

1. Sakhāya ā śiṣāmahi brahmendrāya vajriṇe.
Stuṣa ū ṣu vo nṛtamāya dhrṣṇave.

Come friends, let us for your sake sing a song of adoration in honour of Indra, lord of power, wielder of the thunderbolt of justice and punishment in order to glorify the noblest leader of resolute will and inviolable command.

शव॑सा॒ ह्यसि॑ श्रुता॒ वृत्र॑हत्य॒न वृत्र॑हा ।

म॒घम॒घाना॒ अति॑ शूर॒ दाश॑सि ॥ २ ॥

2. Śavasā hyasi śruto vṛtrahatyena vṛtrahā.
Maghair-maghono ati śūra daśasi.

O heroic leader and ruler, by virtue of your strength and will you are renowned as the destroyer of evil for having eliminated evil, want and suffering. You are famous as the lord magnanimous of glory for your wealth and generosity because your generosity exceeds the expectations of the richest generous people.

स नः स्तवान् आ भर रयिं चित्रश्रवस्तमम् ।

निरक चिद्या हरिवा वसुददिः ॥ ३ ॥

3. *Sa naḥ stavāna ā bhra rayiṁ citraśrvastamam.
Nireke cid yo harivo vasurdadiḥ.*

Such as you are, O lord of glory and magnanimity, sung and celebrated for your munificence, bear and bring us wealth and honour of the highest renowned order of excellence since, O ruler and controller of the dynamics of life, you are the sole giver of wealth and peace and prosperity in a state of good life beyond all doubt and question, suspicion and fear.

आ निरकुमुत प्रियमिन्द्र दधि जनानाम् ।

धृषता धृष्णा स्तवमान् आ भर ॥ ४ ॥

4. *Ā nirekamuta priyamindra darṣi janānām.
Dhr̥ṣatā dhr̥ṣṇo stavamāna ā bhara.*

Indra, lord of glory, give us a vision of the commonwealth of humanity of the dearest and most eminent order and, O lord of resolute will and action, sung and celebrated as such, bring us that wealth and order with the spirit of your will and resolution beyond doubt and question, fear and suspicion.

न त सव्यं न दधि णं हस्तं वरन्त आमुरः ।

न परिबाधा हरिवा गविष्टिषु ॥ ५ ॥

5. *Na te savyam na dakṣiṇam hastam varanta
āmuraḥ. Na paribādho harivo gaviṣṭiṣu.*

The forces of negativity and destruction cannot stay your left hand of generosity nor can they resist your right hand. Nor do preventive forces stand in the ways of your progress and evolution, O lord controller of the dynamics of existence.

आ त्वा गाभिरिव व्रजं गीभिर्ऋणाम्यदिवः ।

आ स्मा कामं जरितुरा मनः पृण ॥ ६ ॥

6. *Ā tvā gobhiriva vrajaṁ gīrbhir-ṛṇomyadrivah.
Ā smā kāmam jariturā manaḥ pṛṇa.*

O lord of clouds and mountains, wielder of the thunderbolt, like a cowherd reaching the stalls along with the cows do I come to you with my songs of adoration. O lord, fulfil the desire and prayer of the celebrant and bless my mind with peace and divine love.

विश्वानि विश्वमनसा धिया ना वृत्रहन्तम ।

उगं पणतरधि षू वसा गहि ॥ ७ ॥

7. *Viśvāni viśvamanaso dhiyā na vṛtrahantama.
Uga praṇetaradhi ṣū vasa gahi.*

O greatest destroyer of evil and darkness, blazing bold and irresistible leader of the world, lord giver of wealth and peaceful settlement, pray sanctify all our thoughts and acts, well wishers of the world of humanity as we are, and inspire us with divine wisdom.

वयं त अस्य वृत्रहन्विद्याम शूर नव्यसः ।

वसाः स्पाहस्य पुरुहूत राधसः ॥ ८ ॥

8. *Vayaṁ te asya vṛtrahan vidyāma śūra navyasaḥ.
Vasoḥ spāhasya puruhūta rādhasaḥ.*

O destroyer of evil and darkness, bold and resolute hero universally invoked and adored, pray let us know and obtain the latest, most lovable and effective forms of your wealth and honour, peace and progressive modes of life.

इ॒न्द॒ यथा॑ ह्य॒स्ति त॑ प॒रीतं॑ नृ॒ता श॒वः ।

98. Indra yathā hyasti te'parītaṁ nṛto śavaḥ.
Amṛktā rātiḥ puruhūta dāśuṣe.

Indra, lord and leader of humanity, just as your power and force is irresistible and indestructible, O lord universally invoked and adored, so is your charity and magnanimity to the generous devotee unrestricted and inviolable.

आ वृ॑ष॒स्व म॒हाम॒ह म॒ह नृ॑त॒म रा॒ध॒स ।

दृ॒ ह॒श्चि॒द दृ॒ह्य म॒घव॑न्म॒घत्त॑य ॥ १० ॥

10. Ā vṛṣasva mahāmaha mahe nṛtama rādhase.
Dr̥ḷhaścid dr̥hya maghavan maghattaye.

O greatest of the great, supreme guide and leader of life, for the greatness and glory of humanity on earth, shower your munificence of knowledge, will and action on us and, O lord of honour and grandeur, for our honour and progress break down the strongholds of evil, darkness, ignorance and inertness.

नू अ॒न्यत्रा॑ चि॒ददि॒व॒स्त्व ण॑ जग्मु॒रा॒श॒सः ।

11. Nū anyatrā cidadrivas-tvanṇo jagmurāśasaḥ.
Maghavañchagdhi tava tanna ūtibhiḥ.

O lord of glory, wielder of the thunderbolt of justice and retribution, our hopes and prayers have never wandered elsewhere, to anyone other than you. Pray strengthen our will and action with your modes of protection and promotion for advancement.

न॒ह्य॑ङ्ग॒ नृ॒ता॒ त्वद॒न्यं वि॒न्दामि॑ रा॒धस॑ ।

12. Nahyaṅga nṛto tvadanyaṁ vindāmi rādhase.
Rāye dyumnāya śavase ca girvaṇaḥ.

O lord watcher and controller of the dance of creation, dear as breath of life sung and celebrated in songs of adoration, I find none else other than you for inspiration and action for the sake of competence and success, wealth and power, honour and excellence, and strength and moral courage.

ए॒न्दुमि॒न्दीय॑ सि॒ञ्चत॑ पि॒बति॑ सा॒म्यं मधु॑ ।

प रा॒धसा॑ चा॒दया॑त म॒हित्व॒ना ॥ १३ ॥

13. Endumindrāya siñcata pibāti somyaṁ madhu.
Pra rādhasā codayāte mahitvanā.

Prepare, offer and regale Indra with the nectar drink of faith and performance. He values, enjoys and promotes the honey sweets of peace, pleasure and progress and inspires the people with will and competence and ambition for progress and excellence.

उपा॑ हरी॒णां पति॑ द ऽ पृ॒ञ्चन्त॑म॒ब्रव॑म ।

नू॒नं श्रु॒धि स्तुव॑ता अ॒श्व्यस्य॑ ॥ १४ ॥

14. Upo harīṇāṁ patiṁ dakṣaṁ prñcantam-abravam.
Nūnaṁ śrudhi stuvato aśvyasya.

I reach the lord protector and controller of the moving worlds, the omnipotent who enjoins the soul with the world of nature, and I closely whisper in prayer: Listen to the celebrant devotee who is keen to move from humanity to divinity and deserves to be accepted.

न॒ह्यङ्ग॑ पुरा च॒न ज॒ज्ञ वी॒रतर॑स्त्वत ।

नकी॑ रा॒या नव॒था न भ॒न्दना॑ ॥ १५ ॥

15. Nahyaṅga purā cana jajñe vīratarastvat.
Nakī rāyā naivathā na bhandanā.

Pray listen, Indra, dearest lord of life, true it is that no one born ever before or after was greater or mightier than you, none by wealth and power, none by competence and advancement, none by songs of prayer and adoration, none like you.

ए॒दु म॒ध्वा म॒दिन्तरं॑ सि॒ञ्च वा॑ध्वया॒ अन्ध॑सः ।

16. Edu madhvo madintaram siñca vādhvaryo andhasaḥ. Evā hi vīraḥ stavate sadāvṛdhaḥ.

And O high priest of the creative yajna of love and non-violence, offer the most delightful and ever exhilarating of honey sweets of the soma of faith and devotion to Indra, since thus is how the mighty hero is served and worshipped.

इ॒न्द स्था॑त॒हरी॑णां नकि॑ष्ट पू॒र्व्यस्तु॑तिम ।

उ॒दानं॑श् श॒वसा॑ न भ॒न्दना॑ ॥ १७ ॥

17. Indra sthātarharīṇām nakiṣṭe pūrvyastutim.
Udānaṁśa śavasā na bhandanā.

Indra, glorious lord president of the moving worlds of existence, no one ever by might or by commanding adoration has been able to equal, much less excel, the prime worship offered to you.

तं वा॒ वाजा॑नां॒ पति॑महू॒महि श्रव॑स्यवः ।

अपा॑युभि॒यज्ञ॑भि॒वावृ॑धन्यम ॥ १८ ॥

*Tam vo vājānām patim-ahūmahī śravasyavaḥ.
Aprāyubhir-yajñebhir-vāvṛdhenyam.*

O people we, seekers of honour and fame, invoke and adore the protector and promoter of your food, energies and victories, by assiduous congregations of yajna and thereby exalt the splendour and glory of the lord supreme.

एता॒ न्विन्द॑न् स्तवा॑म॒ सखा॑यः स्ताम्यं॒ नर॑म ।

कृ॒ष्टीया॑ वि॒श्वा अ॒भ्यस्त्य॑क॒ इत॑ ॥ १९ ॥

19. *Eto nvidraṁ stavāma sakhāyaḥ stomyaṁ naram.
Kṛṣṭīryo viśvā abhyastyeka it.*

Come friends all together and let us adore Indra, lord and leader worthy of joint worship and exaltation, who, by himself alone, rules over all peoples of the world.

अगा॑रु॒धाय॑ ग॒विष॑ द्यु॒ गाय॑ द॒स्म्यं वचः॑ ।

घृ॒तात्स्वादी॑या॒ मधु॑नश्च॒ वाच॑त ॥ २० ॥

20. *Agorudhāya gaviṣe dyukṣāya dasmyaṁ vacaḥ.
Ghṛtāt svādīyo madhunaśca vocata.*

Sing delightful songs of adoration in words more delicious than the taste of ghrta and sweetness of honey in honour of Indra, heavenly lord of light, who loves sweet speech and never feels satiated with songs of exaltation.

यस्यामितानि वी॒या॒ऽ न रा॒धः प॒य॑तव ।

ज्याति॒न वि॒श्वम॒भ्यस्ति॒ दक्षि॑णा ॥ २१ ॥

21. *Yasyāmitāni vīryā na rādhaḥ paryetave.
Jyotirna viśvamabhyasti dakṣiṇā.*

Let us sing in adoration of Indra whose wondrous deeds of divinity are unbounded, whose potential is unrestricted, and whose generosity radiates over the world like the light of the sun.

स्तु॒ही॒न्दं व्य॒श्व॒वद॑नूर्मिं वा॒जिनं॑ यम॑म ।

अ॒या ग॒यं म॑ह॒मानं॑ वि द॒ाशु॑ष ॥ २२ ॥

22. *Stuhīndraṁ vyaśva-danūrmim vājinam yamam.
Aryo gayam maṁhamānaṁ vi dāśuṣe.*

Like the sage of perfect mental and moral discipline, worship Indra, constant lord of eternity without fluctuation, omnipresent power over universal energy, controller and guide of the evolution of the universe, omnificent lord giver of a prosperous household to the generous devotees of yajna.

ए॒वा नू॒नमु॑प॒ स्तुहि॑ वयि॒श्व द॑श॒मं न॑वम ।

सु॒वि॒द्वांसं॑ च॒कृत्यं॑ च॒रणी॑नाम ॥ २३ ॥

23. *Evā nūnamupa stuhi vaiyaśva daśamaṁ navam.
Suvidvāṁsaṁ carkṛtyaṁ caraṇīnām.*

O child of the holy sage of mental and moral discipline, verily worship Indra only, the lord ever new though eternal, worshipped as the tenth supreme over all among humans, lord omniscient solely worthy of the worship of dynamic humanity.

वत्था हि निऋतीनां वज्रहस्त परिवृजम् ।

अहरहः शुन्ध्युः परिपदामिव ॥ २४ ॥

24. Vetthā hi nirṛtīnām vajrahasta parivr̥jam.
Aharahaḥ śundhyuḥ paripadāmiva.

O lord of the thunderbolt of justice and right action, you know and wield the counter-active measures against adversities just as the sun, purifier of nature's impurities, has the capacity to counter them day by day.

तदिन्द्राव् आ भरु यना दंसिष्ठ कृत्वन् ।

द्विता कुत्साय शिश्नथा नि चादय ॥ २५ ॥

25. Tadindrāva ā bhara yenā daṁsiṣṭha kṛtvane.
dvitā kutsāya śiśnatho ni codaya.

Indra, wondrous lord of beauty and glory, bring us that protection and immunity by which you protect the active sage of holy action against negativities and destroy the twofold mental and physical ailments of humanity. We pray, O lord, inspire and activate those internal and natural defences of good health.

तमु त्वा नूनमीमह नव्यं दंसिष्ठ सन्यस ।

स त्वं ना विश्वा अभिमातीः सु णिः ॥ २६ ॥

26. Tamu tvā nūnamīmahe navyaṁ daṁsiṣṭha sanyase.
Sa tvaṁ no viśvā abhimātīḥ sakṣaṇiḥ.

O lord of highest beauty and sublimity, for our acquisitions as well as for our freedom from acquisition we worship you only, the same lord of protection and defence, ever new though constant and eternal. You as the same lord are our friend and protector, and the destroyer of all our enemies of the world.

य ऋ णदंहसा मुचद्या वायात्सप्त सिन्धुषु ।

वधदासस्य तुविनृम्णा नीनमः ॥ २७ ॥

27. Ya ṛksādamaḥso mucad yo vāryāt sapta sindhuṣu.
Vadhar-dāsasya tuvinṛmṇa nīnamah.

To Indra, who saves from sin and violence, and releases the waters of life into the seven seas of existence, we bow and pray: O lord of the world's wealth and power, honour and glory, strike down the fatal weapon of the saboteur and the destroyer.

यथा वरा सुषाम्णां सनिभ्य आवाहा रयिम ।

व्यश्वभ्यः सुभग वाजिनीवति ॥ २८ ॥

28. Yatha varo suṣāmṇe sanibhya āvaho rayim.
Vyaśvebhyaḥ subhage vājīnīvati.

Just as the lord supreme, choice of the wise for worship and service, brings wealth and honour to the Sama celebrants and supplicants, so may you, O lady of good fortune possessed of food, energy prosperity of life, and divine intelligence, bring wealth of honour and knowledge to the sages of mental and moral discipline.

आ नायस्य दक्षिणा व्यश्वान् एतु सामिनः ।

स्थूरं च राधः शतवत्सहस्रवत ॥ २९ ॥

29. Ā nāryasya dakṣiṇā vyaśvāñ etu sominaḥ.
Sthūraṁ ca rādhaḥ śatavat sahasravat.

May the gifts of soma celebrants and generous lovers of mankind reach the dynamic sages of mental and moral discipline who may also get gifts of permanent assets in hundreds and thousands.

यत्त्वा पृच्छादीजानः कुहया कुहयाकृत ।

एषा अपश्रिता वला गामतीमव तिष्ठति ॥ ३० ॥

30. *Yat tvā prcchādījānaḥ kuhayā kuhayākṛte.
Eṣo apaśrito valo gomatīmava tiṣṭhati.*

O seeker of the where and why of active life, if someone were to ask you where the yajaka of love and non-violence is, then say: This man of yajnic dynamism is gone and lives in the region of lands and cows, culture and enlightenment.

Mandala 8/Sukta 25

Mitravarunau (1-9, 13-24), Vishvedeva Devatah, Vishvamana Vaiyashva Rshi

ता वां विश्वस्य गापा द्वा द्वा यज्ञिया ।

ऋतावाना यजस पूतदं सा ॥ १ ॥

1. *Tā vām viśvasya gopā devā deveṣu yajñiyā.
Ṛtāvānā yajase pūtadakṣasā.*

I join you and adore you both, Mitra and Varuna, protectors of the world, brilliant and generous divinities of sacred power, adorable among the adorable divines and observers of the paths of rectitude and universal law.

(In Swami Dayanand's tradition, Mitra and Varuna in this Sukta are interpreted as Brahmanas, intellectuals, teachers and researchers, and as Kshatriyas, rulers, administrators and the defence forces.)

मित्रा तना न रथ्या३ वरुणा यश्च सुक्रतुः ।
सनात्सुजाता तनया धृतरता ॥ २ ॥

2. Mitrā tanā na rathyā varuṇo yaśca sukratuḥ.
Sanāt sujātā tanayā dhṛtavratā.

Mitra of the noble chariot, and Varuna who too is a noble performer of yajnic actions, both are leaders like charioteers of the nation who develop and expand the socio-cultural wealth and vision of humanity. They are nobly born and brought up and trained, children of humanity for all time dedicated to the sacred laws and discipline of life.

ता माता विश्वदसा सुर्याय प्रमहसा ।
मही जजानादितिरृतावरी ॥ ३ ॥

3. Tā mātā viśvavedasā 'suryāya pramahasā.
Mahī jajānāditir-ṛtāvarī.

Great mother Aditi, inviolable Nature, concrete embodiment of infinite divinity and divine law operative in existence, brought forth these two mighty refulgent pioneers of life, knowing and commanding the world for the realisation of their innate vision and power.

महान्ता मित्रावरुणा समाजा द्वावासुरा ।
ऋतावानावृतमा घाषता बृहत ॥ ४ ॥

4. Mahāntā mitravaruṇā samrajā devāvasurā.
Ṛtāvānāvṛtamā ghoṣato br̥hat.

The great Mitra and Varuna, mighty refulgent rulers, are generous and divine, commanding the vision and vitality of spiritual life and vigour. Dedicated to the law of eternity, in their life they define and proclaim that universal law in the living form of yajnic action.

नपाता शर्वसा महः सूनू द स्य सुकतू ।

सृपदानू इषा वास्त्वधि ि तः ॥ ५ ॥

5. Napātā śavaso mahah sūnū dakṣasya sukratū. Sṛpradānū iṣo vāstvadhi kṣitah.

Protectors and supporters of great strength, they never allow a break down of the strength of law and order. Being products of strength and efficiency themselves, they are protectors of the same strength and efficiency. Dedicated to holy action, creation, production and expansive generosity, they live in the very house of plenty and prosperity of food, energy and advancement.

सं या दानूनि यमथुदिव्याः पार्थिवीरिषः ।

नभस्वतीरा वां चरन्तु वृष्टयः ॥ ६ ॥

6. Sam yā dānūni yemathurdivyāḥ pāarthivīriṣaḥ. Nabhasvatīrā vām canantu vṛṣṭayaḥ.

You hold, control, expand and direct the generous gifts of earthly and heavenly foods, energies and nourishments, so we pray that your showers laden with vapours from the sky may serve you, rain down and bless us.

अधि या बृहता दिवा॑ भि यूथव पश्यतः ।

ऋतावाना समाजा॑ नमस हिता ॥ ७ ॥

7. Adhi yā bṛhato divo'bhi yūtheva paśyataḥ. Ṛtāvānā samrājā namase hitā.

You who observe the life below on earth from the vast skies, life like hosts of people and herds of cattle, then you, brilliant generous rulers who maintain the laws of eternity, are invoked and invited for the presentation of homage and yajnic service.

ऋतावानां नि षदतुः सामाज्याय सुकतू ।

धृतवता त्रिया त्रमाशतुः ॥ ८ ॥

8. Rtāvānā ni ṣedatuḥ sāmājyāya sukratū.
Dhṛtavratā kṣatriyā kṣatramāśatuḥ.

Committed to the universal law of eternal truth, dedicated to the laws and discipline of governance, performing every action from the yajnic point of view of social value, the Kshatriyas, rulers, administrators and commanders of the defence forces, ought to take on to the sovereign social order and occupy the seat of governance for the glory of self-governing humanity in the spirit of Mitra and Varuna, that is, universal love and justice.

अ णश्चिद्रातुवित्तरा नुल्बणन् च िसा ।

9. Akṣnaścid gātuvittarā'nulvaṇena cakṣasā.
Ni cinmiṣantā nicirā ni cikyatuḥ.

With open eyes and distant vision, they know and watch the paths of social development better than the eye itself and, ever alert and vigilant, they can perceive, judge and decide things in the twinkling of an eye.

उत ना द्रव्यदितिरुष्यतां नासत्या ।

उरुष्यन्तु मरुता वृद्धशिवसः ॥ १० ॥

10. *Uta no devyaditir-uruṣyatām nāsatyā.
Uruṣyantu maruto vṛddhaśavaśaḥ.*

May Mother Nature divine and the mother power of humanity of inviolable strength protect and promote us. May the Ashvins, ever true, complementary powers of natural and social dynamics protect and promote us. May the Maruts, distinguished people of veteran strength and power protect and promote us.

त ना॑ न॒वमु॑रुष्य॒त दि॒वा न॑क्तं सु॒दान॑वः ।
अरि॑ष्यन्ता॒ नि पा॒युभिः॑ सचमहि ॥ ११ ॥

11. *Te no nāvamuruṣyata divā naktam sudānavah.

12. *Aghnate viṣṇave vayam-ariṣyantaḥ sudānave.
Śrudhi svayāvant-sindho pūrvacittaye.*

Let us all, unhurt and unviolated, work for the unassailable and generous Vishnu, universal ruling spirit of the nation of humanity, who knows everything in advance. O lord of self-judgement and independent action, generous as the sea, pray listen to our prayer and protect us.

तद्वा॒र्यं॑ वृ॒णीम॒ह वरि॑ष्ठं गा॒पय॑त्य॒म ।

13. *Tad vāryaṁ vṛṇīmahe variṣṭhaṁ gopayatyam.
Mitro yat pānti varuṇo yadaryamā.*

We elect to choose that wealth and protection which is the best and most promotive and which Mitra, Varuna and Aryama, Brahmana, Kshatriya and Vaishya, communities of vision, judgement and determination, and positive creativity, value and secure for us.

उत नः सिन्धुरपां तन्मरुतस्तदश्विना ।

14. *Uta naḥ sindhur-apāṁ tanmarutas-tadaśvinā.
Indro viṣṇur-mīdhvāṁsah sajoṣasah.*

And that wealth and security, we pray, may the ocean of waters and vapours, Maruts, winds and the stormy troops of the nation, Ashvins, complementary forces of nature and humanity, sun and moon, and Indra and Vishnu, universal energy and omnipresent divinity, all loving, cooperative and generous, protect and promote for us.

अग्निन शुकः समिधान आहुतः ॥ १९ ॥

19. *Udu śya śaraṇe divo jyotirayaṁsta sūryaḥ.
Agnirna śukraḥ samidhāna āhutaḥ.*

19. And that sun upto the regions of heaven radiates the light and, shining pure and bright, is invoked, invited and honoured as the holy fire.

वचा दीघर्षसद्गनीश वाजस्य गार्मतः ।

इश हि पित्वा विषस्य दावन ॥ २० ॥

20. *Vaco dīrghaprasadmanīṣe vājasya gomataḥ.
Īṣe hi pitvo'viṣasya dāvane.*

Mitra, the Brahmana, rules the Word in the vast house of yajna, and the yajamana who is master of the wealth of lands and cows and prospers in food, energy and social achievement, as he also, rules over the food which is pure and poisonless and which is meant for gifting away.

तत्सूर्य रदसी उभ द्वाषा वस्तारुप बुव ।

भाजष्वस्माँ अभ्युच्चरा सदा ॥ २१ ॥

21. *Tat sūryaṁ rodasī ubhe doṣā vastorupa bruve.
Bhojeṣvasmāñ abhyuccarā sadā.*

That sun of light and knowledge and both heaven and earth, I adore day and night and pray that the lord may establish us in a prosperous state of food and enjoyment.

ऋजमु ण्यार्यन रजतं हरयाण ।

रथं युक्तमसनाम सुषामणि ॥ २२ ॥

22. *Ṛjramukṣaṇyāyane rajataṁ harayāṇe.
Rathaṁ yuktamasanāma suṣāmaṇi.*

Blest with the grace of the lord of mercy, we receive the gift of efficient mind and senses, from the lord destroyer of darkness and suffering, we receive the light of knowledge, and from the lord of celestial Samans, we receive the versatile chariot of the human body.

ता म अश्व्यानां हरीणां निताशना ।

उता नु कृत्व्यानां नृवाहसा ॥ २३ ॥

23. *Tā me aśvyānām harīṇām nitośanā.
Uto nu kṛtvānām nṛvāhasā.*

Among the gifts of dynamic achievables, let the mind, senses and knowledge be destroyers of darkness and suffering, and among the organs of will and action, let the human body be the chariot of passage to salvation across the world.

महा वाजिनाववन्ता सचासनम ॥ २४ ॥

24. *Smadabhīśū kaśāvantā viprā naviṣṭhayā matī.
Maho vājīnāvarvantā sacāsanam.*

From the highest lord of glory I have achieved, by grace, the gift of twin faculties of vibrant senses and mind for thought and will, equipped with the latest knowledge and intelligence, fast and achieving, spurred by enthusiasm and controlled and directed by discrimination.

Mandala 8/Sukta 26

*Ashvinau (1-19), Vayu (20-25) Devate, Vishvamana
Vaiyashva or Vyashva Angirasa Rshi*

युवारु षू रथं हुव सधस्तुत्याय सूरिषु ।

अतूतद ण वृषणा वृषण्वसू ॥ १ ॥

1. *Yuvoru ṣū ratham huve sadhastutyāya sūriṣu.
Atūrtadakṣā vṛṣaṇā vṛṣaṇvasū.*

O generous and virile Ashvins, commanders of inviolable power and dexterity, harbingers of a new day of showers of bounteous wealth, I call for your noble chariot to bring you hither for your joint felicitation among distinguished men of knowledge and power.

(In Swami Dayananda's tradition, Ashvins, twin divines who drive in the dawn of a new day, are interpreted as the ruler and the ministers council who are supposed to bring in a new day of freshness, light and prosperity in the corporate life of the social order.)

युवं वरा सुषाम्ना म॒ह तन॑ नासत्या ।
अवा॑भियाथा वृषणा वृषण्वसू ॥ २ ॥

2. *Yuvaṁ varo suṣāmṇe mahe tane nāsatyā.
Avobhiryātho vṛṣaṇā vṛṣaṇvasū.*

O virile and generous Ashvins, harbingers of showers of wealth and enlightenment, ever true and far from untruth, you go forward with your protections and promotions for the good and exhortation of the Sama celebrants and men of great and expansive philanthropy (who work for the advancement of society).

ता वाम॑द्य हवामह ह॒व्यभि॑वाजिनीवसू ।

3. *Tā vāmadya havāmahe havyebhir-vājinīvasū.
Pūrvīriṣa iṣayantāvati kṣapaḥ.*

Ashvins, lovers of food and energy and total well being of a life of universal values, harbingers of new victories in the advancement of power and prosperity, at this hour of the dawn when the night is gone, we invoke you with offers of the sweetest fragrances of homage and yajnic service.

आ वां वाहि॑ष्ठा अ॒श्विना॒ रथा॑ यातु॒ श्रुता॑ नरा ।

4. Ā vām vāhiṣṭho aśvinā ratho yātu śruto narā.
Upa stomān turasya darṣathaḥ śriye.

Ashvins, harbingers of light and grace, let your strongest chariot of renown come and transport you here to us where you may, we pray, listen and appreciate the ardent devotee's songs of adoration and bless them with the honour and dignity of life.

जु॒हुरा॑णा चि॒दश्वि॑ना म॒न्यथा॑ वृष॒णव॑सू ।

5. Juhurāṇā cidaśvinā'manyethām vṛṣaṇvasū.
Yuvaṁ hi rudrā parṣatho ati dviṣaḥ.

And Ashvins, harbingers of generous showers of prosperity, know, examine, understand and fix the crooked antisocial elements. You are the Rudras, agents of justice and award. Cleanse the jealous and punish the enemies.

द॒स्रा हि वि॒श्वमा॑नु॒षड॒ म॒ तूभिः॑ प॒रिदी॑यथः ।

11. Vaiyaśvasya śrutam naroto me asya vedathaḥ.
Sajośasā varuṇo mitro aryamā.

O leaders of the nation, listen to the song of the holy sage and acknowledge and respond to this song of mine. O Varuna, Kshatriya dispenser of justice, Mitra, loving and friendly Brahmana, and Aryama, Vaishya producer and distributor pursuing the path of rectitude, all together in unison and cooperation, listen to me.

12. Yuvādattasya dhiṣṇyā yuvānītasya sūribhiḥ.
Aharaharvṛṣaṇā mahyam śikṣatam.

O devout and benevolent harbingers of the showers of prosperity, of that which you have created and given to the nation and that what you have brought in, let me learn day by day and share through the wise and brave leaders.

या वां यज्ञभिरावृता धिवस्त्रा वधूरिव ।

14. Yo vām-uruvyacastamaṁ ciketati nṛpāyyam.
Vartiraśvinā pari yātamasmayū.

Ashvins, lovers and benefactors of ours, one who reserves and assigns a spacious hall comfortably good for distinguished congregations of yajna in your honour, you oblige and visit his home in recognition.

अस्मभ्यं सु वृषण्वसू यातं वतिनृपाय्यम ।

15. Asmabhyam su vṛṣaṇvasū yātaṁ vartinṛpāyyam.
Viṣudruheva yajñam-ūhathur-girā.

Lords of the yajnic showers of prosperity, come straight like an arrow, visit our hall of yajna dedicated to the good of humanity and guide and upraise our yajna with the holy chant of Vedic voice.

वाहि॑ष्ठा वां ह॒वानां॑ स्तामा॑ दू॒ता हु॒व रा ।

O Vayu, vibrant motive power of nature and humanity, harness your strong chariot horses and, O Vasu, giver of peaceful home and settlement with security, yoke them to social good. Come, join our corporate yajna of social development, taste and celebrate the joy of our achievement.

(This mantra may be applied to the head of the forces of law and order for internal security and the commander of defence forces for security against external forces.)

तव वायवृतस्पत त्वष्टृजामातरद्भुत ।
 अवांस्या वृणीमह ॥ २१ ॥

21. Tava vāyavṛtaspate tvaṣṭur-jāmātar-adbhuta.
Avāmsyā vṛṇīmahe.

O Vayu, protector and keeper of the universal law of truth and wonderful valuer and refiner of the creations of Tvashta, maker of all fine and gross things of life and destroyer of dangers internal and external, we opt for and choose all your plans and modes of peace, defence and security.

O Vayu, such as you are, brilliant and generous, happy and joyous at heart, always in the forefront of defence and advancement, pray develop our resources of food and water, energy, power and progress, and extend the possibilities of the reach of our science and intelligence.

Mandala 8/Sukta 27

Vishvedeva Devata, Manu Vaivasvata Rshi

अग्निरुक्थ पुराहिता गावाणा बहिरध्वर ।

ऋचा यामि मरुता ब्रह्मणस्पतिं द्वाँ अवा वरण्यम ॥ १ ॥

1. *Agnirukthe purohito grāvāṇo barhiradhvare.
Rcā yāmi maruto brahmaṇaspatiṁ devāñ avo vareṇ-yam.*

In the yajna of love and non-violence, Agni, prime light of life, is the first adorable, then the holy fire, the priest, the soma stone and the holy grass are cherished. Therefore with the chants of Rks I invoke the Maruts, cosmic energies, Brahmanaspati, giver of the Veda and the vedic scholar, and other venerable divinities for protection and promotion of our choice.

आ पशुं गांसि पृथिवीं वनस्पतीनुषासा नक्तमाषधीः ।

3. Pra sū na etvadhvaro'gnā deveṣu pūrvyaḥ. Ādityeṣu pra varuṇe dhṛtavrate marutsu viśva-bhānuṣu.

May our yajna of universal order join the fire and rise to the divinities of nature, the sun in progressive Zodiacs, the oceans of earth and space in the fixed order of cosmic law, and all the light radiations of the universe across the suns.

विश्व हि ष्मा मनव विश्ववदसा भुवन्वृध रिशादसः ।

4. Viśve hi śmā manave viśvavedaso bhuvan vṛdhe riśādasah. Ariṣṭebhiḥ pāyubhir-viśvavedaso yantā no'vrkaṁ chardiḥ.

May all the divine powers of the universe, destroyers of negativities, be for the protection and progress of mankind. May all the divinities of the universe in possession of wealth, power and knowledge along with modes of protection free from hurt and injury bring us a peaceful home on earth free from sin and crime.

6. Abhi priyā maruto yā vo aśvyā havyā mitra prayāthana. Ā barhirindro varuṇasturā nara ādityāsaḥ sadantu naḥ.

O Mitra, O Maruts, sun and winds, friends and brave associates, come and bring us all your dear and lovely gifts worthy of presentation and prize possession. O Indra, lord of power, thunder, lightning and rain, Varuna, waves of cosmic energy and justice in human affairs, and Adityas, solar radiations of the universe, all leading lights of nature and humanity, come fast and bless our homes and seats of yajna.

7. Vayaṁ vo vṛktabarhiṣo hataprayasa ānuṣak. Sutasomāso varuṇa havāmahe manuṣvadiddhāgnayah.

O Varuna, lord of light and justice, day and night, and other divine powers of nature and humanity, like men of love and faith we invoke and adore you now as ever. The grass carpets are spread and occupied, the sacred fires are lit, the fragrant havis is ready for offering, and the soma is pressed and distilled for the oblation.

8. Ā pra yāta maruto viṣṇo aśvinā pūṣan mākīnayā dhiyā. Indra ā yātu prathamah saniṣyubhir-vṛṣā yo vṛtrahā grṇe.

Come forth to us, O Maruts, stormy forces of nature and humanity, Vishnu, all pervasive ruling power, Ashvins, complementary powers of natural and social dynamics, and Pushan, powers of health, nourishment and growth, come in response to my prayers and acts of yajna. Indra, lord of showers who are destroyer of evil and darkness, first and foremost power, come with the first and best associate powers, I adore you and pray.

9. Vi no devāso adruho' cchidraṁ śarma yacchata. Na yad dūrād vasavo nū cidantito-varūthamā-dadharṣati.

O brilliant and generous divinities of nature and humanity, Vasus, lord of wealth and providers of home and security, free from jealousy and enmity, pray give us a faultless home, a place of security which no power from far or near might dare to violate or attack and hurt.

अस्ति हि वः सजात्यं रिशादसा दवासा अस्त्याप्यम ।

O divinities of nature and humanity, destroyers of negativities and enmities, there is a kinship among yourselves and between you and ourselves. There is a natural affinity too among yourselves and between you and ourselves, a friendship and alliance. Pray enlighten us about our ancient welfare and prosperity and lead us as ever to a new phase of prosperity and well being, the latest way.

O noble divinities of holy thought, intention and policy, when the lord of light and life, the sun, which is the love and choice of all, rises high up in heaven, then the humans, animals and birds all go about in pursuit of their daily business.

द्वंद्वं वा वस द्वंद्वमभिष्टय ।

14. Devāso hi śmā manave samanyavo viśve sākam sarātayaḥ. Te no adya te aparaṁ tuce tu no bhavantu varivovidah.

All divinities of the world in nature and humanity, all together with gifts of wealth, knowledge and excellence, with equal mind and intention, have been generous to men of holy thought and noble purpose in search of divinity. May they be, today and ever in future, givers of the best of life's wealth for us and our future generations in peace and plenty.

21. Yadadya sūra udite yanmadhyāndina ātuci. Vāmaṁ dhattha manave viśvavedaso juhvānāya pracetase.

Since at sun-rise or at mid-day or in the evening, that is, any time, O powers of world knowledge and world's wealth, you bear and bring cherished wealth and fulfilment to the man of holy karma, knowledge, wisdom and discrimination, we pray to be in your company under your kind protection.

वयं तद्वः समाज आ वृणीमह पुत्रा न बहुपाय्यम ।

22. Vayaṁ tad vaḥ samrāja ā vṛṇīmahe putro na bahupāyyam. Aśyāma tadādityā juhvato havi-ryena vasyo'naśāmahai.

Just as a child asks the father for manifold gifts of food and joy, so we choose to ask of you, O brilliant and generous rulers, the same boon of versatile nature: We who offer yajnic service pray, O lords of light and grace, Adityas, let us obtain that holy gift of favour by which we may realise whatever wealth, honour and excellence we cherish in life.

Mandala 8/Sukta 28

Vishvedeva Devata, Manu Vaivasvata Rshi

य त्रिंशति त्रयस्पुरा द्वासा बहिरासदन ।

विद इह द्वितासनन ॥ १ ॥

1. *Ye trimśati trayasparo devāso barhirāsadan.
Vidannaha dvitāsanana.*

May thirty three divine powers come and sit on the holy grass of yajna vedi to join my yajna, know and secure for me twofold gifts of material and spiritual fulfilment.

(Thirty three divine powers or divinities or 'gods' are eight Vasus, eleven Rudras, twelve Adityas, Indra and Prajapati. Swami Dayanand enumerates and describes these as follows:

8 Vasus: earth, water, fire, air, space, sun, moon, and the stars. They are Vasus because they are the abodes and sustainers of life.

11 Rudras: ten pranic energies and the soul.

12 Adityas: twelve phases of the sun in the zodiacs.

One Indra, cosmic energy, and one Prajapati, creative energy of nature which creates life and its supports.

वरुणा मित्रा अयमा स्मदातिषाचा अग्रयः ।

पत्नीवन्ता वर्षटकृताः ॥ २ ॥

2. *Varuṇo mitro aryamā smadrātiṣāco agnayah.
Patnīvanto vaṣaṭkṛtāḥ.*

May Varuna, the ocean, Mitra, the sun, Aryama, the cosmic law, and the vital fires with their creative energies for life sustenance, all givers of the cosmic wealth of life energy, invoked and served with yajnic food, arise, join the yajna and help us with material and spiritual fulfilment.

(At the individual level, we may interpret Varuna as our sense of justice, Mitra as our sense of love and friendship, Aryama as our sense of judgment and will, and fires as our vitalities working with our will to live.)

त ना गा॒पा अ॒पा॒च्यास्त उ॒द॒क्त इ॒त्था न्य॒क ।
पु॒रस्ता॒त्सव॑या वि॒शा ॥ ३ ॥

3. *Te no gopā apācyāsta udakta itthā nyak.
Purastāt sarvayā viśā.*

Be they our protectors with all their vital powers from the west, north, south, east, above and below.

यथा॒ व॒श॒न्ति द॒वास्तथ॑द॒स॒त्तद॑षां न॒कि॒रा मि॒नत ।
अ॒रा॒वा च॒न म॒त्यः ॥ ४ ॥

4. Yathā vaśanti devāstathedasat tadeṣāṁ nakirā minat. Arāvā cana martyaḥ.

Whatever these bounties of divine nature wish and desire, the same does come about. No one can resist them, no uncharitable person can move them either.

स॒प्तानां॑ स॒प्त ऋ॒ष्टयः॑ स॒प्त द्यु॒म्नान्य॑षाम ।
स॒प्ता अ॒धि श्रि॒या धि॒र ॥ ५ ॥

5. *Saptānām sapta ṛṣṭayah sapta dyumnānyeṣām.
Sapto adhi śriyo dhire.*

Seven are the potencies of seven, seven are their glories and over and above, seven are the graces they command.

(These seven may be interpreted as the five senses, mind (mana) and intelligence, (buddhi). They may also be interpreted as seven Maruts, nature's stormy forces.)

Mandala 8/Sukta 29

Vishvedeva Devata, Manu Vaivasvata or Kashyapa Maricha Rshi

बभ्रुरका विषुणः सूनरा युवाञ्ज्यङ्ग हिरण्ययम् ॥ १ ॥

1. Babhrureko viṣuṇaḥ sūnaro-yuvāñjyaṅkte hiraṇyayam.

One is alert and active, all inspiring and versatile, youthful leader, joyous and true, wrapped in golden hue. (The one is interpreted as Soma, moon, and the mind.)

यानिमक् आ संसाद द्योतना न्तद्वेषु मधिरः ॥ २ ॥

2. Yonimeka ā sasāda dyotano'ntardeveṣu medhirah.

Another, seated in its own place, wise and illuminant is venerable among the divinities. (This divinity is interpreted as Agni, the eye, and truth.)

वाशीमका बिभर्ति हस्त आयसीमन्तद्वेषु निध्रुविः ॥ ३ ॥

3. Vāśīmeko bibharti hasta-āyasīm-antardeveṣu nidhruviḥ.

Another, constant and unshakable among the divinities holds an iron axe, shaper of things. (This has been interpreted as Tvashta, divine shaper, maker and refiner of things, or the ear or Kratu, performer of holy acts.)

वज्रमका बिभति हस्त आहितं तन वृत्राणि जिघ्नते ॥ ४ ॥

4. Vajrameko bibharti hasta āhitam tena vṛtrāṇi jighnate.

Another holds the thunderbolt, wielded firmly, by which he destroys evil and dark forces of ignorance, want and suffering. (This is Indra, cosmic energy, or soul, or Daksha, omnipotent will and action.)

तिग्ममका बिभति हस्त आयुधं शुचिरुगा
जलाष-भषजः ॥ ५ ॥

5. Tigameko bibharti hasta āyudham śucirugro jalāṣa-bheṣajaḥ.

Another holds a razor edge weapon in hand, being pure, brilliant and terrible, and controls healing powers of medicine and immunity. (This is Rudra, also inner happiness, which is the essential and primary force of good health.)

पथ एकः पीपाय तस्करा यथाँ एष वद निधीनाम ॥ ६ ॥

6. Patha ekaḥ pīpāya taskaro yathāñ eṣa veda dhidhīnām.

Another watches and guards the paths of life like a sensitive watchman as it knows the secrets of the sources of life's wealth. (This is Pushan, health energy, or the protective arm of the individual and society.)

त्रीण्येकं उरुगाया वि चक्रम् यत्र द्वासा मदन्ति ॥ ७ ॥

7. Trīṇyeka urugāyo vi cakrame yatra devāso madanti.

And one of universal fame worthy of homage pervades and covers all three regions of space whereon all the divinities rejoice. (This is Vishnu, omnipresent dynamic spirit of life which wards off stagnation in the living world.)

विभिद्वा चरतु एकया सह प प्रवासव वसतः ॥ ८ ॥

8. Vibhirdvā carata ekayā saha pra pravāseva vasataḥ.

Two with flights like desire and ambition move around with one, intelligence, and reach wherever they choose to distant places like travellers. (These are the Ashvins, twin divinities of nature's dynamics, or, at the individual's level, ambition and ego which fly on the wings of imagination.)

सदा द्वा चक्रात उपमा दिवि समाजी सपिरासुती ॥ ९ ॥

9. Sado dvā cakrāte upamā divi samrājā sarpirāsutī.

And two of royal magnificence in closest proximity receive and enjoy oblations of ghrta and take their position in the regions of heavenly light. (These are Mitra and Varuna, sun and ocean, heat and cool of nature, or love and judgement, or sunlight and air in human life.)

अचन्त एक महि सामं मन्वत तन सूयमराचयन ॥ १० ॥

10. Arcanta eke mahi sāma manvata tena sūrya-marocayan.

Some of them sing great hymns of Sama and glorify their lord and thereby light the sun. (These are the Adityas or universal powers free from threefold suffering, or the ten pranas which strengthen the soul for worship of the supreme lord of life and thereby enlighten the soul.)

Mandala 8/Sukta 30

Vishvedeva Devata, Manu Vaivasvata Rshi

न॒हि वा॒ अस्त्य॑भ॒का द॒वासा॒ न कु॑मा॒रकः॑ ।

वि॒श्वं स॒ताम॑हान्त॒ इत॑ ॥ १ ॥

1. Nahi vo astyārbhako devāso na kumārakah.
Viśve sato mahānta it.

O Vishvedevas, divinities of nature and humanity, none of you is a child, none an adolescent. All of you are equal and great.

इति॑ स्तु॒तासा॑ अस॒था रि॒शाद॒सा य॒ स्थ त्र॑य॒श्च त्रि॑ंश॒च्च ।

म॒ना॒द॒वा य॒ज्ञिया॑सः ॥ २ ॥

2. Iti stutāso vasathā riśādaso ye stha trayaśca trimśacca. Manordevā yajñiyāsaḥ.

Three and thirty Vishvedevas thus sung and adored are destroyers of sin and suffering, and therefore you are lovable and adorable by humanity in all their yajnic acts.

त न॑स्त्रा॒ध्वं त॑ व॒त् त उ॑ न॒ आधि॑ वाच॒त ।

3. Te nastrādhvaṁ te'vatata u no adhi vocata. Mā naḥ pathaḥ pitryān-mānavādadhi dūraṁ naiṣṭa parāvataḥ.

Such as you are, pray save us, protect and promote us, speak to us and enlighten us. Let us not stray out far from the right path of our ancestors or the right path of humanity.

य द॒वास इ॒ह स्थन् विश्व॑ व॒श्वान॒रा उ॒त ।

4. Ye devāsa iha sthana viśve vaiśvānarā uta. Asma-bhyaṁ śarma sapratho gave'śvāya yacchata.

All the divinities of nature and humanity who are here or who are anywhere in the world as leading lights of humanity may, we pray, give us a spacious and comfortable home for the advancement of our knowledge and culture and for our working potential, success and progress.

Mandala 8/Sukta 31

Yajna Yajamana (1-4), Dampati (5-9), and Dampatyashisha (10-18) Devatah, Manu Vaivasvata Rshi

या य॒जाति॑ य॒जात॑ इ॒त्सुन॑व॒च्च प॒चाति॑ च ।
ब॒ह्मदि॑न्द्र॒स्य चा॒कन॑त ॥ १ ॥

1. Yo yajāti yajāta it sunavacca pacāti ca. Brahmedindrasya cākanat.

The yajamana who performs yajna himself or has yajna performed by a priest, presses and prepares the soma himself or has it prepared through a priest pleases Indra and obtains the knowledge of Divinity and Veda.

पु॒रा॒ळाशं॑ या अ॒स्म सा॒मं र॑रत आ॒शि॒रम॑ ।

2. *Puroḷāśaṁ yo asmai somaṁ rarata āśiram.
Pādit taṁ śakro amhasaḥ.*

Whoever offers food to the fire and to the deserving poor in honour of this omnipresent lord, Indra, and offers him oblations of soma mixed with fragrant havis, the lord almighty saves him from sin and evil.

तस्य द्युमाँ असदथा द्वजूतः स शूशुवत ।
विश्वा वन्व मित्रिया ॥ ३ ॥

3. *Tasya dyumāñ asad ratho devajūtaḥ sa śūśuvat.
Viśvā vanvannamitriyā.*

His chariot would shine with wealth and lustre and he, inspired by divinity, would rise in life with wealth and knowledge, honour and social prestige, removing obstructive difficulties and adversities from his path of progress.

अस्य प्रजावती गृह सश्चन्ती दिवदिव ।
इळा धनुमती दुह ॥ ४ ॥

4. *Asya prajāvatī gr̥he'saścantī divedive.
Ilā dhenumatī duhe.*

Ila, constant mother stream of total prosperity, flows inexhaustible into his home, blessing him with progeny, cows, culture and enlightenment, honour and excellence, day in and day out.

या दंपती समनसा सुनुत आ च धावतः ।
दवासा नित्ययाशिरा ॥ ५ ॥

5. *Yā daṁpatī samanāsā sunuta ā ca dhāvataḥ.
Devāso nityayāśirā.*

The couple who, with dedicated mind, perform yajna in unison, give in charity, and thus cleanse themselves and their soul, the divinities always bless them with sweets of milk and honey.

पतिं पाश॒व्याँ इतः॑ स॒म्यज्वा॑ ब॒हिरा॑शात ।

6. Prati prāśavyāñ itaḥ samyañcā barhirāśāte.
Na tā vājeṣu vāyataḥ.

Together in love and respect they sit on the holy grass, perform yajna and receive divine gifts of delicious food and drink in plenty, and never do they fail in their battles of life for progress.

न द॒वाना॑मपि॒ ह्रुतः॑ सु॒मतिं॑ न जु॒गु ततः॑ ।

श्रवा॑ बृ॒हद्वि॑वासतः ॥ ७ ॥

7. Na devānāmapi hnutāḥ sumatiṁ na jugukṣataḥ.
Śravo brhad vivāsataḥ.

Never do they neglect the divinities nor do they minimize the gifts of their favour and good will, and thus indeed do they shine bright in glory and exalt the gifts of divinity.

पु॒त्रिणा॑ ता कु॒मा॒रिणा॑ वि॒श्वमा॑यु॒व्यश्नु॑तः ।

उ॒भा हि॑र॒ण्यप॑शसा ॥ ८ ॥

8. Putriṇā tā kumāriṇā viśvamāyur-vyaśnutaḥ.
Ubhā hiraṇyapeśasā.

They live a full happy life blest with sons and daughters and golden means of living in prosperity and decency.

वी॒ति॒हा॒त्रा कृ॒त॒द्व॒सू द॒श॒स्य॒न्ता॒मृ॒ता॒य॒ कम ।
स॒मू॒धा॒ रा॒म॒शं ह॒ता द॒व॒षु कृ॒णु॒ता दु॒वः ॥ ९ ॥

9. *Vitihotrā kṛtadvasū daśasyantāmṛtāya kam.
Smūdho romaśaṁ hato deveṣu kṛṇuto duvaḥ.*

Performing yajna with generous hospitality, creating wealth and giving in charity, contributing to the peace and comfort of all in general for the sake of divine gifts of immortality, blest with milch cows and woolly sheep and goats, they live the good life doing reverence to the divines and enjoying the liberal gifts of divinity.

आ श॒म॒ प॒व॒ता॒नां वृ॒णी॒म॒ह॒ न॒दी॒ना॒म ।
आ वि॒ष्णाः स॒चा॒भु॒वः ॥ १० ॥

10. *Ā śarma parvatānāṁ vṛṇīmahe nadīnām.
Ā viṣṇoḥ sacābhuvah.*

Living in the presence of Vishnu, all pervasive and protective Spirit divine and universal friend of all life, we pray for the Lord's gift of the peace, protection, freedom and comfort of the rivers, mountains and the clouds.

ए॒तु॒ पू॒षा र॒यि॒भ॒गः स्व॒स्ति स॒र्व॒धा॒त॒मः ।
उ॒रु॒र॒ध्वा स्व॒स्त॒य॒ ॥ ११ ॥

11. *Aitu pūṣā rayirbhagaḥ svasti sarvadhātamaḥ.
Ururadhvā svastaye.*

Come Pusha, lord of health and nurture, Bhaga, gracious lord of wealth and power, wielder and controller of all power and prosperity for happiness and well being, and may our path of progress be wide open for all round happiness and well being.

अ॒रम॑तिरन॒वणा॒ विश्वा॑ द॒वस्य॒ मन॑सा ।

आ॒दि॒त्याना॑मन॒ह इत ॥ १२ ॥

12. *Aramatir-anarvaṇo viśvo devasya manasā.
Ādityānām-aneha it.*

The world's obedience and service to irresistible divinity rendered sincerely with mind and soul and the grace of the Adityas gives freedom from sin and selfishness.

यथा॑ ना मि॒त्रा अ॒यमा॑ वरु॒णः सन्ति॑ गा॒पाः ।

सु॒गा ऋ॒तस्य॒ पन्थाः॑ ॥ १३ ॥

13. *Yathā no mitro aryamā varuṇaḥ santi gopāḥ.
Sugā ṛtasya panthāḥ.*

Since Mitra, lord of love, light and friendship, Aryama, universal guide and path maker, and Varuna, lord of judgement and justice, are our protectors, may our paths of advancement and rectitude be simple, straight and easy.

अ॒ग्निं वः॑ पू॒र्व्यं गि॒रा द॒वमी॑ळ वसू॒नाम ।

14. *Agniṁ vaḥ pūrvyaṁ girā devamīḷe vasūnām.
Saparyantaḥ purupriyaṁ mitraṁ na kṣetrasādhasam.*

With sincere word and thought I serve and adore Agni, eternal and gracious lord of wealth and prosperity. You too serve the same lord of universal love as a friend, the lord giver of fulfilment to us in our existential state of being.

16. Na yajamāna riṣyasi na sunvāna na devayo.
Devānām ya inmano yajamāna iyakṣatyabhīd-ayajvano bhuvat.

O man of charity and yajnic service to humanity and divinity, you will never suffer wrong or damage, O creator of soma dedicated to yajna to the divinities, you will never be hurt and never fail in your life's mission. The yajamana who, with sincere mind and actions, performs yajna in service to the divinities of nature and humanity surpasses the uncharitables who never perform yajnic service in the field of creative fellowship and cooperation with others, human and divine.

17. Nakṣṭarṇ karmanā naśanna pra yoṣanna yoṣati. Devānāṃ ya inmano yajamāna iyakṣatyabhīdayajvano bhuvat.

The yajamana who with sincere mind and action, serves the divinities, no one can equal by action, much less destroy. Nor does he forsake his own path, nor can anyone else lead him astray. Indeed he surpasses all those who are uncharitable and perform no yajnic service to divinity and humanity.

18. Asadatra suvīryamuta tyadāśvaśvyam. Devānāṃ ya inmano yajamāna iyakṣatyabhīdayajvano bhuvat.

May there be heroic power and prowess, fast victory and life's fulfilment for him who performs yajna in service to the divinities of nature and humanity with truth of mind and action, and may he surpass all those uncharitables who perform no selfless service in creative action to divinity and humanity.

Indra Devata, Medhatithi Kanva Rshi

प कृ॒तान्य॑र्जी॒षिणः॑ क॒ण्वा इ॒न्द्रस्य॑ गा॒थया॑ ।
मदु॑ सा॒मस्य॑ वा॒चत ॥ १ ॥

1. Pra kṛtānyrjīṣiṇaḥ kaṇvā indrasya gāthayā. Made somasya vocata.

O poets of wisdom and imagination, joyous lovers of life and action, in the soma ecstasy of the beauty and grandeur of life, sing and celebrate the wondrous works of Indra, ruler, power, energy and inspirer of life in nature and humanity in the world.

यः सृबिन्दमनशनिं पिपुं दासमहीशुवम ।

वधीदुगा रिण ऽपः ॥ २ ॥

2. Yaḥ sṛbindam-anarśaniṁ pipruṁ dāsam-ahīśuvam. Vadhīdugro riṇannapaḥ.

The awful lord of might and action stems the rising wicked, subdues the bullying exploiter, restrains the greedy devourer, cracks the senseless saboteur and the crooked deceiver, and having destroyed the negative forces, releases the free flow of waters and freedom of action, development and progress.

न्यबुदस्य विष्टपं वष्माणं बृहतस्तिर ।

कृष तदिन्दु पंस्यम ॥ ३ ॥

3. Nyarbudasya viṣṭapaṁ varṣmāṇaṁ brhatastira. Kṛṣe tadindra pauṁsyam.

Indra, cosmic power of nature, you break the stronghold of the cloud of showers from the tip of vast heaven and thus accomplish that wondrous feat of divine power.

पति श्रुताय वा धृषत्तूणाशं न गिररधि ।

हुव सुशिपमृतये ॥ ४ ॥

4. Prati śrutāya vo dhṛṣat tūrṇāśaṁ na gireradhi. Huve suśipramūtaye.

O people, for your protection and promotion, I invoke and call upon the victorious Indra of the glorious helmet who brings a flood of waters from the heights of the cloud in response to prayer and promise.

स गारश्वस्य वि व्रजं मन्दानः साम्यभ्यः ।

पुरं न शूर दषसि ॥ ५ ॥

5. *Sa goraśvasya vi vrajaṁ mandānaḥ somyebhyaḥ.
puraṁ na śūra darṣasi.*

Indra of such fame and prowess, heroic leader, happy and joyous, you open the gates of knowledge and victory in action and attainment, as you open the stalls of cows and horses and the gates of a fortress for the performers of soma yajna.

यदि म रारणः सुत उक्थ वा दधस् चनः ।

आरादुप स्वधा गहि ॥ ६ ॥

6. *Yadi me rāraṇaḥ suta ukthe vā dadhase canaḥ.
Ārādupa svadhā gahi.*

If you take delight in the soma distilled by me and feel the ecstasy of my song of homage, then come from far and come from near and, by your own divine nature, take me on for the food of life you hold for me.

वयं घा त अपि षसि स्तातार इन्द गिवणः ।

त्वं ना जिन्व सामपाः ॥ ७ ॥

7. *Vayaṁ ghā te api ṣmasi stotāra indra girvaṇaḥ.

जरितृभ्यः पुरुवसुः ॥ ११ ॥

11. *Yah samsthe cicchatakratur-ādīm kṛṇoti vṛtrahā.
Jaritr̥bhyah purūvasuh.*

We invoke the lord adorable who does a hundred great favours to the man at peace and, dispelling the darkness in the mind and heart, sublimates the soul too with the spirit of a hundred good works of piety. Indeed, the lord is of infinite wealth, honour and bliss for all his devotees and destroys their evil and ignorance.

Drink of the joy and exhilaration of your powers and perceptions which is all associated with your own performance, the super-power that's you and yours. Indeed, it is all your own power and glory.

अतीहि मन्युषाविणं सुषुवांसमुपारण ।

इमं रातं सुतं पिब ॥ २१ ॥

21. *Atīhi manyuṣāviṇaṁ suṣuvāṁsam-upāraṇe.
Imaṁ rātaṁ sutaṁ piba.*

Ignore the man who offers yajnic soma in a mood of anger, frustration and protest. Ignore the man who offers yajna and soma but in a joyless and conflictive mood. Accept this soma of homage distilled and offered in a state of delight, love and faith.

इहि तिस्रः परावत इहि पञ्च जनाँ अति ।

धना इन्द्रावचाकशत ॥ २२ ॥

22. *Ihi tisraḥ parāvata ihi pañca janāñ ati.
Dhenā indrāvacākaśat.*

Indra, come from far, cross over the five classes of people to exhaust the possibilities of their life, transcend the three versions of knowledge, action and prayer, and listen with love and approval the sole one voice of my soul.

सूया' रश्मिं यथा सृजा त्वा यच्छन्तु म गिरः ।

निम्नमापा न सद्ध्यक ॥ २३ ॥

23. *Sūryo raśmiṁ yathā sṛjā' tvā yacchantu me girah.
Nimnamāpo na sadhryak.*

Just as the sun radiates the rays of light over space, just as waters flow down swift and straight, so may the voice of my soul reach you.

अध्वयवा तु हि षिञ्च सामं वीराय शिपिण ।

भरा सुतस्य पीतय ॥ २४ ॥

24. *Adhvaryavā tu hi śiñca somam vīrāya śipriṇe.
Bharā sutasya pītaye.*

O organiser and performer of yajna, offer the soma of devotion profusely to Indra, mighty lord of the helmet, and fill the vessel of your heart with divine love and pranic energy to enjoy life to the full.

य उ॒दनः फ॒लि॒गं भि॒न य॑^१क्वि॒सन्धू॑र॒वासृ॑जत ।
या गा॒षु प॒क्वं धा॒रय॑त ॥ २५ ॥

25. Ya udnaḥ phaligaṁ bhinannyak sindhuñravāsṛjat. Yo goṣu pakvaṁ dhārayat.

Indra breaks the clouds of rain, releases the waters for the rivers to flow down to the sea, and provides mature milk in the cows, knowledge and wisdom in the words of language and ripe grain in the fields of earth.

अह॑न्वृ॒त्रमृ॑ची॒षम आ॒णवा॒भम॑ही॒शुव॑म ।

26. *Ahan vṛtramaṛcīṣama aurnāvābham-ahīśuvam.
Himenāvidhyad-arbudam.*

The refulgent sun breaks the heavy cloud of vapours moving around like a crooked snake, in the middle regions of space.

प व॑ उ॒गाय॑ नि॒ष्टुर॑ षा॒ हा॒य प॒सृणि॑ ।
द॒वत्तं॑ ब॒ह्म गा॑यत ॥ २७ ॥

27. *Pra va ugrāya niṣṭure'ṣālḥāya prasakṣiṇe.
Devattam brahma gāyata.*

O celebrants and yajakas, sing the most heavenly song of praise worthy of divinity in honour of refulgent, impetuous, invincible and ever enduring friend, Indra, leader and commander of the ruling and defensive forces of nature and humanity.

या विश्वान्यभि व्रता सामस्य मद् अन्धसः ।

इन्द्रा दुवषु चतति ॥ २८ ॥

28. *Yo viśvānyabhi vratā somasya made andhasaḥ.
Indro deveṣu cetati.*

Celebrate Indra, soul and ruling spirit in nature and humanity, who, in the excitement and ecstasy of the taste of food and soma, awakens in humans and divines the awareness of all the rules and laws of discipline and commitment to the vows of discipline in life.

इह त्या सधमाद्या हरी हिरण्यकश्या ।

29. *Iha tyā sadhamādyā harī hiraṇyakeśyā.
Volhāmabhi prayo hitam.*

Here in life on earth, those two golden and refulgent motive powers of nature's circuitous energy, jubilant and festive co-workers for the chariot of Indra, lord ruler of nature and humanity, may, we pray, bring in holy food for health and energy for the good of all living beings.

अवाञ्चं त्वा पुरुष्टुत प्रियमधस्तुता हरी ।

सामपयाय व ततः ॥ ३० ॥

30. *Arvāñcam tvā puruṣṭuta priyamedhastutā harī.
Somapeyāya vakṣataḥ.*

Indra, lord universally sung and celebrated, may the two motive powers of your chariot, loved and adored by scholars dedicated to yajnic pursuit of knowledge and wisdom, bring you here to join us and share the ecstasy of soma celebration with humanity.

Mandala 8/Sukta 33

Indra Devata, Medhatithi Kanva Rshi

वयं घ त्वा सुतावन्त आपा न वृक्तबहिषः ।

पवित्रस्य पस्त्रवणषु वृत्रहन्परि स्तातार आसत ॥ १ ॥

1. Vayaṁ gha tvā sutāvanta āpo na vṛktabarhiṣaḥ. Pavitrasya passtravaṇeṣu vṛtrahan pari stotāra āsate.

Indra, destroyer of evil, darkness and suffering, we, your celebrants, having distilled the soma, spread and occupied the holy grass, we, sit and wait on the vedi for your presence in the flux of life as holy performers, while the flow of pure immortality continues all round in the dynamics of existence.

स्वरन्ति त्वा सुत नरा वसा निरुक् उक्थिनः ।

2. Svaranti tvā sute nara vaso nireka ukthinaḥ. Kadā sutam tṛṣāṇa oka ā gama indra svabdīva vaṁsagaḥ.

Indra, Vasu, giver of peace and security in self-settlement, while the soma of faith and love has been distilled in the heart and the devotees sing and celebrate your honour in hymns of praise, when would you, keen to join us at the celebration, come to the yajnic hall thirsting to meet the people you love and admire.

कण्वभिधृष्णवा धृषद्वाजं दधि सहस्रिणम ।

3. Kaṇvebhir-dhṛṣṇavā dhṛṣad vājam darṣi sahasrīṇam. Piśaṅgarūpaṁ maghavan vicarṣaṇe makṣū gomantam-īmahe.

Indra, lord of universal vision, resolute will and irresistible action, ruler and commander of the world's wealth, power and force, we pray, conceive, plan and bring about for the intelligent people of action and ambition a social order of golden beauty and progressive achievement, full of a hundred-fold prosperity of lands and cows, education and culture, and invincible will, strength and advancement free from indecision and delay in action.

पा॒हि गा॒यान्ध॑सा॒ मद॒ इन्द्रा॑य म॒ध्याति॑थ ।

4. Pāhi gāyāndhaso mada indrāya medhyātithe. Yaḥ saṁmiślo haryoryaḥ sute sacā vajrī ratho hiranyayaḥ.

O man, you are a visitor and respectable guest on this earth of a golden order of beauty, prosperity and culture. Observe the rules of this order, advance the beauty and prosperity of it, and in the pleasure and ecstasy of its plenty of soma hospitality, sing and celebrate the glory of Indra, lord ruler of vision and action united, commander of the nation's forces, dynamic and creative, friendly and cooperative, wielder of the thunderbolt of justice and retribution, burden bearer and pilot of the golden chariot of humanity.

यः सुषव्यः सुदणि ण इना यः सुकतुगृण ।

य आकरः सहस्रा यः शतामघ इन्द्रा यः पूभिदारितः ॥ ५ ॥

5. Yah suṣavyah sudakṣiṇa ino yah sukraturgr̥ṇe. Ya ākaraḥ sahasrā yah śatāmagha indro yah pūrbhidāritah.

I sing and celebrate the glory of Indra who is generous with both hands right and left, magnificent, holy in action, treasure home of a thousandfold riches, who commands a hundredfold power, honour and excellence and who breaks down the strongholds of evil, darkness and suffering. Indeed he is glorious and adorable.

या धृषिता या वृता या अस्ति श्मश्रुषु श्रितः ।

6. Yo dhr̥ṣito yo'vr̥to yo asti śmaśruṣu śritah. Vibhūtadyumnaścyavanaḥ puruṣṭutaḥ krtvā gauriva śākinah.

I celebrate the glory of Indra who is bold and resolute, unbounded irresistible, wears the marks of manly vigour, commands honour and excellence, is an inspirer, mover and shaker, universally respected for his acts of piety, and who for the men of mighty dynamism is generous as earth, gracious as holy speech and loving as mother cow.

क ईं वद सुत सचा पिबन्तं कद्वया दध ।

7. *Ka īm veda sute sacā pibantam kad vayo dadhe.
Ayam yah puro bibhinattyojasā mandānaḥ śipryandhasaḥ.*

Who would for certain know Indra in this created world of beauty and glory, how much power and force he wields while he rules and sustains it, Indra who wears the helmet and breaks down the strongholds of negativities with his lustrous might, the lord who shares and enjoys the soma of his own creation?

दाना मृगा न वारुणः पुरुत्रा चरथं दध ।

8. *Dānā mṛgo na vāraṇaḥ purutrā caratham dadhe.
Nakiṣṭvā ni yamadā sute gamo mahāñścara-syojasā.*

Indra is generously giving, preventive, counter-active and invincible like a lion, and holds and rules the world of immense variety in motion. O lord of grandeur and majesty, as you move around everywhere by your might and lustre, pray come, bless our yajna and taste the soma of our creation. No one can restrain you, no one counter your will.

य उग्रः स निष्ठृतः स्थिरा रणाय संस्कृतः ।

9. *Ya ugraḥ sann-anīṣṭṛtaḥ sthiro raṇāya saṁskṛtaḥ.
Yadi stotur-maghavā śṛṇavaddha-vam nendro yoṣatyā gamat.*

Indra who is blazing strong, uncountered and irresistible, constant and unshakable, is ever in perfect harness for the human's battle of existence, and if he hears the call of the celebrant, the lord of might and majesty never forsakes him, he comes, he saves, he blesses.

10. Satyamitthā vṛṣedasi vṛṣajūtir-no'vṛtaḥ. Vṛṣā hyugra śṛṇviṣe parāvati vṛṣo arvāvati śrutah.

True it is thus you are virile and generous yourself and an inspiration and driving force for the virile and the brave, unbound, uncountered, brave and illustrious, harbinger of the showers of peace and joy and known as omnificent and sublime all over the world far and near.

वृष॑णस्त॒ अ॒भीश॑वा॒ वृषा॑ क॒शा हि॒र॒ण्ययी॑ ।

11. Vṛṣaṇaste abhīśavo vṛṣā kaśā hiraṇyayī. Vṛṣā ratho maghavan vṛṣaṇā harī vṛṣā tvam śatakrato.

Indra, lord of the power, wealth and glory of the universe, agent of infinite acts of creation in the world of existence, strong and golden are the reins of your cosmic chariot, golden is the goad that maintains and controls the speed of its motion, strong and laden with riches is your chariot, strong and virile the motive powers, and you yourself are all potent and generous.

(This mantra may be interpreted as a description of the human soul in its own individual sphere provided that it is self-controlled and free from external forces which bind it in the fetters of worldly interests of a selfish and transitory nature.)

वृषा साता सुनातु त वृष ऽजीषि ा भर ।

वृषा दधन्व वृषणं नदीष्वा तुभ्यं स्थातहरीणाम ॥ १२ ॥

12. Vṛṣā sotā sunotu te vṛṣann-rjīṣinnā bhara. Vṛṣā dadhanve vṛṣaṇaṁ nadīṣvā tubhyaṁ sthātarharīṇām.

O lord of omnipotence and omnificence, may the brave and generous yajaka prepare the soma juice of devotion for you. O lord of the law of truth and lover of the rules of rectitude, bring us the showers of peace and prosperity in rectitude. O lord controller and keeper of world forces in order, the generous yajaka receives the showers of your blessings and holds them in trust actively in the streams of existence for yajnic offers to your honour for your service.

एन्द याहि पीतय मधु शविष्ठ साम्यम ।

13. Endra yāhi pītaye madhu śaviṣṭha somyam. Nāyamacchā maghavā śṛṇavad giro brahmokthā ca sukratuḥ.

Indra, lord most potent, come to taste the honey sweets of soma. Unless you come and bless with grace, this man of power and earthly honour, though devoted to good actions, would not well listen otherwise to songs of devotion and the voice of Veda.

वहन्तु त्वा रथ्छामा हरया रथ्युजः ।

14. Vahantu tvā ratheṣṭhāmā harayo rathayujah. Tiraścidaryaṁ savanāni vṛtrahann-anyeṣāṁ yā śatakrato.

May the motive forces which power and drive your chariot, we pray, bring you hither, O lord of infinite acts of grace, destroyer of evil and dispeller of darkness, past the acts and voices of others without faith in divinity and prayer.

अस्माकमद्यान्तमं स्तामं धिष्व महामह ।

15. Asmākamadyāntamaṁ stomaṁ dhiṣva mahā-maha. Asmākaṁ te savanā santu śāntamā madāya dyukṣa somapāḥ.

O lord of heavenly light, greatest of the great, lover and protector of the soma pleasure and grandeur of life, accept our most intimate prayer and praise today and grant that all our acts of homage in your honour and service be for the peace and dignity of the life we live.

नहि षस्तव ना मम शास्त्र अन्यस्य रण्यति ।

या अस्मान्वीर आनयत ॥ १६ ॥

16. Nahi ṣastava no mama śāstre anyasya raṇyati. Yo asmān vīra ānayat.

The mighty one who has brought us under his order of law does not accept with delight your decree nor mine nor anyone else's.

(Indra, the soul, is the ruler and controller of the mind and senses. It is not ruled and controlled by the mind or the senses or anyone else.)

इन्द्रश्चिद्धा तदबवीत्स्त्रिया अशास्यं मनः ।

उता अह कतुं रघुम ॥ १७ ॥

17. *Indraścid ghā tadabravīt striyā aśāsyam manah.
Uto aha kṛatūṁ raghum.*

If Indra, the husband, were to say: “The mind of woman is not controllable” and, also, “that her thought and intellect too is inferior”, (then it is less than half the truth).

ससीं चिद्धा मदच्युता मिथुना वहता रथम् ।
एवद्धवृष्णा उत्तरा ॥ १८ ॥

18. *Saptī cidgha madacyutā mithunā vahato ratham.
Eved dhūrvrṣṇa uttarā.*

If the two ardent horses of Indra’s chariot together draw the burden of the home-state, then the shaft of the chariot is better and stronger.

अधः पश्यस्व मापरि सन्तरां पादका हर ।
मा त कशप्लका दृशन्तस्त्री हि ब्रह्मा बभूविथ ॥ १९ ॥

19. *Adhaḥ paśyasva mopari saṁtarām pādakau hara.
Mā te kaśaplakau dṛśantstrī hi brahmā babhūvitha.*

O man, O woman: Keep your eyes down on the earth, not up on the sky. Walk on with both the feet together (as the two wheels and the two horses draw the chariot together), Let your lower feet be not bare and exposed (cover them). Let woman be the high priest of the home yajna.

(The last three mantras describe the home-state of the social order. The husband and the wife together run the home. The husband is, or may be, the greater burden bearer, still the wife is the chief home minister, and the husband ought to realise this in love, in courtesy, in chivalry, or at least in practical wisdom. Arrogance, pride, anger, passion, all this on either's part must be subjected to reason and respectful cooperation with mutual recognition.)

3. *Atrā vi nemir-eṣām-urām na dhūnute vṛkah.
Divo amuṣya śāsato divaṁ yaya divāvaso.*

Here the very edge and foundation of these sages of knowledge and wisdom would shake you and reveal you to yourself as thunder shakes the earth and lightning lights it up all over. And then from the light and thunder of these commanders you would rise, liberated, to your own heights of heaven, O lover and ruler of the light of day.

5. *Dadhāmi te sutānām vṛṣṇe na pūrvapāyyam.
Divo amuṣya śāsato divaṁ yaya divāvaso.*

As the sun vests vapours of rain in the cloud of showers, so do I vest in you the first, original and eternal knowledge, protected, protective and enjoyable, of the prime order distilled by sages from experience and vision. Then from the light of this knowledge of the sages of universal law and command, O lover of light, rise to the heaven of light on earth.

Ashvins, just as two hansa birds fly to water and as two thirsty travellers rush for a drink, so do you two like veteran scholars fly to our soma results of yajnic projects, understand and assess the positives and negatives of merits and anticipate the possibilities. O twin divines, in unison with the sun and the dawn, come thrice in the day and help us advance forward.

Like falcons you fly carrying holy gifts to the generous yajaka. Like veteran scholars you fly to assess the merit of our soma distilled in yajnic experiments and to anticipate its future possibilities. O twin divines united with the sun and the dawn, come thrice in the day, visit our sessions and help us to advance.

Indra, omnipotent lord of existence, omnipresent in wide wide space, commanding over cosmic waters and winds, winner of all the universal battles of evolution and doer of a hundred acts of divinity, you are the ultimate protector of the maker of soma, the devotee on the vedi waiting for the emergence of divine consciousness. O lord, arise in the heart and drink the soma of his devotion to your satisfaction, most exhilarating and reserved for you.

पाव॑ स्ता॒तारं॑ म॒घव॒ इव॒ त्वां पि॒ब॒ सामं॑ म॒दाय॒ कं श॑त॒क॒ता ।

Indra, lord of the wealth and power, honour and excellence of the world of existence, pray save the celebrant, he is the protector too of your presence in the heart. Arise in the consciousness and drink the exhilarating soma of his devotion, the share he has reserved for you, O doer of a hundred acts of grace. You are the ultimate winner of all the battles of existential evolution, lord of wide space, commander of cosmic waters and winds, sole lord and master ruler of the world of reality.

Indra, you protect the divine forces of existence and vest them with energy, lustre and grandeur, and thereby they reflect your presence and protect you for our perception therein. O lord, rejoice with them in the divine presence in nature and humanity and, through their ecstasy, drink the exhilarating soma of divine celebration, the share they have reserved for you in devotion, lord and doer of a hundred acts of majesty. You are the ultimate conqueror in all battles of existence, omnipresent in wide space, rolling in cosmic waters, blowing in wind shears and solely presiding over the worlds of reality.

Indra, lord omnipotent, you are the generator of the regions of light and happiness. You are the generator of the earth. O lord of a hundred great acts of creation, accept, enjoy and protect the exhilarating portion of devotion and ecstasy of the celebrants which they have dedicated to you, and let the ecstasy move their hearts too to your satisfaction. You are the conqueror in all battles of the world between good and evil forces. You are the immanent presence in the expansive space and beyond. You are the life and energy in cosmic waters and in the mighty storms of winds, O lord of truth and justice and master saviour of the good and holy people.

You are the generator of the horses. You are the generator of cows. O lord of a hundred acts of divinity, accept the soma of the ecstasy of your creations who celebrate the joy of their being to the extent that they reflect your kindness and grace in their love of life. You are the conqueror in all world's struggles for existence and survival, immanent in expansive spaces and beyond, the life of cosmic waters and the breath of mighty winds, lord of truth and reality of existence.

Indra, mighty lord of humanity, listen to the prayer of the sage creator of soma and his songs of ecstasy created with a disciplined mind and sense as well as with disciplined will and imagination, just as you listen to the songs of the sage of threefold freedom doing acts of service to humanity and divinity. You protect the sage fighter against evil, tyranny and exploitation all by yourself in the battles of humanity, thereby exalting the songs and actions in honour of divinity. Won't you listen to me?

Indra, ruler of the world, listen to the eulogies of the dynamic scholar and poet as you listen to the exhortations of the man of action and threefold freedom of body, mind and soul. O lord, you alone by yourself protect and exhort the hero who destroys ogres and saboteurs and exalts the defence powers in the national meets of leaders and pioneers among people.

I worship Agni, lord of light and fire of life, giver of enlightenment, adored in Rks of the Veda. I invoke and adore Agni to join me at yajna for advancement and pray that it may inspire and bring us the benefit of other divinities of nature and humanity. The poet, creator, omniscient power at yajna, traverses between both heaven and earth and communicates between body and spirit like a messenger, an inspiration, and while Agni is at work all adversaries and negativities would vanish.

Agni bears, brings and bestows upon the supplicant all the food, energy, health and joy as it is asked for. Agni is the giver of plenty of energy, peace, happiness and freedom from suffering and disease for liberal service in honour of all the divinities of nature and humanity. May all negativities and adversities

Agni is known by his powerful and marvellous actions. He is the initiator and original high-priest of the eternal yajnas of the cycles of creation. Self-provided, generosity incarnate, universally chosen and adored, he comes to bless whoever reposes faith in him with prayer. May all negativities and adversities vanish.

Agni knows the origin of immortal divinities of nature. He knows the secrets and mysteries of the mortals. Agni is the treasure giver of universal wealth, power, honour and excellence. Invoked and served with latest researches into light and fire energy and its applications, Agni opens the doors of immense possibilities of wealth and power. May all negativities and adversities vanish.

Agni pervades the divinities of nature and humanity as vitality, energy, plenty and generosity. He resides in humanity specially among those who are dedicated to yajna and creativity. As the earth nurtures and sustains the entire world life on it, so Agni nurtures and sustains all living beings with joy and inspiration for celebration in song. He is indeed the chief adorable divinity among divinities. May all negetavities and adversities vanish.

The Agni which pervades and vitalises the seven yajakas, i.e., five senses, mind and intelligence, and also the seven pranic energies, among humans, which energises the rolling oceans and flowing rivers of the world, which pervades the three regions of earth, skies and the regions of light in the universe, which sustains and inspires the wise and dedicated people and which destroys the violent, to that Agni, first and foremost adorable power in yajnas, let us attain in worship. May all negativities and adversities vanish.

Omnipresent and omniscient Agni pervades three regions of the universe wherein reside three realities worth knowing, i.e., Prakṛti (nature), soul, and the Super Soul, Parameshvara. Here in He, the one by himself pure, all knowing, all vibrating like super energy of life, feeds and vitalises thirty three divinities of nature and sustains us with all that we need and desire. May all negativities and adversities all vanish.

All around you the dynamic energies of life unfold and flow by themselves, provide vitality of life as messengers of Agni to forms of existence, and ultimately merge with you. May all negativities, adversities and contradictions vanish from our life for all time.

Indra, lord of power and honour, Agni, lord of light and knowledge, commanding lightning and fire, patience and endurance, strength and courage, give us that positive and irresistible wealth of life by which we may face, resist and throw off strong and violent adversaries as fire fanned by winds destroys forests. May negativities, adversities, alienations and enmities all vanish.

We do not shrink from you, Indra and Agni, nor do we in any way neglect you both. Indeed we invoke and invite Indra, strongest leader of the strong, to be with us. When, for sure, would the lord come to us, come with Agni at the speed of lightning to inspire us with strength for struggle and victory, to bless us with piety, wisdom and intelligence for corporate action with the spirit of yajna? May all negativities, adversities, alienations and enmities vanish.

May all negativities, adversities, deprivations and alienations vanish from the face of the earth.

May all ignorance, frustrations, and alienations vanish.

When these our people, with one persistent voice and relentless exhortation, invoke and call upon Indra and Agni who command irresistible power and unquestionable knowledge, then with our dynamic people we would face and fight out all violent oppositions and defeat destructive forces. May all violence, destruction, terrorism and sabotage vanish from progressive society.

The grace and beneficence of the almighty are givers of settlement which may, we pray, inspire our mind, senses and actions and lead us to fulfilment and salvation. 7. Ya āsvatka āśaye viśvā jātānyeṣām. Pari dhāmāni marmṛśad varuṇasya puro gaye viśve devā anuvrataṁ nabhantām-anyake same.

Varuna is the one who vibrates at the heart of all these people and pervades all things born, immanent in and transcending over all regions of the universe. Indeed the divinities of nature and humanity stand ready in harness before the presence of Varuna, all committed to his law and their duty in the law. May all negativities and enmities vanish from the world.

8. Sa samudro apīcyasturo dyāmiva rohati ni yadāsu yajurdadhe. Sa māyā arcinā padā's-trṇānnā-kamāruha-nnabhantām-anyake same.

He is the bottomless ocean womb of existence, and at the heart of everything, superfast, instant reacher, like the light of heaven all expansive, and when he vests these people with the spirit of action rising to the heights of heaven, he dispels evil and craftiness with the touch of divine refulgence. May all darkness, evil and enmity be eliminated from life.

9. Yasya śvetā vicakṣaṇā tisro bhūmīradhikṣitah. Triruttarāṇi papraturvaruṇasya dhruvaṁ sadah sa saptānām-irajyati nabhantām-anyake same.

The refulgent glory of Varuna who rules over everything illuminates the three worlds of earth, skies and heaven and rises over the three higher heavens. Indeed he pervades and rules over the constant universe of sevenfold order and illuminates it with light and beauty. May all darkness, ugliness and enmity be eliminated.

Varuna, who creates the beautiful world of white and black, light and dark, and the living beings of white and dark character, creates the worlds as ever in accordance with the rules and vows of the law of Dharma and Dharma in action in the earlier life of human beings and others. Thus he, the unborn, maintains the world as he does heaven and the middle regions by his constant might. May all darkness and evil vanish from life.

2. Evā vandasva varuṇam bṛhantaṁ namasyā dhīram-amṛtasya gopām. Sa naḥ śarma trivarūtham vi yaṁsat pātam no dyāvāpṛthivī upasthe.

Thus worship and adore Varuna, great and infinite, worthy of reverence, undisturbed, protector of the laws of Dharma. May the lord provide us the threefold world of earth, heaven and the skies as a home of peace and security in freedom and joy. May the heaven and earth hold, protect and caress us as their darling children in their lap.

6. *Evā vāmahva ūtaye yathāhuvanta medhirāḥ.
Nāsatyā somapītaye nabhantām-anyake same.*

Ashvins, lovers of eternal truth and the laws of existence, harbingers of peace, progress and happiness for mankind, just as sages and scholars dedicated to the yajnic advancement of corporate life call upon you for protection and promotion, so do I invoke you for peace and protection and invite you to share the soma celebration of hymn achievement. May all contraries, contradictions and adversities disappear, may peace, harmony and happiness prevail over the earth.

Agni Devata, Virupa Angirasa Rshi

इ॒म वि॒र्षस्य॑ व॒धसा॑ ग्र॒स्तृ॒तय॑ज्वनः ।

गिरः॑ स्ता॒मांस॑ इ॒रत ॥ १ ॥

1. *Ime viprasya vedhaso' gnerastrtayajvanah.
Girah stomāsa īrate.*

These swelling notes of the songs of adoration in honour of Agni, light of life, sung by the vibrant, learned and dedicated sage of indefatigable faith and yajnic service resound in space all round.

अस्म॑ त प॒ति॒हय॑त॒ जात॑व॒दा वि॒च॒षण॑ ।

अ॒ग्र॒ ज॒ना॒मि सु॒ष्टु॒तिम॑ ॥ २ ॥

2. *Asmai te pratiharyate jātavedo vicarṣane.
Agne janāmi suṣṭutim.*

This holy song of worship, Agni, all-knowing, all pervasive lord of light, vision, and love, I raise to you, hoping your grace would accept and respond.

आ॒रा॒का॒इव॑ घ॒दह॑ ति॒ग्मा अ॒ग्र॒ तव॑ त्वि॒षः ।

द॒द्भि॒व॒नानि॑ ब॒प्स॒ति ॥ ३ ॥

3. *Ārokā iva ghedaha tigmā agne tava tviṣah.
Dadbhirvanāni bapsati.*

3. Like the light of the sun, surely, the brilliant showers of your grace and splendour, with your gifts, illuminate and intensify the beauties of life.

हर॑या धू॒मक॑तवा॒ वात॑जूता॒ उप॒ द्यवि॑ ।

यत॑न्त॒ वृथ॑ग॒ग्रयः॑ ॥ ४ ॥

4. *Harayo dhūmaketavo vātajūtā upa dyavi.
Yatante vrthagagnayah.*

The fire, the sun, the lightning and the falling stars moved around by cosmic energy, all receptive and transmissive in their own orbit on earth, in heaven and across the skies, all giving the light and shade and fragrance of their nature and character in their own way, roam around in space as versions of Agni.

एत॑ त्य वृथ॑ग॒ग्रय॑ इ॒द्धासुः॑ स॒मदृ॑ त ।

उ॒षसा॑मिव क॒तवः॑ ॥ ५ ॥

5. *Ete tye vrthagagnaya iddhāsaḥ samadrkṣata.
Uṣasāmiva ketavaḥ.*

All these versions of Agni, lit up, shining, blazing, all in their own way, appear beautiful as ensigns of dawns, lights and glories of Agni.

कृ॒ष्णा रजा॑ंसि प॒त्सुतः॑ प॒याण॑ जा॒तव॑दसः ।

अ॒ग्निर्य॑दा॒धत्ति॑ मि॒ ॥ ६ ॥

6. *Kṛṣṇā rajāṃsi patsutaḥ prayāṇe jātavedasaḥ.
Agniryad rodhati kṣami.*

Shaded, coloured and black turn the particles, clusters and spheres of solid materials in the way of the movement of Agni, omnipresent in things born in existence when fire travels in and on the earth or earthly materials.

धा॒सिं कृ॒ण्वान् आ॒ष॒धी॒ब॒प्स॒द॒ग्नि॒न वा॒यति ।

पु॒न॒यन्त॒रु॒णी॒रपि ॥ ७ ॥

7. *Dhāsim kṛṇvāna oṣadhīr-bapsad-agnirna vāyati.
Punaryan taruṇīrapi.*

Conducting itself into herbs and trees, making them as if a dwelling for itself, energising them and, as fire even consuming them, Agni does not feel satiated, and takes on to new budding ones on and on. (The life cycle of birth, death and rebirth, growth, decay and growth thus continues.)

जि॒ह्वाभि॒रह॒ न मि॒द॒चिषा॑ ज॒ञ्ज॒णा॒भ॒व॒न ।

अ॒ग्नि॒व॒न॒षु रा॒च॒त ॥ ८ ॥

8. *Jihvābhiraha nannamadarciṣā jañjaṇābhavan.
Agnirvaneṣu rocate.*

Burning and blazing with its flames of fire and light, subjecting things to its force and power, Agni shines in the forests and the beauties of life.

अ॒प्स्व॒ग्र॒ स॒धि॒ष्ट॒व॒ सा॒ष॒धी॒र॒नु॒ रु॒ध्य॒स ।

ग॒र्भ॒ स॒ञ्जा॒य॒स॒ पु॒नः ॥ ९ ॥

9. *Apsvagne sadhiṣṭava sauṣadhīranu rudhyase.
Garbhe sañjāyase punaḥ.*

Agni, your home is in the waters, you dwell in the herbs and trees, you abide in the womb of nature and you are born again and again, ever youthful in various forms.

उ॒द॒ग्र॒ त॒व॒ त॒द॒ घृ॒ता॒द॒ची॒ रा॒च॒त॒ आ॒हु॒त॒म ।

नि॒सा॒नं जु॒ह्वा॒रे॒ मुख॑ ॥ १० ॥

10. *Udagne tava tad ghṛtādarci rocata āhutam.
Nimsānam juhvo mukhe.*

Agni, that flame of yours fed and served with ghṛta rises and shines, having received its beauteous energy from the ladle in yajna.

उ ा ाय वृशा ायु सामपृष्ठाय वृधस ।
स्तामविधमाग्र्य ॥ ११ ॥

11. *Ukṣānnāya vaśānnāya somaprṣṭhāya vedhase.
Stomairvidhemāgnaye.*

With songs of adoration, let us offer honour and worship to Agni and develop the science of fire and energy which provides life and sustenance to the cow and the sun and all dependent forms of life in existence and bears and brings the soma of health and joy for all.

उत त्वा नमसा वयं हातवरण्यकता ।
अग्रं समिद्धिरीमह ॥ १२ ॥

12. *Uta tvā namasā vyaṁ hotarvareṇyagrato.
Agne samidbhirīmahe.*

Agni, lord of great divine action worthy of choice, high priest of cosmic yajna, we offer you service and worship with holy fuel and homage of humility and fragrant food.

उत त्वा भृगुवच्छुच मनुष्वदग्र आहुत ।
अङ्गिरस्वद्धवामह ॥ १३ ॥

13. *Uta tvā bhṛguvacchuce manuṣvadagna āhuta.
Aṅgirasvaddhavāmahe.*

Agni, invoked and invited for honour and service, pure and unsullied by nature, like brilliant scholars and scientists who burn off superstition and dispel darkness, like dedicated humans, and like lovers of the breath of life and soma of joy, we invoke and invite you for the gifts of light and life.

त्वं ह्यग्निं अग्निना विष्णुं विप्रेण सन्त्सता ।

सखा सख्या समिध्यसे ॥ १४ ॥

14. *Tvaṁ hyagne agninā vipro vipreṇa santsatā.
Sakhā sakhyā samidhyase.*

You rise and shine, O lord of light and life, as fire with the fiery, as vibrant scholarship with the vibrant scholar, as holy spirit with the holy people, and as love and friendship with the friend.

स त्वं विषाय दाशुष रयिं देहि सहस्रिणम् ।

अग्नौ वीरवतीमिषम् ॥ १५ ॥

15. *Sa tvaṁ viprāya dāśuṣe rayiṁ dehi sahasriṇam.
Agne vīravatīmiṣam.*

So generous and responsive as you are, Agni, give a thousandfold wealth, honour and excellence for the vibrant scholar and generous yajaka, give him life sustaining food and energy and generations of brave progeny.

अग्नौ भातः सहस्कृत राहिदश्व शुचिवत् ।

इमं स्तामं जुषस्व मे ॥ १६ ॥

16. *Agne bhrātaḥ sahaskrta rohidaśva śucivrata.
Imaṁ stomaṁ juṣasva me.*

Agni, sustainer of the world as a brother and master, mighty creator and performer, rider of the red flames of fire and the sun, lord and protector of the unsullied laws of nature, pray accept this holy song of mine with love and respond with the gift of your grace.

उत त्वाग्र मम स्तुता वाश्राय पतिहयत ।

गाष्ठं गार्वाइवाशत ॥ १७ ॥

17. Uta tvāgne mama stuto vāśrāya pratiharyate.
Goṣṭhaṁ gāva ivāśata.

Agni, lord of generosity and infinite plenty, may my songs of adoration reach you as cows hasten to the stall for the lowing calf eager to receive the motherly grace of sustaining milk.

तुभ्यं ता अङ्गिरस्तम विश्वाः सुतयः पृथक् ।

अग्र कामाय यमिर ॥ १८ ॥

18. Tubhyam tā aṅgirastama viśvāḥ sukṣitayaḥ
prṥthak. Agne kāmāya yemire.

Agni, lord of highest light and giver of the breath of life, all people of the entire world pray and approach you, all for the fulfilment of their ambition and desire.

अग्निं धीभिर्मनीषिणा मधिरासा विपश्चितः ।

अद्वासद्याय हिन्विर ॥ १९ ॥

19. Agniṁ dhībhirmanīṣiṇo medhirāso vipāścitaḥ.
Admasadyāya hinvire.

Thoughtful intellectuals, men of yajnic actions and wise sages all with their thoughts, words and actions invoke, invite and call upon Agni for the common welfare of the world.

तं त्वामज्मेषु वाजिनं तन्वाना अग्र अध्वरम ।

वह्निं हातारमीळत ॥ २० ॥

20. Tam tvāmajmeṣu vājinaṁ tanvānā agne adhva-
ram. Vahniṁ hotāramīlate.

Agni, holy men of action, extending various and versatile forms of yajna in all their projects of social development without waste, violence and bloodshed, invoke and pray to you, lord of light and giver of universal wealth, source of knowledge, progress and prosperity, guide and burden bearer of the world, and high priest of the cosmic yajna of existence.

पुरुत्रा हि सदृङ्ङसि विशा विश्वा अनु प्रभुः ।

समत्सु त्वा हवामह ॥ २१ ॥

21. Purutrā hi sadṛṅṅasi viśo viśvā anu prabhuḥ.
Samatsu tvā havāmahe.

Agni, universal presence, lord and ruler of all people, giving equal care and attention to all nations and regions, in all the battles of our life we invoke you and pray for justice and success.

तमीळिष्व य आहुता शिविभाजत घृतः ।

इमं नः शृणवद्धवम ॥ २२ ॥

22. Tamīṣva ya āhuto'gnirvibhrājate ghr̥taiḥ.
Imaṁ naḥ śṛṇavaddhavam.

Worship him who, lord of light and omniscience, invoked and served with ghr̥ta and fragrance, shines and rises in the vedi and the heart. May the lord listen and accept this song of invocation for us.

तं त्वा वयं हवामह शृण्वन्तं जातवदसम ।

अग्र घन्तमप द्विषः ॥ २३ ॥

23. Tam tvā vayaṁ havāmahe śṛṇvantam jāta-vedasam. Agne ghnantamapa dviṣaḥ.

You, Agni, we adore who are listening, omnipresent and omniscient, destroyer of the jealous and violent adversaries.

विशां राजानमद्भुतमध्यं ऽ धमणामिमम ।

अग्निमीळ स उ श्रवत ॥ २४ ॥

24. Viśāṁ rājānam-adbhutam-adhyakṣam dharmāṇāmimam. Agnimīḷe sa u śravat.

I adore and worship the ruler of the people, wonderful power, lord protector and controller of Dharma and laws of the earth. May the lord listen to our prayer.

अग्निं विश्वायुवपसं मर्यं न वाजिनं हितम ।

सप्तिं न वाजयामसि ॥ २५ ॥

25. Agnim viśvāyuvepasam maryam na vājinam hitam. Saptim na vājayāmasi.

We enthusiastically adore Agni as a friend, as a magnetic force that is our well wisher and giver of energy and success in life.

घ्नन्मृधाण्यप द्विषा दहनं गंसि विश्वहा ।

अग्रं तिग्मनं दीदिहि ॥ २६ ॥

26. Ghnan mṛdhrāṇyapa dviṣo dahan rakṣāmsi viśvahā. Agne tigmena dīdihi.

Eliminating violent enemies and jealous adversaries, always burning off the evil, Agni, shine and energise this land with flames of fire and blazing light.

यं त्वा जनास इन्धत मनुष्वदङ्गिरस्तम ।

अग्र स बोधि म वचः ॥ २७ ॥

27. *Yam tvā janāsa indhate manuṣvadaṅgirastama.
Agne sa bodhi me vacaḥ.*

Agni, light and power dearest as life breath, whom people kindle, raise and adore as a friend of humanity, pray listen, acknowledge and appreciate the truth and sincerity of my word and prayer.

यदग्र दिविजा अस्यप्सुजा वा सहस्कृत ।

तं त्वा गीर्भिहवामह ॥ २८ ॥

28. *Yadagne divijā asyapsujā vā sahasṛta.
Tam tvā gīrbhir-havāmahe.*

Agni, whether you manifest in heaven, or in the waters or shine in acts of universal divine power, we adore, worship and invoke you in the holiest words.

तुभ्यं घत्त जना इम विश्वाः सुतयः पृथक् ।

धासिं हिन्वन्त्यत्तव ॥ २९ ॥

29. *Tubhyam ghet te janā ime viśvāḥ sukṣitayaḥ

Those people far away and all these people settled here, all in their own ways, offer you homage as their haven and home for the gift of their own food and sustenance.

त घदग्र स्वाध्या ह्य विश्वा नृच िसः ।

तरन्तः स्याम दुग्हा ॥ ३० ॥

30. *Te ghedagne svādhyo'hā viśvā nṛcakṣasaḥ.
Tarantaḥ syāma durgahā.*

Doing good works in your service, always watching all the people around, may we become breakers of the most difficult oppositions and cross over the challenging seas of life.

अग्निं मन्दं पुरुपियं शीरं पावकशाचिषम ।

हृद्भिर्मन्दभिरीमह ॥ ३१ ॥

31. Agniṁ mandram purupriyaṁ śīraṁ pāvakaśociṣam. Hṛdbhir-mandrebbhir-īmahe.

With songs of heartiest love and joy, with enthusiasm, we invoke and adore Agni, blissful giver of happiness, dear to all people, omnipresent in existence and pure refulgent sanctifier of life.

स त्वमग्र विभावसुः सृजन्तसूया न रश्मिभिः ।

शध्वन्तमांसि जिघ्रस ॥ ३२ ॥

32. Sa tvamagne vibhāvasuḥ sṛjantsūryo na raśmi-bhiḥ. Śardhan tamāṁsi jighnase.

Agni, self refulgent giver of light, wealth, honour and excellence, rising like the sun with the rays of your splendour and growing in strength, you dispel and destroy the darkness of evil, ignorance, want and injustice.

तत्त सहस्व इमह दात्रं य णपदस्यति ।

त्वदग्र वार्य वसु ॥ ३३ ॥

33. *Tat te sahasva īmahe dātram yannopadasyati.
Tvadagne vāryam vasu.*

Agni, lord of strength and life's challenges, omnificent giver, of you we pray for that gift of generous wealth, honour and excellence of our choice and heartfelt preference which never diminishes, never fails.

Whoever the mortal that offers devotion to self-refulgent Agni within his yajnic home of the body, the lord would bless him with the wealth of spiritual illumination.

अ॒ग्निमृ॑धा दि॒वः क॒कुत्प॑तिः पृ॒थि॒व्या अ॒यम॑ ।
अ॒पां रता॑ंसि जि॒न्वति॑ ॥ १६ ॥

16. *Agnirmūrdhā divaḥ kakut patih prthivyā ayam.
Apām retānsi jinivati.*

This Agni is the highest lord and master of all on top of heaven and earth and gives energy and sustenance to the seeds of life in the waters of the universe.

उद॑ग्र॒ शुच॑य॒स्तव॑ शु॒का भाज॑न्त इरत ।

तव॒ ज्याती॑ष्यचयः ॥ १७ ॥

17. *Udagne śucayastava śukrā bhrājanta īrate.
Tava jyotīṣyarcayaḥ.*

Agni, light and life of the world, your fires and flames, lights and lightnings, pure, white and undefiled, shine and radiate all over spaces.

इशि॑ष॒ वाय॑स्य॒ हि दा॒त्रस्या॑ग्र॒ स्व॑पतिः ।

स्ता॒ता स्या॑ं तव॒ शम॑णि ॥ १८ ॥

18. *Īṣiṣe vāryasya hi dātrasyāgne svarpatih.
Stotā syāṁ tava śarmanī.*

Agni, you are the lord and protector of the peace and bliss of heaven. You rule over the wealth, honour and excellence of the world. I pray that I may adore and celebrate your divine glory and abide in heavenly peace and joy under your divine protection.

त्वाम॑ग्र॒ मनी॑षिण॒स्त्वां हि॑न्वन्ति॒ चित्ति॑भिः ।

त्वां व॑धन्तु॒ ना गिरः॑ ॥ १९ ॥

19. *Tvāmagne manīṣiṇastvām hinvanti cittibhiḥ.
Tvām vardhantu no girah.*

Agni, the intellectuals with their thoughts and imaginative creations move and exalt you. May our voices of adoration delight you and exalt your glory.

अद॑ब्धस्य॒ स्व॒धाव॑ता दू॒तस्य॒ रभ॑तुः सदा ।

अ॒ग्रः स॒ख्यं वृ॑णीमह ॥ २० ॥

20. *Adabdhasya svadhāvato dūtasya rebhataḥ sadā.
Agneḥ sakhyam vṛṇīmahe.*

We choose, claim and pray for the love and friendship of Agni, indestructible and benevolent, inherently powerful, bearer and dispenser of energy, light and wisdom, and omniscient lord of speech.

अग्निः शुचिर्वततमः शुचिर्विपः शुचिः कविः ।

शुचीं राचत आहुतः ॥ २१ ॥

21. *Agniḥ śucivratatamaḥ śucirviprah śuciḥ kaviḥ.
Śucī rocata āhutaḥ.*

Agni is the purest uncompromising lord of law and discipline, lord of purest unclouded knowledge and wisdom, master of purest transparent creative vision and imagination, and he shines ever pure, unsullied, invoked and worshipped.

उत त्वा धीतया मम गिरा वधन्तु विश्वहा ।

अग्रं सुख्यस्य बाधि नः ॥ २२ ॥

22. *Uta tvā dhītayo mama giro vardhantu viśvahā.
Agne sakhyasya bodhi naḥ.*

Agni, lord of united existence, may all my thoughts, words and actions adore, exalt and glorify you day and night. O lord of humanity, pray acknowledge and ever remember and maintain our bond of love and friendship with you.

यदग्रं स्यामहं त्वं त्वं वा घा स्या अहम ।

स्युष्टं सत्या इहाशिषः ॥ २३ ॥

23. *Yadagne syāmahaṁ tvaṁ tvaṁ vā ghā syā aham.
Syuṣṭe satyā ihāśiṣaḥ.*

Agni, lord of love and life's bonding, if and when I were you and you were me, then would your love and blessings for me be truly realised.

वसुवसुपतिहि कमस्यग्र विभावसुः ।
स्याम त सुमतावपि ॥ २४ ॥

24. Vasurvasupatirhi kamasyagne vibhāvasuḥ.
Syāma te sumatāvapi.

Agni, you are the shelter home of all, lord protector and ruler of the world's wealth, blissful, refulgent lord of kindness and love. We pray let us be under the protection of your goodwill.

अग्र धृतवताय त समुदायव सिन्धवः ।
गिरा वाश्रास इरत ॥ २५ ॥

25. Agne dhṛtavratāya te samudrāyeva sindhavaḥ.
Giro vāśrāsa irate.

Agni, lord of light and life, our yearning voices of love and adoration for you flow free and reach you, lord ruler and keeper of the laws of nature in existence, as rivers flow to join the sea.

युवानं विश्पतिं कविं विश्वादं पुरुवपसम ।
अग्निं शुम्भामि मन्मभिः ॥ २६ ॥

26. Yuvānaṁ viśpatiṁ kaviṁ viśvādaṁ puruvepasam.
Agniṁ śumbhāmi manmabhiḥ.

With my words, thoughts and reflections in meditation, I adore, adorn and exalt Agni, self-refulgent lord and leader of life, youthful creator who joins the soul and prakṛti in living forms, rules and protects humanity, is the one universal poet of cosmic imagination, performs actions of infinite variety and ultimately withdraws the entire world of existence unto himself.

यज्ञानां रथ्य वयं त्रिगजम्भाय वीळव ।

स्तामरिषमाग्रय ॥ २७ ॥

27. *Yajñānām rathye vayam tigmajambhāya vīḷave.
Stomairiṣemāgnaye.*

With songs of adoration we love to celebrate and exalt the glory of Agni and reach him who, like a charioteer, is the foremost guide and high priest of all yajnas of creation, evolution and development, rolls his mighty jaws of justice and judgement, and is the highest, omnipotent, power.

अयमग्र त्व अपि जरिता भूतु सन्त्य ।

तस्म पावक मृळय ॥ २८ ॥

28. *Ayamagne tve api jaritā bhūtu santya.
Tasmai pāvaka mṛḷaya.*

Agni, lord of light and life, may this celebrant be spontaneous and profuse in praise of you and, O fiery purifier, may you too be kind and gracious to him.

धीरा ह्यस्यद्भ्यसद्विषा न जागृविः सदा ।

अग्र दीदयसि द्यवि ॥ २९ ॥

29. *Dhīro hyasyadmasad vipro na jāgrviḥ sadā.
Agne dīdayasi dyavi.*

Agni, you are magnanimous as a vibrant sage at peace, ever awake in the heart's core in the soul, and you shine refulgent on the highest heaven in the celebrant's meditation.

पुराग्रं दुरितभ्यः पुरा मृधभ्यः कव ।

प ण् आयुवसा तिर ॥ ३० ॥

30. *Purāgne duritebhyaḥ purā mṛdhrebhyaḥ kave.
Pra ṇa āyurvaso tira.*

Agni, cosmic poet and creator, haven and home of humanity, before the onslaught of sin, before the bloodshed of violence, pray exalt our life to fullness and completion with success.

Mandala 8/Sukta 45

Indra-Agni, Indra Devata, Trishoka Kanva Rshi

आ घा य अग्निमिन्धत स्तृणन्ति बहिरानुषक ।

यषामिन्दा युवा सखा ॥ १ ॥

1. *Ā ghā agnimindhate stṛṇanti barhirānuṣak.
Yeṣāmindro yuvā sakhā.*

Blessed are they for sure who kindle the fire of yajna, Agni, and spread the seats of grass open for all in faith and love and whose friend is Indra, the mighty youthful soul who brooks no nonsense and delay.

बृहदिद्धि एषां भूरि शस्तं पृथुः स्वरुः ।

यषामिन्दा युवा सखा ॥ २ ॥

2. *Bṛhannididhma eṣāṃ bhūri śastam pṛthuḥ svaruḥ.
Yeṣāmindro yuvā sakhā.*

Great is their fuel and fire, profuse their praise and song of adoration, expansive their yajna and high their ensign whose friend is Indra, youthful soul, their ruler and defender.

अयुद्ध इद्युधा वृत् शूर आजति सत्त्वभिः ।

यषामिन्द्रा युवा सखा ॥ ३ ॥

3. Ayuddha id yudhā vṛtaṁ śūra ājati sattvabhiḥ.
Yeṣāmindro yuvā sakhā.

Unequalled is Indra, irresistible, even when there is no war. The mighty hero by the very force of his presence and character throws off the enemy supported by brave warriors all round. Blessed are they whose friend is Indra, the mighty youthful heroic soul.

आ बुन्दं वृत्रहा दद जातः पृच्छद्वि मातरम् ।

क उगाः क ह शृण्विर ॥ ४ ॥

4. Ā bundaṁ vṛtrahā dade jātaḥ pṛcchad vi mātaram.
Ka ugrāḥ ke ha śṛṇvire.

When the mighty soul, destroyer of evil, born to self consciousness, takes to the bow and arrow, blazing, fearsome, breaker of foes, he asks the mother, spirit of higher vision and discrimination: Who are the enemies renowned to be terrible and irresistible?

पति त्वा शवसी वदद्गिरावप्सा न याधिषत ।

यस्त शत्रुत्वमाचक ॥ ५ ॥

5. Prati tvā śavasī vadad girāvapso na yodhiṣat.
Yaste śatrutvamācake.

Indra, lord of power and excellence, to you then the mighty mother, divine intelligence, would say: Whoever would take a hostile attitude toward you would fight against you like a seductive sorceress on the magic mountain.

उ॒त त्वं म॑घव॒ञ्छृणु॑ यस्त॒ वष्टि॑ व॒व॒ ॥ तत॑ ।

यद्दी॒ळ्यासि॑ वी॒ळु तत॑ ॥ ६ ॥

6. Uta tvaṁ maghavañchrṇu yaste vaṣṭi vavakṣi tat.
Yad vīlayāsi vīlu tat.

Now then, O lord of power, wealth and excellence, listen: Whoever asks of you something he desires, you bear and bring for him. Whoever you strengthen, he becomes strong. Are you not real mighty then?

यदा॒जिं या॒त्याजि॒कृदि॒न्दः स्व॑श्च॒युरु॑प॒ ।

र॒थी॒त॒मा र॒थी॒ना॒म ॥ ७ ॥

7. Yadājim yātyājikṛdindraḥ svaśvayurupa.
Rathī-tamo rathīnām.

And remember: When Indra goes to battle, fiercely armed and well provided with noble steeds, he is then the mightiest of chariot heroes.

वि षु॑ वि॒श्वो अ॒भ्यि॒युजा॑ वजि॒न्विष्व॑ग्यथा॒ वृ॒ह ।

भ॒वो नः॑ सु॒श्रव॑स्तमः ॥ ८ ॥

8. Vi ṣu viśvā abhiyujō vajrin viṣvagyathā vṛha.
Bhavā naḥ suśravastamaḥ.

O wielder of the thunderbolt, fight out the enemies the way you uproot them so that you become the most renowned among us.

अ॒स्माकं॑ सु॒ रथं॑ पु॒र इ॒न्दः कृ॑णातु सा॒तय॑ ।

न यं धू॒र्वन्ति॑ धू॒तयः॑ ॥ ९ ॥

9. Asmākaṁ su ratham pura indraḥ kṛṇotu sātaye.
Na yaṁ dhūrvanti dhūrtayaḥ.

May Indra, mighty warring soul, turn our chariot of body and the body politic to the heights of the first and foremost order of strength and excellence for the achievement of success and victory in the battle of life so that no enemies can violate it.

वृज्याम त परि द्विषा रं त शक दावन ।

गममदिन्दु गामतः ॥ १० ॥

10. Vṛjyāma te pari dviṣo'raṁ te śakra dāvane.
Gamemedindra gomataḥ.

Indra, we would wholly give up those who are contrary and opposed to you, and surely in matters of your cherished love and charity, blest with lands and cows, literature and culture, we would come close to you.

शनश्चिद्यन्ता अदिवा श्वावन्तः शतग्विनः ।

विव णा अनहसः ॥ ११ ॥

11. Śanaīścid yanto adrivo'svāvantāḥ śatagvināḥ.
Vivakṣaṇā aneḥasaḥ.

Advancing at a steady-pace, O lord of the clouds, mountains and the thunderbolt, we would be thriving with horses and a hundredfold attainments of new wealth and power and, free from sin and evil, we would come closer to you.

ऊर्ध्वा हि त दिवदिव सहस्रा सूनृता शता ।

जरितृभ्या विमंहत ॥ १२ ॥

12. Ūrdhvā hi te dive dive sahasrā sūnṛtā śatā.
Jaritr̥bhyo vimam̐hate.

Your kindness and generosity rises day by day a hundredfold and a thousandfold, higher and higher, and as it rises, it blesses them.

विद्वा हि त्वा धनंजयमिन्द दृ हा चिदारुजम ।
आदारिणं यथा गयम ॥ १३ ॥

13. Vidmā hi tvā dhanamjayam-indra dṛḥhā cidā-rujam. ādāriṇam yathā gayam.

We know you, Indra, as our very haven and home, winner of wealth, honour and excellence, strong and firm, destroyer of evil and breaker of the strongholds of darkness, superstition and misery.

ककुहं चित्त्वा कव मन्दन्तु धृष्णविन्दवः ।
आ त्वा पुणिं यदीमह ॥ १४ ॥

14. Kakuham cit tvā kave mandantu dhṛṣṇav-indavaḥ. Ā tvā paṇim yadīmahe.

While we pray to you, generous lord, and ask for what we want, O cosmic poet and visionary, may our yajnas and soma celebrations please you, most high and supreme lord of power, justice and award.

यस्त र्वाँ अदाशुरिः पममष' मघत्तय ।
तस्य ना वद् आ भर ॥ १५ ॥

15. Yaste revāñ adāśuriḥ pramamarṣa maghattaye. Tasya no veda ā bhara.

If a man is rich and yet neglects and fails to pay to you, generous one, wielder of power, what is due for social causes, in that case make up from his money or property what is required for our sake, i.e., for the sake of society.

इ॒म उ॒ त्वा॒ वि च॒ त॒ सखा॑य इ॒न्द्र स॒मि॒नः ।

पु॒ष्टाव॑न्ता॒ यथा॑ प॒शुम॑ ॥ १६ ॥

16. *Ima u tvā vi cakṣate sakhāya indra sominaḥ.
Puṣṭāvanto yathā paśum.*

Indra, these friends, celebrants of soma and holiness, holding offerings of precious homage, look and wait for you as the seeker waits for the sight of his wealth.

उ॒त त्वा॒ब॒धि॒रं व॒यं श्रु॒त्कर्ण॑ स॒न्त॒मू॒तय॑ ।

दू॒रादि॒ह ह॑वाम॒ह ॥ १७ ॥

17. Uta tvābadhiram vayan śrutkarṇam santamūṭaye. Dūrādiha havāmahe.

And from afar we invoke and call upon you for protection and progress. You are everywhere, your ears are sensitive and you are eager to hear the call of the seeker.

यच्छु॑श्रू॒या इ॒मं ह॒वं दु॒मर्ष॑ च॒क्रिया॑ उ॒त ।

भ॒व॒रा॒पि॒ना अ॒न्त॒मः ॥ १८ ॥

18. Yacchuśrūyā imam havam durmarṣam cakriyā uta. Bhaverāpirno antamaḥ.

As you hear this call of ours, take it as unforgettable and be our closest and ultimate friend and brother.

यच्चि॑द्धि॒ त॒ अपि॑ व्यथि॒जग॑न्वा॒ंसा॒ अम॑न्महि ।

गा॒दा इ॒दिन्द्र॑ बा॒धि नः॑ ॥ १९ ॥

19. *Yacciddhi te api vyathirjaganvāṁso amanmahi.
Godā idindra bodhi naḥ.*

And also, when we approach you in our mind and, like supplicants in distress, remember you and pray, then attend to us and be generous. You are the giver of cows, lands and light of knowledge.

आ त्वा रम्भं न जिवया ररभ्मा शवसस्पत ।

उश्मसि त्वा सधस्थ आ ॥ २० ॥

20. Ā tvā rambham na jivrayo rarabhmā śavasaspate.
Uśmasi tvā sadhastha ā.

O lord commander of power and prosperity, as weaker folks take to the staff for support, so do we depend on you for succour and sustenance and invoke your presence in our hall of yajna.

स्तात्रमिन्दाय गायत पुरुनृम्णाय सत्वन ।

नकिर्य वृण्वत युधि ॥ २१ ॥

21. Stotram-indrāya gāyata purunṛmṇāya satvane.
Nakiryam vṛṇvate yudhi.

Sing songs of adoration and prayer in honour of Indra, lord of world's power and wealth. Who can ignore and neglect him in the battle of life?

अभि त्वा वृषभा सुत सुतं सृजामि पीतय ।

तृम्पा व्यश्नुही मदम ॥ २२ ॥

22. Abhi tvā vṛṣabhā sute sutam sṛjāmi pītaye.
Tṛmpā vyaśnuhī madam.

Lord of generous and creative power, when the yajna is on and soma is distilled, I prepare the cup and offer you the drink. Pray accept, drink to your heart's content and enjoy the ecstasy of bliss divine.

मा त्वा मूरा अविष्यवा मापहस्वान् आ दभन ।

माकीं बह्मद्विषा वनः ॥ २३ ॥

23. *Mā tvā mūrā aviṣyavo mopahasvana ā dabhan.
Mākīm brahmadviṣo vanah.*

Let the fools and scoffers never get round you, even if they profess that they are keen to please you, for protection and support. Never support the negationists of knowledge, piety, existence and divinity.

इह त्वा गार्परीणसा मह मन्दन्तु राधस ।

सरा गारा यथा पिब ॥ २४ ॥

24. *Iha tvā goparīṇasā mahe mandantu rādhase.
Saro gauro yathā piba.*

Here may the lovers of cows entertain you with milk and soma for the achievement of great competence and success so that you may drink like the thirsty stag drinking at the pool.

या वृत्रहा परावति सना नवा च चुच्युव ।

ता संसत्सु प वाचत ॥ २५ ॥

25. *Yā vṛtrahā parāvati sanā navā ca cucyuve.
Tā saṁsatsu pra vocata.*

Whatever gifts of wealth or titles of honour old or new, Indra, destroyer of evil and darkness, you grant far off or near, all those, announce in the assemblies.

अपिबत्कुदुवः सुतमिन्दः सहस्रबाह्व ।

अत्राददिष्ट प संस्यम ॥ २६ ॥

26. *Apibat kadruvaḥ sutamindraḥ sahasrabāhve.
Atrādediṣṭa pauṁsyam.*

In the thousand armed dynamic battles of the elements in evolution, Indra, as the sun, drinks the soma of the earth and therein shines the potent majesty of the lord.

स॒त्यं तत्तु॒वश् यदा॒ विदा॑ना अ॒ह्नावा॒य्यम ।

व्या॒नट॒ तुवण॑ श॒मि ॥ २७ ॥

27. Satyam tat turvaśe yadāu vidāno ahnavāyyam.
Vyānaṭ turvaṇe śami.

Knowing the truth of the daily behaviour of the simple man of rectitude, Indra clears the path of peace and goodness in his battle of life.

तर॒णिं वा॒ जना॑नां त्र॒दं वा॒जस्य॑ गा॒म॒तः ।

स॒मा॒नमु॒ प शंसि॑षम ॥ २८ ॥

28. Taraṇim vo janānām tradaṁ vājasya gomataḥ.
Samānamu pra śamsiṣam.

I constantly praise the lord saviour of you, people, and the protector of your earthly wealth, power, progress and freedom.

ऋ॒भु णं॑ न व॒त॒व उ॒क्थ॑षु तु॒ग्या॒वृ॒ध॒म ।

इ॒न्द्रं सा॒म स॒चा सु॒त ॥ २९ ॥

29. Rbhukṣaṇam na vartava uktheṣu tugryāvṛdham.
Indram some sacā sute.

When the soma is distilled and seasoned and the hymns are sung in the yajna, then to win the company and favour of mighty Indra, I adore the mighty lord, a friend and protector of the strength and power of the people.

यः कृन्तदिद्वि यान्यं त्रिशाकाय गिरिं पृथुम ।

गाभ्या गातुं निरतव ॥ ३० ॥

30. Yah kṛntadid vi yonyam triśokāya girim prthum.
Gobhyo gātum niretave.

I adore Indra who makes and breaks the cloud, womb of waters, and the mighty mountain for the humanity of threefold purity of nature, character and behaviour and who makes the paths for rivers to flow on earth.

यद्दधिष मनस्यसि मन्दानः पदियं णसि ।

मा तत्करिन्द मृळय ॥ ३१ ॥

31. Yad dadhiṣe manasyasi mandānaḥ prediya-kṣasi.
Mā tat karindra mṛḷaya.

Indra, whatever you hold, whatever you think and desire, whatever you give, why not for me? O lord, pray be kind and gracious.

दुभं चिद्धि त्वावतः कृतं शृण्व अधि णमि ।

जिगात्विन्द त मनः ॥ ३२ ॥

32. Dabhraṁ ciddhi tvāvataḥ kṛtaṁ śṛṇve adhi kṣami.
Jigātvindra te manaḥ.

Just a little done by someone like you or someone protected by you resounds on the earth. O lord, I pray, may your gracious attention turn to me also.

तवदु ताः सुकीतया संतुत पशस्तयः ।

यदिन्द मृळयासि नः ॥ ३३ ॥

33. Tavedu tāḥ sukīrtayo 'sannuta praśastayaḥ.
Yadindra mṛḷayāsi naḥ.

Indra, if you were kind and gracious to us and we were happy, all the graces would be your renown, they would be reflections of your glory.

मा न एकस्मि णर्गसि मा द्वयोरुत त्रिषु ।

वधीमा शूर भूरिषु ॥ ३४ ॥

34. Mā na ekasminnāgasi mā dvayoruta triṣu.
Vadhīrmā śūra bhūriṣu.

O lord of magnanimous glory among the great heroes, not for one trespass, not for two, not for three, not even for many, uncountable, pray, hurt us not, and strike us not.

बिभया हि त्वावत उगादभिपभङ्गिणः ।

दस्मादहमृतीषहः ॥ ३५ ॥

35. Bibhayā hi tvāvata ugrād-abhiprabhaṅgiṇaḥ.
Dasmād-aham-ṛtīṣahaḥ.

I would feel fear and awe for a person like you, illustrious, destroyer of the evil, magnificent and scourge of the challengers of truth and law.

मा सख्युः शूनमा विद् मा पुत्रस्य पभूवसा ।

आवृत्वद्भूतु त मनः ॥ ३६ ॥

36. Mā sakhyuḥ śūnamā vide mā putrasya prabhū- vaso. Āvṛtvad bhūtu te manaḥ.

I pray I should never suffer want of friends, never be deprived of children. O lord of wealth, honour and grandeur of the world, let your mind turn to me with kindness.

का नु मया अमिथितः सखा सखायमब्रवीत ।

जहा का अस्मदीषत ॥ ३७ ॥

37. *Ko nu maryā amithitaḥ sakhā sakhāyamabravīt.
Jahā ko asmadīṣate.*

O people, which friend without provocation would revile a friend, who would forsake a friend in distress, who runs away from us like that?

एवार' वृषभा सुत सिन्वन्भूयावयः ।

श्वघ्नीव निवता चरन ॥ ३८ ॥

38. *Evāre vṛṣabhā sute'sinvan bhūryāvayaḥ.
Śvaghnīva nivatā caran.*

Generous and virile Indra, come to the yajna and the soma celebration, youthful, insatiable like a player going to the hall of contest, and give us inexhaustible food and energy.

आ त एता वचायुजा हरी गृभ्ण सुमदथा ।

यदी' ब्रह्मभ्य इददः ॥ ३९ ॥

39. *Ā ta etā vacoyujā harī gr̥bhṇe sumadrathā.
Yadīm brahmabhya iddadah.*

I receive the word-controlled motive powers and steers of the chariot which fly you on high on liquid fuel, the ones you have given to the scholarly sages.

भिन्धि विश्वा अप द्विषः परि बाधा जही मृधः ।

वसु स्पार्ह तदा भर ॥ ४० ॥

40. *Bhindhi viśvā apa dviṣaḥ pari bādho jahī mṛdhaḥ.
Vasu spārham tadā bhara.*

Break off all the jealous adversaries, remove all obstacles, eliminate the enemies and violence and fill the world with cherished wealth, honour and prosperity.

यद्वीळाविन्द यत्स्थिर यत्पशान् पराभृतम् ।

वसुं स्पार्हं तदा भर ॥ ४१ ॥

41. Yadvīlāvindra yat sthire yat parśāne parābhṛtam.
Vasu spārhaṁ tadā bhara.

Whatever wanted wealth hidden in solid mountains, concealed in secret and trust worthy sources or covered in caverns and deep in the clouds, bring that out in the open for the society.

यस्य त विश्वमानुषा भूरदत्तस्य वदति ।

वसुं स्पार्हं तदा भर ॥ ४२ ॥

42. Yasya te viśvamānuṣa bhūrerdattasya vedati.
Vasu spārhaṁ tadā bhara.

That immense wealth discovered by you and collected, of which the people of the world know, bring that cherished treasure into the open and fill the world with it for all.

Mandala 8/Sukta 46

Indra (1-20, 29-31, 33), Prthushravah Kanita, Danastuti (21-24), Vayu (25,-28, 32), Devatah, Vasho'ashvya Rshi

त्वावतः पुरुवसा वयमिन्द पणतः ।

स्मसिं स्थातहरीणाम ॥ १ ॥

1. Tvāvataḥ purūvaso vayamindra praṇetaḥ.
Smasi sthātar-harīṇām.

Indra, shelter home of the world, leader of humanity, presiding over mutually sustained stars and planets in motion, we are in bond with you and so shall we remain.

त्वां हि सत्यमदिवा विद्म दातारमिषाम ।

विद्म दातारं रयीणाम ॥ २ ॥

2. Tvām hi satyamadrivo vidma dātāramiṣām.
Vidma dātāraṁ rayīṇām.

Lord of the thunderbolt, we know you are eternal and constant, ever true, giver of all foods and energies, and we know you are the giver of all kinds and forms of wealth, honour and excellence.

आ यस्य त महिमानं शतमूत शतकता ।

गीर्भगृणन्ति कारवः ॥ ३ ॥

3. Ā yasya te mahimānaṁ śatamūte śatakrato.
Gīrbhirgṛnanti kāravaḥ.

Lord of a hundred forms of protection, high priest of a hundred forms of cosmic yajna, we know you whose majesty poets and artists celebrate with songs of adoration.

सुनीथा घा स मर्त्या यं मरुता यमयमा ।

मित्रः पान्त्यद्रुहः ॥ ४ ॥

4. Sunītho ghā sa martyo yaṁ maruto yamaryamā.
Mitraḥ pāntyadruhaḥ.

True it is that that man is morally right, well guided and secure whom the Maruts, vibrant powers of defence and protection, Aryama, power of right conduct and justice, and Mitra, power of love and enlightenment, all free from hate and jealousy, lead and protect on the right path.

दधाना॒ गाम॑द॒श्वव॑त्सु॒वीय॑मादित्यजू॒त ए॒धत॑ ।

सदा॑ रा॒या पु॒रुस्पृ॑हा ॥ ५ ॥

5. Dadhāno gomad-aśvavat suvīryam-ādityajūta edhate. Sadā rāyā purusprhā.

Inspired and energised by Aditya, lord of light and enlightenment, blest with cows, lands and culture, horses, advancement and achievement, bearing courage and creative vitality of high order, he grows and goes forward with cherished wealth, honour and excellence.

तमि॒न्द्रं॑ दा॒नमी॒मह॑ शव॒सान॒मभी॑वम ।

इ॒शानं॑ रा॒य इ॒मह॑ ॥ ६ ॥

6. Tamindram dānamīmahe śavasānamabhīrvam. Īśānam rāya īmahe.

We pray to Indra, omnipotent and fearless lord ruler of the world, for the gift of wealth, honour and excellence.

तस्मि॒न्हि स॑न्त्यु॒तया॒ विश्वा॒ अभी॑रवः॒ सचा॑ ।

तमा॑ व॒हन्तु॑ सप्त॒यः पु॒रुव॑सुं॒ मदा॑य॒ हर॑यः सु॒तम॑ ॥ ७ ॥

7. Tasmin hi santyūtayo viśvā abhīravaḥ sacā. Tamā vahantu saptayaḥ purūvasuṁ madāya harayaḥ sutam.

In him centre and abide all protections free from fears of the world, integrated. That same lord of world's wealth and peace, the waves of cosmic energy and vibrations of the mind may, we pray, awaken in our consciousness which is in tune with the lord's omnipresence for spiritual joy.

यस्तु मदा वरण्या य इन्द्र वृत्रहन्तमः ।

8. *Yaste mado vareṇyo ya indra vṛtrahantamaḥ.
Ya ādadiḥ svar-nṛbhir-yaḥ pṛtanāsu duṣṭarah.*

That spiritual joy, Indra, which is our highest choice, which is the highest destroyer of moral and spiritual darkness, which is the giver of heavenly peace and which is ordinarily unattainable by people in mortal struggles, that joy, that ecstasy, that bliss of yours we ask of you.

या दुष्टरा॑ विश्ववार॑ श्र॒वाय्या॑ वाज॒ष्वस्ति॑ तरु॒ता ।

9. *Yo duṣṭara viśvavāra śravāyyo vājeṣvasti tarutā.
Sa naḥ śaviṣṭha savanā vaso gahi gamema gomati vraje.*

Indra, lord omnificent of the world, omnipotent, haven and home of the universe, that divine joy, Ananda, which is difficult to attain, most renowned and profuse, ark of success over the seas and struggles of life, that Ananda, O lord, come and bring us, which may we attain in our yajnic sessions of meditation at the centre of our personality wherein the mind and senses converge and merge with spiritual consciousness.

ग॒व्या षु॑ णा॒ यथा॑ पु॒रा श्व॒यात॑ र॒थ्या ।

वरि॒वस्य॑ म॒हाम॑ह ॥ १० ॥

10. *Gavyo su no yathā purā'svayota rathayā.
Varivasya mahāmaha.*

Lord greatest of the great, Indra, come now as ever before and bring us wealth of lands and cows and discipline of the mind and senses, wealth of horses, progress and meaningful attainments, and scientific transports and spiritual adventures of the soul in meditation and yajnic sessions.

न॒हि त॑ शू॒र॒ राध॒सा न्तं वि॒न्दामि॑ स॒त्रा ।

11. *Nahi te śūra rādhaso'ntam vindāmi satrā.
Daśasyā no maghavannū cidadrivo dhiyo vājebhirāvitha.*

O lord generous and brave, I do not find the end and bounds of your gifts of wealth and competence. Lord of wealth, wisdom and excellence, wielder of the thunderbolt of justice and power, grant us the gifts of material, mental and spiritual wealth, and protect and promote our mind and senses with speed and energy for progress in action and attainment.

12. Ya ṛṣvaḥ śrāvayatsakhā viśvet sa veda janimā puruṣṭutaḥ. Tam viśve mānuṣā yugendram havante taviṣam yatasrucaḥ.

The lord sublime who is universally worshipped is a friend and promoter of the celebrants and knows the origins of the entire forms of existence. That same lord illustrious and refulgent, Indra, the entire people of the world with ladlefuls of ghrta in hand always invoke, adore and worship.

स ना वाज॑ष्ववि॒ता पु॒रूव॑सुः पु॒रःस्था॑ता म॒घवा॑ वृ॒त्रहा

13. Sa no vājeṣvavitā purūvasuḥ purāḥ sthātā maghavā vṛtrahā bhuvat.

That lord Indra, haven and home of the world, ever present everywhere, we need and invoke. That commander of wealth and power, dispeller of darkness and destroyer of evil, may, we pray, be our protector and promoter in the material, moral and spiritual struggles of our life.

अ॒भि वा॑ वी॒रम॑न्ध॒रसा॑ म॒देषु॑ गाय गि॒रा म॒हा वि॒च॒त॒सम॑ ।

14. Abhi vo vīramandhaso madeṣu gāya girā mahā vicetasam. Indraṁ nāma śrutyam śākinam vaco yathā.

In the ecstasy of your soma celebration, with the best of word and voice, sing in praise of Indra, mighty brave, highly knowledgeable and wise, renowned of name and versatile in power and competence.

द॒दी र॒क्णास्त॑न्व द॒दिव॑सु द॒दिवा॑ज॒षु पु॒रुहू॑त वा॒जि॒नम॑ ।

15. Dadī rekṇastanve dadirvasu dadirvājeṣu puru-hūta vājīnam. Nūnamatha.

Indra, lord universally invoked and adored, give us health for our body, give wealth, give us power and speed in our battles of life, and give us all this soon and for sure.

विश्वेषामिर्ज्यन्तं वसूनां सासृह्वासं चिदस्य वपसः ।

16. Viśveṣām-irajyantaṁ vasūnām sāsahvāmsaṁ cidasya varpaṣaḥ. Kṛpayato nūnamatyatha.

Sing in praise of Indra, ruler and promoter of the wealth and beauty of this world as it is and as it might be in future. He is challenger and vanuisher of the enemies.

For the sake of ample food and energy for you all, O people, we adore, with holy yajnic hymns, the great, generous, all round mover and obliging visitor, Indra, loved of all people in general and vibrant divines in particular. You love to be with us, O lord, and I celebrate and felicitate you with hymns and homage.

18. Ye pātayante ajmabhir-girīṇām snubhiresām. Yajñam mahiṣvaṇīnām sumnam tuviṣvaṇīnām prādhvare.

We celebrate the roaring and tempestuous winds, Maruts, who, with their power and force, shake the clouds and streams down these mountains, give us gifts of yajnic well-being and joy in our creative and developmental programmes of love and non-violence.

Indra, lord most potent, bring us the intelligence and other means to break down the negative and anti-social thoughts and actions of adversaries. O lord inspirer of right thinking, bring us the mind and materials usable in constructive thinking and planning and bring us the best and highest thought and competence, O lord inspirer of rational and scientific minds.

Come that sage and scholar of human virtue, just human, not a god, who has received the feel of full and universal spirit of divinity, just as the man in the clutches of karmic sufferance experiences the bliss of divinity in the twilight and beauteous glory of the dawn of universal light and renown.

1. Mahi vo mahatāmavo varuṇa mitra dāśaṣe. Yamādityā abhi druho rakṣathā nemaghaṁ naśadanehaso va ūtayaḥ su-ūtayo va ūtayaḥ.

O Varuna, Mitra, powers wise, just and loving, choice and love of all, great is your protection, noble ones, for the generous man of charity. O Adityas, brilliant powers of light and enlightenment, children of indestructible mother life, whoever you protect from the jealous and the malignant, no sin ever touches. Sinless are your protections, noble and holy are your protections (free from jealousy, anger and violence).

2. Vidā devā aghānāmādityāso apākṛtim. Pakṣā vayo yathopari vyasme śarma yacchatānehaso va ūtayaḥ su-ūtayo va ūtayaḥ.

O divine powers of light, love and justice, you know how to remove sin and cleanse us of evil. As birds shade their young ones with wings, so give us shelter and protection all over. Sinless are your protections, noble and holy are your protections.

7. Na taṁ tigmaṁ cana tyajo na drāsadabhi taṁ guru. Yasmā u śarma sapratha ādityāso arādhva-manehaso va ūtayaḥ su-ūtayo va ūtayaḥ.

Sharpest envy and violent anger do not terrify or demoralise him, O Adityas, whom you give a large home and wide margin of tolerance. Sinless are your protections, noble and holy your safeguards and securities.

Just as we throw off a dead nail and a dead hoof, and just as we pay off a bad debt, similarly we throw off tall bad dreams of our whole world far away. O Adityas, O dawn of light, sinless are your protections, holy your safeguards.

O Adityas, O dawn of light, we have won today, achieved something great, and become free of sin and evil. O dawn, the bad dreams which we fear, pray, throw off. Sinless are your protections, holy your safeguards.

Soma Devata, Pragatha Ghaura Kanva Rshi

स्वादार्भ ॥ वयसः सुमधाः स्वाध्या वरिवावित्तरस्य ।

1. *Svādorabhakṣi vayasah sumedhāḥ svādhyo

madhu bruvanto abhi samcaranti.*

An intelligent and dedicated reader of holy literature, I have enjoyed the delicious soma food of higher and holier quality which all divines and mortals of the world enjoy, saying 'it is honey sweet and savoury', when they meet in sacred gatherings.

अ॒न्तश्च॒ पा॒गा॒ अ॒दि॒ति॒भ॒वा॒स्य॒व॒या॒ता॒ हर॑सा॒ द॒व्य॑स्य ।

2. Antaśca prāgā aditirbhavāsyavayātā haraso daivyasya. Indavindrasya sakhyam juṣāṇaḥ śrauṣṭīva dhuramanu rāya ṛdhyāḥ.

O soma, reaching the core of personality, you are internalised, assimilated as one with the body and creative mind of man, dispeller of divine anger, and friend of Indra, the soul. O soma, just like willing and obedient horses of the chariot harnessed and yoked, inspire us toward the wealth, honour and excellence of life.

3. Apāma somamamṛtā abhūmāganma jyotiravidāma devān. Kiṃ nūnamasmān kṛṇavadar-ātiḥ kimu dhūrtiramṛta martyasya.

We have drunk the soma of immortality, we have become immortal, attained to the light of divinity, have known the organs of perception and imagination, and realised the divinities of light, power and excellence. What can the enemies internal and external do now against us? O lord immortal, soma, what can the violence of mortals do against us?

O soma, drink of immortality, be good and blissful for the heart. O nectar soma, when drunk, be as good and blissful as father is to the child. Soma, universally admired, brave and heroic, patient and constant, as a friend for the friend, give us a long age of good health so that we may live a full life of joy to our heart's content.

These soma drinks, protective of honour, may secure and strengthen my joints as straps secure the chariots at joints, and inspire me to apply myself to noble projects as bullocks draw the chariot to good destinations. These drinks may save me from weakness of character and protect me from depression and disease.

Light and shine me like fire from wood by friction, give me the eye to see the light and raise us to be masters of wealth, honour and excellence. O soma, drink of immortality, in the ecstasy of exhilaration, I concentrate and meditate on the self in the peace of divinity like a wealthy man of spiritual profusion. O bliss of exuberance, stimulate, inspire and raise me well to perfect health of body, mind and soul.

O soma, ruling light of life, be kind and gracious, give us peace and well being, we are your devotees, observers of your rules of life in joy, pray know this. O fluent life of joy, pray know that confidence and competence and righteous passion is fresh and vibrant in us, do not forsake us, give us not up to the will and pleasure of the enemy.

O soma, you are the protector and promoter of our body and personality. Watcher and leading light of humanity, seep in and energise every part of our body. And if we default on your rules of discipline, even so, O noble friend, generous power superior, be good and gracious to us and help us to be happy.

Indra, O soul and spirit of intelligence, let me be friends with soma as with a friend of noble nature and drink it as it would do me no harm. I pray to Indra, lord omnipotent giver of bliss, that the soma which I have drunk in may increase and enrich my life.

O parents and seniors of wisdom, the soma which is immortal is consumed and absorbed in the hearts and spirits of mortals. For that soma of immortality, we pray with love and homage to divinity and hope we shall abide in peace, pleasure and a settled mind, all which is the gift of this drink of immortality.

O soma, immortal joy and inspiration of existence, known well and abiding by the ancients and pranic energies of nature, you pervade over heaven and earth. O soma, peace, power and joy of the world, we pray to you for strength and joy with homage and oblations so that we may be masters, protectors and promoters of the wealths, honours and excellences of life.

O brilliant divines, saviours and leading lights of humanity and life's joy, speak over to us of the pleasure and power of soma so that neither sloth and slumber nor chatter, prattle and inarticulation may overtake us. We pray we may all time, seasons and days be favourites of immortal soma of bliss and, wide awake and brave, we may realise knowledge, wisdom and a happy well governed order of society.

Soma, immortal spirit of peace, power and bliss, you are the treasure giver of food, energy and life for the world. You are the treasure giver of heavenly joy and watcher and leading light of the people. O soma, fluent stream of life energy, loving and friendly, with all your powers and protections, safeguard and promote us in front, on the back and all round.

1. Abhi pra vah surādhasam-indram-arca yathā vide. Yo jaritṛbhyo maghavā purūvasuḥ sahasreṇeva śikṣati.

To the best of your intention and purpose and for whatever you wish to achieve, pray to Indra, lord of glory, world power and promotion and means of success, who gives a thousandfold wealth, honour and excellence to his celebrants.

2. Śatānīkeva pra jīgāti dhr̥ṣṇuyā hanti vṛtrāṇi dāśuṣe. Gিরeriva pra rasā asya pinvire datrāṇi purubhojasah.

Like the commander of a hundred armies, with his power and force, Indra rushes forward to fight and win, and he destroys the demons of darkness and want for the charitable giver. The gifts of this universal giver of food and sustenance feed and support humanity like streams flowing down from the mountains.

आ त्वा सुतासु इन्द्रवा मदा य इन्द्र गिवणः ।

3. Ā tvā sutāsa indavo madā ya indra girvaṇaḥ. Āpo na vajrinnanvokyaṁ sarah prṇanti śūra rādhase.

Indra, celebrated lord of the thunderbolt, may the songs of adoration presented by the celebrant with prayers for desired wealth and means of success, flowing spontaneous like ecstatic streams of soma, please and exhilarate you to fullness of kindness and grace as flowing waters, brooks and rivers, fill their original home, the lake and the sea.

Indra, lord of glory, we pray for that generosity of yours by which you award the wealth of lands and cows, sense, mind and wisdom, and the golden excellence of honour and culture, to the wise celebrant, the opponent of violence and terror, the veteran scholar, the controller of sense and mind in meditation, the energiser of perception and intelligence, and the man of simple and straight paths of truth and rectitude.

1. Pra su śrutaṁ surārdhasam-arcā śakramabhi-ṣṭaye. Yaḥ sunvate stuvate kāmyaṁ vasu sahasre-ṇeva maṁhate.

For the sake of life's fulfilment, honour and adore Indra, renowned and mighty master and controller of the superstructure of existence, who grants desired wealth, power and honour, and augments it a thousandfold for the celebrant who seeks and works for the soma joy and excellence of life with yajnic effort.

1. Yathā manau vivasvati somam śakrāpibaḥ sutam. Yathā trite chanda indra jujoṣasyāyau mādayase sacā.

Omnipotent Indra, just as you drink, protect and promote the soma of the ecstasy of divine vision distilled and collected in the mind of the brilliant meditative sage, as you join the divine joy of the devotee who has achieved threefold freedom of body, mind and soul, so you join the divine joy and celebration at the heart of the sage of experience and discriminative vision.

2. Prṣadhre medhye mātariśvanīndra suvāne amandathāḥ. Yathā somam daśaśipre daśaṇye syūmarāśmāvrjūnasi.

Indra, O divine soul, enjoy soma ecstasy in the company of the inspired celebrant, the vibrant sage of cosmic imagination, abundantly fulfilled devotee of divinity, the realised visionary of the light of knowledge, and the sage of natural and simple rectitude.

य उ॒क्था क॑व॒ला द॒ध यः॑ सा॒मं धृ॑षि॒तापि॑बत ।

3. *Ya ukthā kevalā dadhe yaḥ somam dhṛṣitāpibat.
Yasmai viṣṇustrīṇi padā vicakrama upa mitrasya

He who is the giver of every thing for us, he is our father, great, illustrious, ruler and creator of ruling glory, unretreating, blazing brave, glorious, universal shelter and treasure home of wealth. May he, we pray, give us the wealth of lands and cows, knowledge and culture, and horses, achievements, success and constant progress.

6. Yasmai tvaṁ dānāya maṁhase sa rāyaspoṣa-minvati. Vasūyavo vasupatiṁ śatakratuṁ stomai-rindraṁ havāmahe.

O lord of wealth and honour, whoever you ask and inspire to give in charity, rises in wealth, health and advancement. We, seekers of wealth, honour and fame, invoke and glorify Indra, lord ruler and protector of the world's wealth and grandeur, hero of a hundred acts of holiness, with hymns of adoration.

7. Kadā cana pra yucchasyubhe ni pāsi janmanī. Turīyāditya havanam ta indriyamā tasthāva-mṛtaṁ divi.

Eternal lord immanent and transcendent, when is it you neglect your devotee? Never. You bless both lives, this here and the next hereafter. Indeed the very call on you in prayer means honour and glory immortal which abides in heaven.

यस्म॒ त्वं म॑घव॒ इन्द्र॑ गि॒वणः॒ शि ॥ शि॒ सि द॑शु॒ष ।

8. Yasmai tvaṁ maghavannindra girvaṇaḥ śikṣo śikṣasi dāśuṣe. Asmākaṁ gira uta suṣṭutīm vaso kaṇvavac-chṛṇudhī havam.

Indra, lord adorable and glorified, eternal teacher, whoever the generous giver you inspire to give, and, in response to his charity, you bless, like him and like the divine response to prayers of the wise, pray listen and accept our adoration and prayer, respond to our invocation, O lord of world's wealth and excellence.

9. Astāvi manma pūrvyam brahmendrāya vocata. Pūrvīr-ṛtasya brhatīranūṣata staturmedhā asṛkṣata.

Eternal and adorable song of divine praise has been presented. Chant that for Indra, the divine soul. Sing the grand old hymns of divine law and glorify the lord. Inspire and augment the mind and soul of the celebrant.

10. Samindro rāyo brhatīradhūnuta saṁ kṣoṇī samu sūryam. Saṁ śukrāsaḥ śucayaḥ saṁ gavāśiraḥ somā indram-amandiṣuḥ.

Let Indra, divine soul, chant and liberate the grand abundance of spontaneous divine hymns in honour of Indra, let the earth and heaven resound, let the hymns reach the sun. Let the pure, powerful and sanctified soma abundance of divine celebration please Indra, lord omnipotent and omnificient.

6. Ājituram satpatiṁ viśvacarṣaṇiṁ kṛdhi prajāsvābhagam. Pra sū tirā śacībhīrye ta ukthinaḥ kratum punata ānuṣak.

Create among the people and their coming generations that power, prosperity and grandeur which gives victory and progress, protects and promotes truth and the good people, and which is universally good, positive and creative. With your noble powers and actions help and save those who are your celebrants and perform noble yajnic actions in your honour with love and faith.

7. Yaste sādhiṣṭho 'vase te syāma bhareṣu te. Vayam hotrābhiruta devahūtibhiḥ sasavāṁso manāmahe.

Whoever is the most efficient and eligible for your love and protection, we pray, the same we may be to achieve in your divine projects and obligations. Seekers of honour and excellence, with all our invocations, homage and service to the divinities, we adore you and pray for protection and advancement.

8. Aham hi te harivo brahma vājayurājiṁ yāmi sadotibhiḥ. Tvamideva tamame samaśvayur-gavyur-agre mathinām.

O lord omnipotent, you are the master and controller of the powers and dynamics of the world. Seeker of strength and victory, always by virtue of your protections I go forward to any great battle. Seeker of victory and earthly prosperity, I depend on you only, first and foremost of the warriors of the world.

Mandala 8/Sukta 54

1. Etat ta indra vīryaṁ gīrbhir-grṇanti kāravaḥ. Te stobhanta ūrjamāvan ghr̥taścutaṁ paurāso nakṣan dhītibhiḥ.

Indra, gracious lord of omnipotence, poets and artists with their holy voices, celebrate and exalt this virility, valour and heroism of yours. Singing and celebrating, they obtain energy and self-assurance, and the people, with their thoughts, actions and meditation realise joy, ananda, of the highest gracious order.

2. Nakṣanta indramavase sukr̥tyayā yeṣāṁ suteṣu mandase. Yathā saṁvarte amado yathā kṛśa evāsme indra matsva.

Indra, the people, in whose realised strength and joy you delight, obtain honour and grace by their noble action. We pray just as you take delight in the acts of the self-controlled man and appreciate the limitations of the attenuated, so accept and cherish whatever homage we are able to offer for protection and grace.
